STATE PROPOSAL—State Highway Department has presented a study to the city that would eliminate the Chicago Blvd. median above and widen Tecumseh's main street for five lanes of traffic. If the state's plans are approved by Council, bids would be let in March.

Council To Review Main Street Project

Projected work by the State Highway Department on Chicago Blvd. will completely change the appearance of Tecumseh's main street within the city limits.

Cal Zorn, city manager, has received the department's study, based largely on accident patterns within the city. It will be reviewed by Council Monday night.

The state's proposal, scheduled for letting of bids in March and completion by next fall, includes:

- Widening of Chicago Blvd. between Pearl St. and Adrian St. and Oneida and Wyandotte Sts. to five lanes of traffic.
- Elimination of the boulevard or median in Chicago Blvd.
- Widening Chicago Blvd. between Pearl and Adrian Sts. by eliminating the median plus extending the street by five feet on the north side.
- Three lanes of traffic from Adrian St. to west city limits by paving of three-foot shoulders.
- Elimination of parking on Chicago Blvd. between Ottawa and Oneida Sts.

Most of the construction work proposed by the state will be paid by the State Highway Department.

A complete report, detailing all work being considered, has been filed with the city by James P. Neve, Jr., traffic and safety engineer. His report is:

His complete report . . .

A study of the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation Safety Programs Unit has identified several potentially correctable accident patterns on M-50 (Chicago Boulevard) within the City of Tecumseh. A five lane widening safety project is therefore proposed for M-50 from Adrian Street to Pearl Street and Oneida Street to Wyandotte Street, in addition to the previously programmed 3 foot paved shoulders on M-50 from M-52 to the Tecumseh west city limits and the three lane widening with fully paved shoulders from the west city limits to Adrian Street.

The areas of M-50 from Adrian Street to Pearl Street and Oneida Street to Wyandotte Street are being considered for widening to five lanes because of the relatively high number of head-on, left turn and rear-end accidents. During 1973, in these areas, there were 18 accidents of this type including ten injuries and in 1974, there were 24 accidents with ten injuries. Collision diagrams for the subject area covering 1974 and 1975 through October 25, 1975, are enclosed for your review.

The estimated cost to widen these two sections of M-50 is $100,000 and the expected reduction in accidents will result in a benefit of $25,000 per year. The work on M-50 will be paid for by our Department.

As shown in red on the accompanying plans, the widening from Adrian Street to Pearl Street will be accomplished by removing the median and widening about 5 feet on the north side of M-50 to provide a 57 foot, face-to-face cross section. From Oneida Street to Wyandotte Steet, the median will be removed with no widening outside of the existing curbs required. As shown in red and green respectively on the plans, M-50 will be widened to three lanes with paved shoulders between the west city limits and Adrian Street, city limits and Wyandotte St.

A proposed final pavement marking typical for the M-50 construction area is attached for your information and review.

It is also proposed that South Union Street be widened at the intersection of M-50, as shown on the enclosed plans, to facilitate a left turn lane. This 4 foot widening would help eliminate the present congestion on Union Street by permitting the development of "headed up" center left turn lanes on both legs of Union Street, thereby freeing up one lane in each direction for through and right turning traffic. This improvement would be at the expense of the City of Tecumseh at an approximate cost of $2,000.

One problem area in regards to providing continuity of 5 lanes on M-50 between Adrian Street and Wyandotte Street is the existing 62' pavement width between Ottawa and Oneida Streets. With parking permitted on both sides of the street, it would be impossible to operate this one block as a five lane pavement. Our proposed solution would be to eliminate parking on both sides of M-50 through this section. With parking eliminated, the 10' center turn lane alignment could be maintained down the centerline of the street. Although removing parking from one side of the street would provide enough width for five lane operation between Ottawa and Oneida Streets, it would be impractical to abruptly shift the alignment of traffic across the Ottawa and Oneida Street intersections to utilize such an offset five lane configuration. The removal of parking between Ottawa and Oneida Streets would permit the development of a continuous center left turn lane between the Tecumseh west city limits and Wyandotte St.

The work on M-50 is scheduled for contracting letting in March 1976, and completion in the Fall of 1976. We must, therefore, complete our plans and process all agreements within the next 30 to 45 days. In consideration of this timetable, we would appreciate your review and comment on the proposed construction work and parking removal as soon as possible.

If you should have any questions concerning these matters, please do not hesitate to call us.

Payroll Increase, Employment Up at Fisher Body

The Fisher Body - Tecumseh plant's 10th anniversary year in 1975 saw purchases of goods and services from local suppliers combined with payrolls, SUB fund benefits and unemployment compensation help General Motors achieve an economic impact of more than $14.2 million in the Tecumseh area, W. J. Polk, plant manager, announced in a year-end report.

Polk said GM's purchases from over 120 local suppliers amounted to $152,066 in 1975, just $877 below 1974 record purchases.

Payrolls in 1975 were estimated at $13,115,000, or almost $3 million above the $10,285,000 paid in 1974.

"In addition to payrolls, it now costs GM about $4,500 a year per hourly employe for such things as insurance, pensions, supplemental unemployment benefits, federal social security and state unemployment compensation," Polk said.

Polk, also chairman of the Tecumseh GM Plant City Committee, added that employment averaged 819 persons in 1975, compared to 769 in 1974.

The higher employment figure was primarily the result of increased production schedules at the plant.

While reduced production schedules early in the year caused temporary and indefinite layoffs at the Tecumseh plant, the impact upon the community was cushioned by the various benefits paid, either directly or indirectly by General Motors.

Through November, an estimated $1,042,000 was paid to affected Fisher Body-Tecumseh GM employes as unemployment compensation and supplemental unemployment benefits.

GM suggestion award winners totaled 165 during 1975 and shared $10,756 under the GM Award Plan for submitting ideas for improved quality and efficiency of GM products and operations.

Lenawee County United Fund and the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation received a total of $35,200 from Fisher Body-Tecumseh employes and GM.

TP Strike Settlement Was Top 1975 Story

Settlement of a three and a half-month strike at Tecumseh Products on March 1 was without doubt the top story in Tecumseh for 1975.

There were other stories, but none as important as the one that ended violence and created hardships not only for hundreds of families but the company as well.

It now appears that repeated layoffs at the Products and expansion to other facilities, such as at Tupelo, Miss., means that the company may never reach a 3,000 employment figure here again, but operate here at closer to 1,000 to 1,500 employees.

Other top stories included approval of city plans to improve Russell Rd. and build a new bridge over River Raisin, construction and dedication of a new Assembly of God church, approval of a $1.5 million expansion at the high school.

A July fire that threatened the southwest business block in downtown Tecumseh, slaying of an Ann Arbor youth here in October after fleeing officers and holding three Manchester men as hostages, terrorizing of the Robert Sage family, local Community Fund Foundation drive topping goal by $4,000, and the high school girls almost successful tourney for another Class B basketball title.

Couple Marry in Texas

Susan Haygood of Dallas, Tex., and Robert Osburn Jr., of Tipton spoke their wedding vows in the Fellowship Bible Church in Dallas, Tex., at 2 p.m. on Dec. 27, 1975.

Dr. Gene Getz officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. W.R. Haygood of Dallas, Tex. and the late W.R. Haygood, and the son of Mrs. Robert Osburn Jr. of Tipton.

Mrs. William Haas was organist and Glen Weynand was soloist.

Candles and baskets of flowers and palms decorated the altar to which the bride was escorted by her brother, Dr. Tom Haygood.

For the wedding the bride chose a candlelight gown of peau-de-soie covered with lace. The gown had a natural waist, a high collar, long sleeves, skirt ruffle and bow tying in the back.

Her floor length veil was edged in matching lace.

She wore a butterfly pendant on a gold chain, a gift from the groom.

She carried three orchids with roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Jim Packwood, the bride's sister from Odessa, Tex., was matron of honor wearing a dark red gown trimmed in ecru lace.

She wore an ecru lace bow in her hair and carried two red roses and baby's breath tied with pink ribbons.

Mrs. Tom Haygood of Tennessee, Mrs. Bruce Main, New Mexico and Donna Phipps of Dallas, Tex., were bridesmaids.

Virgil Reeves of Dallas, Tex. was best man.

Wesley Milligan of Rochester, N.Y.; Jim Packwood of Odessa, Tex., and Ben Osburn, groom's brother of Blissfield, were ushers.

A reception of 120 guests was held at the church.

Mrs. Garland Osburn, the groom's grandmother, was a special guest.

The bride is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin University and will receive her masters degree in early childhood education at East Texas State University in May 1976.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is presently undertaking graduate studies at Dallas Theological Seminary.

Following a wedding trip to Port Isabel, Tex., the couple will reside at 7212 Skillman No. 2105, Dallas, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osburn Sr. hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Loran Brown's Beef BBQ in Dallas.

MRS. ROBERT OSBURN, JR.

Cheever, Marshal Nuptials

BRITTON — Mrs. Ronald Cheever was in Alma Sunday, Dec. 21, where she attended the wedding of her daughter, Kathleen, to Dennis Marshall of Alma.

The double ring ceremony was performed at Peace Lutheran Church at 4 p.m., by the Rev. Duane Florschuetz.

The attendants were the bride's sister, Priscilla Cheever of Ann Arbor and the groom's brother, Larry Rapelje of Saginaw.

A reception followed at the fellowship center of the church.

The wedding cake was served by the bride's sister, Ronda Cheever.

After a wedding trip to Toronto, Canada, the couple will reside in their new home in Alma.

Mrs. Marshall teaches in the Middle School in St. Louis and Mr. Marshall teaches in the Alma High School.

Music Makers Hold Meeting

The program presented at the December meeting of the Tecumseh Music Makers, affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs, included a piano solo, "For Eloise" by Ludwig von Beethoven, played by Tim Packard.

A brief history of John Sebastian Bach was given by Ed Spreeman followed by his playing on the piano, three numbers by Bach: "Siciliano," "My Heart Ever Faithful" and "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring."

A coronet solo was given by Marty Perkins, "In My Heart there Rings a Melody" by Elton M. Roth.

The program concluded with the singing of Christmas carols. The group would sing for the patients at the Herrick Nursing Home.

Refreshments were served by Tim Packard and Chyri Peck.

Basketball for Men

Tecumseh Parks and Recreation will be providing open basketball for men at Tecumseh Junior High School beginning Thursday, Jan. 8.

Fee is $1 for each session and will be collected at the gym. All participants must be out of high school.

The gymnasium will be open from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on the following nights: Thursday, Jan. 8; Tuesday, Jan. 20; Thursday, Jan. 22; Tuesday, Jan. 27; Tuesday, Feb. 10; Thursday, Feb. 12; Thursday, Feb. 19; Feb. 26; March 4, 11, 18 and 25.

The gym will not be open the weeks of Jan. 11-16 and Feb. 2-7.

Volleyball Starts

By FRANK WEIR

With high hopes, Tecumseh's volleyball squad opens its season next Monday, Jan. 5 at Bedford. This is the first year for post-season tournament action—including state finals—and the Indians expect to do well.

And rightfully so. In its first two years of organized play, Tecumseh has lost only two matches. And those were in its first year. Last season the team was undefeated posting a 13-0 record.

The varsity consists of 12 girls including returning letterwinners, Susie Brown, Jane Faulkner, Sue Gould, Carrie Hyatt, Betsy Miller, Amy Montague, Sharon Phelps, and Connie Youngblove. All are seniors.

Juniors include last year's junior varsity star Tammy Downing, Tori Iffland, Patti Brosamer and Peggy Harvey.

Probable starters will be Susie Brown, Jane Faulkner, Sue Gould, Sharon Phelps, Tori Iffland, and either Connie Youngblove or Betsy Miller.

Although the varsity has been practicing for just a couple of weeks, coach Sue Allen is pleased with what she sees. And almost all thoughts are on the state tournaments.

"The girls have a super attitude and are enthusiastic. They've set individual goals that they would like to accomplish, the top goal being the state tournaments. It'll be a sentimental season with all of the seniors and myself starting out together three years ago. We'd like to wrap it up on a winning note.

"Our defense is one of the toughest. Other schools have more experience, having played longer, but our kids are hard workers and they make up for that."

The squad will be counting on the tough spiking of Susie Brown and Sue Gould. And Allen is expecting a lot from Tammy Downing who put on an excellent performance last year on the junior varsity. She scored a total of 126 serving points which was the highest in the Huron League for either varsity or junior varsity.

In the Indians' junior varsity match against Adrian, last year Downing practically won a game by herself with 14 consecutive serving points.

Allen confesses that she has a "strong bench" which makes the team "very interchangeable."

Five Place In Tourney

Tecumseh's wrestling squad placed five wrestlers in the annual novice tournament held last week at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School.

Between 450-500 wrestlers participated in the tourney open to freshman or first year wrestlers only.

For the Indians, Dan Yoder was second at 132 pounds, Steve Bishop was second at 112, Jack Bagby was third at 98, Bob Warner was fourth at 112, and Ben Williams was fourth at 119.

Twenty-six Indians participated in the tournament.

Jewels & gems

By Dick Eggleston

What to buy for a woman's watch? It is often hard to decide. Fads, fashions and one-time curiosities often appear. But at the watch capital of the world, at Basel, Switzerland, the favorite woman's watch is one with a full-flow line which has a unifying sweep from case to bracelet and dial. This sweep is enhanced even farther this year by bracelets that are actually extensions of their cases. Wide bracelets have changed. Today it is possible to buy open-worked jewelry-watch designs with polished rather than engraved surfaces.

For a large selection of watches in many designs see the displays at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. Bulova, Caravelle, Accutron and Seiko watches are handled and I am a certified Accutron technician to handle all repairs. Our best wishes to you and your families for a Happy, Healthy New Year.

GEM FACTS: The diamond is the hardest of all gemstones, one of the most brilliant, and usually the most expensive.

Christmas Safety Tips to Remember for Next Year

Safety is always in season. Although this Christmas season is drawing to a close, readers may read these holiday safety tips now, clip out and pack away with Christmas decorations as a safety reminder for next season.

This can be the merriest and happiest time of the whole year.

It can also be the most tragic.

Along with the brightness and glitter of Christmas, there is also the real and present danger of fire.

More than any other season of the year, this is the time to take some extra precautions.

Wallace MacGeorge, Tecumseh Fire Chief, cautions residents to extinguish candles and electrical lights when someone is not in the room or in the home.

Burning candles left unattended and faulty electrical wiring on tree lights are two of the most common causes of fire.

If you have an artificial Christmas tree, make sure that it is fireproof.

And, if it is fireproof, make sure that a surrounding fire will not turn the tree into a deadly gas.

If you use a real tree, make sure that the bottom of the trunk is kept in a bowl or container of water, and make sure that you keep up the water level as long as the tree is being used.

As any forest ranger can tell you, a tinder-dry pine tree can explode into a fury of flame with the intensity of gunpowder.

Keep the tree away from the tv set; keep both tv set and tree away from draperies and curtains.

Also keep the tree far enough away from the wall of the room to allow the circulation of air to keep the electric bulbs cool.

Use only UL approved lighting fixtures, and make sure that the wires are not frayed or worn. If they are, get rid of them. Better to invest in a new set of tree lights than risk the danger from a defective set.

Use all non-flammable tree decorations and ornaments.

Those cute decorations the kiddies make in school are dandy, but it is better to pin them up on a safe door or window rather than next to hot Christmas tree bulb.

Last but not least, a good investment is to keep a hand fire extinguisher nearby.

Have a safe and happy holiday!

Office Closed

Tecumseh's secretary of state office will close at 1 p.m. on Dec. 31, Ernest Oliver, branch manager, announces.

To the Editor:

We of the older senior citizens of the Britton area wish to express our thanks to the members of the Britton Congregational Church for the Christmas basket brought to our home.

Also thanks to the Camp Fire Girls of Britton for the nice box of Christmas candies and fruits and for the Christmas carols which they sang to us.

And to our many neighbors and friends who remembered us with cards and Christmas sweets and gifts.

A special thank you to the Britton Boy Scouts and their leaders for the nice Christmas wreath which they presented us to take the place of a $5 wreath.

A young rascal from Tecumseh area, posed as a scout taking orders for wreaths but failed to deliver them or the $5.

Hoping he had a Merry Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murphy

Prize Decorators Selected at Herrick

The Purchasing Department of Herrick Memorial Hospital was selected first prize winner of the Christmas decorating contest at the hospital on Dec. 22.

Contest and prize money of $25, $10, and $5 was sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary.

Adeline Ferow, director of purchasing was presented with the $25 for the most original and ingenious job of decorating.

Feature of the purchasing office was a stocking stuffed with small hospital supplies such as soap, rubber tubes, etc. A tiny tree was trimmed with bottle caps for lights, colored order tags for ornaments and safety pins for garland.

Second prize went to the Pharmacy. Its theme was "Night Before Christmas." Stockings were hung on a paper fireplace, a Christmas tree of twirled crepe paper was decorated and cookies were left for Santa.

Display included the "Herrick Hospital Mousehole" and not even the mouse was stirring.

Susan Dembinsky accepted the $10 prize on behalf of the staff.

Third prize was awarded to the kitchen workers for the cafeteria Christmas tree. The tree had an old-fashioned theme and was loaded with handmade ornaments, crafted by the ladies supervised by Stanley Nelson. He accepted the $5 prize on their behalf.

Judges for the event were Pat Seay, Mary Bilkie and Kathy Brown. They were escorted by Sally Crause, Hospital Auxiliary president.

Other participating departments were: Medical Records, Stock Room, Desk Clerk's office, Intensive Care Coronary Unite, and Outpatient.

Departments were judged on originality and ingenuity and were limited to a $10 decorating budget.

Through My Window

by Marda Gene Duncan

Two vacations plus a winter and a half in Florida in no way make any of us experts. In fact, just the opposite seems true. If it were not such a tired and work-worn cliche, I would say that the more time we spend down here the less we seem to know about the Sunshine State.

Nevertheless I would like to share a few of our observations, even though in a few years they may come back to either haunt or embarrass me.

Florida is a windy state. How the wind is described depends upon the temperature.

When a cold wintry front blasts out of the north and sends the thermometer into a tail-spin, people shiver and complain about the strong, raw, wind that cuts to the bone.

However, when the mercury flirts with the 80's, everybody smiles and happily praises the gentle breeze.

This breeze or wind keeps to a rather strict schedule. The air is usually quiet early and the breeze begins to pick up in mid-morning.

There is an old fisherman's adage — I don't know, perhaps young fishermen say it too, but that is beside the point.

The saying is that the wind goes down with the sun. Here in Florida it usually does.

It does not stay though and in a few hours the night wind begins.

Except during a storm, when it can really howl and rage and shriek, this night breeze is soft and gentle. It is one of the reasons Florida's evenings are so lovely.

Our small lake is a good indicator of the wind's mood. A strong blow produces very determined waves — not big waves of course but the small ridges of water are close together and move tirelessly in front of the wind.

A light breeze produces softer waves that are sometimes even lazy. If the wind blows in gusts it is fun to watch the ripples march in front of it and occasionally the air currents switch directions so fast that they produce cross-currents on the water.

In the early morning and late afternoon when the breezes are quiet the lake is like a highly polished mirror. The still surface creates perfect reflections.

If the sky happens to be full of picturesque clouds or the brilliant colors of either sunrise or sunset, the effect is breath-taking.

After dark the reflections on the lake are interesting too. A couple of street lights and several coaches are close enough to the opposite side of the lake so that from our porch we see their reflections in the water.

A gentle night wind creates waves which, as they cross the reflections of these lights, make a strange optical illusion. The going-nowhere-lake suddenly becomes a fast moving river.

Another strange thing happens to the lake just as the breeze springs up or dies down. When there is only enough movement to just barely riffle the surface of the water the whole lake becomes a huge bowl of gelatin on the verge of setting.

Truly, the lake looks like gelatin and that is the only way to describe it. If a few gusts are stronger in one place than another, this creates a special jellowy effect.

Many years ago Mom and I were both ill at the same time and the only thing we could think of that would taste good was some cold slippery gelatin. Dad tried to oblige and made some.

Only it turned out to be the most awful stuff in the world. He had used hot but not boiling water. When our lake is jellowy, a gusty breeze reminds us of Dad's disaster.

And now for the second part of the title. The book on my reading table these days is a history of Michigan. "Michigan in Four Centuries" by F. Clever Bald.

When a sizeable bequest was left to the Michigan Historical Commission with the instructions that it be used to foster the compiling, writing and publishing of a history of the state, this book resulted.

Although not new, the copyright date is 1954, it is interesting and highly readable.

What attracted my attention and awakened my curiosity was a matter-of-fact statement on page seven.

The author, taking a page from many of James Michener's books, gives an account of Michigan's ancient geological history and, when detailing what happened during and between the various ice-ages, he states that fossilized whale-bones were at one time found near Tecumseh. Wow — when, where and does anybody know anything about them?

Macon Dialogue

by Linda Phillips

If you want to become more involved in your country's 200th birthday but don't quite know where to start, Macon Historical Society can help.

In addition to the restoration of Mills School—a Bicentennial project that will be a lasting reminder to the community of its heritage—another project for this summer is in the planning stages.

Scheduled to be held at the Eldredge Mill, it is hoped that the upcoming affair will receive the same acclaim that its predecessor—the Pie Social of '74 did.

Community support in this effort will assure its success.

New members and guests are always welcome at Historical Society gatherings.

If you want to take an active part in the Bicentennial celebration, learn more about your country's and your community's history, and have some fun—all at the same time—come out to one of the meetings.

The January meeting will be held on the 3rd at Pat and Sharon Connors' Clinton-Macon Road home.

Easton Now in 15th Year As Mayor

Harold Easton began his 15th year as Tecumseh's mayor after Council's elections during a re-organizational meeting Monday night.

Councilman Carlton Cook was re-elected mayor pro-tem.

Preceeding the elections, Councilman Wallace Whiting stepped down from his council seat and Len DeMoss was administered the oath of office along with re-elected Harold Easton. Aden Mead, vacationing in the Caribbean, was not present Monday to reassume his council seat.

The mayoral election required two ballots. In the first ballot, Easton received three votes, and Carlton Cook, Aden Mead and James Palmer, one apiece. In the second vote, Easton gained the majority.

Electing the mayor pro-tem required seven ballots. The first favored Cook and Mead with two votes each, and Mary Bowers and Palmer with one apiece.

In the third ballot Cook gained another vote. The seventh ballot showed Cook with four votes and Palmer with two.

The complete council is Mayor Harold Easton, Mayor Pro-Tem Carlton Cook, Council members Mary Bowers, Len DeMoss, Aden Mead, James Palmer and Ray Puffer.

Other business included the re-appointments to other boards.

T.J. Wagner was re-appointed to the Board of Review for a three-year term.

Cecile Smith and Perry Satterthwaite were re-appointed to the Election Commission for a one-year term.

Council member Mary Bowers was appointed by Council to fill the vacancy left by Wallace Whiting on the Retirement Board.

ROBERT BELL

New Post for Bell

Robert F. Bell has been elected president by the board of directors of Fostoria Corporation of Fostoria, Ohio, succeeding Richard H. Carter, who has been elected chairman of the board.

Mr. Bell, 42, a resident of Toledo, will continue to serve as president of Faraday, Inc. of Tecumseh, a manufacturer of fire alarm systems and communication equipment and a subsidiary of Fostoria.

Other principal subsidiaries of Fostoria include Wood Television Corporation, a cable television operation in Bowling Green, Ohio, and Fostoria Terminals, Inc., a food distribution terminal.

Mr. Bell is a director of Lynch Corporation of Detroit and of Baker Bros. Sales Corp. of Toledo. He also has served as president of and remains a director of Junior Achievement of Northwest Ohio.

Ponds Safe

Standish and Tecumseh Parks ponds are now safe for skating.

Due to damage and repair now in progress at pit, building will not be open.

A THING OF BEAUTY—Vandalism is often a thing of beauty, especially if it affects progress, property and other desireable assets. This small sapling in downtown Tecumseh was snapped off, making it necessary to be replaced next spring. The vandal or vandals responsible should be proud. They should let the city's downtown development committee or other officials know their identity in order to be properly recognized.

Dredging Costs Sought for Standish Channel

City Council asked the city manager to inquire about engineering costs for a plan to dredge a channel in Standish Pond.

A misunderstanding became apparent at Monday night's meeting. Mayor Harold Easton assumed that manager Cal Zorn was pursuing the application for dredging the problematic channel in Standish Pond behind the home of Mrs. Elaine Shough, 611 Outer Dr.

Zorn said he did not understand that he was authorized to do so. Council members also had some questions.

At the last December meeting Council selected recommendations of the engineering firm Ayers, Lewis, Norris and May Inc., of Ann Arbor to operate the Globe Mill Pond gate as an overflow weir, or dam.

The sluice gates at the Standish Pond would be designed or modified to act as a weir without increasing their height.

When the overflow exceeds 12 inches at the Globe gate, it would be opened to allow underflow and a greater discharge of water from the pond.

However at Monday night's meeting Mrs. Shough, one of the complaintants of the Herrick Park subdivision, reminded Council it agreed to find out if dredging costs were "economically feasible."

Dredging the channel in the Standish Pond was one of the other suggestions made by the engineering firm which it believed should be accomplished whatever alternative plan the city approved.

Local Firemen Aid Adrian

Tecumseh firemen were summoned about 4:30 Monday morning to battle what is now claimed a million dollar fire on S. Main St. in downtown Adrian.

Adrian and most rural fire departments were at the scene when local firemen were called. They took a city pumper and cherry picker, the only one used to battle flames in the three-story buildings.

Tecumseh's six men at the scene and equipment returned here shortly before noon.

Other fire runs included one Sunday to the Grace Payne residence at 408 E. Pottawatamie where damages of $2,000 were reported.

$600 Theft

SENDING RESOLUTION TO STATE

Council Protesting Chicago Blvd. Plans

City Council objected to the proposed "improvements" to Chicago Blvd. between the west city limits and Wyandotte St. at Monday night's meeting.

City attorney Greg Forsthoefel is drafting a resolution which will be sent to the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation with Council's objections to the recommendations. Council objects to:

•Elimination of the boulevard or median in Chicago Blvd.

•Widening of Chicago Blvd. between Pearl and Adrian Sts. by eliminating the median plus extending the street by five feet on the north side.

•Elimination of parking on Chicago Blvd. between Ottawa and Oneida Sts.

Council does not object of the State Highway Department's plans to widen Chicago to three lanes from Sunset to the city's west boundry, and officials did not object to the suggestion to widen South Union Street at the intersection of M-50, to facilitate a left turn lane.

According to the state's report, the widening of four feet would help eliminate the present congestion on Union Street by freeing up one lane in each direction for through and right turning traffic.

This improvement would be the city's expense at approximately $2,000, if the city included it in it's budget.

The other improvements the Council opposed would cost the state department $100,000. It would save an estimated $25,000 per year in accident costs, claims the state.

The state's report angered Councilman Carlton Cook.

"People have been reassured for years that nothing is going on (to remove the boulevard), now all of a sudden we get this crammed down our throats and bids are being let out in March," Cook stormed.

Citing the boulevard as the community's distinctive feature, Cook said he was one who would be "ready to lay down in front of the bulldozer."

Cal Zorn, city manager, told Council that the city never requested the removal of the boulevard, but the state's suggestions were probably made to accompany the city's efforts to widen Chicago west from Adrian St. and on the basis of the number of accidents along the boulevard.

During 1973, in these areas, there were 18 accidents and 10 injuries, and in 1974 there were 24 accidents and 10 injuries, all from head-on, left turn and rear-end accidents.

Circulate Petitions

Petitions will be circulated for the first time in downtown Tecumseh this week to give residents an opportunity to object to the state's plans for Chicago Blvd.

Mounting opposition from Tecumseh citizens has started to save the median and other community features bound to be affected if state construction is approved.

Mayor Harold Easton admitted an accident problem along the boulevard and asked why it was that both the Automobile Club of Michigan in its 1971 traffic survey report and the State Highway Department came up with the same solutions.

Councilman Len DeMoss pointed out the construction would make the area "a rubble" for the Bicentennial plans.

Councilmen suggested re-routing traffic as an alternate plan, but Zorn told them state trunk line traffic cannot be re-routed onto local streets.

An audience of about 35 concerned residents, including those on Chicago Blvd., were present and raised other points including:

•Time increase on the Union Street traffic light would improve the traffic flow and enable pedestrians to cross in time. City has protested the short time several times, but the highway department insists the time is acceptable.

•Most of the people involved in the accidents on the boulevard are local people.

•The boulevard is a "safety island" for children grades kindergarten to six, crossing to Patterson School.

•Elimination of parking between Oneida and Ottawa would be a detriment to those businesses.

•Five lanes of traffic would be in the prime area of the city's proposed historic district.

In theory, if the city passes a protective ordinance for the historic district, homes on Chicago Blvd. may not be threatened with such street improvements.

What I think about America

I love America with all my heart because it is beauiful in most ways, and because you can be free.

But the country's of Poland and Russia they are not free. our country well soon be two hundred years old with a lot to remember.

For all the people that served our country during the time of war secerfieing ther selfes and those who have died, to keep our country free we the people should thank them.

We have a beutiful country some what mixed up, but we will stick together and make it the world to live in.

Dear Editor:

I wish to comment on publicity which appeared in a recent issue of the Herald regarding the Tecumseh Service Club.

The article mentioned that the Tecumseh Service Club received a "cut" from the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation, Inc. for 1976.

How could that organization receive a "cut" when there was nothing to cut?

The Service Club was asked by mail on 5-9-75 to submit 10 copies of certain information about its budget for 1976 including the amount that it was asking the Foundation to raise for it in the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation, Inc. Drive for Funds.

They failed to submit their budget by the deadline of 6-4-75 but gave us a statement of their expenditures for 1975 as a result of my telephone call.

Judging from their annual report we informed them on July 14, 1975 by letter that we would try to raise $600 for their 1976 needs.

We also set another date 7-22-75 for them to appeal their case but we did not hear from them. What more can be expected of us?

We, too, want the goodwill of the public.

Sincerely,
Ruth V. Rentschler (Mrs. T.)

To the Editor:

Reading the article on the "Main Street Project" was a bit confusing to me.

Just recently a beautification program of planting trees in the downtown area was started. Now, plans are being presented to rip up the boulevard median of W. Chicago. The two plans seem to be at opposites.

The charm and heritage of Tecumseh and our own American culture may be thoughtlessly lost in an effort to modernize and urbanize the traffic flow in our city.

A five lane highway seems to be conducive to higher speeds and therefore to more accidents, instead of less.

Also I am afraid that next the stately trees will be cut down then the older homes will be sold because families will not want to live on a busy highway.

Tecumseh is one of the few towns that has kept it's charm, livability and heritage while carefully growing.

I hope the city council realizes that this project could be the beginning to an end of all this.

Dear Editor:

Now a "Prowler Bill" has been introduced before Congress. It's one of the most freedom taking bills ever presented.

The House is expected to take up for its consideration a proposed revision of the Federal Criminal Code which would make it a federal crime for a citizen to shoot a nighttime prowler in his own home.

The "Prowler Bill" is actually contained in Part 1, Sub Chapter E, Section 542 and 543 of S. 1, the Criminal Justice Reform Act of 1975.

A provision in the proposed act states that a citizen in his home can be convicted of murdering a criminal unless that person was positive that "deadly force" was reasonable required to protect "himself or his family" from risk of death or serious bodily injury."

Incredibly the proposed change states further that the innocent resident can be convicted if he had the chance of retreating to another part of the house with complete safety to himself and others before shooting at the criminal who has assaulted the home.

Disarming the average citizen or prohibiting him from defending himself as the proposed Criminal Justice Reform Act of 1975 would be to the advantage of no one except the criminal.

If you value your freedom at all, contact your Congressman at the House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515 and your Senator at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515 before it's too late.

Yours truly,
Robert Tupes

How much should a funeral cost?

A funeral is no place for on-the-job training. So we're offering a booklet that talks openly about prices, optional services available, and the countless little details that could add to your grief — if you're not prepared for them.

The booklet doesn't recommend funderal homes . . . ours or anyone else's . . . but it will make you knowledgeable enough to plan wisely and help you from possibly spending more than you should, or may need to, for a funeral.

Mail the coupon for your free booklet, or call for an appointment.

You Told Us

by Kathy Brown

Several Tecumseh merchants have told the Herald that Christmas sales for 1975 have been much better than Christmas sales for 1974, if not their best. This year I made an effort to "Try TECUMSEH First." I'm glad I did.

In most cases, if found what I needed at a reasonable price. And when I didn't I told the salesperson that I thought I'd at least try Tecumseh first. I got some of the most elated responses from sometimes harried store people.

This new year when you plan a shopping trip to the mall, "Try TECUMSEH First." Our merchants pay school and city taxes, too. They are the ones who provide you with a local paper with their advertising; They support your local bazaar by placing posters in their windows; They contribute prizes for your raffles and contribute time and talent as civic leaders to help you plan a better Tecumseh.

Why not "Try TECUMSEH First"?

Bi-centennial Journey

Christmas Years Ago
By Thelma Younglove

BRITTON — The observance of Christmas in homes of rural Lenawee County during the earlier part of this century was quite simple and much less commercialized, but nevertheless enjoyable for most families.

The majority of farm families were industrious, honest and thrifty, but had little money to spend, except for the necessities of life.

In spite of the lack of money, most managed to provide a few simple, inexpensive gifts for their children.

Most of these farm families were too proud to accept charity and firmly believed "God helps them who helps themselves."

Because of their rearing, children learned to accept what they received and be thankful.

Nearly every family managed to have a Christmas tree, often just a scraggly one, unlike the cultivated, nicely shaped varieties produced on modern Christmas tree farms.

As for decorations, some were family heirlooms.

In addition there were homemade decorations, paper chains, strings of popcorn, candy canes, and sometimes candles.

Christmas gifts were neither elaborate nor costly, but how happy most children were to get them and how appreciative.

Often gifts were much needed wearing apparel, such as stockings (coarse black cotton ones, long enough to extend above the knee, known as "Black Cat stockings"; underwear (long legs and long sleeves); mittens or gloves, perhaps a stocking cap, maybe a dress for the girls and shirts or overalls for the boys.

In addition to clothing, there may have been popcorn balls, homemade taffy, an orange or an apple.

If finances permitted, a few inexpensive little toys were included.

Christmas morning the children didn't need to be called.

They were up early, anxious to see what had been left in their stocking that had been hung up before they retired the night before.

They were also eager to see what was under the Christmas tree.

Little folks were allowed to examine the contents of their stockings, but the gifts under the tree must wait until later in the day when the entire family and guests were present to watch the excited youngsters open them.

The dinner menu for those early Christmas gatherings varied somewhat from today's.

Roast goose or duck were served in many homes. A few families insited on having a young pig roasted.

There were mounds of mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing, a hot vegetable, (usually squash), oysters (plentiful and quite cheap then), pickles, homemade bread, and for dessert a variety of pies and nut cake.

This generation may feel that the menu was too hearty. During those early days, people seemed to require more food because of the manual labor that had to be done daily.

Hours of outdoor chores had to be taken care of both morning and night.

A plentiful supply of fuel (wood or coal) had to be carried in for the heating stoves and the kitchen range and the ashes emptied daily.

If walks needed to be cleared or paths shoveled it was done by hand. There were no mechanical devices such as snow plows or snow blowers.

Many of the farm homes in those days had two sitting rooms. Men gathered in one and the women and younger children in the other.

There were no television sets showing sports to watch, instead the time was spent in conversation. (Some now consider it a lost art)

Long before dusk, the visitors began preparations for their trip home. While mothers bundled the children into warm garments, fathers hitched the horses to the sleigh.

Soon the homeward bound were seated on the straw which covered the bottom of the wagon box on the sleigh with plenty of warm blankets tucked snuggly around them to keep out the cold.

With a command to the horses from the driver and shouts of farewell, the group headed for home.

Through My Window

by Marda Gene Duncan

TO TAME AN EGRET

I do not want to jinx or hex the 'operation' but just maybe, possibly, perhaps our little lake has found it's egret. For the past several weeks a young bird has been around and truly, he does show much promise.

Last year's King George left shoes which will be hard to fill but his successor is learning fast.

He picks up new tricks all the time and who knows, he may even add a few of his own.

It all began at Oscar's—where else?

He is a quiet soft-spoken man, very kind and very patient. All of these qualities must be as evident to the birds as to his people friends.

We understand that it was he who tamed last year's egret, certainly he was George's favorite fisherman, and history is repeating itself.

If Georgie-Boy does indeed become the Boss-of-the-Lake it will be because of and thanks to Oscar.

We did not see the beginning of the training—it happened early one morning, long before our eyes were propped open enough to take in any such goings on.

Apparently though Oscar spied the egret standing on the other side of the lake and decided that he looked worth spending some time with.

As we heard about it, Oscar took bread to the top of the bank and quietly stood there tossing pieces into the water.

In no time at all, of course, the fish began feeding on the bread.

Finally the commotion, the jumping and splashing of the fish, was just too much for the large white egret. He flew across the lake.

Imagine what a monumental feat of courage, will-power or whatever is the equivalent in a bird's nature that act was.

To fly towards a man instead of away from him would be going against every instinct.

Oscar said that once the egret was on this side of the lake he (Oscar) kept tossing bread thus keeping the fish interested.

It took some time but finally the bird caught a couple of little fish. Thus the first giant step was taken.

By the time we were on the porch the training had progressed to the point where Oscar was sitting in his chair fishing and the egret was at the top of the bank.

As we watched, Oscar pulled in a fish and tossed it towards the bird. Sure enough, Georgie-Boy ran up and grabbed the offering. He backed up a few steps and swallowed it.

By the end of the day, whenever Oscar appeared with either bread or his fishing rod the egret hurried to be johnny-on-the-spot.

We could hardly believe that so much could be accomplished in such a short time.

When Oscar was telling us how he coaxed the bird and then won his confidence — well, I call it the understatement of the year when he modestly said that it just took patience and being careful not to make any sudden or jerky movements.

There are other things involved I am sure. Certain people have a special feeling towards and ways with animals or birds.

The next morning we were amused to see how well Georgie-Boy had learned his lesson.

The first time we looked up the lake there was the large white egret. He was standing in Oscar's yard staring at the porch windows.

It was time for breakfast and quite obviously he was letting it be known. Shades of George.

We have noticed that almost every morning G-B is in position and always the ploy works. After all, who could sit inside and enjoy himself knowing that a hungry bird was outside waiting?

It is an open secret that during the Christmas holidays Florida was not 100 percent the land of warm weather and sunshine.

We had some almost record-breaking cold, more than a bit of rain, and too much bone-chilling wind.

During much of the miserable stuff the young egret showed himself to be every bit the actor that his predecessor was.

Other birds were snugly tucked into the sheltered areas of the swamps and woods but not Georgie-Boy.

He did just what last year's George did, only perhaps a little better.

He stood in front of Oscar's all hunched up and looking oh so pitiful. The perfect picture of a cold and hungry and wet lost soul. He did not have to be there of course, he could have joined the other birds.

Oscar was not the only soft-touch during the bad weather. More than once we saw his neighbor shivering on the bank as he threw bread into the water.

It only took a few sessions for G-B to learn that it was profitable to stare at two coaches. He sometimes stands between them and if that gets no results he stalks back and forth.

Having to get out regardless of the weather is just one of the things people do for their egrets. And actually, it is really a small price to pay.

We Duncans are not the only ones who are enjoying G-B. Nearly everyone around the lake keeps some stale bread on hand.

To feed the fish is to feed the bird. We all thank Oscar and his successful effort to tame an egret.

Combine Program

Sixth and first grade students at Herrick Park combined forces Dec. 19 to present a Christmas program, "The Twelve Days Of Christmas."

Public Library

Some good books have been published this winter and Tecumseh Public Library has them waiting for your long winter reading sessions.

GUERILLAS, by V.S. Naipaul, is set on a Caribbean war," where "everybody is a guerilla."

It deals with the troubled relations between those who govern and those they dominate in a colonial experience.

Joyce Carol Oates' new novel, ASSASSINS deals with an all-too-familiar phenomenon of recent years.

But rather than focus on the events surrounding the assassination of a well-known political figure, Oates reveals the tragedy's long-term effects on family members.

In so doing, she subtly portrays contemporary values in both the public and private lives of her characters.

JR, by William Gaddis, is a mamouth novel with a preposterous but somehow believable plot.

JR, an ambitious sixth grader who dreams of financial success, achieves it on a grand scale, turning a deal for thousands of surplus Navy picnic spoons into a nationwide "family of companies." In the following JR's progress Gaddis shows the greedy, corrupt, materialistic side of American society.

A decidedly different sort of adventure story is FLASHMAN IN THE GREAT GAME by George McDonald Fraser.

In the fifth volume of what purports to be the Flashman Papers, Harry Flashman reminisces with gusto about his part in the Indian Mutiny of 1857.

An un-Victorian Victorian, he describes his official mission to India to find out who is fomenting rebellion.

In this assignment he encounters Russian spies, assassins, stranglers, crocodiles, cholera, and the experience of being strapped across the muzzle of a nine pound cannon about to go off.

In I TAKE THEE, SERENITY, author Daisy Newman describes the search by two young people for meaning in marriage. They find answers in the Quaker faith.

Velda Johnston's new book is A ROOM WITH DARK MIRRORS. It features Dorothy Wanger, a stewardess who endures a nightmarish layover in Paris.

Is she being threatened by potential kidnappers or is it just her imagination?

Why would anyone kidnap an unknown stewardess?

The situation becomes more and more ambiguous, especially after Dorothy learns her dream of being taken to a room lined with mirrors may not have been a dream. This is a suspense story readers will be sure to stay with.

THE BUTTERFLY FLOOD, by John Wyllie is an unusual and exotic mystery set in West Africa.

The ingredients are African tribal ritual, modern police methods, and an attempt by Dr. Quarshie, a physician who sleuths on the side, to solve the riddle of a lost head, lost life, and lost identity.

"I want another one . ." is a popular request from children in libraries.

The Tecumseh Public Library is ready for those requests with a variety of sequels.

There's John Bellairs THE FIGURE IN THE SHADOWS as a follow-up to the spine-tingling HOUSE WITH A CLOCK IN ITS WALLS.

Gail Rock's third Addie Mills story is based on the television special, "THE EASTER PROMISE."

Also the third in a series is the funny RIVER SCHOOL DETECTIVES by Mary Phraner Warren about Corky and his friends in the snake food business.

The popular HARRIET THE SPY by Louise Fitzhugh is continued in THE LONG SECRET.

There are too many in the series to even count the three remaining additions to the children's fiction section, but the library will be sure that you haven't missed any.

There's DORRIE AND THE WITCH'S IMP, the tenth book about Patricia Coombs' little witch girl.

Number twelve for ENCYCLOPEDIA BROWN AND THE CASE OF THE DEAD EAGLES by Donald J. Sobol makes you look forward to lucky number 13 in this series of short solve-it-yourself mysteries.

As a sequel to the let down of the recent holidays' end, try Alice Bach's DAY AFTER CHRISTMAS.

Appalled now and then at the impropriety of your own remarks?

We say things we really don't mean. And occasionally we say what we do mean but really shouldn't say.

No church claims it can train you to say the right thing at the right time — although expressing truth, concern and kindness toward others is very much a part of Christian living.

Our churches teach the Gospel of Christ which has for two thousand years inspired truth, concern and kindness. The heart of that Gospel is God's Love for US and for ALL MEN.

No person can hope always to say the right thing. But, generally, what we express are our convictions. Our church helps us discover and implement them!

Whats Up At THS

by VICKI McDONALD

It's back to school again after Christmas vacation for all students and teachers at THS.

There are two weeks left in the first semester and most of this time will be spent finishing up on what was started before or right after vacation in all classes.

Exams will be Jan. 21 and 22.

A new idea in counseling is being tried at THS.

Each teacher is assigned about 20 students and these students meet with the teacher once a month during school in hopes of gaining a relationship where the student is able to talk to the teacher about any problem he or she has.

The idea was thought of last year and tried, but this year it is being put into effect.

This program is in addition to the regular guidance counselor each student has.

Dec. 18, all students attended a music assembly first hour. The THS music department played and sang Christmas music.

The same program with the addition of the seventh and eighth grade bands was given for the parents that night at the high school.

During Christmas vacation on Dec. 20, the 1975 Christmas Dance was held in the THS gym.

The gym was decorated in blue and silver and music was provided by the band "Rampant."

The dance was sponsored by the class of 1976.

Pvt. Frayer Now Serving in Washington

Army Pvt. David B. Frayer, son of Walter N. Frayer, 1109 Murray Drive, is serving with the 1st Signal Group at Ft. Lewis, Wash., under the Army's Station of Choice program.

Pvt. Frayer enlisted for duty at the fort and is a general draftsman in Headquarters Company, 58th Signal Battalion of the 1st Signal Group.

He is guaranteed a minimum of 12 to 16 months of duty here.

The private entered the Army in September of this year and completed basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky.

A 1974 graduate of Tecumseh High School, the 19-year-old soldier was employed as a service station attendant by Clark Oil Co. before entering the army.

Will Meet New Bishop

Bishop Kenneth Povish of the Diocese of Lansing will visit St. Elizabeth Catholic Church this weekend to celebrate the Masses on Saturday at 7 p.m. and on Sunday at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

A reception will be held afterwards at the parish school hall.

The Bishop, installed in December, will visit other parishes in the Diocese in an effort to become acquainted with the people.

Cooperative Program Set

The Cooperative Extension Service Family Day program will be Jan. 24 at Adrian High School.

Family Day provides short learning sessions that can involve several family members.

The schedule for this year's Family Day lists 78 of these sessions.

Topics range from furniture refinishing, backpacking, to estate planning.

Reservations for Family Day are due Jan. 16. To get a list of the sessions and reservation form, phone 263-8831, ext. 329, or write to: Cooperative Extension Service, Courthouse, Adrian, Mich. 49221.

Welcome Wagon Wraps Gifts

Christmas gifts were wrapped as part of the program for the December meeting of the Tecumseh Welcome Wagon.

Gifts were part of the service project this year, and they were given to a family selected by the Service Club.

The same family was given a food basket and homemade items along with the gifts which were bought.

This was done instead of the usual donation to the Service Club, and everyone enjoyed getting involved.

The women then enjoyed a potluck dinner, and a program in which they all played a part in Santa's workshop.

The club also had a children's Christmas party this month which included a marionette show and a visit from Santa.

Next meeting of the Tecumseh Welcome Wagon is Jan. 15 at the Methodist Church. Margie McKenna will review a book.

Macon Dialog

by Linda Phillips 423-5213

My husband didn't balk when I decided to go back to work.

Even the children didn't voice too much opposition when I announced that I had taken a part-time job.

But the collective trauma of my plants is almost beyond belief.

I guess it's partially my fault. I just never realized what a bunch of "clinging vines" I was raising.

Oh, I knew my plants relied on me for their food, water and grooming, but I wasn't aware of the extent to which they depended on me for emotional support.

I made this terrible discovery recently when I got up during the night for a drink of water.

I heard whispering. My plants, it seemed, were having a conversation about me. I know it sounds awful, but I decided to "leaves-drop."

Clorice, Alphonse, Babette, Miss Teasedale, Moses and Chiquita were bemoaning the fact that since I'd gone to work, I was spending less and less time with them.

Babette, the begonia, was talking as I ducked behind a chair: "I remember when I'd get depressed, she'd sit by me and tell me how beautiful I was.

"Well, I know what I look like when I'm not blooming! But she always made me feel beautiful!"

"I know what you mean," Alphonse the Wandering Jew, joined in "It hasn't been easy for me, being 'different' as I am from all of you, living here. But she always made me feel welcome."

It was Rabbit-eared Cactus Chiquita's turn: "I'll never forget the time I was trying to produce a new segment. She told me it was hard having a 'little one.' She knew — she'd been there hereself. And it was hard, but she helped me do it. Now, I don't know if I want to have any more . . ."

"Don't say that Chiquita!" It was Miss Teasedale, the Baby Tears, speaking. "Of course you'll have more!"

"That's easy for you to say," Clorice the Gloxinia, interrupted. "You've always been her favorite. Look at all those special cocktails she used to mix for you in a rusty can so you'd get extra iron!"

"That's not fair. I only got those when I was sick," protested Miss Teasedale.

Thank goodness for Moses, the Christmas Cactus. He was the eldest, and evidently the wisest, of the group.

"Let us not bicker among ourselves," he spoke in a calming manner. "There is no use in our 'pining away' like this. We must accept the fact that she is no longer able to spend long periods of timewith us. We will be grateful for the time we do have with her."

Then he added emphatically: "We must be brave and never, under any circumstances, let her know how distraught we have become."

Flabergasted, I crept back to bed. How in the world was I ever going to tell them that Monday I would start working full-time?

Nine To Be Selected

Poor 3rd Quarter Is Disastrous

A poor third quarter proved disastrous in the Indians cage loss to Adrian last Saturday night.

Final score was 66-52 and dropped Tecumseh's overall record to 5-2.

The squads were all tied up at halftime 25-25 but the Indians only came up with nine points in the third frame compared to a 21 point effort for the Maples. Adrian scored 20 points in the final frame and Tecumseh came in with 18.

Shooting from the field was roughly even with Tecumseh hitting 21 of 47 for 44.7 percent and Adrian dumping 24 of 55 for 43.6 percent. The Maples outshot Tecumseh from the line hitting 18 of 27 for 66.7 percent. The Indians had 10 of 23 for 43.5 percent.

Rebounding made a big difference with Adrian coming out on top in that category 43-33. Jeff Schafer was leading rebounder for the Indians with nine. Tecumseh turned over the ball 17 times to Adrian's 15.

The Indians are still in first place in the Huron League with a 3-0 league record. Flat Rock, Catholic Central and Carlson are all tied up for the second spot with identical 2-1 records.

Bruce Hughes was top Indian scorer with 17 points.

The Indian junior varsity also lost to Adrian 67-58. Dick Cangley and Brent DesErmia tied for scoring honors for Tecumseh with 12 each.

The squad travels to Grosse Ile this Friday night.

Volleyball Squad Whips Bedford

Tecumseh's volleyball squad got off to a fast start Monday night with both junior varsity and varsity units trouncing Bedford to open the season.

Varsity shook off the first game jitters to win 15-10 after trailing at one point 10-6. Jane Faulkner grabbed nine serving points in a row to ice the victory.

Faulkner had serving honors over all with 10 points.

Coach Sue Allen sent in most of the second string for the second game which the Indians won 15-3. Everyone played in the match.

The junior varsity also won with scores of 15-2 and 15-4. Sandy Dunn led in serving points with 19. At one point she scored ten consecutive serving points.

Coach Allen said, "Everybody played good defense and offense. They were all very excited."

The squad travels to Flat Rock Wednesday night.

Tories Slip By Ida 63-56

Britton-Macon Tories defeated non-league foe Ida Tuesday night 63-56. The Tories led by just one point at the half 37-36 and both teams played an even 15-15 third quarter.

Britton-Macon forced the win by scoring 11 points in the fourth quarter to just five for Ida.

Lon Wagenschutz was top scorer for Britton-Macon with 17 points. Brother Craig had 13 along with Jim Cradit and Paul Wielfaert had 12.

Britton-Macon hit on 21 of 70 shots from the field for 30 percent while Ida made 26 of 70 for 31.1 percent. Ida dropped four of 12 foul shots and Britton-Macon made 21 of 31.

The Tories post a 4-3 overall record and are 1-3 in the Tri-County league. They travel to Ann Arbor this Friday to play St. Thomas, rated third in the state among Class D schools.

Hockey Teams Participate In Tourney

The Tecumseh Recreation Department youth hockey teams along with several other teams from Michigan and Ohio finished the Tam O Shanter Christmas Holiday Hockey Tourney this past weekend.

The Tomahawk Squirts lost their second game of the Tourney to Sautter Red Wings 5 to one. Lone goal for the Tomahawks was put in by Chris O'Connell with assist going to Mike Schoenberger. In their first game the Squirts outskated Toledo Goldiggers Fan Club 7 to 2.

The Tecumseh Tomahawk PeeWees lost their opening game against Allen Aides of Jackson 7 to 3. Goals for Tecumseh were made by Tim Eardley and Wendell West. The PeeWees came back to win their next three games, 6 to 1 and 1-0 and the final game against Jackson National Bank 4 to 1 to take the consolation in the PeeWee Division.

Goals in the final game were made by Tim Eardley three, and Mark Van Buren one, assists on goals, Tom Hamilton one, Mark Van Buren one, Mike Rossetti one, Ken Grodi one, Hobby Forman one, and Wendell West two.

Three hat tricks were made by Tomahawks players in the Tournament. Mike Schoenberger of the Squirt team made one and Tim Eardley of the Pee Wees made two. Team and individual trophies were presented to Coach Ward Eardley and team members by Paul Humphry, MIDAM Hockey Association and A.H.A.U.S. Director Region 3.

Tecumseh teams will resume regular play this weekend, when the squirts skate at 8 a.m. and the PeeWees will skate at 11 a.m., Saturday, January 10th at Tam O Shanter Sport Arena in Sylvania, Ohio.

Chelsea Skates Past Tecumseh

Tecumseh's club hockey squad lost to Chelsea 3-2 last Sunday at Jackson Sports Arena.

Chelsea scored a lone goal in the third period to take the victory.

Joel Wood scored one of Tecumseh's goals assisted by Brent Dillon. Mike Koscho got the other goal assisted by Kevin Brehmer.

Tecumseh now posts a 2-4-2 record and retains second place in B division.

Society Backing City in Protesting Plans

By KATHY BROWN

Help for Tecumseh's boulevard may come Friday, if the city's proposed historic district is accepted by the State Historic Commission.

If the commission agrees, homes and buildings along Chicago Blvd. from Pearl to Sunset Sts. and along N. Union to Evans Creek and one block of S. Union St. will be placed on the State Register of Historic Sites.

This designation will require an environmental review and temporarily hold up any decision on removal of the boulevard by the district (Jackson) office of the Traffic Safety Division of the State of Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation.

Although the designation does not grant special protection to a property, state and federal agencies must consult the Register before beginning a project that could adversely affect the property listed in it.

John Kern, of the Michigan History Division of the Michigan Department of State, will recommend Tecumseh's Historic District to the State Historical Commission on Jan. 16.

Kern was in Tecumseh last Thursday to receive the study on the homes prepared by the Tecumseh Historic District Study Committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Carlton Cook.

Newsletters have been sent to residents and property owners in the proposed district to inform them that designation on the State Register does not obligate or restrict them in any way, said Mrs. Cook.

Tecumseh will have ultimate control over the historic sites through local preservation ordinance which the state only reviews.

A local ordinance will be ready in a month, explained Earl Mason, a member of the Tecumseh Historic District Study Committee. In the local ordinance some restrictions will be necessary to have impact. Public notice will be given and public hearing will be held.

Kern explained to The Herald that under Gov. William Milliken's recent executive order, a three-step review must be made, for all kinds of land use planning projects which may threaten cultural or natural resources.

District traffic safety offices apparently have been disregarding the executive order, Kern said. His office educates and enforces.

The process includes review by Intercom, a committee of representatives from each state department; the Michigan Environmental Review Board and final executive determination.

If federal funds are involved with the proposed highway improvements, the same type of review is necessary under the 1971 executive order, which says properties eligible for National Register of Historic Places cannot be endangerd by a project involving federal funds without a public hearing.

Several of the Chicago Blvd. homes are eligible for the National Register. Only Musgrove Evans house on E. Logan is designated on the National Register thus far.

Both executive orders and the Michigan Historic Commission are related to the goal of the National Preservation Act of 1966 which created the National Register of Historic Places to preserve cultural and historic sights.

"We are not just trying to stop a highway. These houses have national recognition," Kern commented. (A few of them have been pictured in architecture books and listed on other architectural surveys)

Dr. Guild hopes to conduct another clinic in Tecumseh sometime in March.

1,000 Petition

Tecumseh and area residents have responded to the threatened removal of the median on Chicago Blvd. by signing petitions that are being circulated downtown.

Nearly 1,000 have already signed petitions, according to Charlie Saling. He asks that all petitions be turned into him at Tecumseh Camera Shop no later than next Monday.

Petitioners are protesting the proposed plan of the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation as a hazard to pedestrian traffic crossing Chicago Blvd., particularly school children.

Another objection is the aesthetic value of the boulevard.

One need not be a Tecumseh resident or registered voter to sign the petition, as it is an expression of public opinion.

However, registered voters in Tecumseh are urged to sign, said petition circulators.

The petitioners object to the removal of the median of Chicago Blvd., the widening of the boulevard and the abolition of parking between Ottawa and Oneida Sts. along the Boulevard.

The Herald has also been told that County Commissioners have been informed of Tecumseh's plight, and Representative Jack Mowat will also be informed by local officials.

18 SECONDS TO CROSS—That's all the time Patterson School children like Suzie DeMerritt and Doug Maynard (see arrows) have to cross Chicago Blvd. at Union St. These little ones literally need a pat on the bottom from crossing guard Marilee Birdwell, far left, before they know when to cross. Crossing guard for five years, Mrs. Birdwell said children who drop something in the street are often stranded on the median until the next light. About 30-50 students cross morning, noon and after school at 3:45 p.m. during the rush hour traffic. City has complained about the time on the light to the State of Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation but it insists the time is enough. However, if you're the third car on Union turning right on Chicago Blvd., you know you have to wait. If you're a child, you wait for the guard and then run. (Photo by Mike Sunderland)

Run To Beat Short Light

By KATHY BROWN

Marilee Birdwell has watched the comings and goings of Patterson School children across Chicago Blvd. and Union St. for five years as the crossing guard, employed by the city.

She knows many of the children in grades Kindergarten through six who cross daily at morning, noon and after school at 3:45 p.m.

She knows who the playground dawdlers are, and who are the first ones out who can hardly wait to run home.

Marilee tries to make sure everyone of the some 30 to 50 school children who cross gets across safely.

They have only 18 seconds of time on the green light to cross Chicago.

The city has also requested several times that the State of Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation increase the time on the light to allow more than two right hand turns from Union St. onto Chicago, but the department insists the time is enough.

If anyone knows the value of the median in Chicago Blvd. and the importance of the crossing guards it has to be Marilee.

And she thinks the median is too important to the safety of the children to be removed.

"Do you want a good example? I had a girl just the other day who dropped her scraf in the street. She had to wait on the island for the traffic to clear for the next light because she stopped to pick up her scarf," Marilee told.

"If you want my opinion, I think that they are placing material value above pedestrian safety. A few fender bumpers aren't worth nearly as much as the kids' safety," said Marilee.

Her comments summarize the feelings of a lot of residents who have been signing petitions to keep the boulevard median.

Monday the Tecumseh Herald reporter and photographer were on the scene during the evening rush hour to interview children who cross Chicago Blvd.

None of them had any idea of the controversy. Some, especially the youngest, admitted problems in crossing the street because of heavy traffic. All said that without guards assistance, they would not be able to cross as safely.

Two school guards stationed at the cross streets, Julie Gregory and Nancy Elwartowski, sixth graders agree that guards give a big assist to the little ones crossing the street at Chicago Blvd. and Union St.

Renee Lloyd, fifth grader, told the Herald the guards help kids if they drop something in the street.

Jonna Ketola, fourth grader, said she has dropped articles in the street and said she has had a problem crossing the street because of traffic.

Other students like Suzie DeMeritt, second grader and Doug Maynard, first grader, had all they could handle Monday trying to keep warm, let alone concentrate on the cars, trailers and trucks streaming down Chicago Blvd.

They relied on the student guards and Mrs. Birdwell and did not attempt to cross, or know when it was safe to cross, until the guard spoke directly to them.

Children's comments reveal that Chicago and Union Sts. are difficult for children to cross.

Although they do not seem to understand the controversy over the median, their elders think removing the median and widening Chicago would be a hazard to pedestrian safety.

Accidents Are Minor

Although many Tecumseh streets were slippery in places, local police investigated only seven accidents the past week and just one resulted from an icy road.

Resume is:

Snow Storm Closes Schools

A snow storm Tuesday afternoon and early evening resulted in the closing of Tecumseh, Clinton, Britton and most area schools Wednesday.

While many rural roads were impassable, Tecumseh's street department rated a tip of the hat from residents by having all main and side streets cleared of snow, although some streets remained slippery.

Some areas reported a snowfall of six inches and more.

$62 Stolen

Teresa Miller, attendant at Clothes Line Laundromat, told police that $62 was stolen from a cash box.

It's believed that a customer walked behind a counter and took the money while she was elsewhere in the building. Theft occurred Monday.

Steal Window at Mausoleum

A stained, designed glass was taken from the mausoleum at Brookside Cemetery after a party, or parties, cut the chain to the building's door.

Nick Hebert, cemetery custodian, reported the theft to police Monday. Glass was valued at $200.

Membership cards for the historical society will be required and available for a tax-deductable donation at the east entrance of the home.

Society Joins City in Opposing Plans

District Study Committee has been working with the Michigan Historic Commission for two years to develop the historic district in Tecumseh.

With the threat of the widening of Chicago Blvd., the local study committee called a special meeting Friday to relay its findings to the State Commission for approval of the historic district.

Other homes or areas may be recommended later.

Kern suggested that other ways to alleviate the traffic problem on Chicago Blvd. may include enforcement of the speed limit and no left hand turns at rush hour.

Referring to the State Highway Department's logic that the $100,000 improvement would save $25,000 per year in property damage from accidents, Kern pointed out that the tax base will decline if people decide they cannot live on the boulevard because of the traffic, noise and pollution if the state widens M-50 to five lanes in town.

According to Kern the State Department of Highways cannot continue with the improvements unless Council approves.

Council opposed the widening of Chicago Blvd. and removal of parking on the Oneida to Ottawa block at the Jan. 5 meeting.

Council did not disagree with the widening of S. Union at Chicago Blvd. and agreed that M-50 should be widened west of Sunset.

The city was given 30 to 45 days to reply. Bids for the project are scheduled to be let in March.

Permit Granted

Tecumseh planning commission granted a conditional use permit to Bill Steele to operate a major auto repair station on Mohawk.

Final approval must be given by city council.

To The Editor

Viewpoint

To the Editor:
Sir:

Regarding Mr. Tupes' letter in the Herald Jan. 8 (concerning the "Prowler Bill"), there probably is more to this than meets the eye.

Perhaps his report of its provisions is incomplete.

However, in "Gulag Aschipelago II," A. Solzhenitzyn writes, beginning on page 428, (paperback edition) about a situation in the Soviet Union resulting from Stalin's "Criminal Code of 1926."

In part, the author says, "...for three potatoes from a collective farm—10 years. But robbery of a (private) person," six months to a year.

"Private property is a belch from the past."

"Don't go where it's dark. Don't wear your watch. Don't carry money..."

"You had the right to unsheath your knife only after the criminal's knife was hovering over you. And you could stab him only after he had stabbed you (!)"

A Red Army man killed a thug and got—10 years.

"You should have fled!" said the "prosecutor."

"The state...forbids citizens to have...weapons but does not itself undertake to defend them!"

It sounds as if there are people who wish us to follow in the footsteps of the Russians.

Harry E. Snyder,
115 Burt St.
Tecumseh

To the Editor:

I would like to suggest that sometime you print the location, along with the name, of the ponds in Tecumseh.

There was a report in the Jan. 8 paper that Standish and Tecumseh Parks Ponds were safe for skating.

I talked with numerous people in Clinton and Tecumseh (some long-time residents); no one could agree which pond was where, especially after I added Globe Mill, Red Mill and "The Pit" to my question.

Saturday, a teenage girl told me her sister was skating then, behind the Community Center. She thought it was safe, whatever the name of it was.

Yours Truly,
Jane N. Holt

EDITOR'S NOTE: The locations of the ponds are as follows: Standish Pond, sometimes referred to Standish Park, is located beyond the American Legion property on Burt Street. Entrance is on the south and driveway is somewhat obscure because it is next to a residential section. Tecumseh Park, often referred to as the "Pit" because it is a quarry pit, is located on Adrian St. near Northern Propane Gas. Globe Mill Pond is located directly behind the Community Center. The surrounding park area is formally called Satterthwaite Park. Red Mill Pond is located along the west side of North Evans to Brown Sts.

You Told Us

by Kathy Brown

Did you know that you can make the biggest contribution to Tecumseh's history?

Yes, now during this Bicentennial year more than ever before, antiques, articles of clothing, jewelry, etc. related to Tecumseh's history are in great demand by genealogist, newspaper reporters, family historians, history students, the Historical Society and the Historic District Study Committee.

Now, more than ever before, it is easier for you to share these treasures with those of us who spend hours searching the past in the Clara Waldron Room of the Tecumseh Public Library.

The Bicentennial Committee through the cooperation of Don Berkley is offering to take a slide of any valuable object you wish to share.

Call Mr. Berkley for an appointment at the Junior High School, 423-2167, ext. 44.

The slides will then be catalogued at the library for the city as a Bicentennial project.

It is hoped this project will continue to be popular after '76.

Not only is the slide useful to historians but a copy will serve the owner as an insurance record.

Remember, unless someone can use or copy your materials, they are "worthless." A slide for the library will preserve these timeless treasurgs for our town. Your attic heat and basement dampness can only deteriorate them.

Librarian Lois Sprengnether has suggested the biggest service anyone could perform for the community would be to index obituaries, which provide historians with much information.

A "Year in Review" compiled for each year's volume of the Tecumseh Herald, now stored in the Clara Waldron Room at the library would also be a most useful historical guide.

Our librarians report the historical room at the library is used more than ever before.

A gift of money could not be as important to the city's Bicentennial effort as the gift of time someone might spend helping the Bicentennial committee and the library to preserve Tecumseh's heritage.

Jewels & gems

By Dick Eggleston

Handy around the house? Know someone who is? The best gift for the handyman who has everything is the newest whimsical fashion from Bulgari, the Roman jewelers. Bulgari is right now selling sterling silver hammers to jet-setters. It turns out the hammer is for show, not for use, since it will scratch if it is ever used. But then, people who have them, must have made some provision for the other type as well. Most often of course, Bulgari is noted for its lavish jewelry, which employs some of the best emeralds and rubies in the world.

People who like fine jewelry purchase theirs at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. We invite the bride-to-be to come in for our free booklet "Planning Your Engagement and Wedding." It contains valuable information that will make your wedding a memorable occasion. Our stocks also include stainless flatware by Oneida and stainless serving pieces including a 5-piece tea and coffee set.

GEM FACT: Wrap a child's gift and add a pipecleaner figure it will amuse and be good for entertainment of the child later.

THE BEST PART OF A FUNERAL SERVICE IS WHEN IT IS OVER

The flowers, the casket, the sermon, the crying, the procession to the cemetery. When you are going through it, there is nothing pleasant about it. It is at best, a heart-wrenching experience. It is that way for most of us, because until the funeral, we can pretend that it is not real, that no one has died, and when we wake up, things will be back the way they were. But the funeral is another story. It forces us to see and to know that death is real. And, as painful as that knowledge is, that is precisely what heals our battered emotions so that we can go on living. Loving life as we do, we cannot readily accept death when it comes. We do everything we can to hide from it. To try to evade the fact of death is very natural, very human. But if we are to cope with it, we must meet with it face to face. And when we do, it is a devastating shock, slamming the door on life as we know it. What a funeral does, then, is to arrange that face to face meeting. It makes us bring our feelings out in the open, to mourn, to recognize that we have lost, so that we can criticize the way things were, and make some sense the way things are. As professional funeral directors, we know what a difficult experience it is, but we think that is is also an essential experience; because we know that when it is all over, it will help:

Historical Society Meets

Nan Hodges, an Ann Arbor historian, who lives in the Cobblestone House, will tell how the Ann Arbor project to restore the Cobblestone Farm was developed, researched and financed, at the Jan. 26 meeting of the Tecumseh Area Historical Society.

Tecumseh Community Center at 7:30 p.m. will be shared by the historical society and Rotary Club, who are jointly sponsoring the program.

Afterward, the historical society will have its annual meeting and election of board members.

Plans for the year will be discussed including: purchase of a micro-film reader for the library; purchase and sponsor of a historic marker for the Musgrove Evans Home. (One post sign will cost $325 and a two post sign will cost $600;) and professional photography of homes.

Community Has Heart for Heart Unit

Tecumseh and area residents have proved to have big hearts.

Thanks to the generosity of people in the community, to the Memorial Heart Fund, the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has provided $20,000 worth of new equipment for the ICC unit in the last five years.

The fruit of this generousity is the now completed Intensive Coronary Care Unit at Herrick Hospital in the new hospital wing.

The six-bed unit is complete with three monitoring machines. Each display the physiological signs of two patients at the nurses' station.

The first piece of equipment purchased in 1965 when the Memorial Heart Fund was started was a crash cart for $5,000. (A crash cart is an emergency station completely equipped for emergency use.) From that time the memorial fund has grown.

Other purchases made by the auxiliary through the fund have been: three life aid resuscitators, electracardeograph, three cardio paks, a basic cart, treadmill, two emergency heart carts, a defibrillator (for blood pressure patients) for emergency, and rotating tourniquet.

The auxiliary also has three other funds receiving memorial dontations, the landscape, nursing home and general equipment funds.

Money in the general equipment fund can be used to provide whatever equipment including heart equipment the hospital administration and the auxiliary feel is most urgently needed.

Memorial donations may be made at the United Savings Bank and be deposited in the proper accounts.

GIFTS FROM THE HEARTS of Tecumseh and area residents to the Herrick Memorial Heart Fund have made possible the new equipment for the Coronary Care Unit of Herrick Memorial Hospital. In the patient's room, Betty Thompson, left and Hospital Administrator William Groover examine a scope which monitors the patients vital signs in the room. (Photo by Frank Weir)

Missionary candidates to Uruguay, the Rev. and Mrs. David Galloway, will minister at the Tecumseh Assembly of God, 1080 E. Chicago Blvd., Jan. 18, at 7 p.m. Public is welcome.

State's Plans Are Detrimental to Community

Not many of us are engineers, but most of us feel that we could do a better job of engineering traffic through Tecumseh on Chicago Blvd. than the plans thrust upon us by state engineers.

Any idiot can come up with plans calling for a street nearly 60 feet wide of concrete, stripe it for five lanes of traffic and post a sign reading "Your Tax Dollars At Work."

This plan coupled with a few other engineering gimmicks is supposed to reduce accident frequency on our main street. We question the state's supposition.

First, the state would eliminate the median, the only barrier or obstacle we have for avoiding headon collisions. When the state builds expressways, it puts in medians as a safety measure - here the median is taken away.

Take away our median and widen Chicago Blvd. by five feet, and you've managed to mess up our community. You've taken away Tecumseh's character, you will have removed a large number of trees, and destroyed the setting for many historic houses and the aesthetic value of our environment. Why?

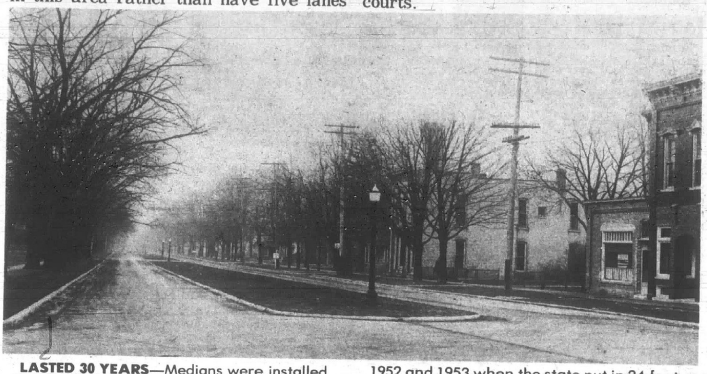
If safety is the utmost important feature of the plan, why not take a close look at the E. Chicago and Maumee St. intersection - not even mentioned in the state's communication to the city.

Also, we'd judge a good number of fender-benders at W. Chicago and Union would be reduced if the state would give Union St. motorists more time at the traffic light. This intersection is a source of irritation for local drivers.

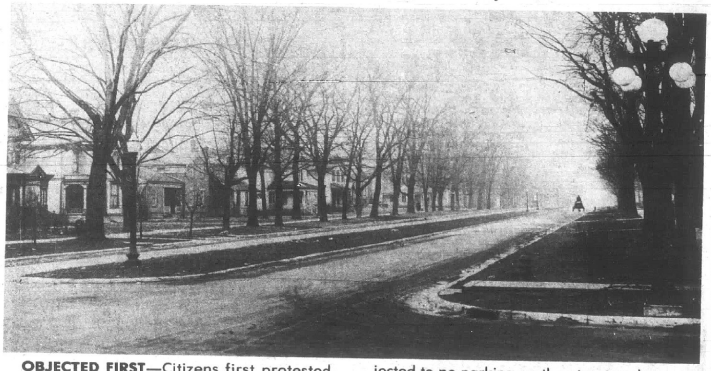
The same intersection is crossed five days a week by youngsters going to and from Patterson Elementary School. Watch them cross sometime and you'll see that many of the young ones have to run to make it before the light changes. Some consideration, some safety!

About the only sensible portion of the state's plans for Chicago Blvd. is the three lane proposal for the street west of Adrian St. and through a congested business area. It would make more sense to have five lanes in this area rather than have five lanes from Pearl to Adrian.

If necessary to curtail some of the state's plans here, we should not hesitate to ask for help from authorities in Lansing, and if not successful there, seek relief through the courts.



LASTED 30 YEARS—Medians were installed when Chicago Blvd. was paved in 1923, one of the first hard surface roads in Michigan. Convict labor was used in the construction. W. Chicago Blvd. had 14-foot medians while E. Chicago, seen here, had 19-foot medians. These medians were reduced to four feet in 1952 and 1953 when the state put in 24-foot east and westbound traffic lanes. Now the state wants to eliminate medians entirely. Note buildings at the right - Tecumseh Camera Shop, Powell Real Estate, and Carl's TV, all three having changed only slightly in past 50 years.



OBJECTED FIRST—Citizens first protested this 14-foot median in the 1920s. They objected to no parking on the street and were afraid many trees would be lost. The no parking ban stuck but most trees were saved. Note horse and buggy and barely visible in the other lane is an automobile.

"Notice is hereby given that the American Legion Memorial Home Association located at 101 W. Pottawamie Street, Tecumseh, Michigan has applied to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission for renewal of its club license and that it is the intent of the Liquor Control Commission to grant said license upon the expiration of the present license."

Appointed to Common Cause

Several Tecumseh residents were appointed at the Steering Committee of Lenawee County Common Cause Jan. 8 in Adrian.

New co-ordinators for the fourth congressional district are Ken Ross and Rich McRoberts, of Adrian.

Steering Committee members, all of Tecumseh, are Marge Boynton, telephone network coordinator; Deborah Havener, publicity coordinator; Richard Lewis, lobby coordinator and PAC representative; and Richard Egli, legislative contact to State Representative John S. Mowat.

A major project for Lenawee County Common Cause in the election year will be to participate in Campaign 76, a nationwide effort by Common Cause to bring about greater dialogue between candidates and citizens and permit a full discussion of issues of concern.

IN THE MIRROR

As mentioned before the windows in my room are small, narrow, and high on the wall. When either flat in bed or sitting up I see the sky but nothing else.

That should have been put in the past tense, Marda. Before explaining why, I must add that this sky watching is not bad. After all, it showed us the flock of snow geese!

Now the explanation of the verb tense change.

One day our neighbor dropped over for a short chat. It was a cool rainy morning so, instead of being on the porch, I was inside.

Bill apparently felt sorrier for Marda than Marda did — at least he went home, worried about the problem, and came up with the idea of a mirror.

In a few days he came over with the mirror itself.

A large square of glass slid into a frame which fastened to the wall at just the proper angle to insure me a good view through the windows.

Whether I am sitting up or lying down I can see what is happening on that part of the lake and island which I cannot see through the sliding glass doors.

So now I am a mirror-looker as well as a window-watcher.

Often I have been unaccountably lucky in having my first look be exceptionally interesting or exciting.

For instance, the first bird I saw on my first window-feeder, oh so many many years ago, was a handsome male cardinal.

Well, the first bird in the mirror was a little blue heron, a young little blue heron. And what makes the young little blue herons so interesting is that they are white, not blue.

A neighbor on the other side of the lake had told us that occasionally he had seen a young blue but none of us had seen so much as caught a glimpse.

I was beginning to wonder if perhaps we had seen him and simply not realized at whom we were looking.

However, my first glimpse at the young heron dispelled that notion — I knew immediately who the bird on the island was.

Had Mom or Dad been looking over my shoulder they would have recognized him too.

Little blue herons are about 2 feet tall with the usual heron long neck and legs, slender, shortish tail and large bill.

Males and females look alike which means, according to the AUDUBON WATERBIRD GUIDE, they have "uniformly dark" bodies and "maroon" heads and necks.

That could be called begging-the-issue. Usually they do indeed look like uniformly dark colored birds but, when they look this way, the maroon of the head and neck does not show.

Just let a bird be spotlighted in bright sunlight though and his head and neck are strikingly maroon.

However, his body is not duly dark — the bright sunshine shows it to be dusty-blue.

Not until two years of age do the little blues acquire this adult plumage. Until then they look like the bird I saw in the mirror.

An all-over white heron whose bill, legs and feet distinguish him from the rather similar looking snowy-egret.

Both are about 24 inches tall but the little blue has a rather heavy bill, much darker at the tip than at the base, and his legs and feet are light.

They almost have a greenish cast.

The snowy-egret, on the other hand, has a more stiletto-type bill which is all black. His legs are also black but the snowy's feet are bright yellow. Thus the name golden-slipper.

The book describes a young little blue, who is molting into his adult plumage, as presenting rather "a curious pied appearance." Wouldn't that be something to see?

Since the exciting first there have, of course, been many other birds whose reflections we have enjoyed watching. Georgie-Boy is the biggest and most faithful. Whenever anyone carries a fishing pole to the island he immediately joins them.

In spite of the weather during the holidays this was a very popular spot, granddads brought the visiting-from-the-North grandchildren to fish.

And as if learning how to "wet a line" under the endlessly patient tutoring of a grandfather, were not enough, just imagine what an additional thrill it would be to go back home and tell the kids about the big white bird who came right up close and begged for all the fish you had caught. Wow!

Errors Are Made, Sorry

DID YOU KNOW???

The editor of a small town newspaper, when taken to task because of an error in his newspaper, came up with this answer:

"Yes, we know there were some errors in last week's newspaper. We will further agree that there were some errors in the issue of the week before.

But before bawling us out too unmercifully about it, we want to call your attention to these facts.

In an ordinary newspaper column there are 10,000 letters, and there are seven possible wrong positions for each letter, making 70,000 chances to make errors and several million chances for transportation.

There are 48 columns in this newspaper, so you can readily see the chances for mistakes.

Did you know that in the sentence, "To be or not to be" by transposition alone, 2,759,022 errors can be made?

Now aren't you sorry you got mad about that little mistake last week."

Nominated to Society

Phi Beta Kappa is a honor society that encourages scholarship in the liberal arts and sciences.

Society Holds Fashion Show

Bi-centennial Journey

Preparation for Winter

By Thelma Younglove

BRITTON — Senior citizens may remember a great many of the preparations that they helped their parents make annually before the cold winter days arrived.

Some preparations were started early in the spring when they planned for the large garden which they hoped would supply not only plenty of vegetables to use fresh during the summer, but also lots to can, dry, or store for later use.

By late fall, most housewives were proud of the shelves well stocked with tempting jars of fruit and vegetables, glasses of jam and jellies, and containers of relishes and pickles, ready for the family's winter's use.

Children of the families assisted in many ways. They helped plant the garden and hoe it.

When the produce was ready, they helped gather it and did their bit to prepare the food for immediate use or canning.

Father was busy too. Soon after the harvest season was over, he took several grain bags of wheat to the flour mill (usually Hayden's) and exchanged it for sack of flour - enough to last the family until after the next harvest season.

He also brought home graham flour and corn meal for making brown bread, johnny cake, mush, and pancakes.

Early in September mothers sent the children out to gather the hops that grew on nearly every back yard or garden fence.

Hops had to be picked before the cold fall winds came.

Nuts, hickory, walnut, butternut, and hazel nuts were spread out to dry. Farm families never thought of buying nut meats at a grocery store.

Potatoes had to be dug, picked up, crated, and hauled to the barn, storage shed, or root cellar.

Pumpkins and squash were gathered and stored.

Quite often squash were buried in the oats in the granary.

Large pumpkins unsuitable for pies were put in the barn ready to be chopped into pieces to be fed to the cows.

The popcorn had to be husked and put to dry where mice sould not run over it.

Nearly every farmer raised a small patch of popcorn - enough for the family's use with possibly some extra to give to city cousins or sell.

When the chilly autumn breezes warned of the approach of cold weather, father and the older boys made sure there was an ample supply of wood, coal, and kindling for the stoves.

Mother and the girls were busy with fall cleaning preparing for the day when the house was too cool to be comfortable and the heating stove had to be set up for the heating season.

Wonder how many recall the feeling of warmth from the heating stove and the smell of stove polish the first time the stove was fired up on a cold fall night?

For those having hard coal stoves watching the glow of the fire through the little iaing glass windows in the doors around the fire pot is an unforgetable sight.

Not all preparation was for the family's comfort. Livestock had to be brought from the pasture and where they would be protected from the elements of the weather.

The young chickens had to be discouraged from roosting on barn rafters, tops of farmyard gates, and in the tops of some of the tall trees.

They had to be shut in the hen house. If left outside feet and combs might be frozen.

Before roads were paved, even the family auto received attention.

Some auto owners removed the battery and stored it in a place where it wouldn't freeze.

Some jacked the car up to take the weight of the car off the tires.

Not until after warm spring days had arrived and roads had become settled, were the automobiles put back into use,.

Times really have changed in numerous ways.

The engagement of Patti Taylor to Thomas E. Grounds is announced by her father, Lee W. Taylor, Pocklington Road. Her mother is the late Irene Taylor. Mr. Grounds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Grounds, also of Britton. Both are Britton-Macon High School graduates. She is employed by Morton Buildings, Inc. of Adrian. No wedding date has been set.

Transportation Policy Adopted by School Board

BRITTON — A school bus transportation policy adopted at the Jan. 8 meeting of the Britton-Macon Area School Board of Education states that school bus drivers, with passengers aboard, will not cross railroad tracks within the district, unless the crossway has the flashing red lights or the automatic arm system.

In other action, the board set up the following completion schedule for the multi-purpose and band rooms addition:

Drawings and specifications completed and ready for submittal to the fire marshal, Feb. 16; out for bids, Feb. 25; bids due, March 16; begin construction, March 22; completed, July 22.

Board Continues Talks With Faculty

CLINTON — Negotiations between Clinton Community School board and the Clinton Education Association on faculty contracts have been stalled for several weeks.

A fact finder's report will be given at a negotiation session at a meeting Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. in the board office.

Monday the school board discussed financing and fencing for the proposed track.

Board approved the junior high track program. The need for a track program for seventh grade boys and girls was discussed.

Board voted to reimburse Robert Girbach for damages in a recent accident involving a Clinton School bus and Girbach's tractor, wagon and corn picker.

Since the accident involved brake failure on the bus, school insurance does not cover the repairs on the Girbach equipment under the no-fault law.

Mrs. Richard Sharpe was present to discuss a complaint concerning basketball rules.

Richard Peterson was present to question the quantity of textbooks available for the multi-text program in the Middle School.

Principal Gordon Clark explained that one basic text is used with supplementary texts.

There is a basic textbook for each student, however, there are not enough of the supplementary texts for each student.

Peterson also asked if the Middle School gym might be used one night per week as a night when children could use the gym as they wish.

The board said this might be possible, however, there would have to be someone in charge.

Clinton Calling

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ward have returned from a two week trip to Sacramento, Calif., where they visited their son and wife, Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Richard Ward and sons for the holidays. While there they attended a show by Red Skelton at The Nugget in Reno, Nev. They met the famous comedian backstage.

Vehicles Sideswipe

Richard E. Hunt, 31, N. Adrian Hwy., Adrian, and Linda Cobb, 23, of Chelsea were drivers of vehicles which sideswiped on M-52 near Robbin Rd. in Raisin Township, according to Clinton State Police.

Hunt failed to stop at the scene and was arrested by Adrian City Police and charged with drunk driving and failure to stop and identify himself at the scene of a property damage accident.

Treated for minor injuries were Linda Cobb and a passenger, Ellen Gray, 22, of Ann Arbor.

"80% Co-Insurance -what's that?"

A home or commercial building may have a market value of say $30,000. Unless your fire insurance is at least 80% of value ($24,000) you cannot claim full compensation on a fire loss. Your insurance settlement would bear the same ratio to the true loss that your insured value bears to the true value of the building. Get it? If you carry only $15,000 insurance on a $30,000 building - in case of a $10,000 fire loss, your insurance would compensate you only $5000. Be sure you have 'full value' insurance with the Sunderland Agency.

If you are repairing your own oil burner on your furnace or boiler, make sure the electrodes are clean and have no cracks. Set the tips of electrode 1/8" beyond end of nozzle 3/16" apart and ½" above. This is normal if you have an 80 degree nozzle. You will have to adjust electrode tips if you have a different spray pattern.

Section 17.02. INTERPRETATION. In the interpretation and application, the provisions of this Ordinance shall be held to be minimum requirements adopted for the promotion of the public health, morals, safety, comfort, convenience, or general welfare. It is not intended by this Ordinance to repeal, abrogate, annul, or in any way to impair or interfere with any existing provision of law or ordinance other than the above-described Zoning Ordinance, or with any rules, regulations or permits previously adopted or issued or which shall be adopted or issued pursuant to the law relating to the use of buildings or premises; provided, however, that where this Ordinance imposes a greater restriction than is required by existing ordinances or by rules, regulations or permits, the provisions of this Ordinance shall control. Nothing in this Ordinance should be interpreted or construed to give rise to any permanent vested right in the continuation of any particular use, district, zoning classification or any permissible activities therein; and, they are hereby declared to be subject to subsequent amendment, change or modification as may be necessary to the preservation or protection of public health, safety and welfare.

Section 17.03. SEVERABILITY. This Ordinance and the various parts, sections, subsections, phrases and clauses thereof are hereby declared to be severable. If any part, sentence, paragraph, section, subsection, phrase or clause is adjudged unconstitutional or invalid, it is hereby provided that the remainder of this Ordinance shall not be affected thereby. The Township Board hereby declares that it would have passed this Ordinance, and each section, subsection, phrase, sentence and clause thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, phrases, sentences or clauses be declared invalid.

Section 17.04. VIOLATION-PENALTY. Any person, firm or corporation, including but not by way of limitation, builders and contractors who shall violate, neglect, or refuse to comply with or who resists the enforcement of any of the provisions of this Ordinance or conditions of the Board of Appeals or Township Board adopted pursuant thereto, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not to exceed One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars and costs of prosecution, or by being imprisoned in the County Jail for not more than ninety (90) days, or both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the Court. Each day that a violation is permitted to exist shall constitute a separate offense.

The imposition of any sentence shall not exempt the offender from compliance with the requirements of this Ordinance. Uses of land and dwellings, buildings, or structures, including tents, trailer coaches and mobile homes, used erected, altered, raised, or converted in violation of any provision of this Ordinance are hereby declared to be a nuisance per se. The Court may order such nuisance abated and the owner and/or agent in charge of such dwelling, building, structure, tent, trailer coach, mobile home, or land may be adjudged guilty of maintaining a nuisance per se, and same may be abated by order of any court of competent jurisdiction.

Section 17.05. RIGHTS AND REMEDIES. The rights and remedies provided herein are cumulative and in addition to any other remedies provided by law.

Section 17.06. GENERAL RESPONSIBILITY. The Township Board or its duly authorized representative is hereby charged with the duty of enforcing the Ordinance and said Board is hereby empowered, in the name of said Macon Township to commence and pursue any and all necessary and appropriate actions and/or proceedings in the Circuit Court of Lenawee County, Michigan, or any other court having jurisdiction, to restrian and/or prevent any non-compliance with or violation of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, and to correct, remedy and/or abate such non-compliance or violation. And it is further provided that any person aggrieved or adversely affected by such a non-compliance or violation may institute suit and/or join the Township Board in such a suit to abate the same.

Tecumseh to Begin Gymnastics Program

by FRANK WEIR

Tecumseh High School enters a new era in sports Wednesday night when it participates in girls interscholastic gymnastics for the first time.The 13 member squad travels to meet East Jackson.

Coach Mary Wood is excited about building the program admitting it will take some time.

Last year, the Indians had a gymnastics "club" participating in two meets. Veterans from last year on the team this season include seniors Gwen Vavrinek, Debbie Rodgers, Michelle Jahner and sophomores Mary Kane and Cindy Egli. Other team members include, juniors Phyllis Valdez, and LInda Spencer, sophomore Karen Miller, and freshmen Shari Steiner, Grace Gould, Jean Egbert, Debbie Hamilton, and Joanie Rapin.

The Indians will have ten meets this year and will have the chance to qualify for regional and state competition. They aren't in the Huron League since gymnastics is not a league sport. Tecumseh is listed as an "independent" squad and will probably remain so according to Wood.

In order to qualify for the regional tourney individuals must meet a score set by judges in her event four times in a season.

In regular season meets, the final team score is determined by the top three point tallys for team members in each event. There are six events in gymnastics including floor exercises, vaulting, balance beam, trampoline, uneven bars and tumbling.

Girls are judged on rhythm, flexibility, control, strength, and most importantly, degree of difficulty of their routine.

Wood says of the upcoming season, "It takes at least two years to develop a gymnast. I anticipate the girls to score low, especially the freshmen. I want them to get experience no matter how they score."

Although Wood expects the freshmen to have a tough time for the first few meets, she's optimistic about the future of the team. The "freshmen are fantastic. They don't think they are because they have no one to compare themselves with. But compared to other schools they look great. The future is bright."

She continues, "I look for my kids to do well. Our second meet, with Columbia Central, will be our toughest. We're stressing experience and learning this year over the won-loss record." Wood expects her team to be emotional until they develop experience.

She sums up by saying, "I'm looking forward to the future, to a progressive gymnastics program. I plan to stick with it. This is my love."

First home meet will be with Michigan Center on Jan. 28.

Purpose is to select the girl in the senior class who has demonstrated best the qualities of good citizenship. This is the first year that young men can be included for the honor.

The National Association of Secondary School Principals has placed this contest on the approved list of National Contests and activities for 1975-1976.

National approval carries with it the approval of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals.

Wider Bridge Is Requested over Raisin

City engineers and city manager Cal Zorn met recently with Federal Highway engineers to discuss the width and elevation of the Russell Road Bridge.

Although the 32-foot width of the bridge was approved and applications signed, the federal engineers asked the city to consider widening the bridge to 40 feet which would necessitate lengthening the bridge.

Zorn said the city would have to bear the additional cost. At $50 per square foot for cost of the bridge, this would mean a considerable increase to the city.

Zorn told Council Monday night he was hopeful that it would be able to adopt the resolution for the sale of bonds and begin to secure the necessary right of ways.

Houses Here in Top Shape

Tecumseh's pre-application for federal housing and community development funds was submitted Jan. 14, Cal Zorn, city manager told Council Monday night.

Region II completed a housing study for the city, to determine the structural conditions of Tecumseh's homes.

The appraisal was necessary to complete the application.

It revealed that less than one percent of the homes in Tecumseh are in need of major repair.

The manager questions whether Tecumseh will qualify for the rehabilitation funds, usually for low income and minority groups.

City Approves Dam Analysis

by KATHY BROWN

A structural analysis of Standish Pond Dam, to begin as soon as the weather permits, was approved by Tecumseh City Council Monday night.

Council hired the engineering firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris, and May, Inc., of Ann Arbor to prepare a report and form for presentation to the Department of Natural Resources.

Estimated engineering costs are $3,000.

Robert Barnes, vice-president and secretary of the firm told Council Monday that work can begin by the first week of May.

Council, city manager, consulting engineers and residents of Outer Dr. along problematic Standish Pond, all agreed the structural analysis of the Standish Pond Dam was the number one priority since the dam has been the main site of water control operations. All other adjustments of water level and operations would depend on the soundness of the dam structure.

Officials also agreed with the recommendation to prepare plans and specifications for the placing of a stop-log structure at the Globe Mill Pond Dam radial gate.

During the ice-prone winter months, the radial gate at the Globe Mill Pond Dam would be completely lifted and replaced by a weir, or overflow.

In the event of dangerously high water, the logs would be unstopped and flow down stream to allow water flow.

Estimated engineering costs would be $2,000 and estimated construction costs would be $2,500.

Council bypassed the suggestion to dredge and clean a portion of Standish Pond located along Outer Drive and to cut a new channel between Standish and Mill Race.

These engineering and construction costs totaled $39,500.

Instead Council agreed the city would cooperate with resident Mrs. Elaine Shough, 611 Outer Dr., in applying to the Department of Natural Resources for a permit for her to dredge Standish Pond behind her home. She agreed to pay dredging costs as much as $500.

Another precaution to protect Globe Mill Pond Dam's radial gate was vetoed by Council.

Two "trash catchers," placed to prevent floating logs and debris from jamming into the gate, would have cost an additional $3,500.

Engineers and residents agreed with the proposal since they thought increased flow at the Globe Mill Pond Dam would require maximum protection of the radial gate from debris.

Despite the lobbying of a few residents for the trash catchers, Council stuck with its original decision.

Barnes told Council the catchers could be made locally and could be an option the city would follow if it had problems with only the stop logs.

In the summer, he explained the stop log device would give minimal protection.

Another recommendation the city itself is taking is construction of a galvanized pipe safety rail for around the Globe Mill Pond Dam radial gate.

At a previous council meeting, the city decided to operate the radial gate at the Globe Mill Pond Dam as an overflow weir or dam.

The sluice gates at the Standish Pond would be designed or modified to act as a weir without increasing their height.

When the overflow exceeds 12 inches at the Globe gate, it would be opened to allow underflow and a greater discharge of water from the pond.

Along with the choice of five alternative operations to select from, the engineering firm recommended the city take five other steps.

These are: the combination of log stop and trash catchers, and protective guard rail for the Globe Mill Pond Dam radial gate, structural analysis of Standish, dredging of Standish Pond and cutting a new channel between Standish Pond and Mill Race.

So far Council has approved the stop logs, analysis of Standish Pond, agreed to assist a resident with the application to dredge behind her property and is building the guard rail.

Use of trash catchers, dredging by the city and other water control measures will now depend on the results of the structural analysis of Standish Pond Dam.

STATE'S WORK HERE CHANGED

Drop Plans To Remove Chicago Blvd. Median

According to reliable sources in Tecumseh and Lansing, The Herald has learned that the State Highway Department has dropped its plans to remove the median in Chicago Blvd. and to widen the street between Pearl and Sunset.

Within the past two weeks over 1,500 signatures have been collected on petitions, protesting the removal of the median and widening of the street. Council also has officially protested.

The Herald also learned Tuesday that Tecumseh's proposed historic district - homes and buildings along Chicago Blvd. from Pearl St. to Sunset and north on Union St. to Evans Creek - have been placed on the State Register of Historic Sites.

Lynn Cook, chairman of the Tecumseh Historic District Study Committee, said the local historic district was accepted by the State Historic Commission on Friday.

This designation now requires an environmental review on any project that may threaten the appearance of the homes on the boulevard and N. Union St. Although it does not grant legal protection, state and federal agencies must consult the Register before beginning a project that could adversely affect property listed in it.

Some badly needed improvements on Chicago Blvd. apparently are still scheduled by the State. These improvements will include widening W. Chicago Blvd. from Sunset to the west city limits from two traffic lanes to three lanes.

City manager Cal Zorn confirmed that field representatives of the highway department were in town Tuesday surveying the intersection of E. Chicago Blvd. and Maumee St. The turning radius, especially short for trucks turning off Chicago into Maumee St., will be increased and improved.

Although most construction of Chicago Blvd. apparently has been abandoned, the State has expressed interest in the city's plans to widen the first block on S. Union St. for a turning lane. Zorn has indicated that the street will be widened through moving back the curb on the east side.

Presbyterians OK Restoration

First United Presbyterian Church of Tecumseh on Chicago Blvd. and Maiden Lane will continue to grace the boulevard with its landmark steeple.

Jan. 18 the congregation decided to restore the church instead of razing it for a new one. The secret ballot vote was 133 to 20.

The decision to renovate the church was made in September of 1974, but an anonymous donor offered $500,000 if the congregation decided to rebuild the church.

The special meeting Sunday gave the congregation an opportunity to speak its piece.

Pledges topping $287,000 were collected from members and friends of the church by a building fund committee.

Money included $91,000 in stock and an offer of $150,000 for renovation from an anonymous donor.

Restoration will include a new roof, copper plated steeple, new floor, reseated windows covered by plexiglass, enlarged narthax with cry room.

Ray Dollison administration commission chaired Sunday's meeting. The Rev. Edmond Watking is pastor.

Building fund raising committee was headed by James Beardsley and included Al Merz, Carson House, Peg Keffer and Marian Tucker.

The church which was built in 1867 was dedicated on March 31, 1869.

Low Bidder To Purchase from Whelans!

A change in the bid of a local company after bids were opened caused a split vote by Tecumseh City Council Monday night.

Council voted four to three to accept the low bid of Gross Farm Equipment of Saline for $6,700 for the purchase of two John Deere tractors and mowers.

Hoyt E. Whelan Co. bid $7,170, but the manager told Council the company called, saying it made an honest mistake and overbid $500.

Council members Mary Bowers, Len DeMoss and Aden Mead wanted the city to accept the Whelan bid, because it is a local company, could service the equipment locally, there was little difference in the bid and "the lowest bid is not always the best."

Other Council members James Palmer, Ray Puffer, Carlton Cook and Harold Easton symphathized with the other members but felt on the basis of the original bids, the lowest bidder should receive the sale. They felt the Whelan Co. would be cooperative.

Ironically, Council was told that Gross Farm Equipment did not have the equipment in stock at the time and would make the purchase from the Whelan Co.

One of the tractors will replace the one presently used at the cemetery. The other is an addition to the street and park mowing equipment.

Temperature Dips Sunday to 20 Below

Folks are finding that the sunny South has been cold rather often this winter but nothing like that which hit Tecumseh and Michigan Sunday.

Many residents reported 20 degrees below Sunday morning, and some say their thermometers dropped to 22 below. Zero weather coupled with lots of snow has been the rule rather than the exception this month.

Schools Tighten Belt To Counter State Aid Loss

By FRANK WEIR

At a meeting of Tecumseh's board of education Monday night, members heard a grim financial report from Eugene Cooley, assistant superintendent.

District financial difficulties will necessitate a budget reduction requiring the elimination of all field trips for students. And expenses for supplies and materials will be cut. Cooley told the board, "It is vital to conserve every available dollar."

Also students who ride buses to non-mandatory events, such as athletic events, will be charged.

Students will now pay $.75 to ride when the event is within 50 miles, round trip. They will pay $1 in excess of 50 miles, round trip.

In addition to state aid cuts of $95,000 in recent months, the district is faced with the possible loss of $300,000 in state equalized value (SEV) funds for the coming year.

The problem stems from the Personal Inventory Tax Act of 1975 which discontinues assessment on personal inventories of local businesses and industries. Assessment on equipment will continue. Such levies are a large source of revenue for the district.

The Act was passed by the legislature and was intended to stem the flow of businesses out of the state due to high tax assessments.

Cooley reported that the state has promised to make up the $300,000 difference, but board officials question that since the state is having difficulty making state aid payments.

In addition, Governor Milliken has vowed that no new taxes will be levied. Cooley asks, "Where will the money come from?"

To prepare for the possibility that the state won't be able to furnish the $300,000, and also to compensate for the loss in state aid, members agreed to a contingency plan reducing the budget by $217,000.

Capital Improvement Plan Is Drafted

A draft of a six-year capital improvements program prepared by Tecumseh City Planning Commission was submitted to City Council by City Manager Cal Zorn Monday night.

The program, dominated by street and recreation improvements, also included sewer expansion, senior citizen housing, and downtown beautification.

Projects are divided into three phases, with phase one ending in fiscal year 1978 and phase two ending in fiscal year 1981.

Projects which are anticipated for the 1976 fiscal year budget include $25,000 local matching funds for a $1,825,000 sewer expansion; $60,000 street improvements for Burt St., $41,200 for Russell Rd. (Mill to Rogers); $5,500 for Hiawatha St. (Pearl to Evans) $5,500 for Muscody St. (Pearl to Evans), $10,000 Pearl St. (Muscody to Patterson) and $25,500 for three years for Industrial Park Streets, to be completed as needed; $9,000 tennis court lighting; $10,000 for repair to Globe Dam; $5,000 for planning survey engineer reports.

Ongoing projects proposed for the 1976 fiscal year budget are $2,650 for Evans St.; $6,000 for downtown beautification.

Other ongoing projects include outside watermeter readers, and downtown land acquisition and sidewalk program to be financed from the building fund and previous assessments.

Bicycle paths would come with major improvements from state or federal programs.

Snowmobile Runs Wild

Tecumseh has had runaway cars, and probably runaway horses, but Sunday evening's run-away snowmobile probably was its first.

Wesley Jones, 21, started his snowmobile to put it away in a garage at 309 W. Cummins when the snowmobile took off. Jones attempted to stop it but jumped off when it headed for a tree.

The vehicle plunged through a fence, struck and damaged the rear porch of the Mike Hite residence at 308 W. Kilbuck, knocked down two sections of another fence, and ran over a small tree before being stopped by - of all things - a snow bank on Kilbuck St.

Estimate of damages has yet to be determined.

Other mishaps in Tecumseh the past week were not as spectacular. A resume is:

Jan. 15 — June L. Day, 40, of 809 Russell Rd., was making a turn when struck by Ellsworth R. Koebbe, 19, of 404½ W. Pottawatamie. Traffic accident occurred on Russell Rd.

Jan. 16 — Joseph I. Hanna, 29, of 810 Outer Dr., bumped the rear of a car driven by Belva I. Bates, 49, of 1325 Southwestern, on W. Chicago Blvd. at Union St.

Jan. 16 — Maria T. Hebert, 28, Clinton, was cited for failure to yield the right of way after colliding with Deborah A. King, 24, Brooklyn in the S. Maumee - E. Pottawatamie St. intersection.

Jan. 21 — Kenneth R. Munson, 26, of 216 S. Union was passing Thomas A. Mutter, 39, Palmyra, at N. Evans and Brown when mirrors of the two vehicles were caught and damaged.

Jan. 21 — Richard J. Regnier, 41, Brooklyn, was traveling on S. Maumee St. when Frances L. Curtis, 56, of 9276 Tipton Hwy. came out of a drive and struck him.

Jan. 21 — Bert Jay Cook, 32, of 9103 N. Union slid on snowy S. Occidental at Russell Rd. and struck a guide line to a power pole.

Jan. 21 — Galen T. McMunn, 34, Clinton was charged with failure to stop within an assured clear distance after striking a parked car on N. Evans St. Parked vehicle, knocked some 57 feet, is owned by David W. Ely, 418 N. Evans.

Behind Page One

Cupid has taken careful aim this year and you can see what he has left behind at the Tecumseh Herald: a collection of Valentines from 1900 to 1935.

As part of the Herald's Bicentennial celebration, we will display them until Valentine's Day. Visitors are welcome to view this sentimental collection belonging to Roberta Anderson of Ypsilanti, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Keller, who received the valentines.

The 1976-1977 Michigan official transportation maps have arrived at the Tecumseh Herald. This map will have to last us for two years!

Many folks thought it was the Liberty Tree publicized by the Tecumseh Bicentennial Committee, but the lighted pine on Chicago Blvd. at Adams Park next to city hall this holiday season is reportedly the inspiration and effort of city manager Cal Zorn and city workers. Several folks in Tecumseh have complimented the new decoration. Liberty Tree planned for the Bicentennial will be ready for eighter Lincoln's or Washington's birthday in February. The three garden clubs are planning the project.

CB Radios Are Stolen

CB radios, very popular with many motorists these days, are equally popular with those who steal.

Richard Weirick, 406 N. Union St., told police Tuesday that his $202.80 CB radio was stolen during the night from a vehicle parked at his home.

Also Tuesday, P.F. Anderson, 1415 Ives Rd., was working on his CB radio in the parking lot behind Gambles when he entered the store for some parts. He later returned to his vehicle and drove to Adrian, where he discovered his CB missing.

Anderson is not sure whether the radio was stolen here or in Adrian.

A breaking and entering at the Junior High School last Thursday was minor. Officials report a bunson burner part missing and boiler room sprayed by a fire extinguisher.

Entry was through a window.

Named to Dean's List

Ronald H. Jones, formerly of Tecumseh, is presently attending Central Florida Community College in Ocala, Fla. He made the dean's list with a 3.54 average. He is majoring in agriculture. Ronald, his wife and two children reside in Fort McCoy, Fla. He is the son of Mrs. Pansy Jones of Tecumseh. He graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1964.

Sesqui Account Closed Out

City Manager Cal Zorn told Council Monday night that the account of Tecumseh Sesquicentennial, Inc. in the amount of $9,511.77 had been closed out.

The $1,976, appropriated by Council for an auditorium fund, was placed in a certificate of deposit and $7,535 went to the city general fund for downtown improvements.

Bids To Be Opened

Assistant Supt. Eugene Cooley told school board members Monday night that the opening of bids for the new high school addition will be at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 27.

Cooley reported that six general, four mechanical and six electrical contractors are planning on submitting bids.

Costume jewelry, as well as those made from precious stones, are available at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. Our variety of costume jewelry includes many fine items as well as inexpensive bracelets, necklaces and rings. Stop by soon and make your selection for Valentine's Day gifts.

LE DINH HY and MAI THI BE

Traditional Customs Highlight Wedding

Traditional Vietnamese customs highlighted the wedding of Mai Thi Be and Le Dinh Hy at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church on Jan. 17.

The Nuptial Mass was concelebrated by Msgr. Vincent Howard, pastor of St. Elizabeth's Church along with Fr. John Keefer of Siena Heights College, and Fr. Samuel Jadin, chaplain of the Dominican Motherhouse, both of Adrian.

The Mass was celebrated in Latin and English and hymns sung in Vietnamese.

Sister Therese (Le thi Hein), the groom's sister, gave the readings in Vietnamese. Hau Dinh Le, the groom's brother and best man from Adrian, translated the vows for the couple.

Miss Be was presented by her family and Mr. Hy presented by his. In Vietnamese tradition, the women and men sat separately.

Nguyen Dhi Ghi, mother of the Vietnamese family residing at St. Elizabeth convent in Tecumseh, was maid of honor.

The bride wore a traditional Vietnamese gown over pants in white velvet, which she made herself. She wore white short gloves, a traditional American veil and carried a daisy bouquet.

As custom, she changed for the reception and wore a pink Vietnamese gown.

A reception for 100 guests was held at the lounge of Regina residence hall in Adrian.

The families catered the Vietnamese dinner. Traditional Vietnamese decorations, long ropes of bright wrapping paper, were made by the families. The couple cut a three tiered wedding cake.

The couple will temporarily reside at the Dominican Motherhouse in Adrian.

A shower for the couple was hosted Jan. 10 in Tecumseh by Mrs. James Kane and Mr. and Mrs. James McCann.

Talking It Out

with Lester D. Proctor and Roger L. Proctor

Proctor Funeral Homes

Your question will be answered here

This is the first in a series of what we hope will be helpful messages to all our friends.

We're going to be "talking it out" with you on many situations which you face in your daily associations with family and friends.

Especially, we'll be talking on various aspects of death-and-bereavement . . . coping with loss of loved ones . . . how do you explain death to a child . . . proper behaviors towards the bereaved and something of what you say to them . . . setting up one's life anew . . . the importance of preplanning one's funeral arrangements.

Most of these topics involve situations which we, as funeral directors, encounter personally and daily in our life's work. We try so hard to handle these precicously personal matters in your best interests. We've studied the latest philosophical and psychological thinking on the subject. We have discussed the problems with the clergymen, the scholars and the doctors.

If you're reading these columns and remembering a single suggestion which will help you through a trying time, this will have all been worth it to us.

Your questions invited

Send us your questions, especially those of you from the religious leaders of our city. They are so deeply involved with our life-and-death process. There are really only four great moments in our personal life-span process. All four moments are affected deeply by the force of religion.

First moment is your own birth, attended by prayers, baptism or christening by pastor, priest or rabbi. Then there's your marriage ceremony, performed with church rituals and blessings. Next usually comes the delightful moments when your own children are born, again ceremonialized by your clergyman. Finally comes death with its prayers for the deceased, and, most importantly, for the living who must carry on.

Your questions and comments on these subjects and others are most welcome — in private or publicly through this column.

Dig this, Daddies!

OTTERS IN THE LAKE

I was tired, it had been a long and busy day. The interesting smells drifting out of the kitchen told me that dinner would be ready in 15 or 20 minutes.

That was plenty of time for a quick look at a new book, "Florida" by Bern Keating. It is large and lush. The text is interesting and the photography superb.

I intended to merely browse through and look at pictures — a few minutes at this type of eye-looking can often be as restful as an eye-closing.

I had not intended to read but suddenly the word otter jumped off the page. I read.

Oh yes, we have otters in our little lake. Surprised? Well, we certainly were.

Oh, we knew that these frolicksome little animals were indigenous to Florida. Many years ago we saw a Dennis Glenn Cooper film which showed a family of otters at play. It was excellent footage. The fun and games took place in the Everglades National Park.

When we vacationed there we saw nothing that even faintly resembled an otter but that was not unexpected.

After all, we were not doing back road driving nor were we out exploring in the morning or at dusk.

But late last winter we found that none of this is necessary. Actually what it takes is just plain old-fashioned good luck.

One morning we noticed that our next door neighbors and their weekend guests were excited about something in the lake.

We later learned that they had been watching a trio of otters. Not too long after that Mom saw them while looking through the high windows in my room. It was apparently a female with two half-grown youngsters.

Just as Mom started her regular early morning window check one of the youngsters was finishing his sunbathing on the island. Mom saw him slide into the water and disappear.

Several weeks later it was again Mom's turn to enjoy more otter watching.

First she saw three slick brown heads swimming single file up the lake.

Hoping against hope that they would scramble up the sandy beach of the island she quietly watched but no, they had other plans.

No sunbathing nor any ruff 'n tumble play sessions were on their schedule this day.

Very deliberately they swam past the island, climbed up a steep bank by the road, ran across the road itself, and galloped the full length of Poole's coach.

They were apparently heading for one of the lakes in the new development.

Mom said they never stopped to look around or get their bearings, they must have known exactly where they were going.

This year we, of course, wondered — would the otters still be around? Perhaps all the commotion and clearing done by the land developers would have driven them away.

Well, we did not have to wait long to know the answer. Two of them were still here. Bob saw them first.

Then there was a long otterless time but finally, several weeks ago, Mom saw them again and so did Dad.

Finally, and at long last, I saw them too. In Bill's mirror I saw them. What a thrill!

When Mom and Dad saw them it was just a quick glimpse of two heads on the other side of the lake. They were there and then they were gone.

These animals whose fur is so luxurious are excellent swimmers. And their webbed feet propel them as fast under water as on top.

Their agility enables them to catch fish, frogs, snakes and even small alligators. When that brown head zips under the water there is just no way of guessing where it will reappear.

It is as frustrating as trying to outguess a grebe or a loon. Or an anhinga or a cormorant.

Then came the exciting morning that Mom looked down into the little channel of water between our bank and the island and there was an otter looking back up at her.

It was over in just a moment but Mom said that never had she seen such an impish mischievous look on an animal's face.

And, of course, these animals are known for their sense of fun and play. Mom said she could well believe it.

My otter looking occurred shortly before noon on a rather dark and windy day. The lake was rough and gray.

I glanced at the mirror just as Mom stepped to the window and we both exclaimed. I could only see the two heads but quite obviously the animals were going at top speed. In an instant they dove and were out of sight.

Money Returned to Gift Shop

Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary reports that there are still some people left with a conscience — the money which was taken from the gift shop before Christmas has been returned.

Men who have the time are encouraged to join the auxiliary, since the constitution or by-laws do not exclude men from joining. New membership directories will be ready in the spring.

A good number of new members have pre-school children. The board suggests that two mothers baby-sit for each other. The Auxilian who "sits" can count her "sitting" time as Auxiliary.

A minimum of 20 hours a year are required of active members.

To volunteer for various service ladies may call the following chairmen:

Sharon Connors, 423-7219, visitors' check days; Miriam Nixon, 423-7128, cart; Bonnie McElroy, 423-2464, visitors' check evenings; Marge Tonnebegger, 423-2317, television; Ruth Jobes, 423-8226, gift shop; Lillian Meining, 423-2975, escort (mornings); Florence Miller, 423-2362, nursing home.

Anyone with questions may call president, Sally Crause, 423-8296.

Macon Dialog

By Linda Phillips

It's going to be every bit as historically educational and entertaining as the famous Pie Social was, but there will be a few changes in Macon's Bicentennial celebration slated for either June 20 or June 27 at the Eldredge Mill.

Instead of pie, refreshments to be offered will include hot dogs, barbecues, popcorn, ice cream and beverages.

In addition to the barber shop quartet that so many enjoyed at the Pie Social, it is hoped that several high school bands will perform.

Of course there will again be guided tours through the restored mill—a treat in itself.

Community support in this endeavor is really needed.

Anyone interested in helping—in any way—should contact Julie Rhora, 423-3001, or Linda Phillips, or come out to one of Macon Historical Society's monthly meetings.

Steaming bowls or mugs of soup are welcomed by all now that winter has set in, for its warming and soothing effect.

Taking it a step further, "The Compleat American Housewife, 1776" extols soup as being satisfying not only for people who are hungry, but also for "those who are tired, worried, cross, in debt, in love or in pain." Quite a claim!

The soup of our American Revolution was Philadelphia Pepper Pot, improvised by General Washington's cook.

Consisting only of some tripe, peppercorns and scraps, it is said that this soup met with great approval of the Valley Forge troops who were very cold, tired and hungry (in debt? in love?)

If you want to feed your hungry troops a bit of Americana, here's what you do:

"Place tripe, a veal shank, three quarts of water and salt in a large, heavy pot.

"Bring to boyle, then simmer and scum it. Boyle it softly two hours. Remove the meat and cut it from the bones into chunks.

Add onions, carrots, celery, green pepper, and parsley with meat and Irish potatoes to the broth. Tie up your cloves and peppercorns in a square of cloth and addit to the broth. "Cover close and bring to boyle, then simmer as necessary for all to be tender. Serve up to a good family of 12 if they eat not excessively."

"It's how you look at things!"

Bicentennial News

Selection of a Bicentennial seal for the city of Tecumseh is scheduled for the Feb. 9 meeting of the local Bicentennial Committee, in the Clara Waldron Room of the public library.

Junior and senior high school students, members of the Brush and Pallet club and any other interested residents are encouraged to submit drawings to the Rev. David Fox, chairman of the Bicentennial Committee before the February meeting.

"The Michigan Story," a popular bicentennial film, will be viewed Feb. 9.

Also on the agenda will be final decision on the type of parade for July 4.

Committee is considering either a viewing parade or a grand march of people from the four corners of Tecumseh to the athletic field for an evening program.

Public opinion may be expressed to the Rev. Fox, or any committee member.

Tecumseh expects to be designated a Bicentennial community and also to hear from the guest speaker invited for the July 4 program.

That program will also include gigantic fireworks in addition to the parade and speaker.

A portion of a Bicentennial Covered Wagon Train, which originated from the State of Washington and will meet at Valley Forge, Pa. on July 4, is expected to spend a night in Cambridge Junction and Tecumseh some week in May.

Harold Easton is helping coordinate local arrangements.

The Bicentennial Committee is offering to take slides of any artifact to enrich the local history collection of the Tecumseh Public Library.

Slides would be useful to historians and also serve the owner as an insurance record.

Interested readers may contact Don Berkley, 423-2167 ext. 44 for an appointment.

During Michigan Week in May a decorator's home or home show will be presented by three civic groups in Tecumseh, in anticipation of the efforts for a historic district during the Bicentennial year.

The three garden clubs will distribute 500 sugar maple tree seedlings to fourth graders for planting by their families. Project is an ecological effort for the Bicentennial.

Also, special trees in Tecumseh will have botanical labels and be decorated with red, white and blue plastic ribbons, for the Bicentennial celebration.

Tecumseh's fire bell is still homeless.

Chuck Gross had designed three possible monuments which would include the bell and decorative wrought iron gates as a monument to the service of volunteer firemen, police and city employees.

However the gates, formerly at the Adrian Board of Education building, were stolen recently.

It is speculated they were melted down and sold for scrap.

Owner Merrill is still working on suggestions for a monument which would include the bell.

The Tecumseh Music Club has volunteered to take charge of a Vaudeville Show, to be performed by the Western Michigan University players in late June.

"LIBERTY... ...and that junk"

Not everyone has caught the spirit of this Bicentennial Year. There's a cynic in town who is already complaining about our emphasis on "liberty — and that junk."

He's the same cynic, incidentally, who has been heard to berate "religion — and that garbage."

But the shouting of cynics cannot change the fact that these two hundred years of American history stand on the foundations of freedom and faith.

This is the heritage we carry forward into our third century. Always remember that there are those who wish they were free to worship with us in our churches every Sunday!

Chamber of Commerce Hears Views of Nominees

CLINTON — At a dinner meeting attended by about 25 members of the Clinton Chamber of Commerce, Monday night in Clintonian Inn, six nominees for council positions were guests.

Nominees spoke briefly then answered questions from Chamber members.

Main concerns appeared to be candidate's stands on the upcoming wastewater treatment plant, with the update of the village charter and need for additional recreation areas for youth, also receiving attention.

Nominees who participated are Dr. Richard Dixon, Richard Peterson, Stanley Gibbard, Edwin Platt, George Schroeder and Glenola McNeil.

Only Irene Karapas was absent.

3 Withdraw as Candidates

CLINTON — Since nomination petitions were filed Dec. 29 for the primary election in Clinton, three candidates have withdrawn their names.

They are trustee nominees, William Stout, and Willie D. King, and Smith-Kimball center board trustee nominee, Joe O'Donnell.

Primary election will be Feb. 16, when voters will have their only opportunity to select candidates for the March 8 annual election ballot.

At the March 8 election, only unopposed Republicans will appear on the ballot, since no Democrat nominees filed petitions.

Huron Valley Service Explained

CLINTON — Mary Croteau, director of Huron Valley Library System, Ann Arbor, described the services available to the local library to members of the Clinton Township Public Library, at the meeting Monday night.

Contract for a large list of services would be at an initial cost of ten cents per capita, or about $250 per year. However, other considerations would more than offset this cost to the Clinton library, Mrs. Croteau explained.

The library board will hear another proposal for contract services from Bernie Margolis of Raisin Valley Library System, at a special meeting, Jan. 28 at 7:30 p.m., before making a final choice of a system to supply services here.

Janet Welch gave the librarian's circulation report showing that in December there were 750 adults taking out books and 546 children taking out books. The copier machine was used 214 times.

Arrangements have been made for the storage of an artifacts filing cabinet, belonging to the Historical Society of Clinton, to be stored in the small east room near the entrance to the library.

A member of the Historical Society must be contacted to obtain access to the file.

Assistant librarian, Elizabeth Pray, has received her state permanent professional librarian certificate. A certificate of librarian experience has been issued to Janalee Welch by the state.

Board voted to purchase two new work room chairs.

A committee was named to meet with all adjoining townships concerning their contracts for use of the Clinton Township Public Library by their residents.

Several visitors were present for the meeting.

Deadline for Soup Labels

CLINTON — Jan. 31 is the deadline for collection of Campbell soup labels to be used by the Clinton Elementary and Middle School library for audio visual equipment.

Labels from Campbell beans, soup and tomato juice may be given to Sandra Randolph, school librarian.

The engagement of Melanie Sue Way to Dan E. Dowling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Dowling of Clinton, is announced by Miss Way's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Way of Clinton. Both are graduates of Clinton High School. Miss Way is employed at Lenawee Dental Laboratory, Inc. of Adrian and Mr. Dowling is employed at Faraday, Inc. in Tecumseh. A summer wedding is planned.

Resumes Requested

CLINTON — Clinton Page Editor of The Herald, Maxine Calhoun, requests that all nominees for contested positions at the Clinton Village primary election submit a resume of personal information, educational background, experience, and also a brief definitive paragraph on "Why I want to serve the Village of Clinton."

Resumes are needed as soon as possible, since none will be printed until all are received preferably before Feb. 7. They may be sent to the Herald or Mrs. Calhoun.

Woman's Club Cancelled

CLINTON — January meeting of the Clinton Woman's Club was cancelled last Wednesday due to the weather.

Public Library

Children's nonfiction at the Tecumseh Public Library has material for school work or leisure.

THOSE MYSTERIOUS UFO'S by David C. Knight could fit either category.

School reports can use COAL by Irving and Ruth Adler, or Bob Brown's 200 ILLUSTRATED SCIENCE EXPERIMENTS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS and the ecological BECAUSE OF A FLOWER by Lorus and Margery Milne, or Carol and Donald Carrick's BLUE LOBSTER'S LIFE CYCLE or Faith McNulty's WHALES: THEIR LIFE IN THE SEA.

Different hobbies and interests are covered in Lynn Hall's KIDS AND DOG SHOWS; OUTDOOR ART FOR KIDS is written and illustrated by Charleen Kinser; THE ANIMATED THUMBTACK RAILROAD DOLLHOUSE AND ALL-AROUND SURPRISE BOOK (EVENING EDITION) is compiled by Louis Phillips; Suzanne Wilding and Anthony Del Balso wrote THE TRIPLE CROWN WINNERS: THE STORY OF AMERICA'S NINE SUPERSTAR RACE HORSES.

Harder to classify are the paintings and story of A PRAIRIE BOY'S SUMMER by William Kurelek, or the fascinating projects for young local history fans in MY BACKYARD HISTORY BOOK by David Weitzman.

While technically nonfiction, young readers enjoy the stories and rhymes in the folklore and poetry sections.

Two beautifully illustrated stories by the Brothers Grimm are SNOW WHITE drawn by Trina Schart Hyman, and Adrienne Adams' pictures for HANSEL AND GRETEL.

Other memorable illustrations are found in the reprint of the 1913 MOTHER GOOSE NURSERY RHYMES with Arthur Rackham's drawings, occasional paintings, and silhouettes.

More modern illustrations from Gerald McDermott's STONE-CUTTER, a Japanese folk tale.

For a story as funny to see as it is to read or hear, try the Bengali folk tale THE OLD WOMAN AND THE RED PUMPKIN, which is translated and adapted by Betsy Bang, with delightful illustrations by her daughter, Molly Garrett Bang.

For the blood-curdling side of folklore, try THE DRAC: FRENCH TALES OF DRAGONS AND DEMONS collected by Felice Holman and Nanine Valen.

For sheer fun, don't miss THE SQUIRE'S BRIDE by P.C. Ashjornsen, truly one of the world's most ridiculous weddings; or try Felix Hoffmann's HANS IN LUCK.

The children's poetry section has every mood imaginable for individual tastes.

There's the wildly funny poetry of Shel Silverstein in WHERE THE SIDEWALK ENDS, or MY TANG'S TUNGLED AND OTHER RIDICULOUS SITUATIONS collected by Sara and John E. Brewton and G. Meredith Blackburn.

AMELIA MIXED THE MUSTARD AND OTHER POEMS is selected and illustrated by Evaline Ness, and covers poetry of all types about girls.

David McCord's poems are always interesting, and AWAY AND AGO; RHYMES OF THE NEVER WAS AND ALWAYS IS carries on the tradition.

In NEAR THE WINDOW TREE by Karla Kuskin, the poetess includes chatty notes telling how she came to write the various poems.

HAILSTONES AND HALIBUT BONES by Mary O'Neill is highly recommended for its rainbow of poetry, each on a different color.

Finally, the message of the Taos Indian Anasazi or "old people" is hauntingly covered in Nancy Wood's MANY WINTERS, illustrated by the nearly photographic drawings and paintings of the Anasazi by Frank Howell.

Music Highlights PTO Meeting

BRITTON — A brief business meeting preceded a musical evening for the Britton-Macon PTO.

A new movie projector has been ordered for the school, and fun night funds will be used for its purchase.

The attendance award was won by eighth graders, with the largest proportion of their parents being present.

A nominating committee will be chosen to find a slate of officers to be presented to the PTO.

Anyone wishing to serve either on the nominating committee or as an officer is asked to give his or her name to Mrs. Robert Porter, (451-4680).

After the meeting, high school students from Mrs. Merri Schoof's band and choir presented a short program.

The choir opened the program with three numbers: "I Don't Know How To Love Him," from the rock opera Jesus Christ Superstar, by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Weber; "If" by David Gates; "One of Those Songs," by Will Holt.

The band closed the program with two numbers; "Bandology," a concert march by Eric Osterling, and "Dance Fantasy for Band," by John Morrissey.

BRITTON — "Never Vanishing Frontier" based on Revelations, was the devotions, related to the Bicentennial, was led by Mrs. Thomas Trapp at the Thursday evening meeting of Emmanuel Lutheran Womens' Guild, in the church.

Hostesses for the program were Mrs. Jo Cattrell and Mrs. Charles Hagans.

Announcement was made of the Mother and Daughter banquet set for May 1 with Mrs. Charles Koob and Mrs. Fred Helm as chairwomen.

Bi-centennial Journey

Winter Evening Pastimes
By Thelma Younglove

BRITTON — Today's youth may wonder what young folks did for evening pastimes during the early part of this century.

Farm youths of all ages had tasks to do both morning and evening through all seasons of the year. (More in winter than in summer).

Livestock, horses, cattle, sheep, and hogs had to be fed and watered both morning and evening.

Stables had to be cleaned and bedded. Cows had to be milked and the milk cared for morning and evening.

Supper was seldom served before 6 p.m. On most farms the milking was done after supper by the light of a kerosene lantern.

While father and the boys were milking, mother and the girls were washing the dishes and sometimes setting the bread which would be baked the next day or starting the buckwheat pancakes for the next day's breakfast.

Chores and the evenings household duties were completed at about the same time. Then the family settled down for the evening. Activities varied.

Often there was homework to be done. Parents in most families were keenly interested in their children's education and frequently helped them with spelling, reading, arithmetic, or any subject requiring extra help.

Lessons over fun began. There were no radios or television sets. The family played games such as checkers (often homemade) dominoes, authors, or flinch just to mention a few.

If some members of the family were musically inclined considerable time was spent with music.

Some mothers played the parlor organ. Other instruments included the harmonica, fiddle, and dulcimer.

Some evenings an older member of the family popped large bowls of popcorn to be eaten with crisp juicy apples.

Another evening might be spent having a taffy pull. While the older young folks were engaged in popping corn or making candy. Father sat near the heating stove reading the daily paper while mother darned stockings or sewed by the light of the kerosene light.

Some families had hard coal burners with ising glass in the doors on three sides of the fire pot.

Just sitting, eating popcorn and munching apples by the light of the fire when temperatures outside were low was indeed a pleasant sight. (Drapes were not used and window shades were seldom pulled.)

Sometimes box-socials were held. These served not only as money raising projects but might be considered social events.

For extra winter fun, home parties were fairly common. Birthdays and anniversaries were observed.

Farewell parties were given when a family moved from the community.

At these parties, games, contests, and much conversation were enjoyed and tasty refreshments were served.

If a near by pond was frozen over and safe for skating, someone was sure to organize a skating party.

Sleigh ride parties were quite common. Some were for young people only. Others were family affairs.

People dressed warmly and enjoyed the fun. To keep warm the driver usually wore a fur coat, cap, and mittens made from a horse or cow hide.

Cutters (a light sleigh drawn usually by one horse), many very fancy, pictured in many of the "Currier and Ives" winter scenes were used for transportation to church services and other events.

How many senior citizens recall hearing the melodious jingle of sleigh bells from the cutters as a spirited horse sped across the snow covered road on a crisp cold moonlight winter evening?

Bids Wanted for Track Improvements

BRITTON — A new crossing gate and approach for the Norfolk and Western Railroad track at Main Street was reviewed at Monday nights Council meeting.

The Federal Government is now accepting bids for the track project. Construction is slated to begin this spring.

New 1976-77 official transportation maps for Michigan are now available at the clerk's office. There is no charge for the maps, which will now be printed every two years.

Slides Shown at MYF Meeting

BRITTON — A presentation of slides on the Appalachia project was shown at the meeting of the United Methodist Youth Fellowship Jan. 18.

Fund raising ideas were discussed for this project.

The youth group will sing "Sound of Silence" for the morning service on Jan. 25.

Later that day there will be a skating party at the Jim Rundell farm at 2 p.m.

The Grace United Methodist congregation is invited to a get-together at the YMCA in Adrian on Jan. 31 by the Wellsville congregation.

Contact the Rev. Robert Porter for further details.

A regular meeting will be ever Sunday at 7 p.m. for a month or two because of the cancelation of earlier meetings.

Kimberly Gall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Gall, has been named to the dean's honor list for the fall term at Cedarville College in Cedarville, Ohio. Miss Gall, a physical education major, maintained a 4.0 average during the fall term. Cedarville College is a Baptist college of arts and sciences, with an enrollment of 1135.

Law Course Is Offered

"Law and Your Everyday Life," a course dealing with legal matters that can affect everyone will be offered by Adrian College for five weeks beginning Jan. 28 to Feb. 25.

The course, which is non-credit, will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday at 121 North Hall.

A few of the topics to be covered include: wills, buying and selling a house or land, renting and leasing, divorce, charge accounts and credit, liability insurance and other topics to be chosen by the class.

The course, will be taught by Henry H. Newlin, a practicing attorney of Tecumseh.

Effective Communication

"Communication, to be effective, must really be understood by the listener" was the theme of Father George Wesolek's presentation last week at the Community Drop-In Center.

Understanding the feelings that the person is expressing and verbalizing these back to the speaker are most important, he said. Communication between parent and teenagers and husband and wife were discussed.

Participating in the discussion with the group of parents were these students from Tecumseh High School: Rodney Turner, Cindi Egli, Beth Burkhard, Aubrey Schroeder, Laura Keller, Andy Neilson and Lauri Hite.

Chairman for the program was Mrs. Gisela Gero. Babysitters from the high school were Denise Christmas, Mike Reid, Pam Tooman, and Marcy Prettyman.

Hostesses were Mrs. Lois Duhan and Mrs. Anne Hunter. Assisting Mrs. Jane Holt with clean up was Mrs. Coleen Brooks.

Insulation is the greatest protection your home can have from the needless waste of energy and money. It keeps the cool in your refrigerator—the heat in your oven. Installed in your home, it provides a double benefit. It keeps the warm air in during the winter and the hot air out in summer. Insulation is the key to saving scarce energy and dollars on your heating and cooling bills.

How much insulation should you have? At least six inches of quality insulation in the ceiling of your home. Also, to increase your savings of energy and money, install storm doors and windows, weather-strip and caulk cracks.

* For more ideas on how to save scarce energy and heating and cooling dollars, call or stop in for our free booklet, "Why Insulate?"

The energy you save is everyone's. The money you save is your own.

To the Editor:

Bella Abzug has a bill in Congress, H.R. 9924, to give $10 million to the International Women's Year Commission to put on women's lib conferences all over the U.S. during 1976.

What a waste of the taxpapers money! What a disgrace to finance disorderly Mexico City type conferences in every state!

How grossly unfair to present only the women's lib, pro-ERA view!

Those against women's lib and against ERA should be given $10 million too!

Please send a mailgram to your Congressman and Senators immediately asking them to vote "No" on H.R. 9924—Bella Abzug's bill.

Dear Editor;

What is 80 percent Co-Insurance? This is a question homeowners may be asking themselves as a rash of home fires is reported daily in newspapers and on TV.

A widely-held notion is that if your fire insurance policy coverage is at least 80 percent of market value, you are adequately covered.

This can be misleading; most policies require that you have 80 percent of REPLACEMENT COST to be adequately covered.

If you live in an older home which is difficult to duplicate, you are most probably underinsured, as material and workmanship may be impossible to obtain.

So, if you carry $30,000 insurance on a home with a $40,000 market value, but which would cost $75,000 to replace and you have a $10,000 loss, your insurance would compensate you only $5,000 (30,000-60,000), (60,000 being 80 percent of 75,000), not $75,000 (30,000-40,000).

A common mistake is not having an appraisal of replacement cost of your house. I hope your readers may benefit from my experience.

Sincerely,
J. G. Tressler

THE PANZA CHIROPRACTIC CENTER IS NOW OPEN AT 2890 N.M52

PHONE 263-6200

I was involved in an auto accident March 6, 1975 in which I received a whiplash injury, causing nerve damage to my right side, also dizziness and black outs. I also had servere pain in the low back and arms. Because of this accident I could not function properly and missed 3 weeks of school. Because Chiropractic has helped me so much, I have decided to become a Chiropractor.

My Mother and I are patients at the Panza Chiropractic Life Center and are both feeling great. We would recommend Chiropractic Care for you.

Drugs Often Useless

"I came to the conclusion that drugs were never reliable, often useless and sometimes decidely harmful. I began then to look around for a more rational way of meeting disease conditions... The more experience I have with Chiropractic, the better I become acquainted with its unlimited possibilities, the more my admiration for Chiropractic grows." – Dr. E. M. Sasville, Belleville, Ill.

FEVER – A HEALTHY SYMPTOM

Fever is a normal useful function of the body in its battle against disease. Most bacteria associated with disease grow best at 98.6°F (the bodys normal temperature). Their growth is retarded by fever. Thus with their growth slowed, the bodys defenses have an easier job in controlling the invaders. Fever, up to 105°, is harmful only to the bacteria. Don't be hasty to lower the bodys defense ability.

Don't Wait Until You Have Trouble To Seek The Joy Of Chiropractic Care

Are you using Chiropractic as an aspirin? Are you waiting until your stomach hurts, you have a headache, or are constipated or have many other symptoms before you come in for your spinal check up? If you are you are cheating yourself, and not getting the full benefit from Chiropractic Care.

Chiropractic does not treat symptoms, Chiropractors adjust the spine to remove interference from the nervous system so the body will have a high resistance level and stay healthy.

The brain is like a Generator, it generates Life Energy that runs your body. The supply line of this force is the spinal cord and the spinal nerves that go out from the spinal cord through the Inter-vertebral openings between the vertebrae, and go to every tissue in your body, so the nerves carry the force that controls the entire body.

When the vertebral segments become misaligned, causing pressure on nerves, it can cause this life force to diminish causing the organs that are supplied by those nerves to malfunction-thus sickness is the result.

Chiropractors locate the point of interference to the nervous system and adjust the vertebral segment back to normal position; then the brain returns control to these organs so the body can work as a unit again-thus Health is the result. This is why we say your spine is the key to good health. DON"T LOCK YOURSELF OUT!

The science called CHIROPRACTIC, which is 74 years old has had very favorable results in assisting sick and suffering people back to Health.

Chiropractic is not a cure-all, but Chiropractic can help any and all cases.

But to what degree depends wholly upon the co-operation given to the Doctor of Chiropractic and the length of time one has had his or her illness or dis-ease.

The person who searches for the truth and the under-lying cause of sickness and dis-ease, knows that cuts and burns heal from within, without medicine.

They know that the cast just held the bond in place – the body knitted the bone together from within, knowing exactly when, where and how much repair is needed.

They realize that the body continually recreates and rebuilds any worn out tissues in the body.

When this repair is not carried out on a regular basis there is always a lowering of resistance, the end result is sickness and dis-ease.

They know that Chiropractic has the answer to Health, for the central nervous system is the controlling factor in "LIFE and HEALTH."

Health comes from within, and you will not find Health in a pill bottle or a shot, but you will find HEALTH–WITHIN YOU–NOW!!!

This is done by the correction of the cause, which unlocks and releases the Flow of Life. Thus Health is the end result.

Marvelous Achievements

"Chiropractic is founded on the science of cause elimination and is the only method of specifically adjusting the cause of so-called disease that has ever been proved by fact. It is greater than either osteopathy or medicine and will eventually lead the field. Chiropractic stands firmly on its marvelous achievements of the past ten years and needs no greater tribute." – Dr. Edward S. Doutt, Pittsburg, Pa.

Astonished At Results

"After practicing medicine for fifteen years, and spinal orthopidics for ten years, I am daily astonished at the remedial power of spinal adjustments as a cure of disease." – Dr. Lee Forest Potter, Orthopedist, New York.

CELEBRITIES & CHIROPRACTIC

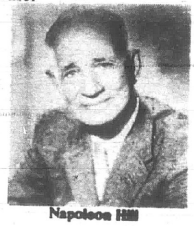
Most of Hollywood's Movie, Radio and Television stars have utilized the services of a Doctor of Chiropractic many times in their lives. And many go on record as saying, "If it were not for a Chiropractor, I would not have been able to do what I have been doing."

Here are a few of the wonderful people who have shared their experiences with us . . .

COL. HARLAND SANDERS

"I take Chiropractic adjustments regularly not to get well - but to keep from getting sick."

"I attribute my good health to the fact that I have taken from one to two Chiropractic adjustments every week for the past fifty-years."



Napoleon Hill

"I know the importance of Chiropractic. It keeps a person in show business, like myself, in top physical condition."

"Chiropractic? I find it most beneficial. I have no specific health problems, I just believe in chiropractic. It relieves my muscles and I feel better right away!"

All In The Family Use Chiropractic . . .

. . . My husband's back was always going out of place, and he would be unable to walk or work. Our 13 year old daughter had a great deal of acid indigestion and stomach pain. Our youngest daughter, age 3, suffered with a hearing loss. I had migraine headaches which would be so bad I could not do my work. We took the pain relief pills such as aspirin and anti acid tablets, but they did not do much.

Then we found out about chiropractic and went to the Panza Chiropractic Life Center. After only a few chiropractic adjustments, we all started to feel better. Our whole family, 7 of us, all receive regular chiropractic adjustments. We feel better physically and mentally also, knowing we aren't taking any more pills or tablets. We feel that one day our 3 year old will have complete hearing again. Thanks to Dr. Panza & his knowing hands.

Chiropractic gives Racer Second Chance!

Rick Blanchard was born and raised in Detroit, Mich., and now lives in Dearborn Heights. He has been in Auto Racing for ten years. In June of 1973, he was involved in a serious auto accident while racing at Toledo Speedway. He suffered severe back, neck and head injuries, accompanied by the loss of use of his right arm.

While in the hospital, he received physical therapy which gave him some relief. The accident, however, halted his career for eleven months.

During this time he met Dr. Ernie Panza, who is now his friend, sponsor and Chiropractor. He regularly receives adjustments, as do his wife, two daughters, and his pit crew, Ralph, Bob and Wendall.

Thanks to Chiropractic, he is able, once again, to do the thing he enjoys most in life ... auto race.

WHY BE SICK WHEN YOU CAN BE WELL

HAYLEY ENGLAND

904-B
GREENWOOD PARK
MONROE, MICH.

Hayley has been a victim of poor health since age 1½ yrs. old. Her main health problem was chronic asthma, with frequent and severe attacks. She had to take pills and medication at least twice a week and had to receive a shot once a month. Not only did the medication have side effects, but also would keep her tired and drowsy and unaware at times. Along with the asthma, Hayley suffered with allergies, pneumonia, frequent colds, fevers and headaches.

I first heard about Chiropractic and Dr. Panza, from a friend whose son suffered with bronchial asthma. Since he was helped through chiropractic care, I decided that it was time to try chiropractic. After the first chiropractic adjustment we noticed a great improvement. After approximately a few weeks of chiropractic care, she did not need any shots or medication. The asthma attacks have disappeared along with the other problems, and I can honestly say that after many years of her being sick, she now acts and appears as a healthy and happy 9 year old girl.

I was suffering with headaches and nervous tension and after a short time under chiropractic care, with Dr. Panza, these problems have disappeared. I can only add that from our experience, that we have been helped under chiropractic care, and can honestly recommend it to other people. You have nothing to lose & everything to gain.

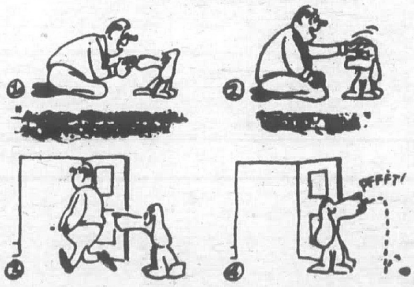
REMEMBER, "THE POWER THAT MADE THE BODY HEALS THE BODY."



If Human Beings Showed the Same Common Sense We Wouldn't Be Living in a Drug Oriented Society

Mr. John W. Shire and Family
3227 Franklin Ave.
Toledo, Ohio

Dear Friends,

The reason why I say friends is because there are so many sick and suffering people, as I was once sick, who cannot get well by taking medicine. When I was 18 years old I went to a Medical Doctor, and he could not help me, so he suggested I go to a Chiropractor and I did just that. In a short time I was feeling much better. My relatives and friends, seeing how well I was feeling, also began taking Chiropractic adjustments. As time went on, the elder Chiropractor we were going to passed away. Instead of finding another, we discontinued Chiropractic care.

Years later I became ill again, and I went back to the Medical Doctor, and then to the hospital, where I received multiple surgery, which I feel has done me more harm than good. After the surgery, they discovered that I had high blood pressure, for which I was given medication, but it did not help.

Then one day, I met Dr. Panza and that is when I decided that since Chiropractic had helped me before, why not again. My wife, who at that time was suffering with severe coughing spells, started taking Chiropractic adjustments also. My son Ron, seeing how well we were doing, began taking Chiropractic adjustments with us.

We all have been feeling better now than we have in years. So, I say to you friends: If you are not getting well with the type of care you are presently under, then it is time for you to try Chiropractic.

Medical practices criticized

A chiropractor challenges

By DEBRA STRAND
Record-Eagle staff writer

TRAVERSE CITY — "Doctor Gold has been the greatest inspiration, motivation, to me and people like me, throughout the world!" said an attractive young woman to some 250 people who turned out to hear Chiropractor Reginald R. Gold tell: "The Truth about Life and Health" at Glacier Dome, Tuesday evening.

The predominantly middle-aged and older audience (though several young couples carried infants and some brought toddlers) had watched and waited while another young woman carried a spinal cord toward the audience. Then she had put a crystal ball-shaped light bulb on a table in front of the stands.

Dr. Gold, a winter coat over his belted suit, sipped coffee as it was explained that he had published over 60 scientific and philosophical papers on chiropractic and received numerous awards from professional organizations.

The audience applauded as Dr. Gold stepped to the podium. His lecture was a combination of exclamations and pauses.

"Chiropractic patients have been treated like second-class citizens long enough! They have been pushed around by the medical world — by instigation of the American Medical Association!

"The medical world calls chiropractors quacks. That doesn't bother me. They call the people who go to chiropractors stupid . . . Who is stupid? Which is quackery? You decide which makes sense: The number one killer of patients is iatrogenic disease. Iatro is Greek for doctor; genic means: produced by. Very simply, iatrogenic disease is: disease caused by doctors. Who says? The World Health Organization."

Though the United States spends more money for medical care, it is rated 34th of all nations in terms of health, he said.

"A woman having a baby in the United States is more likely to die than anywhere else in the world."

"Who gets sick? The unlucky ones? No. Those already sick, rundown, with low resistance will get sick. And do you know that now they think they have a magic potion to wipe out all disease: it's made from the unborn fetus of the white whale. And they call me a quack! And they're crushing moon rocks to cure cancer. Does this make sense?"

According to Dr. Gold, it has been found that 120-150 years should be the body's normal average life span, some say 180.

"Let's stop accepting sickness and disease as normal!" said Gold.

"Now we're teaching kids — whenever you feel uncomfortable to take something . . . You can't buy health in a bottle of pills.

"And our commercials: for common diarrhea . . . Listerene kills germs in the mouth — who wants a mouthful of dead germs? We're so brainwashed! We live in a mirage of health: covering up symptoms, polluting the bloodstream with chemicals, medicines . . . there's no such thing as a safe medicine . . . Drugs are more dangerous than the diseases they cure. They've just taken some drugs off the market that you and your neighbors have been taking for years. They replace them with new drugs. It will be years before we know what harm they'll cause.

"The drugs that diabetics take cause heart disease! And the smallpox vaccine causes polio . . . and cancer is caused by the polio vaccine!"

Gold attacked the medical doctors' attitude toward infected organs: "When in doubt, cut it out." He also accused them of treating symptoms rather than causes. He says that it is not, for example, indigestion that causes one's body to be sick, rather,

"It's a sick body that causes indigestion. It's a sick body that causes all disease."

He disclaimed the 'germ theory' which says that one sick person can infect a healthy person, who in turn can infect another.

"There are germs all around . . . and in this room there's a cold germ. It's cold in here if I must say," he joked.

"If you saw a dead bird covered by ants, would you assume that ants kill birds?"

The audience laughed.

"But if you see bacteria all over a kidney you'd say aha! bacteria kills kidneys . . . If the germ theory were true, Adam and Eve must have had every communicable disease. If the germ theory were true, there would be nobody alive to believe it. Doctors and nurses would be the sickest persons in the world."

Gold said he once asked a surgeon why he wore a cheesecloth mask. The doctor said it was to keep out germs. Then, Gold asked how big a germ was. The doctor replied it was so small it could be seen only with a powerful microscope. If they are so small, they can get through the big holes in the mask, reasoned Gold to the flustered surgeon.

"Surgeons wear masks — you know why it is," he told an amused audience "it's for the same reason Jesse James wore a mask!"

Then he explained that for years it was believed cholesterol caused heart disease. Now they've found out heart disease causes cholesterol build-up around the heart, to protect the heart, and if you cut down on cholesterol you increase the possibility of a heart attack.

To sum up his analogies and anecdotes, Dr. Gold stated, "The world's greatest doctor is not your medical doctor, not your chiropractor. The world's greatest doctor is yourself."

He said that there are thousands of cancer patients who have cured themselves with no aid or hope from the medical doctors.

"Chiropractors can't cure cancer. Chiropractors can't cure anything. But your body has everything necessary to cure cancer. Your body makes every drug and chemical you need — all from peanut butter and jelly, from hotdogs . .

There's no such thing as an incurable disease, just incurable people . . . I would like to destroy your faith in all doctors, because doctors can't cure anything."

He reiterated his belief that there is built into the body the ability to heal itself. The only things it needs from outside are food and water in proper quantities and quality, and oxygen. He talked about the growth of an embryo from one small cell.

"The first organ to develop is the brain and spinal cord. They will regulate and control everything from then on. How does this little blob know what to become? Doctors don't need to tell it what to become! There is what chiropractic calls the innate intelligence of living things. Nature knows what to do . . . but we assume at birth that nature doesn't know what to do anymore."

"As you sit there right now, heart cells are dying," Gold said suddenly, "Don't worry. They are replaced by new ones. It takes about 14 months to replace every organ . . . and every seven years you have a spanking new body.

"Let me explain how chiropractic fits into this picture."

He drew a simple diagram of the brain and spinal column. Then, also using the model of a spine, he explained that there are 24 movable segments to the spine and that the brain consists of nerve fibers 100 times thinner than human hair. The spinal cord is the nerve trunk, keeping the brain in contact with all the organs. He drew a heart in red, then, to audience laughter, drew an arrow through it.

"When your kidney is sick, it causes heart disease. Then, who do you go to? A cardiologist! And if you go to a specialist you're really in trouble. The cardiologist treats the heart. But what about the sick kidney?"

On the sketch sheet, he began to draw:

"You can always tell the liver by its shape," he drew a square, "and the letters l-i-v-e-r."

The audience was enjoying his informality and he went on to draw the gall bladder, an oval, with the letters LBJ (in reference to the late president's gall stone problem).

Then he stood in front of the table with the light bulb on it.

"What is the difference between something living and something dead? One thing, electricity." He related an experiment in which electrodes were attached from a rabbit's brain to a radio. The electricity generated by the brain ran the radio until the rabbit, drained of its electricity, died.

"This light bulb isn't working . . . it doesn't have power. Turn on the power, it works, turn it off, it dies." He demonstrated by turning the bulb on and off.

"If there is a full supply of power it works. Cut the power down and it doesn't work as well." He lowered the brightness of the adjustable bulb.

"Organs work fine at 90 percent power, but they would work better at 100 percent." He said that when the body runs on less power, due to interference of brain messages, often no symptoms appear until much later, while the unsuspecting person gets more and more sick.

"That's what chiropractors are for." Sometimes it takes forty years for people to develop a disease. "Then they want a chiropractor to cure it in three weeks," said Gold.

He explained that a chiropractor adjusts the joints of the spine by hand to restore full power to the body. This is called sublaxation. His voice rose.

"And these morons call me a quack. They put Columbus in jail because he said the world was round. That's what some states tried to do to chiropractic." He repeated that there is no such thing as an incurable disease and that medical doctors never question their methods of treatment instead of pronouncing a disease incurable.

"I'm sick and tired of (their) bull————!" he bellowed.

The audience gasped.

"I once told a medical doctor how to get rid of chiropractors: Start making sick people well!"

"I would like to see you get your children and grandchildren to a chiropractor now," said Gold, "for the maintenance of health rather than the treatment of disease. . .prevention makes a whole lot more sense than crisis therapy. . .the time to turn off cancer is before it's started."

Doctor Gold told the audience, "PACE (the Patients Association for Chiropractic Education, which sponsored his lecture) is not for the chiropractors, it's for you." He said he had met some people in Traverse City who had been helped by chiropractic:

"I don't know many people here, but I told some people — I wouldn't know them from Adam — to tell you how chiropractic has helped them. Would you like to hear them?"

"Yes," one old woman said.

A dark-haired woman came out of the stands to the podium; "I do want to share something good that happened to me. I thought the only place for me was in a wheelchair. I had numbness and pain in this arm and the opposite leg. I was always in pain. One of my friends did the favor of introducing me to chiropractic, I was desperate — I'm thirty-five years old and the mother of four children. . .We've (her husband and children go also) been going about eleven months now. We go regularly to get adjusted. And I'm really healthy now."

Another woman told her story. She said that 14 years ago she had had a premature brain-damaged baby, and had become very depressed. She was given drugs and was in and out of mental hospitals until she heard about chiropractic nineteen months ago.

"I had ten children. I couldn't function . . . I went because I didn't care if I died," she said. "It didn't happen overnight, it happened gradually (her recovery). Now I can take care of all my children and fifteen grandchildren. I owe my life to chiropractic. I guess that's all I have to say."

Dr. Gold talked while he waited for a third woman to give her testimony, "It seems to me you must know somebody who needs chiropractic. Maybe it's time you started thinking about other people and get them under chiropractic care."

A heavy, dark-haired woman was at the podium and gave her story, ending with, "It was tremendous. It was fabulous. I'm very happy."

"All right, that's a little bit for openers," said Dr. Gold. Then he told the audience, "With knowledge comes responsibility. It's Christmastime coming up. There's nothing better to give (than chiropractic). I see young people there. How would you like turning on the power? The chiropractic field is growing rapidly, and there's no way it can become overcrowded. Some of you college students are training to be teachers, which is fine, but what are you going to do when you get out?

The audience laughed.

"How would you like to do what you like day in and day out, without compromising your principles, and make money doing it? Anybody interested in talking about chiropractic as a career, stay after.

"For the rest of you, there's something very important for you to do to protect your chiropractic rights."

WHY CHIROPRACTORS ADVERTISE.

When a person becomes ill, he seeks help. And contrasted with other professional services, there is a choice. People in legal difficulty can only consult a lawyer. Those with toothaches must see a dentist. But a person who is ill has several choices. He may consult:

—a Medical doctor
—a Chiropractor doctor
—or an Osteopathic physician.

The patient chooses the profession he believes can help him the most. This choice depends upon what he was taught as a child and the information and impressions he is exposed to in the world about him.

• • • •

Newspapers and magazines are filled with reading matter about medicine — either in articles or advertisements by drug companies. Radio and television provide constant exposure to medical themes or medical advertisements. Indeed, one of the most popular programs on TV is the "practice" of "Dr. Marcus Welby M.D."

The media is strangely silent about Chiropractic.

Yet the Chiropractic profession — a licensed profession — has a distinct service to offer. It is a drugless service.

Many patients who have suffered needlessly after months and years of medical therapy, have all too frequently discovered that they get well after Chiropractic care has been provided. Chiropractors have heard too many patients ask, "Why didn't I know about this sooner?"

The Chiropractic Doctor has a moral obligation to tell people about Chiropractic — what its principle is and what it has done in clinical cases — for no one else will tell that story. There are no drug companies to sponsor the Chiropractic message. There are no highly paid public relations firms to produce the copy which passes as scientific news — and which gets free space in newspapers.

• • • •

If a man passes a dangerous deep pit in the road which cannot be easily noticed and which might cause someone to injure himself, he has a moral obligation to issue a warning and to place a barricade about the pit lest an unsuspecting neighbor injure himself. He cannot remain silent and be a moral person.

Since a Chiropractor knows precisely what Chiropractors can do to help many sick and suffering people, he must tell the public about it himself. To remain silent is to be immoral. To allow people to suffer needlessly, or to die because of their lack of knowledge about his science, is unthinkable.

Chiropractors are morally obligated to tell people the truth about Chiropractic — and to prescribe the contrasts be-acted only in this way.

• • • •

Yet when a Chiropractor pays to deliver his healing message, Political Medicine, through its well-paid propagandists, immediately cries "foul," "quack," unethical practitioner," "fraud!"

The Medical Lobby wants no competition. It wants no one to question its methods, decisions and products. It wants total dominance and dictatorship in the health field.

Without bothering to scientifically prove or disprove the effectiveness of Chiropractic science—which M.D.'s in Western Germany and other nations have proved to their own satisfaction — the American Medical lobby censures Chiropractic merely because it is a different approach.

• • • •

The Chiropractor is proud to be different.

He will continue to be different, and he will continue to tell people about Chiropractic. He has nothing to hide — nothing to be ashamed of.

Chiropractic works. It is backed up by millions of satisfied and grateffu1 Chiropractic patients — most of whom had previously consulted various types of therapists and physicians.

If telling the true story in this way is fraudulant and unethical — then so be it.

The Chiropractor will continue in his sincere and conscientious effort to bring an important health message to the public.

Chiropractor Is A Specialist

"The sooner the medical profession recognizes the work of the Chiropractor, the better. He is doing a work that medicine cannot do. He belongs exclusively to the class of specialists." – Dr. M. E. King in "Therapeutic Review"

Health care in the United States this year wil cost $94 billion – more than $450 for every man, woman and child in the country.

In return, this is the kind of health treatment we will receive:

- More than 90,000 Americans will die because of inadequate emergency room treatment.
- Another 30,000 will die from infections picked up because of unsanitary conditions in many hospitals.
- Over 48,000 will die from surgery they did not need in the first place – surgery performed for no other reason than to pad the doctor's income.
- Tens of thousands more will die merely because no doctor was available when they needed one.

Next year medical costs will soar even higher. But that will not mean that fewer people will die.

THE SHOCKING TRUTH IS that, although America pays more than any other civilized nation in the world for health care, its citizens are on the receiving end of a medical gyp.

Among industrial nations, the United States ranks 22nd in life expectancy for males. We rank 13th in infant mortality.

I'd be a chiropractor"

College President Praises Chiropractic Help For Arthritis

It is a pleasure to record my recent, very satisfactory experience with chiropractic.

During the past summer I became victim of what my physician diagnosed as arthritis. It came upon me quite suddenly and I suffered excruciating pain in my legs, back, shoulder and head. The use of prescribed drugs gave only temporary partial relief and I faced the prospect of being crippled and handicapped for the balance of my years.

A neighbor cited the help which he had received from chiropractic. Though I had been skeptical, I determined to try it as a last resort.

From the very first adjustment I felt not only relief but healing. Within a month my symptoms were gone and I could return to normal activity. I am retired from my profession but still render services from time to time on a temporary basis. Regular periodic adjustments have maintained my health and usefulness. I am grateful and happy to render this testimony.

Construction in Raisin Township in 1975 amounted to $1,723,277, according to Bill Mackey, building inspector.

He is also building inspector for Franklin Township and reports construction there totalled $653,000.

In Raisin, 39 houses were built, totaling $1,248,500 for an average of $32,000 per home. The inspector says the 1974 average was $30,500 per house, and the 51 permits issued in 1974 was 20 percent more than last year.

Other construction in Raisin was:

Two churches — $159,000.

Six industrial permits — $129,000.

21 permits for garages, storage — $76,637.

31 remodeling permits — $110,140.

There were 16 homes built in Franklin for $525,000, an average of $32,800 per house.

Garages and storage construction, numbering 18 permits, totaled $69,900, and 18 remodeling permits added up to $58,400.

Offer Choice to Patients

Beginning Jan. 1 Herrick Memorial Hospital has joined other Michigan hospitals who must offer patients a choice between arbitration and the court-jury system to solve disputes which might arise during the course of health care.

The arbitration option is a substitute for going to court.

A three-person panel of arbitrators, rather than a judge or jury would hear the case and make a final decision about the disagreement.

Arbitration does not cover disagreements over fees charged.

In 1975, the Michigan Legislature passed two laws which offer a patient the choice between arbitration and the court-jury system.

This was done in response to the malpractice insurance crisis.

Hospital Administrator William Groover said the expected advantage of arbitration is that it might "weed out nuisance cases and help cut malpractice costs."

The decision to select arbitration is entirely the patient's. The choice does not affect quality of care.

Arbitration must be offered to a hospital patient before release and to an emergency patient after treatment.

At Herrick Memorial Hospital the patient is offered the "Patient Information Booklet" and "Arbitration Agreement."

By signing the form, the patient agrees to arbitrate any unresolved health care problems which may arise during that particular emergency room visit or hospital stay.

The emergency room and hospital stay form may be revoked within 60 days after discharge by writing to the hospital.

Specific information on this appears on the agreement form.

If a problem arises, law encourages doctors and hospitals to correct any problems that may arise before legal action is necessary.

Such offers should be made in writing and the patient has 30 days to accept or decline.

Patient may still consult with his lawyer; lawyer fees are expected to be paid by parties concerned.

If the dispute cannot be resolved, arbitration process may be started by contacting the American Arbitration Association, 1035 City National Bank Building, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Filing fees are paid by State fund, but the arbitrators may charge these to any party at the end of the case.

A three-person arbitration panel, one lawyer, doctor or hospital administrator and one public member will be selected.

If the parties concerned

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE?—Merlyn Downing, executive vice president of the United Savings Bank of Tecumseh, shows his surprise here upon entering the board of directors' room Monday morning. The room was filled with bank employees who had gathered secretly to surprise the bank officer who was marking 30 years this week with the Tecumseh bank. His seniority is tops here. He was presented with a gift by Ken McElroy, bank president.

Players Choose Cast

An all-veteran cast has been selected for the Tecumseh Players' winter play, "Ten Little Indians."

Rehearsals have begun in the basement of the First United Presbyterian Church in Tecumseh under the direction of Peg Geiger of Clinton.

Five performances of this famous mystery thriller by Agatha Christie will be given with opening night scheduled for Feb. 21 and continuing Feb. 22, 26, 27 and 28.

Curtain will be at 8 p.m. each night except Feb. 22 when the play begins at 7 p.m.

Leading roles will be taken by Lori Egli of Tecumseh, as the young English secretary, Jim Johnson of Ypsilanti as the adventuring ex-Army captain, and Guil Rothfuss of Brooklyn as the judge, Sir Lawrence Wargrave.

All other cast members are from Tecumseh.

Dr. Carlton Cook, a long time veteran of the group, will have his first opportunity to play "doctor" in a performance, as he takes on the exacting role of Dr. Armstrong.

Dorothy Wetter will be the disagreeable, suspicious Emily Brent; Greg King the bulstering Blore; Howard Furry the elderly soldier, General MacKenzie; Fred Taylor, the butler, Rogers; Louise Lawson the housekeeper, Mrs. Rogers; Ray Lovett the rich, spoiled young Anthony Marston; and Bob Miller the boatman, Fred Narrocott.

Playgoers who have followed the Players throughout their 16 years of bringing live theatre to the Tecumseh area will remember their first presentation of this show at the old Strand Theatre, torn down some years ago.

This marks the first time a production has been "revived" by the group, it was felt to be a most fitting effort for the first show of the Bicentennial year.

Two members of the cast, Guil Rothfuss and Louise Lawson, will repeat the roles they first played in the 1962 production.

The set for the show, designed by Tecumseh artist, Russell Steinke, is still recalled by old-timers as one of the most outstanding in the Players' history.

Band Concert on Saturday

All County Band Concert will be at 8 p.m. Saturday at Blissfield High School.

Tecumseh High School will be one of six schools this year which will perform one number apiece during the first part of the concert.

During the second part of the concert, band members selected from all 12 high schools will perform.

Public is invited. There is an admission.

Handing Out Report Cards

Supt. Robert Duhan announced Tuesday that in an effort to save postage, report cards will be personally given to all students in the local school district some time this week or next to take home.

This applies to all student in elementary, junior high, and high school.

Usually the cards are mailed directly to parents.

SCHOOLS CLOSED MONDAY, TUESDAY

Ice Cripples Area

Warmer weather Sunday - mid to upper 30s - brought southeastern Michigan freezing rain and icy conditions that forced closing of all area schools for Monday and Tuesday.

Schools resumed classes on Wednesday, although many rural roads and city side streets were slick with ice. Some slush accumulated Monday but was turned to solid ice Tuesday when the temperature dropped to 10 above zero.

The city had its main streets in good condition Monday, using some 30 tons of salt, according to Cal Zorn, city manager. Many side streets, however, remained icy and slippery. City parking lots also were slippery and rough.

Some rural roads were simply a glare of ice, a condition that reportedly allowed school bus drivers the option of not driving on them Wednesday if they felt the road was too hazardous.

Many rural roads have received neither salt or sand.

Jack Metcalf, Tecumseh postmaster, says the conditions made it necessary to employ additional help in handling city mail. He says residents could be a tremendous help if ice were removed from walks and steps. Mail was generally a half to one hour late.

Two rural carriers used 4-wheel drive vehicles for their deliveries and another installed tire chains.

Chief Asks Uncovering of Hydrants

Snowfall and ice have buried many fire hydrants in town and fire chief Wallace MacGeorge encourages residents to uncover these.

The time it takes to uncover these might make all the difference in saving your house from fire, reminds the chief.

Serving Meals at Feb. 7th Meet Here

Tecumseh will host the Huron League wrestling meet this year with an all-day event scheduled in the gym here on Saturday, Feb. 7th.

Since preliminary matches in the double elimination meet start in the morning, the Indian Fan Club will serve breakfasts, lunches and evening meals. Proceeds from the meals will go into the club's treasury, which benefits all sports at the high school.

Championship wrestling matches will be held in the evening, starting about 6:00.

At the present, local wrestlers are tied for first place in the league.

Party Store Doubles Size

Extensive expansion and remodeling of The Party Shop is nearing completion, a project that has doubled the size of the original store and one that has given the business an entirely new, interior look.

Del and Ruth King, owners for the past 15 years, started the expansion on Jan. 5 when contractors ripped out a dividing wall, separating the Kings' store from a section of the building formerly occupied by Welch Cleaners.

The expansion has made The Party Shop one of the largest of its type in southeastern Michigan, covering just under 5,000 square feet.

Practically all new equipment and fixtures have been installed, including a 32-foot walk-in cooler, counters, shelving, new floors, ceiling, lighting, heating plant and air conditioning. A new exterior sign will be installed within the next few days.

PARTY SHOP REMODELING INCREASES SIZE TO NEARLY 5,000 SQUARE FEET

Report Thefts, Vandalism

Two thefts and three acts of vandalism were investigated by the police the past week.

The city garage behind the hospital was broken into last Wednesday and four CB radios were stolen from four city vehicles. Police are continuing their investigation.

Two 17-year-olds and three juveniles were arrested Monday for stealing beer from a delivery truck at The Party Store. License number of their car was noted and police apprehended the youths shortly after the theft.

Michael J. Keys, 17, was driver of the automobile. Passengers included the juveniles and Jeffrey E. Shirk, also 17.

Vandalism included breaking of a storm window and a main window at the home of Mrs. Marguerite Prichard, 602 E. Logan. Three juveniles are charged with the breakage which occurred Sunday.

Saturday morning, a city pickup at the Community Center was discovered to have a broken mirror and tail light. Police theorize a club was used to incur the damages.

A break-in at the recreation building at the Park is under investigation. Damages included windows and interior duct work.

Residents Are Invited to Historic Meeting

Chicago Blvd. residents of the newly designated historic district and all Tecumseh residents are invited to attend the public meeting of the Tecumseh Historic District Study Committee Feb. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at Tecumseh Public Library.

Drafting a historic district ordinance to protect the architectural and environmental character is the next step. Residents are urged to attend for their comments.

More information will be given about the historic district designation and questions will be answered.

Lynn Cook is the chairman of the committee appointed by City Council two years ago to recommend a historic district and ordinance.

Offer Choice to Patients

cannot reach a choice, the American Arbitration Association will appoint the members.

The panel hears the case, in most cases, faster than often crowded courts.

If the panel decides in favor of the patient, it may award corrective health care services, payments over a period of time or lump sum payments or combination.

Courts can only award lump sum payments. Under both arbitration and the court jury system, there are no limits on awards.

Appeal of the panel's decision through courts is limited.

The Michigan Commissioner of Insurance is the state official responsible for overseeing the arbitration program.

Questions about arbitration may be directed to the American Arbitration Association at the above address.

To Get Answers: Ask Questions

"Admit your ignorance about the homes you live in. This starts the people in the community talking with people outside the community who might have the information you seek."

Nan Hodges, an Ann Arbor historian gave listeners that advice at the joint meeting of the Tecumseh Historical Society and Exchange Club Jan. 26 at the Community Center.

In many cases, talking with members in and out of the community is how the Cobblestone Farm Association pieced together the history and mysteries of the Tickner-Campbell Cobblestone Farm home of Ann Arbor, built around 1844.

Restoration of the home for a pioneer museum is Ann Arbor's Bicentennial project.

Accidents

Although traffic accident frequency increased the past week, few were blamed on the slippery street conditions and only one involved in a minor personal injury.

A resume is:

Jan. 21 — Michael W. Filter, 27, of 110 N. Oneida, was charged with violating the basic speed law after running into the guard rail on N. Ottawa St.

Jan. 21 — Jaquelyn Painter, 507 Blanchard, hit a car door, opened by a youngster who was a passenger of Claire Helms, 43, of 801 Adrian St. Mishap occurred at Tecumseh Acres School.

Jan. 21 — Dina D. Lee, 20, of 108 W. Pottawatamie, backed into a parked car owned by Steven K. Hunt, 215 N. Maiden Lane, on S. Ottawa St.

Jan. 23 — Wesley E. Powers Jr., 24, of 301 N. Union, backed into Frances B. Vaughn, 53, of 4941 Raisin Center, in the Kroger parking lot.

Jan. 23 — Car owned by David W. and Richard B. Myers was damaged while parked in front of their residence at 512 Nokomis.

Jan. 23 — Beverly W. Beard, 49, of 609 Orchard Lane, was cited for failure to yield after a collision with Margaret J. Medley, 42, Seneca, at the S. Maumee and E. Pottawatamie St. intersection. Mrs. Beard was treated and released at Herrick Hospital.

Jan. 24 — Joe Jones, 31, of 907 W. Russell Rd., slid off at Russell at Occidental Rd. and struck a city sign.

Jan. 24 — Mary M. Keffer, 27, of 510 Cairns, backed into a parked car on Seneca St. Other car is owned by Wayne E. Gubbe, 307½ N. Pearl.

Jan. 26 — Justin L. Grant, 26, of 2473 E. Monroe Rd. slid into James A. Brattain, 34, also 2473 E. Monroe Rd., on W. Chicago at Union.

Jan. 26 — Una J. Stauffer, 67, of 9103 N. Union, was charged with failure to yield after a mishap with Alice Henry, 46, of 104 Cairns, in a Kroger drive off W. Chicago Blvd.

Monies from the National Park Service and the Michigan American Revolution Bicentennial Association have been granted.

A good deal of the restoration is being done by volunteer labor, including University of Michigan architectural and archeological students, high school students, scout groups and other progressive civic organizations.

Eventually families and schools will be able to spend a day at the museum to experience farm life of the 1840's including farm crafts and chores such as butter churning, bread baking, candle and soap making, sheep shearing, gardening, etc.

Mrs. Hodges urged her Tecumseh audience to "Help your real estate agents sell them, if there are any vacant homes in Tecumseh that you treasure. Don't board them up."

The experience of the Cobblestone Farm Association has been that boarding up these historic homes only challenges vandals to destroy and mutilate them.

"When you preserve a home you try to preserve the changes in as well, to illustrate as much about the kind of life lived there," Mrs. Hodges emphasized.

"Home preservation is not just something for purists, when you preserve a home, you are saying something about all of us, our community," she commented.

Mrs. Hodges, who graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a masters degree in history, lives in the only other cobblestone farm in Washtenaw, built by the mason who built the Tickner-Campbell farm. She has also lived in a historic district in Alexandria, Va.

Some of the tools she suggested Tecumseh residents may use to trace the history of their homes includes: plat books, atlases, newspapers, especially the Tecumseh Herald from 1850, biographies, centennial writings (1876) and records of centennial pioneer societies, memoirs, directories, church histories, letters and diaries.

These introduce the homeowner to early people in the county, not only who they were, but what they did and what they built. Deeds.

The Tecumseh Public Library and the Bentley Historical Library in Ann Arbor are good places for people to start as well as libraries in other communities to which early Tecumsehites might have corresponded with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Hodges encouraged her audience to find out why the kinds of architecture Tecumseh has was built here, for example she asked, "Why does Tecumseh have so many homes with cupolas?"

How Do You Tell A Child About Death?

"Why did Grandpa die?"

Do you explain it away with a fairy tale? Do you tell him that God called him away? Or do you answer truthfully, but simply, so that the child relates his Grandpa's death to, perhaps, flowers which live, grow, wither and ultimately die?

If the child is offered a fairy tale, he'll accept it–for now. But, like all fairy tales, they have a way of remaining make-believe for but a short while. And then how do you face the child? Can you keep his trust after that? Perhaps. Perhaps not.

If you tell the child that God has called Grandpa away, you may be sincere, but philosophy and theology are not usually within a youngster's understanding. And what is there to dispel the notion that "God may again call"–taking away his mother, his father?

Relate to flowers

It might be better to explain how flowers grow and bloom, then wither and die. This concept is understandable to the child because it's a fact he can grasp. One he has witnessed. "Flowers," you may explain, "don't live a long time. But we like them and we remember them. Grandpa lived a long time. Remember the good times you had with Grandpa. But like flowers, he, too, died. We loved him – and we'll remember him with love, won't we?"

You can expect many questions. Answer them simply. The young child needs to understand that what has happened is a natural course of events, like the seasons and the sun's rising and setting . . . that he is part of the family, sharing and understanding . . . that his own sadness is shared and understood.

(This is one of a series of short articles I hope will be helpful. We welcome your questions -- in private or publicly through this column).

Jewels & gems

By Dick Eggleston

Jewelers wage their toughest battles against catalog showroom competition in their diamond departments. Why? Because many customers have been lead to believe that the best part of the diamond is something large that shows itself off. It turns out in every case, however, that an informed shopper nearly always purchases the better grade diamond sold by the professional jeweler. If you look at a good diamond under a scope, you will see how imperfections look larger, showier stones, really do mar the stone's quality.

Purchase all your jewelry, watches and other items for gifts from the professional jewelers at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. Stainless flatware by Oneida comes in many patterns including Coronation, Mozart, Madrid, Louisiana, Frostfire, Paul Revere, VenetiaShelley and Plymouth Rock. There are also fine serving pieces like beverage pitchers and sauce bowls and ladles. BankAmerica and Master Charges Honored.

GEM FACT: The value of the diamond you purchase will depend on four factors: cutting, color, clarity and carat weight (size).

THEY DIPPED, VEERED AND SWOOPED

My trusty old, tried and true friend, "Birds of America" by T. Gilbert Pearson says about tree swallows that they are six inch long birds, with white fronts and shimmering blue or green-black backs.

They have short bills and, although their tails are forked, there is only a slight indentation.

They are early and late migrators — they arrive at their summer homes so early in the spring that one questions where and how they find enough insects to survive.

And, in the fall, they congregate with other swallows but usually lag behind them and are the last of the family to leave for the south.

Their journeys are not as long as are the other swallows either, tree swallows spend their winter vacation in the southern part of the United States. Florida for example.

The article about these birds in the "National Geographic" bird book adds that when resting, tree swallows often cover the wooden floor of their home with dried grass which is then topped with feathers.

Feathers sometimes arranged so "artfully" that they "curl over the clutch of four to six white eggs."

It might be assumed from the name, these particular swallows favor an old woodpecker hole or some other tree cavity as a nesting site.

Fortunately they also are quite easily coaxed into accepting man-made boxes.

This book also cleared up the mystery of what the early returnees eat.

If their arrival occurs before a host of insects is on the wing they are quite happy to nibble on bayberries or other fruit. They, in fact, are the most vegetable eating of the swallows.

This is confirmed in the "Audubon Bird Guide" by Richard H. Pough. He also says that because the birds are so easily attracted to nest boxes they have proved to be "effective in reducing crop-eating insects."

And just how does all this tree swallow talk pertain to the Duncans?

Well, the other day our small lake hosted a fairly good sized flock. It was so exciting — I looked out and saw all of these dark colored birds darting over the water and circling above the vacant lot next to us.

Their flight was so graceful and as they veered back and forth and swooped up and down I knew they simply had to be some sort of swallows.

Dad was not here just then but Mom responded to my shouts.

No field glasses were needed, it was just fun to watch the birds.

With their dark tops, light fronts, and the hard-to-see fork in their tails it was easy to identify them as tree swallows.

It was also easy to see how effectively they could rid an area of flying insects. Perhaps rid is too strong a word but they would certainly do a superb job of reducing the insect population.

As we watched they were obviously lunching on insects flying over the water as well as those in the vacant lots.

After the close-up look at the flock of tree swallows I am now wondering if we have not seen them much oftener than we realize. Although all of the utility wires in the park are buried, there are some high tension lines in the land development next door.

Often we have noticed birds lined up on these wires, they look like long rows of clothes-pins. Many birds do this of course but tree swallows are notorious for sitting shoulder to shoulder.

Red-wing blackbirds are good line perchers but they are larger than tree swallows. Purple martins are larger too and most of them are farther south this time of year.

Sometime it would be interesting to somehow manage a closer look at the 'clothes pins' but it would be very hard to do without spooking them. If the opportunity arises we shall certainly try.

Tree swallows bring back a vivid vacation memory. One year we toured New England in June. Along the coast of Maine we stayed one night just north of Rockport and all of the nearby trees had boxes for tree swallows.

The boxes were full of hungry baby tree swallows and oh how busy the poor overworked parents were.

We thoroughly enjoyed watching them come and go and, as always when watching birds feed their youngsters, we marveled at the insatiable appetites of the kids.

What patience, persistence, and skill the adults have.

New year brings out the good intentions of people. Perhaps the end of the first month of the new year is a good time to take stock of those resolutions. Why here at the Tecumseh Herald alone, we have several staff members who are changing their ways. . .bettering themselves. . .er, wa, well at least we're trying.

At last inventory, we claim two dieters (These two have nothing to gain), two part-time dieters (These two are the real losers but their maintenance diet was banned by Weight Watchers) and two wishful thinkers.

We also have three hairpin lace crocheters (They are fit to be tied) and two wishful thinkers.

Two macrame enthusiasts (They have been known to tie the knot more than once!) and one wishful thinker.

You may wonder what the wishful thinkers have accomplished. Well all this activity has given them a lot more to think about lately.

Then there are the three backsliders, one a refugee from a smoking clinic, who are puffing away on the cancer sticks.

Tecumseh Will Host Bicentennial Wagon Train May 24, 1976

By KATHY BROWN

Tecumseh will have a once in a lifetime opportunity to host the Bicentennial Wagon Pilgrimage scheduled to camp here May 24 before its wagons continue to roll east to be in Valley Forge, Pa. on July 4, 1976.

The Bicentennial Wagon Train to Pennsylvania is a train of covered wagons—one from each state—crossing the country from west to east, funneling into the main historic trails and wagon routes.

The Great Lakes segment of the national train will stop in Tecumseh with a minimum of 20 wagons, including the Michigan Prarie Schooner and a minimum of 200 travelers.

The camp-out in Tecumseh is expected to be the biggest event in Tecumseh Bicentennial celebration, drawing record crowds.

Other communities have reportedly begged and bartered for the honor of being on the Bicentennial Wagon Train route; Tecumseh's good fortune occurred by accident!

Train is expected to proceed east along US-12 and south along M-52 to M-50 and east into Tecumseh. It will travel on to Britton and Petersburg.

The event is not a parade but a wagon train.

Anyone with or without a horse or horse driven vehicle may join the train as it comes through Tecumseh. No motor driven vehicles or bicycles will be allowed.

Anyone who desires to ride with the national wagon train for more than one day must register for a nominal fee, to handle insurances.

While in Tecumseh, the train is expected to camp somewhere in town. Locations are being reviewed.

Each community the national train visits is asked to provide one hospitality meal for the travelers. Townspeople may share the meal with the wagoneers.

After the meal, the travelers will present a 40-minute show with own stage. Tecumseh is asked to coordinate a local talent show to reciprocate the campfire entertainment.

Spectators will be welcome to view the ritual of encamping, watering, feeding and grooming of the team of horses.

Before its arrival in Tecumseh, the national wagon train will be in Cambridge Junction May 22 and 23.

The two day event there will include an antique display and sales, rodeo or horse show, food concessions and arts and crafts. The MIS facility may be used for a country and western musical program.

Campsite for the train while at Cambridge Junction will be the Frontier City on M-50 at Onsted Hwy. Cedar Point, Inc. has approved this.

All communities along the wagon train route will be able to rededicate themselves to the precepts of our founding fathers through the signing of the "Pledge of Rededication."

Scrolls with the Preamble of the Constitution of the United States will be available for signing by civic, youth, church groups, schools, etc.

These will be delivered to the Wagon Master in an appropriate ceremony, be enshrined at Valley Forge, Pa., microfilmed and then originals returned to the organizations.

Besides signing of the scrolls, other opportunities to participate are endless.

Here is a resume of what you as a club or individual can do to participate:

Sponsor the hospitality meal. This could be the effort of one club or a joint effort of two or more clubs.

Reserve 150-200 bales of first cutting hay. This will be sold by owner to the wagoneers for their livestock.

Join the campfire talent show. School bands, local glee clubs, square dance clubs, etc. may volunteer to coordinate the local show or entertain for one segment.

Walk or ride along with the national train for a day. Local wagon and carriage clubs, riding clubs, youth organizations——anyone—is invited to join the wagon train during the period of its approach and departure from the outskirts of any community.

Sponsor costume or essay contests. Any group may sponsor a competition to honor Tecumseh's forefathers, as well as our national forefathers.

Robert Glenn, a Tecumseh High School social studies teacher, who coordinated the Antique Parade of the Sesquicentennial, is coordinator for Tecumseh during the wagon train's visit.

Harold Easton represents the city of Tecumseh, Lenawee Sheriff's Posse and 4-H Horse Council of Lenawee County.

For more information on how you can participate, call Mr. Glenn at 423-4158 after 5 p.m.

The national wagon train will be a six-month pilgrimage with the cooperation of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

The Michigan Horse Council is coordinating the Michigan program for the national wagon train.

Each state is supplied with an authentic covered wagon, two teams of horses, relief horses, harness, hitching equipment, a station wagon and horse trailer and clothing.

Each state supplies the wagoneers.

George Miller and family of Belleville, formerly of Tecumseh, will drive the Michigan wagon.

At least one local resident has told local coordinators of plans to follow the wagon train with covered wagon to Valley Forge, Pa.

Wagon routes include the Oregon and California Trails, Gila, Mormon, Santa Fe, Old Spanish, Natchez Trace, Wilderness, Old Post and of course, the famous wagon road, Lancaster Pike.

Bi-centennial Journey

Butchering

By Thelma Younglove

BRITTON — Most farm families formerly produced, butchered, and processed practically their entire supply of meat and meat products used in the home.

Most farmers butchered one or two hogs, depending on the weight of the animals and the number in the family.

From the hogs the family had liver, fresh side pork, loin, spare ribs, pork roasts, sausage, head cheese, pickled hocks, bacon, salt pork, and delicious smoked hams.

Besides the meat there was sufficient lard to last until the next butchering season.

In addition to pork, some farmers butchered a beef, possibly a sheep for mutton, and a few have been known to butcher a goat.

Few farm families needed an entire beef and usually sold a side or either the front or hind quarter to a friend or neighbor, keeping only enough to cold pack several quarts of beef and still have what the family could consume while the meat was fresh.

Butchering was done during cold weather. Refrigerators and freezers were not to be had and ice boxes merely kept food cool.

People were dependent upon nature's low temperatures to preserve the meat.

Since butchering was a somewhat difficult task, two or three neighbors usually helped each other. Sometimes they butchered a hog for each farmer on the same day while the equipment was assembled.

Considerable equipment was required for butchering. A large caldron was needed for heating water, plenty of fuel to heat the water, pails, razor sharp butcher knives, hog scrapers (for removing the bristles from the hog after it had been scalded), a place to hang the butchered animals, hoists, hooks, and a huge barrel where the hog could be scalded.

After the butchering process had been completed, the carcass was left to hang in the cold air until the carcass was throughly chilled.

Then it was cut into halves and taken to the back room or summer kitchen where it was laid on a table ready to be cut into the various cuts of meats.

Hams and shoulders were trimmed, skin removed, and fat cut into small pieces ready to be rendered into lard. The irregular pieces of lean meat was ground for sausage and seasoned with salt, pepper, and sage to suit the family's taste.

Often the sausage was made into patties and put in layers on huge platters and stored in a very cold place. (Often under an inverted wash tub weighted down with bricks.)

If the weather became mild and the sausage and pork steak became in danger of spoiling, the housewife fried it medium well done, packed it into crocks, weighted the meat down with a plate,and poured the hot fat over the meat.

If the crock was filled with the fat, the meat would keep well for several weeks.

Side pork was put in a large crock and covered with a strong brine and weighted down to keep the meat under the brine.

Properly salted pork kept well even during warm weather and served as the farmer's main supply of meat until the next butchering season.

Properly rendered lard kept for months. The average family planned to have 10 or 11 gallons for their years supply for shortening.

After having little fresh pork for a long period of time, was it any wonder that liver, fresh side pork, spare ribs, loin, and sausage tasted so good?

Is it imagination, or was that freshly butchered homegrown pork superior to the cuts of pork we buy today?

Readers Write

Dear Editor:

While sitting in my rocking chair and thinking over the 37 years that I have lived in Tecumseh watching the growth in population from 2500 to the present time many scenes and happenings come to mind.

A few things come to mind about which I feel like writing and sharing with the community. The latest is the excitement over removing the median on W. Chicago Blvd. So much so that some signed their names twice to the petition objecting to the project.

But look at what we let go by: the historical Kennedy House, which would have been a suitable museum for the Tecumseh Area Historical Society; the Methodist Church; the Strand Theater, which was originally the famous Opera House; the Military Grounds and the original Adams Park as provided in the village platt.

Most pitiful of all was demolishing the historical St. Peter's Episcopal Church which was historical to the Lenawee County as well.

All of this has happened in my time in Tecumseh. No one was willing to give his life to save these precious bits of heritage.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Tecumseh Band Boosters, I would like to thank all the parents who took Interlochen students overnight and to all who donated money and food toward the dinner which we served to the students in the high school cafeteria. Those families who did not send their money may still turn it in to Jimmie Rice.

Special thanks to the committee and workers who helped arrange and serve the dinner.

When band parents work together, much can be accomplished. Only a part of the parents were called for this dinner, but we are planning projects and full continued cooperation is needed.

Sewer Plant Proposal Explained to Residents

CLINTON — Four representatives of the engineering firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May answered numerous questions of Clinton village residents concerning a proposed wastewater treatment plant, at a meeting Jan. 21, in Clinton High School.

More than 50 persons attended the meeting chaired by village president, Clayton Strolle, with other members of the council, village engineer Richard Sharpe, and attorney Mel Smith also present.

Don Swan of the Ann Arbor engineering firm showed slides of Clinton's present treatment facility depicting the "obsolete equipment in the lab," and the improvised incubator, which he called "not satisfactory."

Graphic demonstration of the inadequate treatment of wastewater was evident in the samples on display, which had been taken at its admission and exit from Clinton's primary waste treatment plant, both appearing identically clouded.

A sample taken from Saline's new plant, showed a definite clearness after treatment.

Plant proposed for Clinton would cost ever $1.5 million at present estimates, with Federal grant at 75 percent and state grant of five percent.

Village 20 percent share was estimated at about $300,000.

Many of the questions concerned the plan for a 20-year projected use for a population growth to 4,500, as required in order to qualify for the Federal grant.

Village engineer, Richard Sharpe explained any expanded use of the sewer facilities would be at the developers' expense, and in the township the same arrangement would apply.

Individual users or industries in the township would be required to pay costs of extending the sewer line.

Questioned about the projected cost to householders, Sharpe explained that at present some 600 households or 2,200 persons, are using an average of less than 20,000 gallons metered water per quarter, at a rate of $2.66 per month or 40 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Projections are that the basic rate might increase more than four times by 1978, to about $12.50 per month for the average user.

Clinton's present facility costs about $12,000 per year to operate.

This plant simply allows the solid wastes to settle, and the rest of the untreated waste water is dumped into the River Raisin.

Special permit allows this operation to continue until the village can improve its treatment system to meet state and federal requirements.

The proposed plant is a rotating biological tank facility as is used in the new Cadillac wastewater plant.

This is a relatively new form of treatment plant and a more cost effective one than other means of treatment, Swan said. Very little electric power would be needed.

Annual cost of operating the new plant, based on 1975 figures, would be $74,900 and in 20 years at the 4,500 maximum population projected, would cost $87,700 to operate.

Plant would need one full-time superintendent engineer, one operator and one part-time operator.

John Jansen, chairman of the council's water and sewer committee, explained that Clinton has about $40,000 from operating revenues from present facility.

The $300,000 which is Clinton's projected cost of the construction, could be amortized over a 20-year period and paid off by operating revenues from the new plant.

Citizens were reminded that inflationary costs are increasing by more than seven percent a year.

The plan has been considered for four years, and its estimated cost has ballooned by $800,000 in that time.

Interested citizens were urged to visit treatment plants at Saline and Tecumseh.

New non-fiction for teenage readers at the Tecumseh Public Library covers many subjects. In the social sciences there's Jim Haskins' YOUR RIGHTS PAST AND PRESENT; REBELLION AT CHRISTIANA by Margaret Hope Bacon includes excerpts from the writings of escaped slave, William Parker; THE ENERGY TRAP by D.S. Halacy, Jr.; and two other environmental issues — SAVING LAKE SUPERIOR by Wendy Adamson and A SEA OF TROUBLES by J.J. McCoy.

For future medical workers, try MEDICINE AND HEALTH CARE IN TOMORROW'S WORLD by Madelyn Wood; a look at past medical workers and various other BODY SNATCHERS is by Daniel Cohen. Germanvy from World War I to World War II is explored by Ellen Switzer in How DEMOCRACY FAILED.

Other young adult subjects are PEREGRINE FALCONS by Alice Schicks; UNESCO'S 700 SCIENCE EXPERIMENTS FOR EVERYONE; HOT RODDING FOR BEGINNERS by I.G. Edmonds; Frederick L. Devereux, Jr.'s BACKYARD PONY; SELECTING AND OWNING A HORSE: THE CONSUMER'S CATALOG OF ECONOMY AND ECOLOGY by Jeanne and Robert Bendick; Jackques Bourgeois ANIMATING FILMS WITHOUT A CAMERA: David Ewen's SOLO INSTRUMENTAL AND CHAMBER MUSIC: THEY CHANGED THE GAME: FOOTBALL'S GREAT COACHES, PLAYERS, AND GAMES by Howard Liss; POWER HOCKEY by Don Awrey and Ken Hodge; or QUEENS OF THE COURT by George Sullivan, which mixes biography with tennis knowledge.

The 900's cover history, geography and biography with such excellent books as PYRAMID by David Macaulay, or Genevieve Foster's WORLD OF COLUMBUS AND SONS and GEORGE WASHINGTON'S WORLD.

Each book covers events all around the world at the time of Columbus or Washington.

The almost forgotten achievements of THE BANTU CIVILIZATION OF SOUTHERN AFRICA by E. Jefferson Murphy looks at a world that left no written records.

The funny, yet touching, true story called EASY WALKING is by and about Jonathan Lewis Nasaw and his recovery from an accident leaving him paralyzed from the waist down; Gale Sayers' I AM THIRD is another look at "Brian's Song"; John Greenleaf Whittier, the poet and abolitionist, is MR. WHITTIER, the biography by Elizabeth Gray Vining.

Little-known Bicentennial facts are in LEXINGTON AND CONCORD, 1775: WHAT REALLY HAPPENED by Jean Poindexter Colby; finally, across the border is CONFEDERATION, 1867; THE CREATION OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA by Michael Bliss.

Complete Plans for Boulevard

Widening of Adrian to Pearl Sts. and removal of the median have been removed from the 1976 construction plans for M-50, Cal Zorn told City Council Monday night.

Also, plans do not indicate removal of parking on the Boulevard in the Oneida-Ottawa St. block.

City manager Cal Zorn said without the widening of Chicago Blvd. to five lanes, the state probably would not insist on removal of parking on that business block.

The city received a set of prints for the highway construction.

Remainder of the improvement program for Chicago Blvd. has not been changed. Three lanes are still planned on the west from the city limits to Sunset St.

Intersection improvements and recapping are also included.

Handicap ramps are planned for sidewalks on the boulevard. These ramps slope down to the street without a curb.

Also included in the state's plans is the widening of the turning radius on the southwest corner of Maumee St. at Chicago. Trucks now making the turn are jumping the curb.

Zorn said the state plans to advertise for bids in mid-February.

REHEARSE — Jim Johnson and Guil Rothfuss rehearse here with Lori Egli for the Players next performance, Ten Little Indians.

Players Repeating '62 Performances

Dame Agatha Christie, whose death came early this year, was one of England's most prolific and famous mystery writers in a career that spanned some 85 years.

Probably none of her works gained wider popularity than "Ten Little Indians", a play that has thrilled audiences throughout the world since the 1930's.

The Tecumseh Players, in choosing this vehicle for their winter production, have brought back, for the first time, a play they have performed before--in 1962.

Opening night for the 1976 show is Saturday, Feb. 21, and the play continues Feb. 22, 26, 27 and 28, under the direction of Peg Geiger of Clinton.

Curtain time is at 8 p.m., except Sunday, Feb. 22, when the performance will begin at 7 p.m.

Although the setting is different -- the Tecumseh Community Center instead of the old Strand Theatre as it was 14 years ago -- at least some of the faces are the same.

Guil Rothfuss of Brooklyn again has the role of the judge, Sir Lawrence Wargrave, and Louise Lawson of Tecumseh will once more play Mrs. Rogers, the disgruntled housekeeper, one of the "Indians" who falls victim to the unknown madman in Act One.

Lori Egli of Tecumseh as the English secretary, Vera Claythorne, and Jim Johnson of Ypsilanti as Captain Lombard, provide the romantic interest for the play.

Other Tecumsehites in the cast include Dr. Carlton Cook, who plays a doctor for a change; Dorothy Wetter as the disagreeable Emily Brent; Gregg King as William Henry Blore; Howard Furry as General MacKenzie; Fred Taylor as Rogers, the butler; Ray Lovett as young Anthony Marston, who has a penchant for fast cars and alas, lethal drinks; and Bob Miller as Fred Narracott, the boatman.

Working backstage is an equally important crew. Set director and stage manager is Gerald Johnstone. He and his wife, Kathi, will also have the responsibility for properties.

New Signs for Tecumseh Discussed

A new entrance sign to welcome visitors to the city of Tecumseh was discussed by City Council Monday night.

Council decided to postpone action until the city manager checks on the cost to refurbish the present signs and obtains cost estimates for other designs.

Present display is a fence with logos of individual civic clubs. This was a Chamber of Commerce project years ago. Clubs contributed to have a logo displayed.

New design presented to council Monday was a billboard type sign which would list churches and organizations. Cost for each would be $1,900.

Additional ideas are expected to come from the Chamber of Commerce.

Juveniles Are Topic on Program

Juvenile problems will be the theme for the Community Drop In Center's program on Tuesday, Feb. 10, at 9:30 a.m. at the Community Center, M-50 in Tecumseh.

"Juvenile Justice" will be presented in this community program by a panel consisting of Dave Stanifer, director, Juvenile Division, Probate Court; Roger Hendricks, Children's Protective Services; Sgt. Larry Brenner, Youth Officer of the Lenawee County Sheriff's Department; and Mrs. Lois Tavierne, Attendance Officer, Lenawee Intermediate School District.

The public is invited free of charge to this vital program.

Free babysitting is provided at the Community Center by students from Tecumseh High School.

The program begins at 9:30, followed by a short coffee break and informal discussion at 10:30-11:30 a.m.

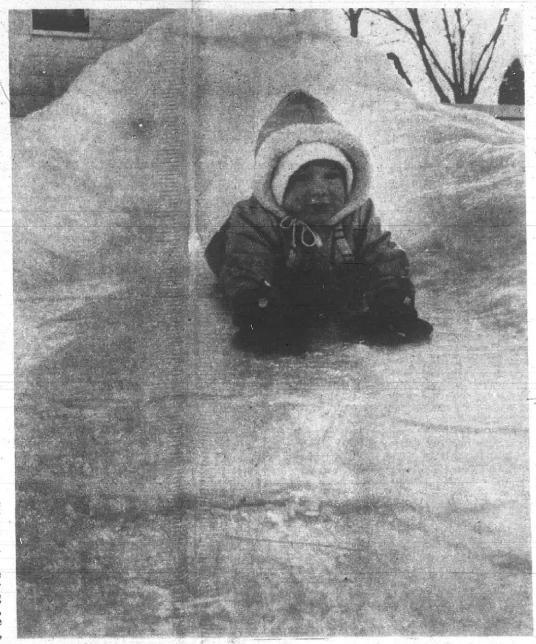
The audience is invited to bring their questions and concerns about youth problems.

The Community Drop In Center monthly programs are a combined effort of the Tecumseh Public Schools, a parent planning committee, and school social workers.

Co-chairpersons for this program are Mrs. Clara Stevens, Tecumseh, and Mrs. Barbara Poley, Tipton.

Mrs. Judy Burnside and Mrs. Nancy Scheirer will assist Mrs. Jane Holt with set-up and clean up.

The March program will be an evening meeting with School Board members chaired by Mrs. Pat Tressler.



"COME ON IN, THE SLIDING'S FINE!" — Dawn Loveland, 2, daughter of Don and Connie Loveland, 1105 Russell Rd., enjoys sliding down a 25-foot slide created by her father in the family's backyard. Dawn, her brother David, 4, are just two of many youngsters enjoying the icy outdoors these days. Youngsters have been seen ice skating in streets and over lawns, covered with snow and capped in ice.

Some Winter - Ice, Snow, Zero Weather

The less hearty but more fortunate Tecumsehites who spend some of the winter in Florida and are complaining about the weather there - they should venture back north and visit home.

We're setting all kinds of records!

Again, the schools were forced to close and again we had sub-zero weather and again a bit more snow.

Sunday's snow only amounted to a couple of inches or so, but it was blowing so hard that it was difficult to tell whether the wind was simply blowing snow or it was actually snowing. Rural roads were drifted badly throughout the area and all schools closed Monday.

Temperatures slipped Sunday evening to 12 below Monday morning, rose to the mid-teens in the afternoon and then dropped to nine below Tuesday morning.

Wednesday's comparatively mild temperature in the upper 20s was predicted to fall to below 10 as northwest winds were bringing in more cold weather from Canada.

With even colder weather predicted for later this week - and more snow - we will probably continue to set records.

DON'T BELIEVE IT — United Savings Bank sign was playing tricks this week, recording temperatures "as high as 119." Such a temperature was recorded while the mercury was below zero - and it brought many chuckles from residents. This 106 seen here was about 110 degrees above the true temperature.

City Buying Property

Purchase of right-of-ways for the Russell Road extension were approved by Council Monday night.

Surveys have been completed. Council approved the purchase of 6.252 acres from William Mackey for $15,630, aaproximately $2,500 for each acre of farmland, and purchase of over three acres of lowland property from Clifford Adams for $5,000.

Council also approved soil test borings by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation as required to receive funds on the Federal Aid System. Tests determine weight load ground can handle.

Estimated cost is $1,500 to $2,000.

Remove Ice, Snow, or—

Tecumsen Postmaster Jack G. Metcalf told the Tecumseh Herald it may be necessary to stop delivery if the snow and ice are not removed from your walks and steps.

He called for patron cooperation.

"Our letter carriers fear a disabling fall more than any other hazard," said Metcalf.

"We know we all face problems in keeping our walks, drives and steps free from snow and ice during the winter months. We ask your cooperation in clearing snow from your walks and steps as soon as possible after a snowfall." said the postmaster.

Use salt or sand on ice-coated surfaces, Metcalf suggested.

Contracts Let for $1.5 Million THS Expansion

Contracts for a $1.5 million addition to Tecumseh High School were awarded Monday night by the School Board which accepted bids described as "excellent" by Gene Cooley, assistant superintendent and business manager.

Henry DeKoning Construction Co. of Ann Arbor was low bidder as general contractor for the 25,000-square-foot expansion at $704,276. There were six general bids with Krieghoff-Lenawee second lowest and Goodrich-Hazen Construction, third. Both are Adrian firms.

Robert Lau, Inc., of Saline was awarded the mechanical contract with a bid of $309,946. Five others had bid on the job.

Electrical contract went to Industrial Electric of Adrian at $168,771. Its bid was lowest among five received.

Michigan School Service of Lansing won bid for manufacturing cabinets at $36,116, and Brothers Restaurant Supply, Jackson, was low bidder for food service equipment at $50,131.

In addition to the combined contracts awarded, $230,769 was budgeted for furnishing the addition, remodeling instructional and pupil service areas, planning and architectural fees, site survey, financial consultant and bonding attorney, bond sale and qualification, site work, landscaping and miscellaneous alterations and decorating.

The expansion will basically consist of four general classrooms, an art instruction area, instrumental and vocal music teaching stations, and enlargement of the cafeteria and food service area.

Alterations and remodeling will include relocating the vocational agriculture department to the classroom currently occupied by the art department, and the high school administrative offices and pupil guidance services will be combined on the main floor in the area now occupied by the vo-ag and guidance programs.

The present administrative office complex will be remodeled for instructional and planning purposes.

Officials here anticipate working beginning early in the spring. Target date for completion is Dec. 1, with much of the work being completed early in the fall.

Council Suggests Annexation First

Tecumseh Council suggested the Tecumseh Plywood property become incorporated with the city before it is considered for a hook-up with Tecumseh for protection with a fire alarm system.

Expense to the city of false alarms was one of the objections raised by Council concerning extending fire protection to the business which is actually in Tecumseh Township.

Owned by Martin Wallich, 2839 Coachlite Dr., the property is entirely surrounded by the city limits.

Request to install an automatic fire alarm system for Tecumseh Plywood was made by Lumbermens Mutual Insurance Co.

At present three other Tecumseh companies have a direct fire alarm hook-up with the fire barn, but they are inside the city limits.

Property owners could initiate annexation procedures with a letter to Council. Both city and township must approve of the change.

Only One Clinic for 'Dragsters'

Dr. Gordon Guild, D.O. of Tecumseh will conduct another smoking clinic for those who would like to quit, at Onsted High School on Feb. 8 to 12.

This will be the only clinic in the area for some time. There will not be one in Tecumseh this spring as previously indicated.

The Onsted class will meet for five consecutive days in Room 126 from 7 to 8 p.m. Group therapy clinic is most successful if participants attend every night.

To register for the clinic, readers may call: Mr. Diamond at Onsted High School at 467-2171, between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Or call Dr. Guild's office at 423-7458 weekdays between 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Thursdays.

Or after 4 p.m. readers may call 467-2608 to register.

Registration fee to cover materials may be paid in advance or at the first class.

Richard Broome of Adrian will assist Dr. Guild. The two conducted a quit smoking clinic in Tecumseh last fall.

Monitor or Patrol Park

Vandalism at the Tecumseh Park, known as the "Pit," still plagues the city despite the cold weather.

Windows and frames on the south side of the recreation building there have been damaged again.

About $5,000 damage was done this summer to both the Pit and Community Center.

Council discussed measures to patrol or monitor the recreation site which was made possible by the Tecumseh Community Fund.

Cal Zorn, city manager is investigating.

To the Herald:

While we are enjoying more and more musical talent in our fair city, I would like to pay a tribute to the ability of one of our friends. I mean Clare Camburn, a rather shy and reserved artist with a cornet.

I felt that he did not have a chance to show his ability in solo work.

One thing he could do when playing with a big band, was to play the piccolo obligato in Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" on his cornet.

He could make those staccato notes float along above the air of that great march.

I hope many of the young players can equal his tones and skill.

To the Editor:

I would like to offer comment on the decision by the State Traffic Safety Division to remove the boulevard on Chicago Boulevard.

I lived at 209 West Chicago Boulevard (the present location of the Presbyterian Church Youth Center) for nearly 20 years.

The boulevard is a distinctive feature of Tecumseh and it is gratifying to see that the people of Tecumseh are fighting to preserve it.

In the autumn, the still green divider blends nicely with the blazing maples and other beautiful trees.

This is a touch of engineering that reflects the pride of the people in their beautiful little town.

I live in Santa Barbara now, a town that has been the site of, and continues to be a major battleground to protect the environment.

The local residents mainly want to preserve the natural and distinctive features of the town, including the beaches and channel.

The battle is for quality of life and it sometimes means challenging State and even Federal rulings. The boulevard is worth preserving and traffic flow and accident problems can be solved and negotiated without its loss.

I hope the Tecumseh Herald will continue to alert the citizens of Tecumseh of all opportunities they might encounter in public meetings and by direct contact with their representatives in Lansing and elsewhere to preserve Chicago Boulevard.

Talking It Out

With Lester D. Proctor

Proctor Funeral home Should Children Attend Funerals?

As members of a home in mourning, children must be allowed to express their own grief just as fully as adult members. We violate their rights if we forbid them this natural, emotional outlet. Mourning is a part of growing-up, of maturing. To deny the child this emotional experience is to stifle his natural development.

Generally, a child can deal with a loss far better than one might expect. After giving full vent to his feelings, a child can become a bit more mature. He has seen, grieved, and recovered. A child's emotional resiliency is remarkable. With adequate preparation, a child may be permitted to attend the funeral, and be all the better for it. The child, as a family member, shares the grief, feels the loss. He or she gives support and receives it in return from his family at the time of mourning.

Sense of belonging

The child sees and feels with all those who are around him. He has a sense of belonging which only the comman bond of grieving together can provide.

But the child must be told what to expect at the funeral.

The child who understands what he is soon to experience is that much more likely to be at ease, or, at least, somewhat less disturbed.

Under no circumstances should a child be forced to attend the funeral. In fact, if you can anticipate that the child might be given to hysterical outbursts, it might be good judgement to keep the overly-sensitive child at home. After the funeral, the child might be asked to join with the family and share their grief, thus enabling him to express his own feelings. Through My Window

by Marda Gene Duncan

THIS AND THAT

It was rather disheartening. For three or four days the weathermen had been saying the same dreary things, high temperatures in the low 50's and night time temperatures near the freezing mark.

On top of that the winds were strong and raw. We kept looking at each other and silently asking if this were what we came to Florida for.

Then we talked to the cousins back in Michigan and they spoke of schools being closed, for five days, in the thumb area and a new low record of 18 below in Livonia. Suddenly Florida was not bad at all.

Actually I felt just a little bit cheap at having complained and groused so much. The weather was keeping us inside, several dinner engagements had been cancelled and we were not visiting any beaches.

However, the sunshine looked nice, we were keeping warm and the folks were battling no snowed-in driveways or icy sidewalks.

One strange thing about a cold snap down here, and I believe I have mentioned it before is the lack of birds.

In Michigan a bad storm was usually preceded by unusual activity at the bird feeders. It was as if they sensed what was coming.

Here it is just the opposite. With the exception of the gulls who fill the sky when there is a storm over the Gulf, there is a definite lack of bird activity when the winds are strong and the weather cold.

It must be that the natural food supply is adequate and so the birds do not need to come to the feeders – they can stay tucked into marshes and swamps. After all, why face inclement weather when it is not necessary.

As for us, we miss the birds and the activity but, when they do not favor us with their patronage, there are always books, articles and papers to read.

Yes, what all this elaborate build-up is leading to is that I have been buried in the books lately and here are some facts and figures which it seems imperative that I share.

Have you not been waiting with bated breath to know that Florida has more coastline than any state except Alaska?

What really surprised me though, because I always think of Michigan and Wisconsin as being blessed with many lakes, was the statement that with over 30,000 lakes in Florida she is outranked only by Alaska.

I am not surprised that the Sunshine State is one of the wettest of the states – an average annual rainfall of 58 inches per year. The way we are going this year that number may have to be upped.

There are 17 major springs gushing and one of the largest, Silver Springs, has a measured flow of more than 500,000,000 gallons a day.

I am stealing these facts and figures from Bern Keating's fantastically beautiful book, FLORIDA.

I am sure he did not count or measure but according to the acknowledgements his sources of information seem accurate.

However, I do think I would like to meet the man who compiled some of the statistics. For example, the map-studier who tallied 15 different waterways named Long Branch and 15 more called Mill Creek.

There also are 13 Alligator Creeks, 10 Boggy Branches, and 12 Sweetwater Creeks. There are more than 300 kinds of trees growing in Florida and, at least, 60 land growing orchids.

One orchid plant was estimated to be at least 500 years old. There are 15 native palms, 400 species of birds, 300 butterflies, and 700 kinds of fish.

And now to change direction. A couple of questions – when and where was the first stretch of concrete road laid? The answer to when is 1909 and the where is Woodward Avenue in Detroit, Michigan.

To be more specific, Woodward between Six and Seven Mile Roads. Yes, you are right, I have changed books. Now the book on my reading table is MICHIGAN IN FOUR CENTURIES by F. Clever Bald.

The American Red Cross is famous for its relief operations. In fact, the Red Cross is almost synonymous in our thinking with typhoons in Japan, earthquakes in South America and famine in Asia.

But there always has to be a first and I was surprised at the first great disaster in which the Red Cross played a major role in affording help and relief. It was in Michigan.

In September 1881, a huge devastating forest fire raged in Lapeer, Tuscola and Huron counties. One hundred twenty five lives were lost and many people who escaped only found safety by taking refuge in Lake Huron. The newly organized American Red Cross was greatly involved in the relief work.

Oh oh – the sun is shining brightly and I just saw the shadow of two birds pass over the lake. Goodbye reading table, hello bird watching.

What is a high frequency watch? The difference between it and most ordinary watches is not outwardly perceptible. But inside, the number of vibrations of the high frequency watch has been increased from 18,000 to 21,600 per hour to 28,800 and 36,000 per hour. The result? A regularity of operation that is unexcelled. Combine this with an increased resistance to shock, better performance for the wearer, and you have a watch that is unexcelled, for accuracy, faithful operation, elegance and dependability — without departing from the normal price range.

All types and styles of watches can be found at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. Bulova, Caravelle, Accutron and Seiko watches make fine gifts for your favorite person on Valentine's Day. BankAmericard and Master Charges are honored. We will also have your child's baby shoes bronzed for you as a momento.

BONNIE THOMAS DISPLAYS MINIATURES AT LIBRARY

Miniatures Exhibited

Miniatures hand crafted by Bonnie Thomas, local artist, are currently displayed at the Tecumseh Public Library.

Bonnie has been fascinated by miniatures since her childhood. They appeal to the child in all of us.

Little book worms at Tecumseh Library are especially enthusiastic about them and first to point out the details to their parents.

The hobby began for Bonnie about two years ago when ecology boxes became popular. For some reason the miniature toys she enjoyed as a child had been saved.

She began collecting other miniatures including gumball machine trinkets and instead of using grains, used the miniatures to create her own version of the ecology box.

A sewing room, school house, pastry shop and potting shed are displayed at the library.

Miniatures is a family project. Her mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. John Mattern of Ann Arbor share in the fun. Betty Mattern makes some of the miniatures and John builds the showcase rooms.

A meticulous worker, Bonnie builds her miniatures to scale, about ½ inch to 1 foot, half as small as most miniatures available commercially.

Bonnie resides on Hewlett Hwy. with kindergartener, Kelly and husband, Ron.

Review of designs for a Bicentennial seal for the city of Tecumseh is scheduled for the Feb. 9 meeting of the Tecumseh Bicentennial Committee at 7:30 p.m. at the Clara Waldron Room of the Tecumseh Public Library.

Also on the agenda will be a final decision on the type of parade to have July 4 and whether or not it may be moved to July 5, Monday of the three day holiday weekend.

A Town Hall meeting to help residents discuss solutions to community problems will be proposed by Chairman the Rev. David Fox.

Representatives from all groups in Tecumseh are welcome to attend, as well as any interested persons.

Priorities Discussed by Extension Women

"I Wish I Had More Time" was the study lesson given by Mrs. Fred Helm at the Jan. 27 meeting of the Northeast Tecumseh Extension Study group at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Boyce.

Mrs. Helm suggested ways to make the best use of a person's time in relation to priorities. How people waste time was also discussed.

Each member summarized what they did that day.

Seven members and Mrs. Charles Koob, a guest answered the roll call by telling what her priorities were.

Mrs. Harry Snyder, vice-chairman, conducted the meeting in the absence of the chairman.

Mrs. Helm reported on the area council meeting. Suggestions were made for her to take to the next meeting.

The hostess served refreshments at a fellowship hour after the meeting.

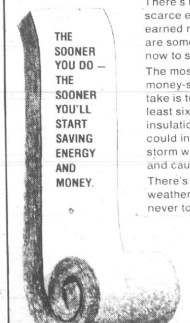
INSULATE!



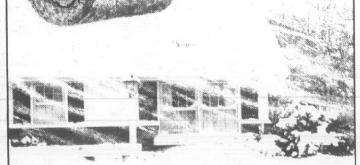
THE SOONER YOU DO — THE SOONER YOU'LL START SAVING ENERGY AND MONEY.

Do the cold blasts of winter make you wish you had insulated your home last fall?

There's no need to go on wasting scarce energy and your hard-earned money. Because there are some things you can do right now to stop it.

The most important energy and money-saving step you can take is to make sure you have at least six inches of high quality insulation in your attic. You also could install weather stripping, storm windows and doors, and caulk cracks.

There's still a lot of cold weather ahead. Insulate. It's never too late to save.



For more ideas on how to save scarce energy and heating and cooling dollars, call or stop in for our free booklet, "Why Insulate?"

Comfort Elected as President

Marjorie Comfort was reelected president of the Environment Council of Lenawee at its monthly meeting Jan. 26 at Adrian college.

Other officers elected were Art Brewer, vice-president; Dan Burggeman, secretary-treasurer, also reelected.

The board will purchase 2,000 white pine, 1,000 red pine and 1,000 autumn olive trees.

The trees will be available for planting in April by school groups, youth groups and other public service groups. Interested persons may call Mrs. Hugh Drake in Onsted.

Art Brewer explained the study of the Maumee River Basin, being conducted by the Great Lakes Basin Commission. The basin, which includes parts of Michigan, Indiana and Ohio is facing severe erosion and other environmental quality problems with the intensifying use of agriculture, housing and industry.

Brewer serves as chairman of the citizen's advisory board, holding hearings for citizens for a comprehensive plan for the future of the basin.

ECOL expressed thanks to Martin Halley and members of the buildings and grounds committee of the Lenawee County Board of Commissioners for their concern to save the Norway spruce tree in the lot north of District Court.

What Chiropractic Has Done For Others, It can Do For You

William B. Carrigan Praises Chiropractic

I had chronic, cluster migraine type headaches medically diagnosed as Horton's Ceppalagia. I began getting these a year ago. They caused severe pain in the right temple and rendered me inactive for duration of the pain. Cluster headaches are more intense than regular migraines but last from one to two hours. Without the medication listed below, which have serious side effects the headaches would occur several times a day. These didn't cause me to miss work but they caused me to suspend activities at work during the duration of the headache. I had consulted three neuralagists, all of whom recommended the indefinite use of drugs: Sansert, Ergomar, Fiurinal, Tetrogran.

The medication relieved the headaches temporarily but were adhoc in nature, that is I would only take it after the onset of a headache. Sansert and Ergomar often made it impossible for me to sleep, in which case I would have to use Valium or some other tranquilizer in order to sleep.

The intensity and frequency of the headaches began to dissipate after month of Chiropractic care. After months of Chiropratic adjustment the headaches no longer occur.

FAITH... UNLIMITED

1776 1976

In our nation's infancy, it was George Washington who showed us the power of faith. Faith gave him the courage to fight on while others fell in despair. Faith sustained him through the dark days of Valley Forge. He never doubted that right would ultimately prevail.

In our own troubled times, we too need the same deep, abiding faith.

The Church now—as in Washington's day—is eager to ease our doubts and to sustain our spiritual needs. With God's help, we shall persevere.

MUTE REMNANTS—All that is left of a young girl's possessions after fire destroyed the Don Phillips home Monday. Marion Steffy, 11, is under the foster care of the Phillipses, and is an arthritic using a wheel chair. In her struggle to get out of her bed during the fire, she apparently suffered a broken leg and smoke inhalation, before neighbors broke a window and carried her to safety. She's recovering at Mott Children's Hospital, Ann Arbor. (Photo by Frank Weir)

Quick Action Saves Invalid

CLINTON — Quick action by Dennis Walden, Gerald and Gary McCarty, probably saved the life of a young girl early Monday morning.

Smoke alarm and fire alarms alerted Mrs. Don Phillips and four children at 7:29 a.m., Monday, when fire broke out in their house at 5533 Clinton-Macon Rd., a mile and one-half east of Clinton.

Mr. Phillips had gone to work at the GM plant, Ypsilanti, at 6 a.m. His wife, Joann was able to get three of the children, Barbara, 12; Tommy, 8; and Timothy, 3, out of the house.

Walden and the McCarty's, smashed in a window and lifted Marion Speffy to safety outside before the firemen arrived.

Fire damage was in the rear of the 41 x 41 ft. frame ranch house, in the kitchen, bathroom, dining room, and a partially completed addition.

Any furnishings not destroyed by fire, were extensively smoke and water damaged, according to Harlon Ruhl, Clinton Fire Chief.

Drifted snow, icy roads and 10 degrees-below-zero temperature added to problems for Clinton firemen as they fought the blaze for three hours.

Clinton Fire Chief Harlon Ruhl reported 13 local firemen and all the local equipment was used. Water was hauled from the hydrant at the east village limits.

Tecumseh Fire Department assisted with seven men, one pumper truck at the scene, and also provided a standby truck at the Clinton fire station.

Members of the Cinderettes provided coffee and an unidentified bakery truck driver donated five dozen donuts to firemen.

An out-pouring of sympathetic help was begun almost before the ashes died out at the Don Phillips home, Monday. Neighbors gathered up a basket of clothing for them immediately.

Don and Joann Phillips are known by their friends and neighbors as a warm-hearted couple who have always opened their home to exceptional children needing care. Their three adopted children have all had special medical problems. As does Marion Steffy, the foster child in their care. She is an arthritic, using a wheel chair.

They recently cared for a foster child from birth to fourteen months.

Mrs. Phillips sustained frostbitten feet, and possible blood poisoned hands.

Donations to this family may be made by calling anyone of these three numbers: 456-4393, 423-2803, 423-4792.

Ample clothing for the entire family has been found, however canned goods and household items, etc. are still needed.

Clinton United Methodist Women are collecting nonperishable foods for the family. They may be taken to the home of Mrs. Richard Brown, 114 Washington St.

Money donations may be made for the Don Phillips family care of Grace Lutheran Church, 308 N. Maumee, Tecumseh, Michigan 49286; or the Phillips Family, care of the Grace Lutheran Charities Fund, United Savings Bank of Tecumseh, at Clinton State Savings Bank.

A one-story house is being sought in Clinton for them.

New Pumper on Ballot

CLINTON — Clinton Township Board decided to place proposition on ballot at presidential primary election in May, requesting authorization to collect one-half mill tax for four years to create a sinking fund for the purchase of a pumper tanker for the Clinton Fire Department. A "yes" or "no" vote will be required.

All members of the board were present and visitors, Paul Hawkins and a representative of the Clinton Jaycees, Hugh McGill.

McGill inquired about the possible use of the basement in the township hall for use by the Clinton Area Jaycees.

Since the hall is uniquely owned by three parties, Clinton Township, Clinton Village and the local Masonic Lodge, the legality of such use will have to be investigated, the board decided.

Jaycees would redecorate at their own expense. An outside entrance would be required.

Treasurer May Hull advised the board that the Time Deposit Certificates held for road work, have been cashed to pay the bill to the road commission.

Supervisor Harry Comstock met with the County Road Commission Jan. 13 and submitted plans for road work in the township for the year. No estimates have been returned to date.

Building inspector, Charles Wilson, submitted building permits totalling $2,900, which were approved.

Wilson, who is also electrical inspector for Clinton Village, will be taking a 10-week course at Vo-Tech, at a cost to be shared cooperatively with the village, amounting to a total of $30. Course concerns updating of electrical codes.

Band Follies Time

CLINTON — "Broadway Boogie" is the theme of this year's Clinton High Band Follies show, scheduled for Feb. 18, 19 and 21 in the high school.

Show will feature broadway hits like "Mame," "Hellow Dolly," "Another Opening, Another Show," and "Give My Regards to Broadway."

The high school stage band will perform several numbers under the direction of Mark Schnizlein.

An all girl chorus line, choreographed and directed by Darcy Ford, will perform three numbers.

They will dance to the roaring 20's hit "The Charleston," "Pinball Wizard" from the rock opera "Tommy," and a special military routine to "The Stars and Stripes."

Many other throughout the school will sing, dance, and play guitar. Student director John Ingersoll is in charge of their rehearsals.

Tickets available from band students and may be purchased at the door.

Radio Uses Told

CLINTON — At a meeting of United Methodist Women, Monday night, Mrs. Roger Waltz introduced Ned Newlin, who is camp director of Lutheran Church Camp on US-12, and also a ham radio operator, call letters W8VFM.

Newlin described the many facets of ham radio operation, stressing the many ways of helping in case of a disaster and sending emergency messages when needed. A fascinating hobby can also be useful, he explained.

The women will collect nonperishable foods for the burned out Don Phillips family. Food may be taken to the home of Mrs. Richard Brown at 114 Washington St.

During February there will be a Bible study on the Prophets, with the pastor, the Rev. James Rupert as leader. March study of the Prophets will be conducted by Mrs. Martin Scott with assistance by other members of the group.

Budd Dividends Are Declared

A dividend of $.20 per common share was declared by the board of directors of The Budd Co. at a meeting held today.

This is an increase from the previous common dividend of $.15 per share paid to shareholders Dec. 1, 1975.

The Board also declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the $5 preferred shares of the company.

Both the common and preferred dividends are payable March 1, 1976 to shareholders of record at the close of business Feb. 10, 1976.

Last week, Gilbert F. Richards, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said "We expect Budd's performance to be considerably better in 1976 as U.S. automobile and truck sales begin to recover."

In addition, the outlook for both our international group and our industrial products group, which includes the railway division should give a balanced strength for growth in 1976."

As a world wide supplier to the automotive, trucking and railway industries, Budd produces automotive body components of steel and plastic, chassis frames, wheel and brake products, castings, prototype stampings, automotive heating accessories and noise abatement devices.

The company also manufactures a wide range of highway trailers and container chassis, railway passenger cars and engineered plastics.

Clinton Plans Observances

CLINTON — Charlie Peart, owner of The Pizza Pit, has been named as Clinton's official Bicentennial chairman, Clayton Strolle, village president announced.

Strolle said Clinton is actively seeking to have the Bicentennial wagon train route changed just enough to swing through Clinton on May 24.

Route plans now call for the wagon train, east bound on US-12, to go south on M-52 and east on M-50 to Tecumseh bypassing Clinton.

Village residents, who have suggestions for Bicentennial activities are asked to call Charlie Peart, 456-6691.

Another bicentennial activity, already underway, is the Clinton Day dinner on May 1, at historic Clinton Inn at Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

This event is being arranged by the Historical Society of Clinton. Reservations for the dinner and program may be made with Mrs. Richard Sheer or Mrs. Martin Scott.

Clinton's Bicentennial Chorus was assured as the first practice session, Jan. 29, was "well attended and enthusiastic," according to the director, Peg Geiger.

Mrs. Geiger will be assisted by Carolyn Dicks.

The chorus will be augmented by other features, a quarter, and possible square dancing to complete the production planned for two presentations, one in the spring and one in the summer.

Rehearsals are scheduled each Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the United Church of Christ.

Mrs. Geiger urges all former members of the high school choirs to join in this bicentennial production. Just come to rehearsal.

Rep. John Mowat Visits Lenawee County Board of Commissioners Meeting

A visit by State Rep. John Mowat, R-40th dist., was the highlight of the Lenawee County Board of Commissioners meeting Wednesday, January 28 at the Lenawee County Courthouse.

Mowat reported to the board on a broad range of issues being considered by the state legislature affecting Lenawee County including a bill that would establish a community college district in Lenawee County and efforts to get approval for a second circuit judge in Lenawee County.

Before Mowat spoke commissioners defeated a resolution in opposition to a bill proposing a community college district for the county. A number of commissioners objected to language in the resolution stating the community college district would duplicate services already provided by the county's two private colleges.

Richard Lackie, Adrian county commissioner, said he believed the statement about duplication of services was not entirely true citing the cost of the private colleges compared to community colleges. He added the proposal for a community college district was designed to allow for contracting of services from existing colleges.

Mowat, a sponsor of the community college bill, said the proposed legislation was designed as an alternative to a plan that would have assigned the eastern half of this county students to Monroe County Community College while assigning others to a district with Jackson Community College.

The bill includes language that would set up a community college board, but would leave to voters the decision of whether to build a community college, or have the board contract with private colleges for services.

Mowat was less than optimistic about the county's chances of getting legislative approval for a second circuit judge.

Commissioners indicated plans for a new county court building hinged on the fate of the second circuit judge and a number of commissioners said in no uncertain terms the second judge was a high county priority.

Willard Lamb, Hudson area county commissioner, said about the heavy caseload of Circuit Judge Rex Martin, "We'll put his caseload next to anybody's in the state."

The commission approved a resolution to permit voluntary payroll deductions for county employees who want to join the Lenco Ed Credit Union. Lenco Ed currently draws it membership from school districts and colleges in the county.

A dog ordinance that was to come up for consideration at the meeting was delayed to allow more work on the language of the ordinance.

In other action the commission approved minor modifications of the county's unemployment compensation ordinance.

Macon Dialog

by Linda Phillips 423-5213

I dropped the bowl of instant oatmeal (into which I had just poured hot water per package instructions) to the floor.

"Run that by me one more time," I directed my son, who was struggling to attach a clip-on bow tie to his undershirt.

"I want to dress up today so I can win Janice back," he repeated, abandoning the bow tie, opting instead for a paisley scarf.

"If you're trying to achieve the casual look," I said, "you had better loosen the scarf. It's hard to look casual when your eyes are popping out of their sockets."

Masochist (and mother) that I am, I then asked for all the grisly details.

It seems Janice was fit to be tied (they had something in common, anyway) because my son and another girl walked to lunch together.

Janice didn't buy my son's story that the other girl had walked to lunch with HIM, not vice versa.

It was my turn to be questioned: "Mom, what's a two-timing casablanca?" was my son's query.

"The word is casanova," said I, adding "and it only applies to Italians 10 years old and up."

I could hardly wait for my son to get home from school that afternoon.

As he walked from the bus stop, his chin nearly touching the pointed toes of his cowboy boots, I sensed Janice hadn't been duly impressed with the paisley scarf.

"How did it go?" I asked, forgetting my resolution not to third-degree him.

"She didn't like my hair," my son answered, absentmindedly palming his cowlick.

"Well cheer up dear," I said as encouragingly as possible. "Maybe there'll be a more sensitive crop of girls in the second grade."

Barry Moll Is Project Coordinator

Barry E. Moll of Michigan State University is teacher coordinator for the Belize project.

The project is under the direction of Dr. John Phillips from Michigan State University, director of the Teacher Education center in Grand Rapids and a resident of Jenison, Michigan.

BARRY MOLL

The 19 students are from three of these universities: Michigan State University, Central Michigan University, and the University of Michigan.

This project is sponsored by the Michigan Consortium for Overseas Student Teaching which represent 29 teacher training institutions, both public and private throughout the State of Michigan.

Belize, formerly British Honduras, is a British Proctectorate located on the Caribbean Sea, east of Guatamala and south of the Yucatan Peninsula of Mexico.

Approximately 140,000 inhabitants live in an area about the size of Massachusetts. Nearly 125,000 of the total population are concentrated in Belize City.

The teaching experience in Belize will be eight weeks in length. The students are being housed in boarding residences, during their stay. Many trips are planned for them to research the area and also for fun and recreation.

The weather is known to be exceptionally warm and hot, but Barry has reported to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. LaVern E. Moll of 5800 Holloway Rd., that, since their arrival on Jan. 19, they are suffering an unusual cold spell. The people of the city are not prepared for it; Neither were the students.

He reports the food is good and they are enjoying the sea food, especially the lobster.

The teaching experience will come to a close and they will return to the United States on March 12.

Even though they were aware of the political problems in Belize, Mexico and Guatamala want to take over the country), it was an unusual feeling to see the air field and airport policed by British military.

Five school friends joined Scott for fun and games.

Todd and Andrea Bower assisted.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bower and Todd and Andrea entertained Scott at a birthday dinner on Sunday, Jan. 25.

Guests were Mrs. Claud Crutchfield of Adrian, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Crutchfield, Mr. and Mrs. George Bower, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Crutchfield, Carl Bower and William Cundiff, Jr.

Students Entertained

BRITTON — Twenty-six Brazilian students were entertained Jan. 27 by Mrs. Allen Bower and Mrs. Bill Gibbs, who were assisted by Tammie Gibbs, Shelly Mann and Rosangela Almeida.

Mrs. Bower, Tammie Gibbs and Jan Cline picked the students up at Adrian College. Upon returning to Britton the group toured Britton-Macon High School and then visited the James Squire's dairy farm on Ridge Rd.

They viewed the milking process and bottle fed some calves.

Back at the Gibbs home, they were joined by several Britton-Macon High School students and the 49 persons enjoyed a sloppy joe supper with baked beans, chips, cake, gelatin and beverages.

There are 90 Brazilian students on the Youth for Understanding Exchange program. They have been at Adrian College for three weeks studying English.

They are preparing to live in American homes for six months. Some of the students left Adrian on Jan. 29. The rest will leave Feb. 4 for their American families.

Despite the bad weather Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bower, Todd, Andrea and Scott and Tammie Gibbs went over to Adrian College and had dinner with three of the Brazilian girls at the Pizza Inn. They returned to the college and visited with all of the students.

To The Editor

Letter to the Editor:

More often than not adults will notice what young people do that is wrong and the good and nice things they do go unheralded.

The C and C Cafe in Britton was the scene of an incident which usually doesn't get in the paper because it wasn't damaging or destrucive or bad. On the contrary, it was just plain good.

One day this past week approximately 18 young basketball players from the Britton-Macon High School entered the cafe as a group. Large groups sometimes cause disturbances but Mrs. Raymond Staulter, who waited on them, was deeply impressed by their wonderful behavior.

They were courteous and quiet and very helpful to her. They even tipped, which showed their good manners.

The cafe people were proud of these young men and would like their parents, schooland community to know about it.

Dual Meets Concluded

Tecumseh's wrestling squad split a pair in the last week to complete dual meet action. The team beat Jefferson last Thursday but lost to New Boston Huron Tuesday night.

The Indians enter the league meet, to be held in Tecumseh this Saturday, with a 5-2 Huron league record. They are 6-6 on the season. Wrestling at the league meet begins at 11 a.m. with the finals slated for 7 p.m. Coach Connors beleives it will be one of the most exciting league matches ever.

Tecumseh is in a tie with Grosse Ile for second place in the league trailing Monroe CC and Huron, both tied for the top spot. If the Indians take first place in the league meet, they have a shot at a tie for the championship.

The unit lost to Huron Tuesday 27-20 in a close match. They trailed by just two points, 22-20 going into the final match. Heavyweight Eric Butzky lost a 17-3 decision.

Mike Creswell, 185 pounds, scored the only Indian pin at 1:42.

The squad had little problem polishing off Jefferson last Thursday winning by a lop-sided 46-6 tally.

The Indians lost only two weight classes and scored four pins. Mark Barrett scored a pin at 112 pounds in 4:23; Tim Eggleston at 167 pounds in 2:21; Mike Cresswell at 185 pounds in 1:20 and Eric Butzky at heavyweight in 1:11.

Indians Drop 1st League Battle, But Tromp Blissfield

Tecumseh's cagers suffered their first Huron League loss, dropping a 54-50 decision to Monroe Catholic Central last Friday.

The loss forces the Indians into a tie with CC for first place in the league.

They bounced back Tuesday night, though, to whip Blissfield 69-43 in a tough defensive game.

Coach Needs Help, Transplant Fails

A Benefit Card Party, open to the public will be held for Wayne Nix, kidney transplant recipient, on March 2 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Elizabeth Center.

The church Education Commission is sponsoring the benefit which features all cards. Tickets are available at St. Elizabeth School, Holmes Pharmacy and at the door.

Proceeds will be used by the Nix family for medical expenses.

Only within the last week has 33-year-old Nix been "gaining strength . . . and starting to get out a little," after the failure of his August kidney transplant operation at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, his wife, Sharon, told The Tecumseh Herald.

The kidney did not work. The operation was set back for the Tecumseh English teacher and coach.

The couple resides at 701 Ternes with daughters, Kathy, 5, and Jennie, 9, both in school.

Nix continues on dialysis three times a week which costs approximately $180 per week.

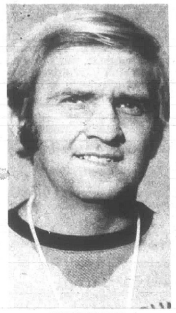
He spent 10 and a half weeks at University Hospital after the operation. Doctors hoped the kidney would begin working within the first four or six weeks.

"Doctors suspect it was damaged," said Mrs. Nix, "rejection was not the problem as one might expect." A "good" tissue match had been made with the donor and recipient.

"There is so much doctors don't know about this type of operation yet, including being able to tell if the transplant kidney is good."

The family has decided to "stick with the machine until it is no longer benefiting him." They do not expect to risk another operation.

The family is now "waiting it out" to find out whether or not the nonfunctioning transplant organ will be removed.



WAYNE NIX

Although Medicare assists and insurance pays a portion of the medical costs, a bill for the operation, treatment and medication is outstanding.

Nix, unable as yet to return to work as a teacher for Tecumseh Public Schools, is the family's main wage earner.

Sharon Nix, also a certified teacher, has not done as much substitute teaching this year since her husband has required more care. She does teach one night class a week.

"We have received so much support from the people of Tecumseh. This has been a nice experience in that way. We couldn't have gone through this alone. So many people, even people we don't know, have done a lot of supportive things for us, not necessarily monetary," said Mrs. Nix.

Tecumseh High School students have also given the family their support with babysitting and yard maintenance.

Shortly after the August transplant, the family was hopeful Nix would return to work.

Three years ago doctors diagnosed him as having failing kidneys. Both failed within a year. Nix began dialysis treatment 1½ years ago on a daily basis as an outpatient. In Dec. 1974 he started receiving treatment at home with his wife's assistance.

Four hours, three times a week, the machine works as a kidney to filter and remove toxic fluids from Nix's blood.

Before the operation, Mrs. Nix said Wayne felt quite good. The kidney machine was not a handicap; they traveled with the rented machine during a vacation earlier last year.

Nix has also been active in church affairs and remains chairman of St. Elizabeth Education Commission, though he is less active. Mrs. Nix volunteer teaches catechism class.

Most Mail Is on Time

Postmaster Jack Metcalf has expressed his appreciation from residents for clearing most of the snow and ice from walks and steps, helping carriers to make their city deliveries.

Monday of this week he reports that approximately 80 percent of rural deliveries were made. Some rural roads were impassable until late Monday afternoon following Sunday's strong winds that caused snow to drift.

Police Donate

Tecumseh Police Department donated $100 to the Don Phillips Family Fund. The Clinton family lost their home in a Feb. 2 fire.

Money came from the Policeman's Ball Fund.

Close Offices for Holidays

In observance of Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12 the following offices are closed: United Savings Bank of Tecumseh and branch offices and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Lenawee County.

Those that remain open on Feb. 12 are the post office and the Secretary of State's office in Tecumseh, from 9-5.

Closing Feb. 16 for Washington's birthday will be the United Savings Bank, First Federal Savings and Loan, post office, except for special deliveries and regular mail dispatch, and the Secretary of State's office.

Ernest Oliver of the Secretary of State's office reminds owners that license plates for pick-ups and trailers must be purchased by Feb. and for motorcycles and cars by March 31.

Owners must bring preprinted forms, or titles, and proof of insurance with payment.

HS Carnival on Feb. 14th

Tecumseh Senior High School students are sponsoring the annual Winter Carnival for the community from 2-9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 14 at the Tecumseh High School gym.

A pie eating contest will be one of the highlights.

The winter festival offers fun for the entire family with over 20 booths, all different, offering food concessions, such as bagels and a bake sale, and games and crafts such as dart games, cake walk, and batik cloths.

A free doorprize ticket is given with each admission ticket.

Student assembly is the sponsor with Becky Barron as chairperson.

Almost all the clubs and classes have at least one booth this year. Profits will be used to uild the clubs' treasuries.

Elementary school students will be taking home letters with more information.

New Parking Plan

Changes in the northeast city parking lot are expected to be made this spring, Cal Zorn, city manager, announces.

According to Ray Dubrinski, owner of Ken-Ray Drugs, he and Bill Feight of Baldwin Hardware have agreed to changes that should help eliminate much of the congestion in the lot.

The present island of meters will be removed and perpendicular parking will be instigated behind the pharmacy and the Maurice Tuckey property. Removal of the meters and new parking will allow a wide middle drive for traffic.

Zorn says the city will lose three parking meters in what is the city's smallest parking lot.

Truckers making deliveries to stores from the lot have complained — along with some residents — about the lot's congestion. Changes are expected to alleviate most of the problems.

Feight and Dubrinski own the property involved and lease the area for parking to the city.

Winter Taxes Due Tuesday

Winter taxes are due on or before next Tuesday, Feb. 17, Vera Gardner, city clerk, announces.

Taxes are not paid within the allotted time, a three percent penalty through Feb. 28 will be in effect.

Mrs. Gardners says after March 1, a four percent penalty will be charged plus three-fourths of a percent per month for deliquent taxes.

Weather Again Closes Schools

Blowing snow Sunday again forced the closing of schools Monday in the area as rural roads became impassable with some drifts reported as high as three and four feet.

Monday's closing marked the fifth day this year — all since schools re-opened after Christmas. With most of February and March ahead, chances are that weather will cause more cancellations.

Gene Cooley, assistant superintendent, says students will not have to make up for the lost time, according to state law.

However, North Central Accreditation Association says the schools must have 175 days of isntruction, regardless of causes for cancelling classes. Cooley says the local schools could receive a reprimand from the Association, but nothing else, if more days are missed.

Steal Equipment from Church, Loss Is Near $2,000

Office equipment, valued at nearly $2,000, was stolen at the new Assembly of God Church at W. Chicago Blvd. and Rogers Hwy., last Thursday.

The Rev. Raymond H. Warnick, pastor, discovered the breaking and entering and subsequent losses early Thursday evening. He told police that the theft had to occur between 11 a.m., when a cleaning lady left the premises, and his discovery at 7 p.m.

Items, and their value, taken include:

Two IBM electric typewriters, $300.

Olivetti electric typewriter, $375.

Two adding machines, $110.

Two Panasonic cassette recorders, $99.80.

Large reel tape recorder, $250.

Radio, $50.

Magnavox stereo headphone, $19.95.

Sheer mike, $30.30.

Four mikes, $100.

Slim dynamic impedence LOZ, $60.

Two sweepers, $476.

30-cup coffee urn, $39.80.

22-cup coffee urn, $16.95.

Entry to the church was gained by prying open a northwest door. Four other doors also were pried open.

Police theorize that a snowmobile was used in hauling the merchandise away as evidence indicated that one had been parked close by among some pine trees.

Snow and blowing snow prevented the police from following foot prints and tracks from the snowmobile.

Other thefts the past week included a calculator taken from a desk at the Clark Service Station and shop lifting at the Kroger store.

Doyce Bow, 25, of 213 N. Oneida, admitted taking four packs of cigarettes and a pack of matches at the store. He was confronted by two Kroger employees in the parking lot and later admitted the theft to local police.

3 Civic Groups Present Festival To Honor City

Three Tecumseh civic groups are joining forces to present a Bicentennial festival in honor of Tecumseh and its recently designated historic district.

"Promenade the Past: A Designers' Open House" will be held 1-5 p.m., every day, May 8-24, at the home of the late Allan Seager (1906-1968), Michigan novelist and critic, 309 W. Chicago Blvd.

Sponsoring groups are the Tecumseh Area Historical Society, the Little Garden Club and Rotary Club.

The home is now owned by Rita Blake, Tecumseh Junior High School art teacher, and a long time friend of the Seager family.

The century old home is in Tecumseh's historic district, recently designated on Michigan's State Register of Historic Sites and is the city's only example of French Second Empire styling with mansard roof and dormer windows.

Designers in the Southeastern Michigan will decorate the home to show historic homes are livable and not "museums."

A special dinner party preview for patrons, sponsors and the press will be held before the home is open for public viewing.

Walking tours of the historic district, which includes 19th century homes along W. Chicago Blvd. and N. Union to the cemetery and one block of S. Union, will be given during the open house.

A flower show by the Little Garden Club will be hosted May 16-17 from 1-5 p.m. Together with the open house, the flower show will highlight Michigan Week, May 16-22.

Donations will be accepted for the open house.

The open house will end the morning of May 25, when the National Bicentennial Wagon Train departs from its Tecumseh encampment.

The three sponsors hope the event will become a festival for the entire community. They suggest residents "dust off their Sesquicentennial garb and come out in support of Tecumseh."

Any group in Tecumseh which can suggest an event it may sponsor in conjunction with the open house may contact one of the three coordinators, Michele Worley, Historical Society; Julie Rhora, Little Garden Club, or Henry Newlin, Rotary Club.

School students are especially welcome during the open house and may present any projects of their own which may coordinate with the event.

Deadline is March 9, at which time the Bicentennial Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Clara Waldron Room at the Tecumseh Public Library.

Designers should keep in mind the design must be simple to reproduce clearly on bumper stickers, a city flag, stationery, etc. for which the committee will consider the design.

The seal must carry the idea of Tecumseh's participation in the nation's Bicentennial.

For more information, readers may contact Mr. Berkley at 423-2167, ext. 44.

Although junior and senior high school art students and one adult from the community submitted designs, the committee decided to reopen the judging for more widespread participation.

Other vandalism involved slashing of a tire on Dean McKenzie's car while it was parked at 206 Pine St. McKenzie, who lives at 6781 Gove Court, estimated the loss at $30.

Talking It Out

With Roger L. Proctor

Proctor Funeral Home, Inc.

Tears: Our Natural Safety Valve

At the loss of a loved one, the most natural release for one's emotions is an expression of grief: crying.

Tears are therapeutic in more ways than many of us may realize. They give us an emotional outlet and provide us with an immediate and natural physical action we can perform: one that occupies our being completely.

An emotional outlet

Getting it all out -- letting all of the building and pent-up feelings of grief explode in a burst of tears -- may be one of the most effective ways of coming to grips with the immediate situation following the death of a loved one. At the realization that the loved one is gone, tears may come easily for both adult and child. And this is good. Children may even be encouraged to let out their feelings of grief by crying. Most do not need the extra encouragement since it is so natural to weep in sorrow. Yet society has somehow built up barriers and taboos against expressing grief through crying.

Men can cry too!

There are no laws that restrict men from using this means of expressing their grief. It is not unmasculine to cry at the death of a loved one or a dear friend. Giving expression to the grief and sorrow in no way diminishes or compromises an individual's manliness.

It is a misconception that "big boys" shouldn't cry ... a carry-over from childhood chidings of "Don't cry. It doesn't hurt that much." Recent generations have been raised in the old school of "the stiff upper lip" and "grin and bear it." But if there is a hurt, then the pain should be recognized and duly noted -- in this case, through tears. After all, that's what tears are all about!

Your questions and comments on these subjects and others to follow are most welcome -- in private or publicly through this column.

Whats Up At THS

By Vicki McDonald

The students and teachers of THS have been getting quite a few days off because of all the snow Tecumseh has been having. But even so things have been going along as normal.

All clubs and orginazations at THS are working now to get a booth ready for the Winter Carnival on Saturday, Feb. 14.

The Carnival lasts from 2 to 9 p.m. and there will be lots of food and games to play.

The THS student assembly has come up with a new idea for Valentines Day. It's called Floralgrams and the idea is to send flowers (roses or carnations) to your Valentine. The flowers are then delivered in his or her 4th or 5th hour class on Friday.

Saturday, Feb. 21, a dance will be held in the THS gym from 9-12. The band providing the music is the "Detroit Purple Gang." The dance is sponsored by the Class of 1977.

Letter to the Editor:

They were delicious!

Tecumseh High School Faculty

To the Editor:

Inasmuch as many people are city and county tax conscious at this particular time the following might be of interest to all.

I consoled myself with just a few services for my money such as fire protection, police protection, street lights, care of streets, curbs, gutters, sewers, storm damage replacements and repairs, other city costs, my share of parks and recreation, our schools, public library etc. Renters pay their share through rent.

We could go on and on but space is precious and time is limited because I must write a check for my share of taxes or pay a fine.

Thank you.

Final Offer Is Made by Board

CLINTON — At a meeting of the Board of Education, Monday, spokesman for the board team in contract negotiations with the Clinton Education Association, reported on the Feb. 4 negotiation session.

The board's final offer, was to accept the recommendations of the Fact-Finder, John B. Kiefer, appointed by the Michigan Employment Relations Commission, and to submit it to the CEA for approval for the 1975-76 school year contract.

Fact-finders offer deals with all remaining issues, between the board and the CEA, which had not been previously agreed to, during the negotiating process since the spring of 1975.

CEA negotiators, Henry Shade and Ray Karbon indicated the offer was unsatisfactory since it did not include an additional item for long term disability insurance plan. They rejected the board's offer.

Because of the long-term commitment of this type of plan, the board felt it could not commit the school system to this financial obligation.

According to Wegner, the cost of the fact-finders contract offer would entail the Clinton Community Schools to expenditures of from $50,000 to $65,000 more than expected revenues this year.

Clinton's seven-stage pay scale places the school district third in the County, behind Tecumseh, Adrian, and ahead of Blissfield, Wegner said.

In other action the board was advised that the American Arbitration Association hearing of the case between the CEA and the Board of Education about the grievance concerning allocation of conference time has been set for Wednesday, Feb. 18 at 10 a.m. Prof. James T. Dunne will be the acting arbitrator. Thomas Nordberg, of Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg will represent the Clinton Board of Education.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Porterfield were present to further discuss the matter of an eye injury of their son, Dale. Board is concerned about his medical fitness to participate in athletics.

Board granted contract to Greg Carpenter to teach special education at the high school for the remainder of the school year.

Board also approved the hiring of Kim Hartung, a 1975 graduate of Clinton schools to replace Mrs. Carolyn Slusher, who has resigned.

Board noted that State Aid payment for February was cut in half by governor's reduction. So far, only curtailment of some field trips have resulted from this cutback in funds.

Driver education cars will be leased this year. Since the limited assistance dealers formerly received from their companies has been cancelled, other lease agreements are being worked out. Wegner will advertise for bids from many other car dealers and get a written policy.

James Weiskopf, MIOSHA representative met with Supt. Wegner Feb. 9, and will assist in developing a system-wide safety training program.

Wegner and board chairman, Robert Werner, attended the MASB-MASA Drive-In Conference Feb. 7 in Lansing.

Board Accepts Huron Contract

CLINTON — After several months of consideration, Clinton Township Library Board decided at the meeting Tuesday night to accept a contract with the Huron Valley Library System for library services.

Huron Valley is located between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti in Washtenaw County.

A full complement of services will be available at a contract cost of $254. Clinton's board was assured this amount would be returnable in extra services.

Clinton Library Board did not renew its contract with Lenawee County Library System, when an agreement of cost could not be reached.

The Lenawee system is removing its personal property from the Clinton Library this week.

Supervisors from neighboring townships will be contacted concerning an informational meeting being arranged when Clinton Library board will explain the need for contract arrangements with the townships for providing the Clinton Library services to the townships' residents.

Mrs. Marlene Thayer, law specialist for the State Library Services has indicated she will attend to answer any questions.

Question:

What happens when all the electrical appliances form a threatening conspiracy, ultimately waging an all-out strike?

(a) Bedlam; (b) Divorce; (c) Suicide; (d) All of the above. In this household, (d) is the correct answer.

The color TV has one color—a rather putrid shade of green. The kids don't mind the color change in Sesame Street's Big Bird's plumage, but Walter Cronkite loses some of his credibility speaking through chartreuse teeth and moustache.

The vacuum cleaner has done a complete about-face. Saying that it has lost its suction power would be a gross understatement; more aptly, it now exhales.

The refrigerator is going through the "change" (frigid one moment and hot flashes the next).

And the closest the electric can opener will come to functioning is staring the cans open (time consuming and spooky).

The washing machine is thoroughly agitating by refusing to agitate thoroughly, and the dryer bakes a great cake.

We don't dare use the electric toothbrush because we don't own a neck brace, our insurance doesn't cover whiplash in the bathroom, and chiropractice is against our religion.

The only appliance that hasn't joined this mechanical tyranny is the electric martini shaker.

Maybe if we use it enough, we won't miss the other ones.....

"I know not why we should blush to confess that molasses was an essential ingredient in American independence."

—John Adams

Through My Window

by Marda Gene Duncan

SPRING IS COMING

Fortunately it was a morning when there was not a tight schedule staring at us. As it turned out, I can think of only one or two things which would have been urgent or important enough to keep us from the window-watching. As soon as Mom opened the drapes the action began.

Georgie-Boy has a girl friend — or perhaps it is Georgie-Girl who has a boy friend. Be that as it may, the first sight which greeted our eyes that nice morning was a synchronized flight.

The two egrets were going through the beautiful courtship ballet that we watched last year. However, this pair is obviously much younger and they need more practice. Our hope, of course, is that they practice here.

Even though not a polished performance, the flight was lovely and exciting. These are large birds with a wing span of some 55 inches. The wings are broad too.

It must have been at least 45 minutes that we watched as they went back and forth and up and down the lake. Sometimes they were close together but their movements were not quite co-ordinated enough to prevent one of them missing a turn now and then. There were also frequent stops on either the island or the lake bank to rest.

Mom and I just barely managed to sip our first cup of coffee between the frequent oohings and aahings. It truly was a magnificent sight.

But the great white egrets were not the only birds we watched. A little blue heron tried to get into the act. No, that is not quite right — more correctly he was trying to stay out of the act.

He is a shy, 22-inch bird who just lately has been stalking his breakfast at the edge of the island. He does not rush into anything though and, after landing on the island, he makes sure that everything is as it should be before cautiously striding towards the water.

On this particular morning the poor bird would no sooner land and get ready to sneak into the weeds when one or both of the egrets would come in for a landing.

Poor little blue, he would not dream of challenging an egret. The fact that the white birds were so involved with each other they paid little heed to anything else did not matter a bit. Blue flew.

We are not sure whether he ever caught breakfast or not. He made numerous attempts but the egrets kept unintentionally interrupting. Soon another twosome came into view and thus our attention was divided three ways. The newcomers were two green herons. We had seen them before but always their appearance is cause for much chuckling.

They are comical birds — I guess it is their disposition as much as anything that tickles us. Their head feathers are on the ragged side which only adds to the impression that they are in a fit of temper. When taking off they are apt to croak out a squawk. Only someone complaining could sound so.

Gracious, action was fourfold when two anhingas splashed into the lake. These long necked snake-birds had been showing signs of pairing up for several days.

Years ago I read a very detailed and technical report on the various stages of most birds' courtship behaviour. It was dry, boring and not terribly interesting but some of it apparently made an impression.

The first tentative advances are threatening and aggressive, only after going through this stage do the birds become friendly.

The anhingas must have read the same report. For several days the one who had possession of the lake kept driving the other way. And he was not nice about it either.

Finally though, on the morning that the egrets flew together, the snake-birds decided to be friendly, too.

Later in the day we almost had a love triangle on our hands. What a scandal!

Actually it did not develop into anything except a fun-to-watch episode. A female and two males chased back and forth across the lake several times and finally she must have given one of the boys the word for they landed on the island while the second male plopped into the water.

The two on land proceeded to rub bills and necks. Necking in broad daylight as it were. The rejected suitor sunk down under the water until only his long snakey neck showed. It took no imaghation on our part to say that he was glowering at the love birds.

I know the calendar is still showing February and the reports from up north are more wintery than we can believe but, without even commenting on the weather we are enjoying, I make this report on the birds and assure you that yes, spring is coming.

Bi-centennial Journey

Grandmother's Kitchen By Thelma Younglove

BRITTON In Grandmother's day the farm kitchen served many purposes. It was somewhat of a family room, warm, comfortable, and inviting.

Most of the farm kitchens were large with a dining area, plus cupboards, a kitchen cabinet, and a sink.

A large wood and coal range was a standard piece of equipment. The range was not only used for cooking and baking, but also kept the kitchen warm.

The older ranges were black and were polished with stove blacking to keep them looking as nice as possible. More modern ranges were enameled in white, green, or gold.

Most ranges had six cooking spaces, a warming oven where serving dishes could be kept warm, and a large oven where several loaves of bread could be baked at once. A large reservoir (tank for heating water) was at the opposite end of the fire box.

Early farm homes did not have hot water systems. Instead, water was heated in the reservoir to supply the family's needs. Most reservoirs were filled with water pumped from a cistern into a pail and then poured into the reservoir. When someone needed warm water it was dipped out. (In early days a dipper made from a large gourd was used.)

A large copper bottomed teakettle was kept on the front of the stove to supply hot water for tea and cooking purposes.

A large wood box was located in the kitchen near the range. Wood boxes varied in size, shape, and construction.

The bottom of the wood box was usually lined with newspapers to keep the saw dust and dirt from sifting through the cracks onto the floor.

Early kitchens had bare wood floor except for a few bright colored homemade rag throw rugs. Taking care of the bare floor was no easy task, but it was scrubbed thoroughly with soap suds and kept clean.

When linoleum became obtainable, floors were covered with linoleum and were much easier to maintain.

When friends and neighbors came to call they were usually seated in the kitchen where it was warm and comfortable. Here they enjoyed a cup of hot coffee from the old-fashioned coffee pot that was usually kept hot all day, especially during cold weather.

In the evenings the family gather in the kitchen. Here the dog stretched out on a rug and the cat curled up near the stove. Children were seated around the table doing homework or playing games. Father read the paper or snoozing in his chair while Mother was busy mending.

Those old fashioned kitchens of Grandmother's day lacked the conveniences of our modern applicances, but hospitality certainly wasn't lacking and many people cherish memories of pleasant hours spent in Grandmother's old-fashioned kitchen.

Chiropractic gives Racer Second Chance!

Rick Blanchard was born and raised in Detroit, Mich., and now lives in Dearborn Heights. He has been in Auto Racing for ten years. In June of 1973, he was involved in a serious auto accident while racing at Toledo Speedway. He suffered severe back, neck and head injuries, accompanied by the loss of use of his right arm.

While in the hospital, he received physical therapy which gave him some relief. The accident, however, halted his career for eleven months.

During this time he met Dr. Ernie Panza, who is now his friend, sponsor and Chiropractor. He regularly receives adjustments, as do his wife, two daughters, and his pit crew, Ralph, Bob and Wendall.

Thanks to Chiropractic, he is able, once again, to do the thing he enjoys most in life ... auto race.

Dixon said his interest in helping to govern Clinton is to continue quality growth, and maintain it as a good town in which to raise future citizens.

Stanley Gibbard

Stanley Gibbard has resided in Clinton since 1961. He retired from the Michigan State Police Clinton post in May, 1974, after serving 25 years.

He is presently a salesman with Rena Fitzpatrick Realty.

Gibbard and his wife, Jacqueline, a local teacher, live at 135 E. Michigan Ave. There are two children at home and two sons and a daughter live away.

A graduate of high school in Central Lake, he served in the Army. He is a vice-president of Clinton Rotary Club; and is a member of the United Methodist Church.

He was appointed to council to fill a vacancy last fall.

Gibbard said he is earnestly interested in representing the people of Clinton in keeping the village's fine reputation as a good place to live and raise a family. "This reputation should be credited to the good village management of the past which I will endeavor to continue," said Gibbard.

George Schroeder

George Schroeder has lived in Clinton since 1965, and has been employed as an electrical engineer at Tecumseh Products since 1961. He is a graduate of University of Michigan.

Schroeder and his wife, Arlene, a teacher, live at 116 Currier St. Their son and daughter live away.

He is active in the United Methodist Church.

He said he has time to serve his community since his family is grown. Concerning the sewer plant proposal, he stated "if the state has stepped in and required the improvement of our system, we have to do it. We might as well do it well enough so our children won't have to do it again." He also mentioned the need for a local park.

Richard Peterson

Richard Peterson, his wife, Margaret, and a son and daughter live at 111 Gibson St.

A self-employed barber, Peterson has served on the Village Council for six years.

He is a past president of Clinton Jaycees, past president of Clinton Little League, and served on the Clinton Fire Department over six years.

Peterson said, "I feel the Council faces many challenges in the coming years and with my experience and knowledge of these problems, I can make a positive contribution to the community."

Edwin Piatt

Edwin Piatt moved to 326 E. Franklin St., three years ago, with his wife, Joyce, and three children.

He feels he is an integral part of the community. He is president of the Parent-Teachers Organization, and serves on the Stewardship Committee of the United Church of Christ.

He has been employed in retailing for 20 years and is presently with Sears Roebuck in Ann Arbor.

Piatt believes in open meetings, with all council and council sub-committee meetings open to the public, without executive sessions.

He wants recreation facilities for young and old and thinks the present facilities could be better utilized and co-ordinated.

Piatt said he seeks a position on the council because he believes growth in Clinton is inevitable, but can be planned and controlled.

He is concerned that the proposed sewer plant will cost the village only $300,000 as its share of construction, but will cost $100,000 a year to maintain, and sewer rates may go up an estimated 4½ to 6 times present rates. He would seek an alternative to this proposal.

Glenola McNeil

Glenola McNeil and her husband, Lawrence reside at 125 Riverview Dr. They have one son in Middle School and another son, married, living away.

A graduate of Hillsdale High School, Mrs. McNeil served as a Deputy County Clerk prior to moving to Clinton. She is presently employed at the Clintonian Inn.

She is a member of the American Legion Auxiliary No. 53, Hillsdale and the TOPS No. 1053, Adrian. She is a member of the Methodist Church and the Clinton Middle School PTS.

As one of the two women presently seeking a position on the Clinton Council, Mrs. McNeil feels she could serve Clinton from a "different viewpoint than a man."

She feels parks and recreational facilities are not adequate, and that they should be not only for our children, but also for the senior citizens.

She stated, "No matter how the people feel today about a new sewage treatment plant for Clinton, it is something that has to be done and repairing the old one is not going to solve this problem. Clinton is growing and will continue to grow. It is a beautiful community to live in, and I would like to see it grow in the right way."

Irene Karapas

Irene Karapas and her husband, Nick, have lived in Clinton for 15 years. They have two children attending school here.

She is a graduate of Clinton High School and is employed at Copier Sales and Service in Adrian.

She is presently serving on the Smith-Kimball Community Center Board and on the board of the Clinton United Fund.

Mrs. Karapas says she seeks a position on the Clinton Village Council because of her interest in what is happening in the community and she would like to take a more active part in it.

She feels more people should become involved and aware of the many advantages of Clinton.

She stated, "The welfare and future of all the residents of Clinton must be considered before making any major financial decisions, in a time when our economy is of great concern to all of us."

Although the two persons seeking two positions on the Smith-Kimball Community Center Board are unopposed, they have not previously served in a village office. A brief resume about them follows:

Charles H. Cook

Charles Cook and his wife, Leah, moved to 304 Marion St., four years ago and in 1973 he retired as a supervisor at Ford Motor Co., in charge of production control services.

He was born and educated in Ann Arbor and at one time worked for the Washtenaw County Sheriff Dept., records division.

He has been in charge of senior citizens bowling groups, and a board chairman for the Shamrock Senior Citizens group meeting at the Smith-Kimball Center.

He is active in the United Church of Christ and Men's Fellowship, a member of Ford Old Timers Club, and Lenawee Council on Aging.

Cook said he will try to comply with the desires of the people and make no promise to any individual or group that he will not be able to follow through. He promised to serve to the best of his ability, common sense and best judgement for the benefit of all the people of Clinton.

Peggy J. Rockwell

Peggy J. Rockwell was born in Clinton, and has lived all but 10 years of her life here. She is a graduate of Clinton High School and became a registered X-ray technician at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor in 1961.

At present she is a student at Adrian College working for a degree in Interior Design.

She is a member of the United Church of Christ, the senior choir, Rotary service group and Serendipity Sisters.

She has served in the Cub and Boy Scout programs and on the Lenape District Roundtable staff and as a coach-counselor.

Mrs. Rockwell and her husband, Joe reside at 215 Sunset with their two sons, 11 and 10 years old.

She said she believes the Community Center should be used to the fullest. The building is maintained with funds from each village property owner. "Therefore, we all should use the building) not for just an occastional meeting but for a place of learning, recreation and fellowship.

If elected, she said she will try her best to implement programs to serve the entire community.

Clinton Chamber Seeks to Host Wagon Train

CLINTON — Joe O'Donnell and Kathy Thomas, delegated by the Clinton Chamber of Commerce to attend the Bicentennial Wagon Train meeting at the Golden Nugget in the Irish Hills, Thursday night, report a possibility that the train may be re-routed through Clinton May 24.

Taking along a large map of the proposed route through Clinton, on US-12 and Tecumseh-Clinton Road, they sought to interest the planners in abandoning the initial plan which would by-pass Clinton by turning south at the M-52 and US-12 intersection.

The Bicentennial wagon train will be composed of at least 22 wagons and 200 horses, en route to Valley Forge, Pa. for the July 4 celebration.

Arrangements have now been made to utilize the MIS and Juniper Hill campsite areas in the Irish Hills, instead of Frontier City, for two nights, May 22 and 23.

Harry Dodd, co-ordinator for the Michigan Horse Council is arranging the Irish Hills encampment.

Bicentennial Presentation Public Invited

CLINTON — Clinton Chamber of Commerce invites representatives of all local organizations and the public to a dinner meeting Monday, Feb. 16, to hear a Bicentennial plan presentation at Clintonian Inn.

Harry Dodd, co-ordinator for the Bicentennial Wagon Train visit to Lenawee County, will be present to answer questions pertaining to the hospitality needs of the wagon train members.

Others who are presently engaged in planning Bicentennial events in Clinton will be asked to explain their plans for local celebrations, the Clinton Historical Society's Clinton Day at Clinton Inn committee; and Peg Geiger, Bicentennial Chorus.

Those attending the dinner meeting are asked to make reservations.

Cocktails are at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. at Clintonian Inn.

CLIFFORD CURRAN

Off to Haiti

Clifford Curran, of 9531 Newburg Hwy., a recent retiree from Tecumseh Products Co. will be among 28 laymen and women of Michigan Baptist Churches going to Haiti from Feb. 14-29.

Their purpose will be to take along building tools and seeds to the Baptist Missionary station at Bas Limbe, near Cap Haitien, an abject poverty area.

They plan to build a craft shop where seminary students can learn to make saleable items to support themselves.

Curran, a deacon of the First Baptist Church, was commissioned for the work he'll be doing, by the Rev. Kenneth Boyd. The local congregation is supporting the effort by their contributions of seeds and money.

Curran, 65, says he is looking forward to the unusual experience. Carpentry has been a long-time sideline for him, and he is glad to be able to use his ability to help others improve their conditions.

His wife, Glennis, will stay here since she drives a Tecumseh School special education bus.

Jewels & gems

By Dick Eggleston

Diamonds are a girl's best friend -- whatever the occasion you are celebrating. And perhaps there is no gem that is more versatile or more welcome than a diamond. There are a number of ways the diamond can be worn. First, of course, is the engagement and wedding ring set of designs -- and how beautiful they are as a symbol of something lasting and beautiful. But how about small diamonds and chains, diamonds and pins, tiny diamonds for earrings? You will find that the smallest diamond has a welcome reception, and with the variety of designs available, it is possible to find something to please everyone.

Expert advice in the selection of jewelry and gift items is given by our friendly staff at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. See our fine selections for Valentine's Day gifts. We handle costume jewelry, many fine items as well as inexpensive bracelets, necklaces and rings and also have Rolf leather goods for ladies and men, sterling silver, silverplate and pewter gift items and Keepsake diamond rings, dinner rings, engagement rings and birthstone rings.

GEM FACT: Silver chop plates, vegetable dishes, gravy boats, water pitchers and bread trays are among useful items for the woman in your life.

MEMORIAMS

In loving memory of our father and grandfather Bert Creger who passed away 11 years ago Feb. 14, 1965.
We cannot bring the old days back when we were all together.
But secret tears and loving thoughts, will live with us forever.
Sadly missed by his family 2-12c

In loving memory of our dear son Ricky Frank Horton who would have been 27 years old today, Feb. 13, 1976 and my sweet Mother Mary P. Jones whose 70th birthday would have been Feb. 17, 1976.
We'd like to be with you both today, if only for awhile.
We'd like to grace your company and see your cheery smiles
But since that seems impossible,
We'll do the next best thing.
And visit you in heart and thought.
By just remembering.
Forever loved and Still Greatly Missed by his Dad and Mother and her loving daughter Lee Horton and Family. 2-12c

Cagers Split Pair, Still No. 2

A disastrous fourth quarter spelled defeat for Tecumseh's cagers in their battle with Airport last Friday. The Indians lost it 63-49.

Returning to home turf Tuesday, Tecumseh had to catch up to Grosse Ile in the third frame but pulled out a 61-53 victory.

Indians record now stands at 9-2 in the league and they remain in second place behind Monroe Catholic Central.

Tecumseh trailed Airport by just one point 41-40 at the end of the third stanza. But they came up with a meager nine points in the final frame to 22 for the Jets.

The Indians found themselves behind again in their battle with Grosse Ile Tuesday night. At the half, the Red Devils were on top 27-22 after a ragged first half for both teams.

With five minutes left in the third stanza, Tecumseh pulled within a point. By the end of the frame, the tables had turned and the Indians led 43-35 after scoring 21 points to Grosse Ile's eight. They played the Devils even in the final stanza with each team grabbing 18points to cement the victory.

Tecumseh shot a respectable 49 percent dumping 24 of 49 from the field. In that important third quarter, the Indians hit on 10 of 14 attempts from the field. Grosse Ile came up with 20 of 50 for 40 percent.

Tecumseh also led in free throws with 13 of 20 for 65 percent while Grosse Ile made 13 of 23 for 56.5.

Jeff Hans was top rebounder for Tecumseh with 12 of the team's 36 rebounds. Ken Biscupski had 11. Grosse Ile came up with 31. The Devils had problems hanging on to the ball suffering 31 turnovers to 21 for Tecumseh.

Coach Ron Spagnoli said of the Grosse Ile contest, "Both teams played a sluggish first half. We played well and hustled more in the second half turning it around in the third quarter. We went to our press in the third quarter which helped us all around."

Tecumseh's junior varsity continued a fine season with victories over Airport 62-41 and Grosse Ile 75-41. They are 15-1 overall.

Wrestle At THS

Tecumseh High School was the scene of the Huron League wrestling tourney last Saturday. It was the first time in eight years that the Indians hosted the annual finale to league wrestling action.

The Indians came out very tough winning the meet decisively with 130 points. New Boston Huron came in with 108½, Monroe CC was third with 96½ points, Flat Rock was fourth with 84, Grosse Ile was fifth with 76, Jefferson was sixth with 43, Airport was seventh with 23 and Carlson finished last with 15.

As a result of the league meet and Tecumseh's 5-2 dual meet record, the Indians finished in a tie with Monroe Catholic Central for second place in the league. New Boston Huron was combined league champion.

Tecumseh had ten wrestlers place in the meet including four league champions. Finishing in the top spot were, Dan Yoder at 126 pounds, Tim Eggleston at 155, Kevin Eggleston at 167 and Mike Creswell at 185.

Joe Castorena and Dan Tilton finished second overall at 119 and 145 respectively. Brad Williams 132 pounds, and heavyweight Eric Butzky finished third, Ben Williams at 105, and Mark Barrett at 112 finished fourth overall.

Head coach Pat Connors was understandably elated with his team's effort, "Everyone at the tournament was impressed with the way our kids hustled and worked. I've never had a team, as a group, give a better effort. We battled for every possible point we could get. It was also a super well run tournament, a good effort by all involved."

Squirts Lose, PeeWees Win

The Tecumseh Recreation Department's two hockey teams skated this past weekend with the Squirts losing in a close game 3-2 to the Town and Country Blackhawks.

Goals for the Squirts were made by John LeBeau and Chris O'Connell both unassisted. Squirts record is 5-4-4.

The Tomahawk Peewees maintained a hold on first place defeating Mid-State North Stars 4-2 in a very exciting and well played game. This win places the Tomahawks in first place one point ahead of Mid-State.

Goals for the Peewees were made by Tim Eardley two goals, two assists; Craig Lasobik one goal, Tom Hamilton one goal. Assists went to Mark Van Buren one and Wendell West three.

Vollyballers Remain Undefeated

Tecumseh's volleyball squad continues to roll over their opponents scoring another big win over Carlson last Wednesday.

Varsity won easily with games of 15-4, 15-8. Amy Montague was tops in serving with 11 points to her credit followed by Tammy Downing and Jane Faulkner each with five. Connie Younglove had three, and Sue Gould and Sue Brown each had two.

The junior varsity lost their first game 15-11 but came back to win 15-4 and 15-5. Sandy Dunn had 10 serving points and Marsha Camfield had nine.

Coach Sue Allen said of the victory, "Amy Montague hadn't started a game except in the beginning of the season and she played a good game serving well. Sue Gould and Sue Brown are spiking well."

The squad's record stands at 8-0 overall and 5-0 in the league. They play undefeated Jefferson this Wednesday night traveling to New Boston Huron on Wednesday of next week.

Gymnasts Win

Tecumseh's gymnastics team defeated two more opponents raising their record to 3-1 on the season. This is the first year that the Indians have participated in interscholastic gymnastics.

And against East Jackson, Gwen Vavrinek scored a 6.5 in tumbling. That marked the fourth time she scored at least a 6.1 in this event and she now will participate in regional competition in tumbling next month. Gymnastics officials designated the 6.1 score before the season began.

Tecumseh first took on Reading last week winning 93.8-70.8. On Monday of this week the squad hosted East Jackson scoring an 86.3-56.3 victory.

The Indians lost only one event to Reading, the uneven bars. Reading won that event 15.4-13.3.

Cindy Egli won trampoline and tumbling, Mary Kane took floor exercises, vaulting and uneven bars, and Gwen Vavrinek earned a first place finish in beam competition.

Against East Jackson, the Indians won all six events. Jackson came close only on balance beam scoring 8.2 points to Tecumseh's 9.2.

Kane was tops in vaulting and uneven bars, Egli took first place in trampoline and floor exercises, and Vavrinek was first in tumbling. A Jackson girl, Judy Majchrowski took first place in balance beam.

Deerfield Prevails

Britton-Macon's cagers made up a 46-39 halftime deficit taking a one point lead at the end of the third quarter in their battle with Deerfield Friday night.

But the Tories couldn't keep it together in the fourth frame scoring eight points to Deerfield's 12. Final tally was 73-70 in favor of the Minutemen.

The loss dropped the Tories league record to 1-9 in the Tri-County league.

Top scorer in the game was Britton-Macon's Jim Cradit with 23 points followed by Craig Wagenschutz with 12 and Lon Wagenschuts with 10.

The Tories made 33 of 96 shots for 34 percent while the Minutemen dumped 29 of 68 for 42 percent. Britton-Macon could come up with only four of seven free throws while Deerfield hit 15 of 26.

Britton-Macon's junior varsity lost 45-28.

The squad travels to Sand Creek this Friday.

Hospital Auxiliary Marks 35th Anniversary

February 1976 marks the 35th anniversary of the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, an occasion featured in this issue of The Herald.

A 16-page supplement of pictures and background information of the Auxiliary and hospital reveal the growth of the Auxiliary and its contribution to the hospital. Information also shows the progress of the hospital from its beginning in 1938 to its present position - a modern and well staffed medical facility.

Although special recognition is given to the Auxiliary, physicians, nurses and nurses aids are equally recognized for their contributions during the past 35 years. Likewise, various hospital or medical departments in the hospital are reported.

A four-color ad to add emphasis to the 35th anniversary was made possible by the Tecumseh Products, Faraday, Meyers Industries, Peerless Gear, Jiffy Manufacturing, Comfort Brick and Tile, Tecumseh Corrugated Box and Tecumseh Area Employees Credit Union.

While many are aware of the thankless tasks performed at the hospital by the Auxiliary, there are undoubtedly just as many that have no knowledge of its work and achievements.

If it were not for the Auxiliary, many services now performed would be lacking, and much equipment now benefitting patients simply would not be there.

The Auxiliary and its members should receive the highest praise of this community and area for an exceptional record since 1941.

Factor Could Hike Assessments by 13%

How high can taxes go? Answer after reviewing tentative factors released this week by the county equalization committee is obvious — higher!

Tentative factors assessed to Tecumseh and area properties will hike taxes locally from nearly six percent to over 14 percent. This range is greatly increased in the county, however, from .0365 percent at Morenci to .2551 percent for Hudson Township.

County assessors will affect these factors when they report their assessments in the spring. However, assessor's figures and final factors will probably be equal to the factor reported here.

Local factors are:

Tecumseh — .1322 pct.
Tecumseh Twp. — .0899 pct.
Ridgeway Twp. — .0580 pct.
Raisin Twp. — 1017 pct.
Macon Twp. — .1107 pct.
Franklin Twp. — .1448 pct.
Clinton Twp. — .1233 pct.

Unless millage is reduced, all tax payers will face these increases next year.

Factors are supposed to bring the actual property up to 50 percent of the property's true value. Each year the county assesses factors to keep up with inflation — and the financial needs of the county, schools, townships and cities.

It is often not necessary to raise millage as factors increase assessments — and tax payments — to meet "necessary" needs.

Example of what has happened can best be shown by factors applied in recent years. If one purchased a home in 1971 for $20,000, it should have been assessed at $10,000 — that is, until a 10.3 percent factor was assessed.

In the following years, factors applied were 10 percent in 1972; 4.63 percent in 1973; 12 percent, 1974, and 11.31 percent last year.

Applying these factors and the current factor to that $20,000 home, that home would be assessed at approximately $36,000 this year. In comparison and using the same factors, a $30,000 home in 1971 would be worth $54,000 today, a $40,000 home about $72,000 — all according to the factors charged here by the county's equalization committee.

In most cases, here in the city and townships, assessors have very little to say regarding assessments. If the county doesn't apply them, the state will.

The City of Hudson recently had property there checked relative to assessments and value. Apparently it did little good. Hudson's factor is nearly 18 percent!

A resume assessments and factors for the county is:

Residents Invited

Tecumseh residents are invited to hitch-up their wagons and come down to city hall Feb. 26 at 7:30 p.m. for a special town meeting to discuss arrangements for the National Bicentennial Wagon Train's visit on May 24.

Bob Glenn and Harold Easton, local coordinators, will show slides of the actual train and discuss how Tecumseh residents can contribute to the entertainment for the train or how to join it.

The Bicentennial Wagon Train consists of 50 wagons each representing one of the 50 states. They are traveling along historic wagon trails, from west to east. Train is scheduled to arrive in Valley Forge, Pa. on July 4.

A meal and entertainment must be furnished for the some 200 wagoneers driving the 20 wagons expected in Tecumseh on May 24.

While in Tecumseh the train is scheduled to encamp at the practice athletic field, near the Joyce Andrews Memorial Pool for the convenience of shower facilities.

They will also present 40 minutes of entertainment on their own stage that evening before they depart for Britton.

Any interested group or individual in Tecumseh is welcome to the Feb. 26 meeting.

Ex-Governor Is Expected Here July 4

Former Michigan Governor George Romney and his wife, Lenore, will join Tecumseh for its July 4 celebration of the Bicentennial, the Rev. David Fox, chairman, told members of the local Bicentennial Committee Monday night at the Tecumseh Library.

Main theme for the day is expected to be Tecumseh's religious heritage.

A committee has been appointed to coordinate events for the July 4 celebration.

Members are Carol McClure, committee secretary, the Rev. Allan Gray, the Rev. Dane Ruff, the Rev. David Fox, Owen Merrill, Ricki Speller and the Rev. Hebert nation.

School Band To Have New Summer Uniforms

By FRANK WEIR

Tecumseh School Board heard a request Monday night from High School band director Jimmie Rice, concerning new summer uniforms and special summer trips.

The lightweight uniforms cost $66.56 each. The band would require 100 of these, plus 12 flags at $40 each and two drum major uniforms at $200 each. Total cost would be $7,446.

Spokesman for Band Boosters told the Board that the Boosters had $2,000 of the funds but needed to borrow the rest. Boosters would pay back the Board through several special money-raising projects planned for the coming months.

In addition, Rice requested financing for three trips the band would make during the summer to Traverse City, Frankenmuth and Oxford for parades and field competitions costing around $1200.

Rice said of the trips, "Its a program that will continue. Field competition is one of the most valuable uses of the band, they better themselves in summer and winter."

The Board was concerned about the cost of both the uniforms and trips in light of the district's current financial problems in relation to state aid cutbacks.

Member William MacBeth said, "We have to spend less. Your problem is one of timing. I'd love to see it go, but I can't vote for it this year. We just don't have the monies."

The Board finally agreed to borrow the money necessary to underwrite the Boosters' summer uniform campaign as long as the special summer trips not already budgeted were eliminated.

The band will go to Holland's Tulip Festival, since this was already allowed for in the present $7,100 band budget.

Board member Todd Herrick said, "We voted last meeting to cut out extra trips as an economy move. I find it hard to say yes, we can spend $1,200 on the band, and say no to others."

Bank Plans Trust Dept.

Initial action has been taken to secure a Trust Department for United Savings Bank of Tecumseh, Kenneth C. McElroy, bank president, announces.

Last week, the bank's directors approved a Trust Department and the necessary filing of applications with the commissioner of the Financial Institution Bureau in Lansing and with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation at Madison, Wisc.

These applications will seek permission for the local bank to be granted full trust powers and to operate its own department. Some banks operate trust departments by contract with other banks which have established departments.

Bank officials feel that by operating its own Trust Department, it will be able to better serve trust customers on a more personal basis, than that which could be done through a contract relationship with an out of town bank and its trust services.

United Savings Bank, largest in Lenawee County, could have a Trust Department operating here by next fall. Officers are confident of approval and hopefully within the next 60 days.

Such a department would act as executor, administrator, trustee, guardian, agent, custodian, and as well as other powers specifically permitted in the Banking Code of 1969.

Once approval is received from Lansing and Madison, Mr. McElroy will appoint a trust committee from the Board of Directors to oversee the operations of the department.

In the meantime, bank officers are reviewing applicants and qualifications for a competent and experienced trust officer. His department and office will be located in the bank's main office, although some remodeling of the bank's downtown facilities may become necessary.

Last week's action by the directors marks the first attempt by United Savings Bank to incorporate a Trust Department in what already is considered a full service bank.

A Trust Department is normally considered beyond a bank's many and normal services offered to its customers.

Approximately 22 percent of the 14,000 commercial banks in the country have their own trust departments.

OK Survey

By KATHY BROWN

Residents of Tecumseh's newly designated historic district and a few historic homes outside the district will receive a questionnaire in the mail from the Tecumseh Historic District Study Committee.

The questionnaire is an inventory form asking for a description of the home, a brief record of its historical significance to the town's development, and the original owners.

The questionnaire must be completed by mid-March and mailed to city hall so the Historic District Study Committee can proceed with its job to recommend a protective ordinance for these sites.

The historic district includes those homes and buildings along W. Chicago Blvd. between Pearl St. and Sunset, and N. Union St. to the cemetery and one block of S. Union St.

Residents of selected homes, which were built in the 19th century and have not been altered to change the historic value of the architecture, will also receive a questionnaire.

Annual Vote Site Changed

At the regular monthly meeting of Tecumseh's School Board, members voted to hold the district's annual school election at the Junior High annex.

Election is June 14.

Normally, the election is held in the high school cafeteria but that won't be possible due to construction of the High School addition. Excavation is due to begin within the next two to three weeks, Supt. Robert Duhan said.

Three board terms are expiring, including the three-year term held by appointee, Hugh DesErmia, appointed to the position after the death of William Brown last year.

Two four-year terms are also to be filled, currently held by board president Harold Ocamb, M.D., and James Records.

Historic Study OK'd

Historic District Study Committee will make follow-up calls to help residents complete the survey.

Anyone interested may volunteer to assist with the historic survey and should contact Mrs. Carlton Cook, chairman of the Historic District Study Committee, at 423-2393.

Determining the chain of ownership to determine the age of the structure perhaps requires the most effort to answer. This can be done whether or not the present owners have the original abstract of the house.

If the resident knows the earliest buyer and seller of his property and the approximate date, within five to 10 years of the transaction, the original owners can be traced by examining the records of the county clerk's office, the Registrar of Deeds, first floor of the County Court House in Adrian, south entrance.

Historical infomation of the original owners may be found by using the many historical references available in the Clara Waldron Room of the Tecumseh Public Library.

The library also has a bibliography of history books, manuscripts, atlases and plat books, directories, newspapers, etc. which give data on the original owners and offer pictures of the original condition of the house.

Most of these sources are available in Tecumseh's library. A few others are in Adrian College, Lenawee County, Siena Heights College and Bentley Historical libraries.

Mrs. Cook emphasized residents must understand: designation to the state register, or national register (which these homes are also eligible for), does not protect the homes from deterioration nor does it give legal protection—only a local ordinance does this.

State or national designation does, however, require an environmental review before projects with state and, or federal funds, such as the widening of Chicago Blvd. or removal of the grass median, can be approved.

The inventory is important to the city because without it, the Historic District Study Committee cannot formulate a protective ordinance suited to Tecumseh's needs, unless it inventories and records the quality of architecture in Tecumseh. Thus the study is also a housing inventory for the city.

The Michigan Historic Division, Michigan Department of State also requires a record of each structure named to the State Register of Historic Sites.

For more information about the survey and historic districts, the Study Committee suggests residents read "A Guide To Historic Sites Survey," by the Michigan History Division, Office of the Secretary of State, which is available at Tecumseh Public Library.

Sign Wanted?

Does anybody in the city of Tecumseh care if the city has an entrance sign at the west and east city limits?

Tecumseh Council wrestled with the question again Tuesday night. It decided to table a decision on refurbishing the old signs or building new ones until the April 5 Council meeting.

A letter to civic organizations will be sent to see if anybody cares to take on the maintenance of the old or construction of new signs.

Some grumbling merchants have told Mayor Harold Easton, "You can't see them anyway . people drive by too fast." Easton feels the signs should be a project for either the Chamber of Commerce or the civic organizations.

Present signs are fence type with an Indian head, to represent Tecumseh, and logos of various civic organizations. Chamber and individual clubs contributed for them. They have been painted once—about 15 years ago, estimated one Council member, and are in a shabby state.

Councilwoman Mary Bowers argued the signs are the city's responsibility to maintain. They provide a welcome and display pride, she contended.

Councilman James Palmer agreed, admitting a distinguishing sign requires upkeep. He suggested a contract with the city and civic organizations to take care of old or new.

Councilman Aden Mead suggested the appeal to civic organizations.

The city manager received costs from two companies to either refurbish or build new signs.

They are: Bill Poole, $425 to refurbish and $2,163 to build new signs; and Fritz Advertising Co., $320 to repaint and $505 to replace plywood and paint.

Dogs Discussed

Garbage bags being torn by dogs on the run was the complaint of Mrs. Roberto Diaz, 108 N. Division St., to Council Tuesday night.

Mrs. Diaz suggested Council pass an ordinance to prohibit roaming dogs and slap the owners with a heavy fine.

Council told Mrs. Diaz the city does have an ordinance now. Problem is catching the dog, identifying owner, especially if the dog is unlicensed, and if the owner is identified trying to get the owner to pay a fine.

Mayor Harold Easton told her such cases are dismissed by the courts. Police chief Merlin Mowery agreed results from the courts "are not as we would like."

Council instructed the police chief to alert his men to roaming dogs.

City ordinance states that dogs not on the owners' property or with owner or member of the family, or damaging a person or personal property are considered out of control.

All dogs older than six months, whether male, female or unsexed, must also be licensed. Owner must annually present proof of dog's vaccination for rabies and pay $4 to license each dog. Licenses must be renewed by March 1, 1976.

If a dog is picked up without a license, the owner will be required to purchase a license for the dog. There is also a provision that the owner may be charged a kennel fee. Unwanted dogs are taken to the Humane Society.

Fourteen dogs were picked-up by dog officer, Glen Richmond, in January. Eight others were picked up by patrolmen.

Dog catcher works Monday through Friday and sometimes Saturday from 8:30-1:30. Patrol cars also pick up animals.

Larger Light Is Approved

Council approved the addition of a larger street light Tuesday night for the emergency entrance at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Request of the addition to the city's streetlight contract with Consumers Power Co. was made by the hospital board.

Cost will add $68 to the city's annual bill.

Single street administrator, Charles Kipke, was designated by Council. His job is to file reports with the State Department of Highways and Transportation about the city's improvement plans for its streets and give a financial report.

Play Starts Saturday

The fastest rigor mortis diagnostician in the West (west England, that is) has a field day in the Tecumseh Players' presentation of "Ten Little Indians" which opens Saturday night, Feb. 21, at the Tecumseh Community Center, and continues for four more performances. Feb. 22, 26, 27 and 28.

The play is a repeat performance for the Players, who first did the show in 1962. It's also the second time around for two members of the cast: Guil Rothfuss of Brooklyn, again plays the judge, Sir Lawrence Wargrave; and Louise Lawson of Tecumseh, the housekeeper.

Other cast members, most of whom have appeared in several Players' productions, include Fred Taylor, Bob Miller, Lori Egli, Ray Evett, Gregg King, Howard Furry and Dorothy Wetter, all of Tecumseh, and Jim Johnson of Ypsilanti. And, of course, the ubiquitous diagnostician, Dr. Armstrong, played by Dr. Cook.

Horseracing connected with silversmithing? Although it seems farfetched, it is actually true. Surprisingly enough many commissions to silversmiths were executed to commemorate success in racing events. The earliest American silver from horseracing is probably, the experts say, a piece inscribed "1668 wunn at hanpsted plaines March 25." The Boston News Letter of 1721 cited "A Sliver Punch Bowl value ten pounds will be run . . ." and a silver "spoon ladle" of forty-five shillings value was the prize at Williamsburg, Virginia, in 1739.

Unbelievable. Dodge Aspen sedan is $427 less than Ford Granada. Based on a comparison of manufacturers suggested retail prices for base Aspen and Granada four-door sedans. With all its style, quality, comfort, and room, the Aspen comes equipped with a small sticker price.

Aspen has a ride that rivals that of a full-sized car. One of Dodge's latest engineering accomplishments is Aspen's unique Isolated Transverse Suspension. It is rubber isolated to reduce noise and vibration transmitted to the passenger compartment. And gives Aspen the smooth, quiet ride you usually find in a much bigger car.

Aspen got 27 MPG highway. 18 MPG city. According to official 1976 EPA mileage estimates for an Aspen equipped with a 225 Six and manual transmission. Your actual mileage may differ, depending on how and where you drive, the condition of your car, and its optional equipment.

If you have a head for cars, head for Dodge.

Clinton Hosts Farm Home Day Feb. 28

CLINTON — Clinton High School Agriculture Department will host a Farm and Home Day, Saturday, Feb. 28 at the high school beginning at 9 a.m.

The all day and evening program, open to all area residents, is being planned with the co-operation of John Jansen, agriculture instructor; and three Extension Agricultural Agents, Richard Allen of Lenawee County; Paul Marks of Monroe County and Bill Ames of Washtenaw County.

Planners expect more than 1,000 residents of the tri-county area will share the day of informative seminars, then stay for the pancake and sausage supper from 6 to 7:30 p.m., and after square and round dance to the music of the Rythmettes to climax a busy day.

Only charge is $2 registration for adults, $1 under 12, which includes supper and dance. There will be no one admitted for just the supper and dance.

There will be free coffee and donuts throughout the day.

Area agri-businesses have been invited to display in the building.

Clinton Band Boosters will sell a soup and sandwich lunch at noon in the cafeteria, or visitors may go uptown to eat.

Seminars are set up in four, 90-minute sessions, eight to 17 subjects to choose from each session.

Some of the more popular seminars are available at more than one time period.

Seminars will be conducted by Michigan State University staffers, area veterinarians, county home economics agents, and other authorities in the field of farm mechanics, legislature, horticulture, floriculture, and crafts.

Some of the wide range of subjects are: estate planning, agriculture legislation, engine maintenance, food preservation, flower arranging, crafts, gardening, bicycle repair, home landscaping, 4-H awareness, new trends in beef, swine or sheep production, and many more to interest men, women and youth.

Between the supper and the dance, there will be an hour program featuring Dr. Silvan Witwer, director of the Michigan Agriculture Experiment Station, who will discuss the Bicentennial history and development of agriculture.

Those wishing to make early registrations to insure space in limited classes may obtain forms from Clinton High School or from the Extension office, Adrian.

Those planning to attend the dance in the high school gym, from 8:45 to 11:45 p.m., are asked to wear tennis shoes, soft soles, or stocking feet to protect the floor.

Ready To Ratify

CLINTON — Clinton Community School's School Board and Clinton Education Association, CEA, reached a tentative contract agreement Feb. 11, on all issues for the 1975-76 contract year.

School board and CEA must now ratify the contract. School Board is expected to meet Monday, Feb. 23 at 8 p.m. to consider ratification.

The CEA will meet March 2 at 3:30 p.m. for its members to consider the contract ratification.

New contract includes adjustment of teacher's salary scale by increase of 1½ percent at all steps. Contract for a fully certified teacher with a bachelor of arts and no xperience is $9,403. Top salary is $16,262 for an education special degree with 10 years experience.

Extra duty and longevity pay is supplementary to this.

School board will now pay five percent retirement to the Michigan Teachers Retirement Fund. Until this year, teachers paid this amount from their net income. Beginning July 1, 1977 all school boards must pay the retirement.

Health insurance includes a choice of (MESSA), Super med II or comparable coverage with Blue Cross.

Extra duty pay was adjusted for girls athletics and band follies. Accumulated sick leave increased from 100 to 105 days; and an extra personal day will be granted for a total of two.

Arbitration protection for probationary teachers, long term disability insurance, an out of pocket expense for teachers), dental health insurance and unlimited accumulation of sick leave were not granted by the board.

Final settlement was based on the board's acceptance of the fact finders report; same was submitted to the CEA.

Salaries would be retroactive to school opening, however insurance would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976.

Wagon Train Will Stop in Clinton

CLINTON — The Bicentennial Wagon Train will be in Clinton May 24 before it hits Tecumseh, via Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. later that day.

Two members of the Clinton Chamber of Commerce, Kathy Thomas and Joe O'Donnell were responsible for convincing Harry Dodd, Lenawee County coordinator and other officials of the wagon train, that the route to Clinton on US-12 and south on Tecumseh Clinton Rd. was a better alternative to the M-52 route which would have bypassed the village.

The wagon train will be in Clinton for five hours and will probably be served a box lunch and entertained by the Clintonians.

Charles Peart, president of the chamber said details are not finalized and any organization interested in sponsoring the meal should contact him.

Also at the Monday night meeting, a nominating committee for new officers was named. The committee is: Tom Young, Kathy Thomas, Joe O'Donnell, Waldo Ehnis, chairman and Dave VanTye.

Next meeting is March 10, 7 p.m. at the Clintonian Inn. Elections will be March 22.

The present Ridgeway Church of the Nazarene, located at 6886 Ridge Hwy., Ridgeway, was built in 1922 and pastored by the Rev. C.D. Finch. In 1945 the first addition was added to the building with Rev. E.E. Kimball as the pastor.

To the Editor:

To Concerned Parents of Britton-Macon Area School District.

What is a multi-purpose room???

Several years ago it may have been a room for bad weather recess, but today with a much escalated girls and boys sports porgram, much more is needed.

Over the past four years, since the instigation of the building program, changes have been made to the architectural plans to include the needs of all students. A band room, practice room and storage room were added.

Now before the building is started a need has been brought out for athletic program practice time.

To use this building to its fullest extent an additional four feet is needed on ceiling height. Room size is sufficient to accomodate these activities but a lower ceiling would limit its uses.

A 16' 2" to 16' 10" ceiling is now planned which would limit its uses. A 20' ceiling would accomodate many more hours of indoor activities. Due to architectural reasons this cannot be accomplished without changes involving a small additional expense as compared to total cost.

All alternatives should be carefully considered before the board goes ahead with present plans.

We urge all concerned parents to attend a meeting with the architect, attorney and the school board on Wednesday, Feb. 25, 1976, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school study hall.

Please come. Be informed and voice your opinion.

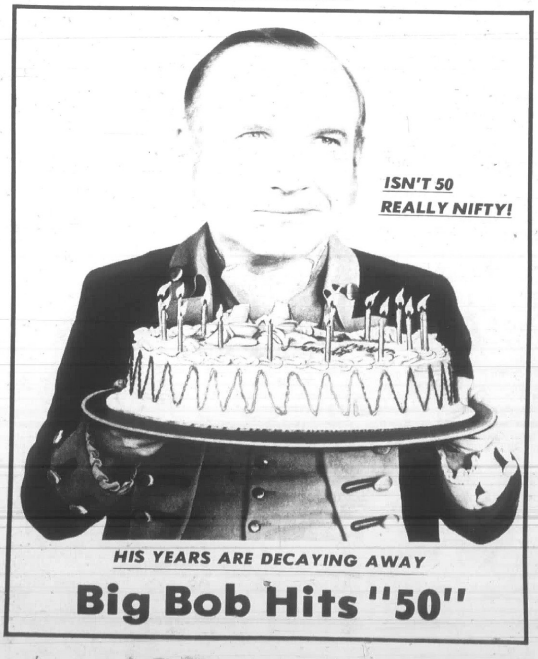
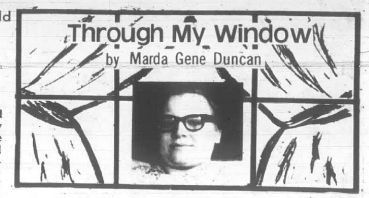
Marvelous Achievements

"Chiropractic is founded on the science of cause elimination and is the only method of specifically adjusting the cause of so-called disease that has ever been proved by fact. It is greater than either osteopathy or medicine and will eventually lead the field. Chiropractic stands firmly on its marvelous achievements of the past ten years and needs no greater tribute." – Dr. Edward S. Doutt, Pittsburg, Pa.



Through My Window

by Marda Gene Duncan



ABOUT GULLS

Several weeks ago Dad and Bill stood bareheaded on the top of the lake bank feeding the gulls. It was a large party they hosted and I know they had fun. Mom and I also had fun — we enjoyed it from the safety of the porch. We both agreed that the men were displaying great courage in being hatless in the midst of so many excited birds. Fortunately their bravery was well rewarded.

Actually I had almost decided not to write an article about gulls this winter. They flock in such great numbers, absolutely refuse to let us see them except as they fly by, and they are all so similar that without a really good look it is impossible to sort out who is who.

However, this particular day was just too good not to share. The wind was gusty and continually shifting directions which meant that the gulls were flying in from all directions.

As they circled around Bill and Dad and hovered in the wind, Mom and I had beautiful close-up looks.

Gulls are superb flyers and almost the personification of grace in the air. Their flight is strong and swift but they can also glide and soar. They turn and wheel by merely tilting a wing-tip. Lovely to watch.

However, they are also a noisy quarrelsome gang. They scream and holler at each other – it is not necessary to understand the language to know that the things they say are neither kind, polite or nice. Their instinct to know where the free handouts are available is uncanny.

Last year there was a regular gull feeding program. Each afternoon at tea-time a man threw left-over bread, from a restaurant or bakery route, into the lake.

The gulls' watches were always synchronized with his. This year there is no schedule, when anyone feels the urge to toss some dried bread they do so. Usually the free-loaders are quick to arrive.

And it is amazing how many times the gulls are able to catch small pieces of bread in mid-air. What does reach the water never soaks long but quickly is scooped up by an agile free-loader.

When the bread or crackers or rolls are in hunks too large to be swallowed whole, there is trouble. These birds are not above ganging up on the 'lucky' beggar who grabs and tries to fly away with his prize.

There is a special brand of loud shrill screaming which accompanies this type of a chase.

But back to the day that Dad and Bill attracted the largest flock of gulls this year. The sky was almost black, I have no idea how many came for the hand-outs. Mom and I, with wonderful seats for the show, congratulated ourselves on being able to sort out and name some of the free-loaders.

The largest of the gulls posed no problems. By their size alone they had to be great black-backs. These are pretty gulls – all white except for their black backs and black wings which are edged with white.

Even the one year olds of this clan are easy to know. Color-wise they are non-descript brownish and white but their size is distinctive.

Adult herring gulls are smaller and their back and wing coloring is gray with only the ends of the wings showing black.

The ring-billed gull is smaller still but, when many kinds are milling together, a four or six inch difference in length is barely noticed. Close up, the ring around the ring-bill's bill is quite noticeable.

Then there were many black-headed or partially black-headed gulls. The laughing gulls are about 13 inches long and the Bonaparte's are 11.

Their wing markings are very different though – the former have dark wings with white edges whereas the latter show a flashy gray mantle with white wing-tips and black edging.

Once the show was over Mom and I went to the bird books with great confidence in being able to pick out some of the immature we have seen and also some who had not quite discarded their winter's uniform.

We had such good looks that we were sure of ourselves. Too sure. For example, a winter laughing gull has much more dark gray on his head than a Bonaparte's.

Actually, the Bonaparte's really have what only amounts to a large smudge of dark. Which had we seen? And the second year herring gull has a dark brown tail whereas an immature ring-billed has a whitish tail with a dark brown band near the end.

Surely they were both in the crowd.

The more books we checked the more confused we became. We thought our memory pictures were good but the longer we talked and compared notes and the more bird books we puzzled over, convinced me that perhaps my first decision was right – I should never try to write an article about gulls.

The Rev. David Fox of St. Peter's Church will speak.

A free will offering will be collected for projects in Niger, Malagasy Republic and Bolivia to provide a safe and accessible water supply and a source of protein.

Contributions are being made for economic rehabilitation of Latin Americans and to help women make their full contribution in their communities and nations through such programs as in Goa, India, which enables rural women to articulate their needs, to seek and suggest solutions and to receive training which will help them earn a living.

Special scholarships for women are another use for the collection.

All church men and women in the Tecumseh area are invited to join these churches as they gather together to share in prayer, said the committeewomen.

We are an "Independent" Bank

That means we're local — locally-owned and locally-staffed. Our roots are deep in this community. Our future depends upon the success of the people and businesses of this area.

AREN'T ALL BANKS THE SAME?

No — some banks are not local. They're part of large corporate systems, usually with headquarters in a large city. Their primary loyalty is to their own city and their large corporate customers.

IT STANDS TO REASON . . .

that the locally-owned and managed bank responds to the needs of its community in a way that distant, giant multi-office banking systems find impractical, unnecessary . . . yes, and even impossible. These giants often boast of their "personal banking departments". Our entire BANK is a personal banking department.

WE KNOW YOU . . .

We know your special circumstances and problems, we know this community and have a stake in it. The dollars you deposit are put to work right in this community.

BY CONTRAST . . .

The giant multi-bank system must divide its attention over a large area and can't possibly have the same interest in local affairs and individual needs. These large city banks tend to drain deposits out of local communities.

"INDEPENDENCE" . . .

is another way of saying "free of outside control" — free to give you personalized service. We are not beholden to a city or corporation hundreds of miles away. For us the action is here, with the people of this community.

We're Proud of our Independence

Indians Turn It On Maples, 60-42

The tables turned Tuesday night as Tecumseh's cagers made short work of Adrian. The Indians won the contest 60-42. They had lost to the Maples 66-52 earlier in the season.

Last Friday, Tecumseh also defeated Carlson 69-48.

The victories brought Tecumseh's overall record up to 14-4 overall and 10-2 in the league.

Tecumseh trailed the Maples at the end of the first frame 10-6 but that would be the last stanza in which Adrian would prevail.

The Indians held the Maples to just 13 points in the second and third quarters taking a commanding 35-23 lead at the end of the third frame. Twenty-five points in the final quarter to 19 for Adrian iced the victory.

Nine Tecumseh players made it into the scoring column with Bruce Hughes the leader at 16 points followed by Ken Biscupski with fifteen. Hughes and Biscupski also led in rebounds with ten and eight respectively.

The Indians completed 19 shots from the field and were 22 of 34 from the line. The Maples completed 15 shots and dumped 12 of 19 free throws. The Indians outrebounded Adrian 30-23 and suffered 16 turnovers to 21 for Adrian.

Tecumseh's junior varsity unit suffered their second defeat of the season, both to the Maples, by losing 47-45 Tuesday night. Still, the JV unit posts a 16-2 overall record so far.

Head coach Ron Spagnoli was understandably pleased, "We played good defense, especially in the middle two quarters when we held them to 13 points. We had good scoring balance. It was just a good game for us."

Against Carlson, Tecumseh was way ahead at the half 42-22 after a big 24-10 first quarter.

Jeff Schafer led the way in scoring with 18 points followed by Jeff Hans with 12.

The Indians hit 46 percent of their shots from the field while Carlson could manage only a meager 30 percent.

The team travels to Jefferson this Friday still in second place in the Huron league.

Redskins Drop One To Onsted

A poor second quarter showing spelled defeat for Clinton's cagers last Friday night playing against Onsted. The Skins lost the contest 71-62.

9th Graders Beat Onsted

The ninth grade Redskin Cagers got back on the winning track with a win over Onsted last Thursday. This gives the Redskins an 8-0 record in the league and a 9-1 overall.

Dist. 7 Will Have Special Election To Fill Clift's Vacancy

In an 8-6 vote Feb. 10 Lenawee County Commissioners determined the people of Dist. 7 will have a special election to fill the vacancy of Commissioner Arthur C. Clift.

Dist. 7 includes Adrian Township and part of Madison Township, north of Cadmus Road.

Clift and his wife, Glenna, died in a plane crash in Georgia on Jan. 30, while returning from Florida.

According to law, the commissioners will appoint a successor at the next regular meeting, Feb. 25 at 7 p.m., to serve until the special election.

Election dates are expected to be given Feb. 25. Meanwhile, prospective candidates are asked to submit a resume to the county clerk by Feb. 20.

Each candidate will be interviewed by the commissioners at a special session Feb. 25 at 2 p.m.

The special election could be held May 18, to coincide with Michigan's Presidential Primary.

If two or more candidates of either party file, then a primary, probably in April, would be necessary.

Cost for the total election process could cost the county $6,000 — an expense opposing commissioners wanted to save the county in the present economy.

One big reason for the commissioners debate over democracy vs. economy is that the law is ambiguous about the need for a special election.

The special election comes just three months before the August primary for all county commissioners.

Two commissioners, Martin Halley, Dist. 5, and Larry Gould, Dist. 8, opposed the special election because Dist. 7 residents told them they did not want an election.

Halley said he questioned a crossection of nine residents, who said "no," which did not satisfy the commissioners.

Gould, who represents part of Madison Township, told he attended a township meeting and the people told him they did not want an election. Instead they would rely on the judgement of the county commissioners to fill the office.

Those speaking for the election, insisted the people be given the opportunity to exercise their right to select their own commissioner; others feared a lawsuit.

Those voting for the election were: Commissioners Wayne Traub, Dist. 1; Raymond Jackson, Dist. 3; Stacy Zilke, Dist. 4; Russel Roback, Dist. 9; William E. Mackey, Dist. 10; Melvin Rodesiler, Dist. 11; Clyde Wright, Dist. 12; and Pilar Leon, Dist. 15.

Opposing the election were: Commissioners Willard Lamb, Dist. 2; Martin Halley, Dist. 5; Nancy Nichols, Dist. 6; Larry Gould, Dist. 8; James Hadden, Dist. 13; and Richard Lackie, Dist. 14.

County Commissioners also unanimously approved a list of 20 county residents as the planning and management committee of the Lenawee County Economic Advisory Committee, (LCEAC).

LCEAC, a 100 member committee, was designated about five months ago to attract industry and bring new jobs to Lenawee County.

The new management committee, all LCEAC members will work with Region II planners to devise a plan to qualify the county for federal development funds.

In December the commissioners vetoed a list because many of its members resided in one area. This revised list was considered more representative of interests and localities in the county.

In an executive session, commissioners approved a contract with the employees of the Sheriff's Department.

Those employees will receive a 10 percent wage increase, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1975. Over $44,000 in back pay must be paid within 60 days.

Employees will also receive two weeks vacation after one year and three weeks vacation after eight years of service. They will also join the county-wide pension plan.

Commissioners are waiting for a legal opinion whether the interest from special drains assessment funds, belong in the general fund or should be distributed to the taxpayers in the district.

Those funds were invested at the Jan. 26 meeting in a $170,000, 180-day time certificate. Drains and Lakes Committee chairman Larry Gould stated that interest would be consumed by the salary of an auditor if the funds were to be distributed to their respective districts.

What's Up At THS

The seniors at THS have been finding out just what the real world is like.

They have been participating in a simulation of the American economy.

Three classes of students are brought together to learn just how our economy is run. The simulation was brought about for the students to get an idea of what they'll be facing in June.

The economic simulation is based on a book, "Don't Lose Your Equilibrium", by Gary J. Lovett, Psychology and Senior Social Studies teacher at Tecumseh High School.

Plans are being made for mini-courses and Sponge Week which is scheduled for April.

School will be closed for students on Feb. 27, for In-Service Day.

Mid-winter break is March 1, students return to school on March 2.

Items For Humane Society Garage Sale ?

Annual garage sale for the Lenawee County Humane Society will be later this spring. Donations of clothes, furniture and miscellaneous items are being collected.

Monies for the sale will be used to help pay for needed improvements at the animal shelter on Academy Road.

Articles may be delivered to Anna Grigg, 519 E. Chicago Blvd., or phone 423-2688 and pick-up will be made at your home.

St. Peter's Rock-A-Thon

Members of the Junior and Senior High Youth Groups of St. Peter's Church will sponsor a Rock-a-thon to benefit the hungry people of the world beginning at 9 a.m., Feb. 27 and ending at 6 p.m. Feb. 29.

The event will be held in the church's small parish hall.

Anyone can rock provided you furnish your own rocker and diversions, agree to the stated rules and give the money earned for hunger relief as designated by the combined youth groups.

A small prize will be awarded to the person who rocks the longest.

Rockers must register by 4 p.m. Feb. 24 by calling 423-3780 or 423-3233.

Financial pledges of support can also be made by calling the same numbers.

Yukon Days For Kids

The Feb. 28 program for school-age children at the Tecumseh Public Library is "Gold Rush Day." As in previous monthly specials the program runs from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.

The Yukon Territory holds a similar celebration the last week in February with sourdough breakfasts, flour packing contests, dog team and snowshoe races.

The library will have a capsule version of these festivities with funny tales of the prospectors and Eskimo storytellers; wild and woolly old time winter sports movies and a tour of the Yukon; and a snowless snowshoe race that must be seen to be believed.

There will be fun for all, and no gold strike is required.

Magazines Are Needed for Cart

Herrick Hospital Auxiliary president Sally Crouse has announced that discarded magazines are needed for the hospital book cart.

She emphasized the need is for recent issues of popular magazines such as People, Reader's Digest, and Redbook.

But any other magazines with bright pictures and interesting articles will be welcome, especially if they are recent issues in good condition.

The goal is to provide attractive, high-interest, timely reading for sick people who want some entertainment.

"Donating magazines to the hospital is really a worthwhile way to get rid of last month's issues when the new ones come," said Auxiliary volunteer Fran Spriggs. Mrs. Spriggs is currently organizing book cart materials.

Magazines may be dropped off at Tecumseh public Library.

As an independent agent we answer to one boss—our hometown people

We represent several firms, but we work for only one boss—you. That way we can always place you with a company which we think is best for each line of insurance you need. Naturally, we prefer companies like Auto-Owners who look at a loss and take care of it right away, without haggling or delays. That's one of the reasons we're part of the Altogether Family. Like us, they're always there when you need them.

$163.4 Million Being Paid

Chairman Thomas A. Murphy announced today that $163.4 million is being paid or kept in trust for 87,500 U.S. salaried employes participating in the 1972 Class of the General Motors Savings-Stock Purchase Program that matured Dec. 31.

The overall return to the employe is the equivalent of $1.55 for every dollar saved by participating employes during 1972.

This distribution under the Savings-Stock Purchase Program represents the first three-year maturity following the accelerated transition from a five-year maturity.

Locally, 73 salaried employees at the Tecumseh Fisher Body Plant invested $80,649 and will receive $130,992 in GM common stock, government bonds and cash as a result of their participation.

Among these participants are Joseph Keys, Lawrence Church, Hubert Konczal, Norman Nash, Leonard Clark, Frederick Bartlett, Richard Steadley, Lawrence Bilkie, Thomas Walters, Richard Creswell, Leo Perrin, James Tonneberger, Robert Borton, James Conklin, Donald Burack, Gordon Greiman Jr., Herbert Camfield, Phillip Chrzan, Bobbie Cabello and Cleatus Beasley of Tecumseh.

Others include Charles Rebottaro of Britton and Russell McMichael of Onsted.

Tecumseh Area Schools Only Receive Half of State Aid

Shortage of funds in Lansing has resulted in the Tecumseh schools receiving half of their February state aid payment, Gene Cooley, assistant superintendent and business manager, reports.

He said the schools anticipated $293,880 but only $146,940 was received. Balance is expected March 1.

Failure to receive the entire amount has prolonged repayment of the $500,000 loan obtained last fall at United Savings Bank.

TOPS IN TICKET SALES — These Patterson Elementary students each received a prize of their choice Friday for selling tickets to the school's pancake supper held last Thursday. The winners were, first row, left to right, Charlie Paine, first grade, Tracy Maynard and Michael Todd both in kindergarten, Steven Ousterhout, second grade and Todd Cross, first; second row, Paula Phelan fourth, Rene Solarski third grade, Tracy King, third, Sue Van Orsdol, second grade and Lisa DeSerrano, fourth; third row, Nancy Elwartowski, Malcom Barrett, and Kathy Randall, all sixth graders, Ann Vischer and Sue Lockhart, both fifth graders.

We all know the shock of losing something we value. A misplaced book or valuable papers — even a treasured heirloom — gone astray can frustrate us for hours or even days. Diligent search often ends the mystery, but the memory of our exasperation lingers.

Yet while the loss of something material is easily grasped, many of us never realize that we may be missing important intangibles . . . like the secret of a richer, more satisfying life.

This search needn't take long, though. Millions find the faith that fulfills — every Sunday in church.

So can you.

A dream, a plan . . .

Our community has had a long, interesting and progressive history. At first Indian tribes used this area as a meeting place. In 1824 Tecumseh was established by settlers from New York state and, for 14 years, was "the county seat of justice." A branch of the University of Michigan was maintained in the court house from 1838 until 1842. The population in 1840 was 2,462 — more than half as many inhabitants as in Chicago. But the community, supported mainly by local agriculture, was slow to grow from 1924 until about 1934.

In September of 1934 a small manufacturing firm moved from Hillsdale to Tecumseh. This company had looked for a community that would support a factory — support it with money and with labor. Tecumseh offered this combination: the businessmen raised $5,000 for initial expenses, and townspeople worked without wages to make the old Brewer building a suitable facility for manufacturing.

Under the leadership of President Ray W. Herrick and his capable associates, Tecumsh Products Company became and remains the world's largest manufacturer of refrigeration compressors. The Company has grown from one small operation to a corporation of 13 divisions in seven states, has license in 17 foreign countries, and manufactures transaxles, gasoline engines, and electric motors as well as compressors.

Mr. Herrick was a man of vision and ability. He dreamed; he planned; and a successful manufacturing operation was born. But Mr. Herrick would not take full credit for the accomplishment. Instead, he was forever grateful to the people of Tecumseh for having faith in his plan and for helping him to realize his dream. Because of his sincere gratitude, Mr. Herrick longed to do something to benefit the community that had done so much for him.

Three years after settling in Tecumseh, a satisfying idea came to him. He would promote the building of a much-needed hospital!

In August of 1937, Mr. Herrick invited 22 leading citizens into his office to share the idea with them. The late Dr. H.H. Hammel accepted the proposal with great enthusiasm as he had long desired to have a hospital in Tecumseh. Both Dr. Hammel and Mr. Herrick had been concerned that a life might be lost while a patient was being transported to a hospital in Adrian or Ann Arbor. Most of the other members attending agreed that the community should have a hospital. Only three or four questioned the practicality of such a costly project. But Mr. Herrick had a plan! He estimated that it would cost about $38,000 to build and equip a suitable hospital for Tecumseh. Tecumseh Products Company and certain citizens would contribute $28,000; the community would raise the remaining $10,000. Those present at the meeting believed the plan was feasible, whereupon the Tecumseh Hospital Association was formed.

The purpose of the Association was to build the hospital and, after it was completed, to present it, debt free, to the Village. The Association would then be dissolved.

The eight men elected to the Association represented a real cross-section of the community:

Mr. Ray Herrick — President of Tecumseh Products Co.

Mr. Guy Belding — Funeral director; United Savings Bank board member

Mr. Perry Satterthwaite — Manager of Hayden Fuel and Supply Co.

Dr. H.H. Hammel — Outstanding physician-surgeon in the community for more than 20 years.

Mr. Charles O. Butler — Owner and operator of the local Ford Sales and Service garage

Mr. Lester Rogers — Owner of the Tecumseh Steam Laundry; United Savings Bank board member

Mr. Karl M. Schneider — Manager of the local branch of the Personal Finance Corp.; United Savings Bank board member

Officers were then selected by the Association:

President — Ray W. Herrick

Secretary — H.H. Hanna, Realtor and insurance man

Treasurer — Lester Rogers

Asst. Treasurer — John R. Thompson, Cashier and manager of the United Savings Bank.

(Mr. Hanna and Mr. Thompson were not Directors of the Association; but, in addition to fulfilling their assigned duties, they served as advisors.)

The general public learned of the hospital idea for the first time on September 30, 1937. All business and professional men of the town were invited to attend a general meeting in the American Legion Hall, the meeting being sponsored by the Commerce Club of Tecumseh. At that time, Mr. Herrick explained that the proposed hospital, under the direction of the Tecumseh Hospital Association, would be a community project and that committees would be responsible for raising the $10,000 before construction could begin. He also stated that the hospital should be self-supporting so that the citizens would have no additional tax burden. After a general discussion, the group unanimously accepted the program. Those attending the meeting were asked to make pledges for the building project and all but a few thousand dollars of the necessary total was pledged. The remaining sum would be raised by public subscription.

Two committees were formed to solicit the public's support:

(1) The Farmers' Committee — Perry M. Hayden, L.H. Titley, B.B. Turnbull, Fay Whelan, A.W. Porter, C.W. Bailey, A.E. Norquay, Bert Ousterhout, and C.W. Gilman.

The meeting adjourned after the group agreed to meet again the following week.

One week later, on October 6, 1937, the second general meeting was held in the American Legion Hall. It was announced that the fund-raising committees had secured sufficient pledges to complete the building of the new hospital (98 percent of the people honored their pledges: the remaining 2 percent was never harrassed for payment.)

With united effort and community spirit, Mr. Herrick's dream and plan would become a reality!

Intensive Coronary Care Unit

Thanks to local people who have contributed generously to the Heart Memorial Fund, the Auxiliary has provided a complete, six-bed unit for the Intensive Coronary Care Unit.

Acquisitions started in 1965 when $5,000 was donated for a crash cart, an emergency station completely equipped for emergency care. In the past five years additional equipment was purchased.

Three monitoring machines have been installed at the nurses' station for constant watch of physiological signs of patients in the six-bed unit.

Other new equipment, totaling $20,000, includes three life aid resuscitators, electracardeograph, three cardio paks, a basic cart, treadmill, two emergency heart carts, a defibrillator and rotating tourniquet.

The ICC Unit is located in the new wing of the hospital.

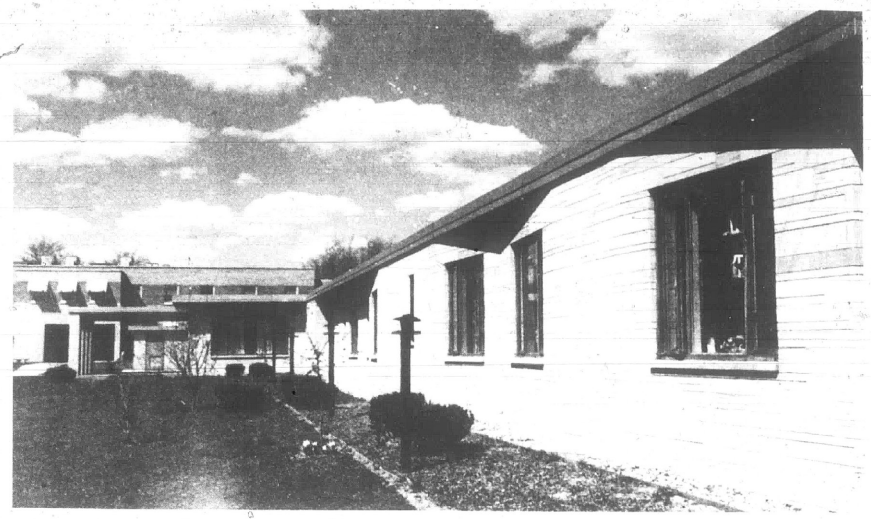
Herrick Nursing Home

A 25 resident bed nursing home was a gift to the community and hospital from the Ray W. Herrick family. The home was opened on December 2, 1963 and is connected to the main hospital through an enclosed corridor and is under the jurisdiction of the hospital. The nursing home has private and semi private rooms, dining room facility, beauty shop, and a kitchen. The residents are permitted to leave the premises and have outside visitation.

The landscaping around the home is very attractive. It has large shade trees, 2 patios, beautiful surroundings and bird feeders are placed outside each window.

The staff is made up of 25 members under the direction of Darlene Green LPN and Peggy Morris LPN. Since it opened, 252 people have resided here.



. . . a reality

As a result of the successful meeting on October 6, 1937, committees immediately began to function and to act.

A site was selected by the Board of Trustees for the Community Hospital of Tecumseh. The five and one half acre lot on the southeast corner of Wyandotte and Pottawatamie Streets was near public transportation routes, but was far enough from traffic and industrial distractions to be a suitable location. Henry Ford, a personal friend of Mr. Herrick's, owned the property. Instead of selling the land, Mr. Ford gave it to the Village of Tecumseh.

Mr. Ray Boyer of Detroit was retained both as architect and builder. Construction began October 19, 1937.

Tecumseh was a rapidly growing community. For this reason, the plans for the hospital had to meet immediate needs as well as provide for future expansion.

The L-shaped building was constructed entirely of brick, cement and steel, making it strong, durable and fire-proof. Placement of the structure upon the lot insured that adequate space remained to enlarge the building without disrupting the original unit.

The original hospital was planned to accommodate 18 adults, 3 children and 8 infants. However, the emergency room, operating room, X-ray room and obstetrical room installations were designed to care for a 50-bed hospital.

The hospital would be of simple design. It would be built to provide safe and efficient care. Economy was essential, but it would not affect the service to be given there.

The hospital contained patient rooms, a reception room, business office, kitchen, nurses' dining room, operating room, emergency room, doctors' dressing room, delivery room, sterilizing room, X-ray room, chart room, store room, and boiler room.

The patients' quarters consisted of a men's ward, women's ward, maternity ward, nursery, children's ward, four private rooms and two semi-private rooms. All were large-sized rooms so that extra beds could be moved in, if needed. For example, 5-patient wards would actually accommodate 6 patients without crowding. Private rooms could hold two beds each.

Plumbing costs were reduced by installing one bathroom between two private rooms.

The heating system also exemplified the foresight and careful planning done by the committee. A twin, low-pressure, coal-burning, stoker-fed furnace system was installed. One boiler and stoker could heat the hospital, but two could handle a much larger building. Too, the twin system was a safety measure: if one operating plant failed, the other could be started immediately.

On May 27, 1938 — just seven months after construction had begun — the Tecumseh Hospital Association formally presented the debt-free facility to the officials of the Village of Tecumseh. Its work being completed, the Association was dissolved.

The first patient was admitted to the hospital on May 30, 1938.

The Village Council appointed five members to serve on the hospital Board of Directors. The Directors, who serve 5-year terms, govern the hospital, set policies, and hire the superintendent.

1st ADDITION

Within three years time, the hospital had to be enlarged. The Village passed a $25,000 bond issue. In January, 1941, the new facilities were dedicated, giving the hospital a capacity of 37 beds and 16 bassinets, larger delivery rooms, a new nursery, and a larger, more-modern kitchen. (Gertrude Baker was in charge of the kitchen from 1938 until 1959.)

Following a winter sleet storm in 1948, the Board of Directors decided that the hospital should have emergency electrical power available at all times. In June, 1948, an auxiliary power unit was installed. This automatic system supplies indefinite power if and when regular current is interrupted. (This auxiliary unit was credited with saving two 2-pound incubator babies during a power failure on June 27, 1948 — just a few days after the unit was operational.)

2nd ADDITION

After 13 years of continuous service in the community, the hospital again required additional space. In fact, Mr. Ernest M. Campbell, president of the hospital Board of Trustees, stated, "We have been crowded to our capacity and beyond in the present hospital. There has been no cushion in the event of an emergency. All of our beds have been filled most of the time and there have been many times when cots were placed in corridors to accommodate emergency cases." Several times after 1944 the Village considered expansion, but funds were not available. Then, Mr. Herrick announced that he would give enough money to increase the size of the Tecumseh hospital by fifty percent, making it a 55-bed institution. This gift was made in honor of the memory of Mr. Herrick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Herrick. The addition was formally opened on August 16, 1951. It was a one-story structure and included 10 rooms, a nurses' station, utility room and solarium. The basement of the new wing was to be utilized for storage. This annex made the hospital the second largest in Lenawee County.

At this time the Board of Trustees recommended, and the village council approved, that the name of the hospital be changed from Tecumseh Hospital to Herrick Memorial Hospital.

3rd ADDITION

Three years later, in January of 1954, another addition to the hospital was dedicated. The village was growing, more people were using the hospital, and an anonymous gift made it possible to build a two-story section. The first floor included maternity beds, nurseries, utility rooms for the unit, and a new in-patient lobby and business office area. The bed capacity was increased to 76. The second floor included operating rooms, adjacent utility area, office, locker rooms for the nurses and physicians working on that floor, two delivery rooms, labor rooms, and a central supply and sterilizing area. A separate building was constructed to house the boiler room. The hospital received $250,000 for this expansion project. Mr. Frank K. Smith, hospital vice-president, announced, "We are not permitted to divulge the name of Tecumseh's benefactor. The only thing that I can say is that the person making the contribution is vitally interested in Tecumseh and in Tecumseh's future. The donor sincerely believes that good health is important to happiness, and that happiness is essential to progress. Therefore, through the contribution, our benefactor, in an anonymous way, is saying 'good health and progress' to Tecumseh, and to the community."

4th ADDITION

Three years passed and, in 1958, another ground-breaking ceremony took place. The fourth addition increased the bed capacity to nearly 100. A basement and two-story wing were added to the south side of the building. The dining room and kitchen were moved to the new basement. In 1961, all the maternity rooms and the nursery were moved to the second floor adjoining the labor and delivery rooms. The former maternity section was remodeled for medical-surgical patients; and the nursery, for pediatrics in 1962.

5th ADDITION

In 1966, rooms were added onto the south wing of the hospital, and the X-ray, emergency, pharmacy and laboratory facilities were enlarged.

With each addition and remodeling project, the Board of Trustees made certain that the hospital met or exceeded all state regulations. However, the state often changed its requirements. As a result, an extensive building and remodeling program was begun in 1968.

This sixth building project was divided into Four Phases which, hopefully, would be completed by the fall of 1976.

PHASE I: (Begun in July, 1972)
Purpose: Emergency Room and Laundry

PHASE II: (Begun in 1972)
Purpose: Kitchen, Laboratory, Boiler Room

PHASE III: (Begun in August, 1973)
Purpose: ICCU, 42 new medical-surgical rooms.
New surgery, Pharmacy, Physical Therapy, Central Sterile Supply, Dining Room, Stock Room, Conference Room, Gift Shop, Lobby, Business Office

PHASE IV: (Begun in October, 1975)
Purpose: Remodeling patient areas of south wing;
New obstetrical department;
Remodeling first floor of east wing for administrative use.

This 3½ million dollar program will not increase the bed count of 95 units.

Hospital Auxiliary Observes Its

In January of 1941, the Tecumseh Club Ladies' Auxiliary met and decided to sponsor the organization of the Tecumseh Hospital Auxiliary. On February 3, 1941, the first meeting of the Tecumseh Hospital Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. O.W. Farver. The following were present and elected officers for the coming year:

Mrs. John Larsen — President
Mrs. Frank K. Smith — Vice-President

Mrs. L.W. Larsen
Mrs. R.H. Moore
Mrs. W.S. Niblack

Mrs. Karl Schneider, Sr.

Meetings were designated to be held the second Tuesday evening of each month.

The first class of Red Cross nurses aides was organized December 2, 1942, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy O'Reilly and assisted by Mrs. G.A. Rathbun and Mrs. F.K. Smith. During the next two years four classes in all were formed and fifty-two members of the nurses aides corps completed the course.

These volunteers served the Tecumseh Hospital during the four years without remuneration as a war-time service to their community. In all, they gave 11, 310½ hours. Three aides gave over 500 hours each and one gave over 1000 hours. Many of the volunteers were Auxiliary members and some still belong and are active.

During the first five years of the Auxiliary, the prime purpose and perhaps the most important work of the Auxiliary was the mending and sewing of all hospital linen.

At different times, jam, jelly and canned goods showers for the hospital were given.

As the hospital grew, so did the Auxiliary; and many hours were given to perform the following services:

Since its organization in 1941, the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has earned approximately $165,000.00 for a wide variety of projects.

One of our most worthy endeavors was furnishing our first coronary care unit, the first in Lenawee County.

Dr. Richard Coak and Dr. Richard Dustin deserve a great deal of credit for promoting the idea and passing their enthusiasm on to the members. We started raising the money in 1965 and three years later opened the unit with five beds. The doctors lectured the nurses in the operational techniques of the unit and we sent some nurses to Seminars away from the hospital for training.

Now, in our new facility, we have a six-bed unit, equipped with the most modern equipment presently available.

We have had many worthwhile fund-raising projects, but much of the money spent in the heart unit has come from the Heart Memorial Fund.

The Auxiliary has four Memorial Funds available to the public, namely, Heart, General Equipment, Landscaping, and Nursing Home. The Auxiliary greatly appreciates the generosity and cooperation of the public in helping us to carry on our work in the hospital.

We have tried to perform a dual purpose in the community: Service and Fellowship. Our funds are committed to the hospital along with service to those who use it. Fellowship is enjoyed by the nature of our fund raisers.

The Holiday Ball goes back to February, 1942 — then known as the Anniversary Ball. This continued through the early years of the Auxiliary, being held in either the present Junior High School gymnasium or in the Union Hall. After the Tecumseh Country Club was built in 1949, the annual dance became the Holiday Ball, held the first Saturday in December.

AUXILIARY ESTABLISHES FUND

Scholarship and Future Nurses

In the fall of 1951 the members of the Auxiliary set up a scholarship nursing fund and a committee was appointed to prepare forms of application and to select the students who would receive these scholarships. The chairman of this committee was Mrs. E. C. Boss who continued in this position for many years.

To quote from The Hospital Sheet of February, 1952: —

"Since there is evidence of strong interest in a nursing career in our local communities and because of a national shortage of nurses, plus war demands, the auxiliary is anxious to stimulate this interest by offering a scholarship for helping to train young women in the profession. One of the qualifications of the scholarship will be that the student after completing her nurses' training should be willing to return to Herrick Memorial Hospital for one year's service as a member of the staff."

The first two students to receive these scholarships of $200 each were Joan Hindes (Mrs. Harley Slick) and Barbara Meyers (Mrs. Lawrence Young) in May, 1952.

After a few years it was decided to change the nursing scholarship to include any health career. This increased the number of applicants. It also became necessary to increase the amount of money given several times through the years.

Scholarships have been given every year and in May 1975 three were given—two for $500 each and one for $250. Mrs. J.J. Walper has been the chairman of this committee the past two years.

A Future Nurses Club, sponsored by the Auxiliary, was organized at Tecumseh High School in 1952 under the leadership of the school nurse Miss Elesa Simonson. She was assisted in this project by Mrs. Helen Sisson and Mrs. O.W. Laidlaw. The Club had 14 members and was affiliated with the State Organization of Future Nurses Club.

The second year they had 23 members with two from Britton, two from Adrian and one from Tipton.

For many years auxiliary members would act as chaperones, chauffeurs and advisors as they took the girls on field trips to area hospitals which had nursing schools. They were given tours of the hospitals, nurses' homes and learned the requirements for admission. The students found this to be very helpful in their selection of a nursing school.

This organization is now called the Medical Careers Club and is still active in the high school with both boys and girls belonging. They are willing workers when the Red Cross Bloodmobile is in the vicinity.

Our Beth

When Edgar Guest wrote "My dear, kind, patient nurse," he must have had Beth Satterthwaite in mind.

Beth was born in Tecumseh. After schooling in Tecumseh, she spent one year at Westtown Boarding School, a Quaker school in Philadelphia, followed by one year at Oberlin College in Ohio. It was then that she decided to enter nursing - so off to Johns Hopkins Training School in Boston.

After graduation, she served with the American Friends Service Comm. in France during WWI. In 1929, when she and her sister Geneva visited her friends there, they were welcomed by an entire town.

After WWI, Beth returned to Tecumseh where she did nursing in homes - caring for the ill and injured, and assisting in the delivery of babies. She worked with all the local doctors, often as long as twenty-four hours at a time.

Beth loved all patients - but especially mothers and babies, and in her spare moments, she would visit them in their homes. Even after the hospital was established, Beth continued her calls, which included the "dear" children who had been hospitalized. And many an elderly former hospital patient was made happy with a visit by Beth.

Beth took a keen interest in the student nursing program. Besides having some of them staying at her home, she took them on trips around the countryside, pointing out the many interesting things in this area. These jaunts included visits to former patients.

Beth has always been dedicated to her patients. During the time the hospital had a home nursing service, Beth paid for many calls on patients such as:

diabetic Bobbie (age three) and the new baby in his home,

Sonja (who was in a hip cast), premature infants after they went home,

a shampoo and "good" bath for a "dear, old friend", baths and dressings for cancer patients.

The year 1960 found a large group gathering for a dinner party honoring Beth's devoted service. Some 300 former hospital employees and students came to greet Beth and her entire family. Bud Guest was the speaker of the evening.

The year 1965 found Beth once again at Johns Hopkins, this time to celebrate her 50th year of nursing.

Much more could be written; but, instead, we will all look forward to March 15, when we can help our devoted nurse celebrate eighty-six wonderful years.

Herrick Memorial Hospital departments and personnel

Our hospital is fortunate to have special departments that offer the community full services from a pharmacy, laboratory, x-ray department, intensive coronary care unit, nursing home, emergency department, and a new social services department.

William Groover, administrator

emergency department

The new emergency area is a very large department in the hospital. In 1975 it serviced over 10,000 people. The department itself consists of 5 rooms: a trauma room for injuries, a cardiac room, medical holding room, examining room, and a cast room. The area also accommodates an outpatient waiting room. A nurse and an aide are on duty all the time and a physician is on duty each weekend from 6 p.m. Friday through 6 a.m. Monday. Also a physician is staffed from 6 p.m. - 6 a.m. each Monday through Thursday.

This department is very important and helpful to our community and we should feel very grateful that we have the availability of this facility.

Role of nurse continually changing

In 1973 the first "Recognition Dinner" was held honoring all employees of Herrick Memorial Hospital with longevity of five or more years. Each five years of service is recognized with the presentation of a pin. At the first dinner eighty active employees were honored. One of these employees was Louise Baird, now retired, who had completed 31 years of nursing service. Tribute was also given to nine other retired employees. The Recognition Dinner has become an established tradition at Herrick Memorial Hospital. The annual event affords an opportunity to express our appreciation and thankfulness to our faithful employees.

Through the years the number of professional nurses employed at Herrick Memorial Hospital has greatly increased. The continuous expansion of the nursing staff is necessary to meet the increased demands of patient care. Many responsibilities have been delegated by the physician to the nurse, making patient care a coordinated team accomplishment.

There are presently 49 Registered Nurses actively employed in rendering patient care. In 1969 the first Licensed Practical Nurse joined the nursing staff. That nurse being Kathy Stites who is presently on the afternoon shift staff. Since then seventeen other L.P.N.'s have joined the staff, five of whom staff the Herrick Memorial Hospital Nursing Home.

The professional nurses are assisted by 70 aides and orderlies. Together these people comprise a nursing team to render quality care to the patients at Herrick Memorial Hospital. We also utilize co-op students from Lenawee Vo-Tech in Adrian.

In 1971 a Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist was added to the staff. This nurse assists in the administration of surgical anesthesia and works under the direction of the attending surgeon. With the addition of the C.R.N.A. we are able to have two operating rooms in full service. The physicians have quality anaesthetists available at all times without using the valuable time of another physician. Lorena Walker, C.R.-N.A., has performed in this capacity since 1971.

The practice of Nursing is an ever changing process. In order to keep nursing personnel current with changes and new developments, Inservice and Continuing Education programs have been established. These programs are offered in both the Hospital and the Nursing Home for the continued professional development of all staff. It is a means by which nursing service strives to attain its goal of "maintaining of and/or restoration to health" of all patients at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Recent programs have included such subjects as: Nursing Assessment of Heart and Lung, series of Obstetrical Nursing programs including "Infants at High Risk," and series of emotional and mental illness programs.

The functions of the nurse have also expanded greatly in recent years. To aid in assisting the nurse to prepare for the new roles an "I.V. Arm" has been purchased by the hospital. This new equipment enables the nurse to practice techniques of intravenous therapy on a simulated patient model. The addition of such equipment has enabled the nursing staff to enhance the nursing care rendered to the patients at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Nursing service has extended continuing education to the patients also. This is accomplished through our patient teaching programs. Long established teaching programs include: "Learning To Live With Diabetes" and "Ostomy Care." More recently available to the patient are, "Care For Your Catheter" and "Psychological Assessment of Cardiac Patients." Future programs to be initiated will be centered about "Pre-operative and Post-operative Patient Teaching."

Education of Expectant Parents has become an important role for the nurse and physician. To help meet our communities need Herrick Memorial Hospital has expanded its Expectant Parent Classes. We are now offering a series of four classes with both mother and father-to-be invited to attend. The classes have been subdivided into: Orientatio Tour, and Nutritior Requirements; Labor and Deliv Breast and Bottle Feeding; and Care of the Newborn Infant. Through the generous donation of the Nursing Staff we now have educational films available for these classes. Participants in the class will also receive literature and samples to help prepare for their new role as parents.

Hazel Kappler, assistant to Norma Moll, Director of Nursing x-ray

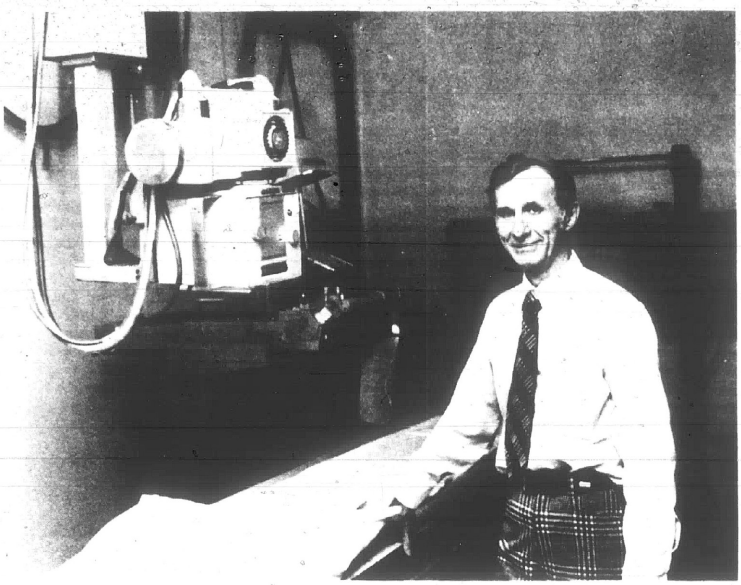
The late Dr. H.H. Hammel in 1938 introduced X-ray to the hospital, and Mary Louise Leighton Futscher (office Nurse) operated the machine. In September 1946 Dr. M.R. Blanden loaned the hospital a 35 milliampere X-ray and Ogland Lay worked as the technician.

The first full X-ray department was installed in February 1948 at a cost of about $5,000 and Drs. Myron Means, Murray Goodrich, and William Peck of Toledo supervised the X-ray work. In 1949 Dr. Donald A. Parker was named the first radiologist and he was assisted by Dr. James W. Boyd. Our present radiologist is Dr. E.J. Dranginis.

The X-ray department was expanded in September 1975 with new waiting rooms, dressing rooms and offices. Ogland Lay is chief X-ray Technologist with 2 assistants and 3 aides. The department does only diagnostic work, no therapy.



Ogland Lay

The laboratory opened November 1946 under the direction of Dr. Bernard Steinberg (Director of Research Laboratories at Toledo Hospital). Ogland Lay was the first technician. In 1956 Dr. H.C. Bryant of Ann Arbor took over as pathologist and continues at that post today. Bill Wolfe A.S.C.P. is the medical technologist and supervisor of the department. He has three technicians and an aide working with him.

Lab work consists of all blood work-ups, enzymes, urinalysis, pro times, and the I.L. Flame machine is used for electrolites. The lab is open seven days a week for patients, 5½ days for out-patients. The department is "on-call" 24 hours. Transfusion service is available.

social services

In 1973 the department of Social Services was formed and Rosemary Howard was named Hospital Social Worker. She assumed this duty for two years and at the present time Kathy Frey is in charge of the department.

The services are grouped in two categories; discharge planning - and information and referral services. Discharge planning concerns the placing of patients who are no longer able to care for themselves without supervision into Extended Care Facilities, Rehabilitation Centers, Nursing Homes, or Adult Foster Care Homes. Some follow-up services are provided to see how patients are adjusting to their new living situations. Information and Referral Services are provided to people who need financial assistance in meeting hospital expenses or to patients and families who need counseling. Referrals are made to the Dept. of Public Health in Adrian and a Health Nurse will visit former patients in their homes who need blood pressure taken, diet checked, or work with some type of physical therapy. Booklets and phamplets are also available through the social services department with the physician's approval.

Nursing in review

The Hospital Auxiliary sponsored the program of the affiliated students starting in 1945. First it was the U.S. Cadet Nurse Corp., and then the Rural Hospital Nursing with the students from Henry Ford Hospital, Grace Hospital, Highland Park General Hospital, and St. Mary's Hospital School of Nursing of Detroit. Later we had students from the University of Michigan, and Wayne State University. For ten (10) years these affiliated students stayed in the homes of the Auxiliary members and became acquainted with the entire community. Two (2) of the Cadet Nurses are on the Staff at this time. Alice Williams, Head Nurse in the ICCU, Midnights, and Margaret Spooner the midnight supervisor.

A salute to former Staff Nurses who are still active in their communities. Hilda Marks, who set up the first operating room at Herrick and later became Major in the U.S. Army serving in hospitals in Texas and England. Other early nurses were Margaret Higgins and Florence Shonsheck who now winter in Florida each year. Others that might be remembered are Delta Croll, Elsie Simonson, Elizabeth Bishop, Myrtle Reed, Margaret Breitenwischer, Jeanne O'Neil Kempf, and Marian Tennant.

After Gertrude Spaulding left she was replaced by Helen Miller Leu who was the Director of Nursing from 1951 to 1959. She now resides in Swanton, Ohio. The Nursing Service Administration is currently under the direction of Norma Moll, R.N. who has been a continuous employee since July 3, 1950. She replaced Mrs. Leu. Assisting in the Administrative nursing responsibilities are Hazel Kappler, Beulah Morris, Anna Tooman, Margaret Spooner and Alyce Dick.

At the present time former Staff registered nurses who are working in our physicians' offices include June Stoner, Maxine Henry, Mary Lou Coury, Linda Martin, and Lucille Staib. Our professional contact with them is always rewarding.

Many nurses that work at Herrick Memorial have been long dedicated to deliverance of health care here. Wanda Cavin has the longest service of 30 years credited to her at this time. Included in that group other than previously mentioned in Administration are Evelyn Braden, Olive Wheeler, Ann Tuckey, Arlene Schuler, Ruth Browne, Helen Kappler, Lillian Diver, Helen Cangley, Kathy Sell, Neva Scoviac, and Glenn Green.

Forgive us if we have forgotten to mention anyone for we are all Good Samaritans together striving for the same cause of restoring health to the sick and aging.

Working with the Auxiliary members continues to play an important role in Patient Care. Their volunteer services and generous gifts of equipment to the Hospital is always greatly appreciated by the Nursing Staff.

In closing may we pause to pay respect to fellow nurses who have died leaving us to continue for them in their honor. Among them are Jennie Gillespie, Elsie Filter, Laura Belle Meier, Margaret Hannevik, and Lauretta Sturgeon. They are remembered in our hearts.

Greetings and Congratulations to the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary on your 35th Birthday Anniversary

I am thrilled you are celebrating your anniversary in this manner. Who would have dreamed in 1941 that you would have such a distinguished service record. I always knew you were a wonderful group of women and I am very proud to have been associated with all of you.

Sincere good wishes to you and best of luck with your present and future projects.

Sincerely,
Gertrude Spaulding

cafeteria

New cafeteria is not only considerably larger than the old one but brighter and more pleasant for dining. The main dining room has a seating capacity of 54, but an attached area seating 18 can be closed off for a private dining room. Meals from a complete, modern kitchen are served to visitors and employees from 11:45 to 1:15 over the noon hour and from 4:45 to 6:15 in the evening.

Susan Dembinsky

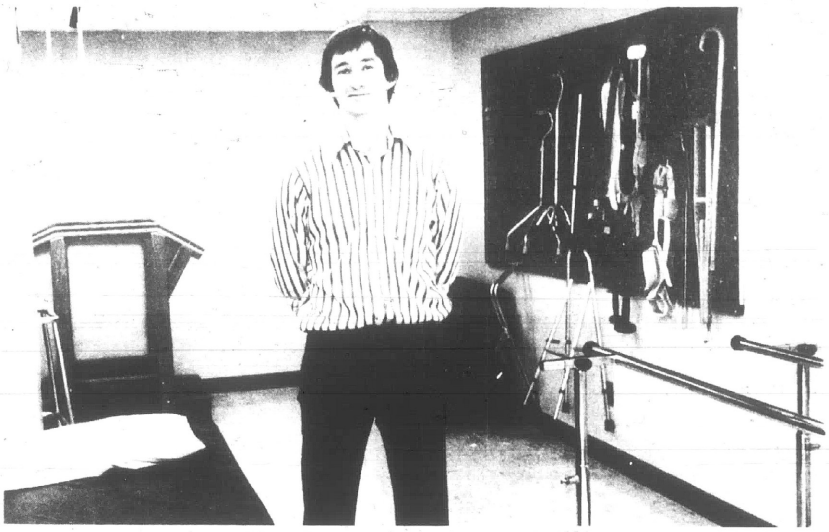
pharmacy

In 1956 the hospital officially opened a pharmacy. Carl Lamb and Steve Walsh organized and operated the department for three years and many of the drugs were purchased through Hodges Drug Store. Dick Uhl was the first full time pharmacist and LaMoyne 'Rost replaced him in 1959 and remained head pharmacist for many years. In September 1975, a new department opened and it will be dedicated in Rost's memory. At present Susan Dembinsky is the hospital pharmacist assisted by Debbie Ward R.PH. and 2 aide technologists. The department is equipped with a Laminar Flow Hood used for I V additives and to sterilize drugs, and the technologists are equipped to make a unit dose (medicine) for any patient. The pharmacy offers 24-hour service and supply seven days a week, and a convenient waiting room is adjacent to the department.

physical therapy

The physical therapy deapartment basically has two aims: Relieve discomforts and help make a patient's hospital stay shorter. Jack Carroll (reg. physical therapist) is head of the department and Becky Stroube is the assistant. Mr. Carroll is from the Para-medical Assoc. in Toledo, Ohio, which is a contract service to help staff hospitals in the area with Physical Therapists.

The department has 5 working rooms; a traction area, exercise room, treatment room, and two whirlpools The services are extended to both in-patients and out-patients, Monday through Friday, and their basic treatment techniques are done with heat, ultra sound, massage, and therapeutic exercises.



Jack Carroll

waiting room

Recent construction enabled hospital officials to double the size of the old waiting room, thus making it considerably more comfortable and attractive. This new facility is completely carpeted and provides seating not only for individuals but for group visiting as well. The plaque honoring the late Ray Herrick dominates a main wall.

Living Memorial Fund for landscaping

Initial steps to improve the appearance of the hospital grounds started in 1962 and 1963 when 74 Tecumseh organizations, individuals and the Auxiliary raised $10,470 for plantings, benches and concrete work for the front of the Hospital.

Since this beginning, memorials and donations have continued to support the Living Memorial Fund for additional plantings and beautification projects.

All contributions have been greatly appreciated, whether the sums were small or large. In 1963 the Little Garden Club received the Sears Outstanding Landscape Award. This gift of $250 was donated for benches and plantings.

About this time 500 daffodils along with flowering trees were planted. A flag pole was erected and one of the plantings included a Christmas tree.

Some ten years ago plantings, bird feeders and benches became part of the Nursing Home landscape. Court yard and patio areas were then developed at a cost of over $10,600.

A relatively minor landscaping plan was completed in 1966 for the east wing of the hospital. These plantings were later moved for the recent construction.

Overall, the landscaping projects have cost in the excess of $24,000. Beautification costs for the Hospital's front was $10,400; front of Nursing Home, $2,000; court yard and patio areas for Nursing Home, $10,600; and $1,000 for the east side of the Hospital.

The Auxiliary earned $11,000 for these projects, and community donation, $13,000.

Last expenditure amounted to $1,000, spent in 1975 by the Auxiliary for sod and stone edging after most of the construction program was completed.

New plans are now visualized for the new and main entrance to the Hospital. Hopes are high that people will continue to support the Living Memorial Fund for plantings in this area.

The Board of Trustees of Herrick Memorial Hospital would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary on completing thirty-five years of continuous service to the hospital.

With our congratulations for achieving this milestone we want to include our sincere thanks for all you have done for the hospital. Words cannot fully express our feelings toward the Auxiliary, for we realize that without this great organization, our hospital would not be what it is today.

Time does not permit nor does space permit the Board to list all the accomplishments of the auxiliary. Please accept our sincere thanks for all you have done.

Vandals on Rampage, Mail Boxes Damaged in Spree

Vandals went on a rampage here the past week with destruction ranging from mail boxes to glass breakage and thefts.

Twelve mail boxes were flattened or destroyed Monday in the Cairns St. and Murray Dr. area. Police are continuing their investigation.

Boxes on Murray included those of John Maynard, James Shavalier, Joan Wallace, Bill Tuberville, Seaman Packard and B. Rothfuss.

Residents on Cairns were Joy Felan, Mrs. David Brown, David Rose, R. Winter and Donald Davis. A damaged mail box for John Seay, 605 Adrian St., may or may not be related to the vandalism in the Cairns-Murray area.

Jack Metcalf, postmaster, says the vandalism is a Federal offense, and the police report will be turned over to the regional postal inspector.

Evidence collected indicates a vehicle, possibly a pickup, was used in flattening the mail boxes. Several subjects are suspected.

Glass breakage reports were:

Mrs. Robert Rupert, 613 Murray Dr., three panes in a house window. Police believe culprit used a slingshot and ball bearing.

Phone booth at the corner of W. Chicago and Pearl St.

Tecumseh Park building, large chunk of concrete was used to damage a window.

Leo Redman, Pawnee Heights, rocks thrown through two large windows.

A window in car, owned by Cornelius Bogman, 126 Herrick Park Dr., while parked in the 100 block of W. Pottawatamie.

Thefts reported were by Alice Mackey, 301 Miami Court, who told officers that a CB radio was taken from her locked car at the public library.

Paul Cubberly, 315 S. Union, had a car battery stolen while parked at the Embers.

Charles Sullivan, 608 Center Dr., told police that a CB radio antenna was snapped off his van while parked in the city's northeast parking lot.

Three Drivers Are Charged in Accidents

Only five traffic accidents occurred on the city streets the past week but three drivers were cited for violations.

Police report is:

Feb. 19 — Ernest W. Oliver, 18, of 201 Maple St., backed out of an alley on N. Evans St. and struck Kathleen G. Underwood, 17, of 4980 E. Monroe Rd.

Feb. 20 — Leon L. Perin, 72, of 12919 Tipton Hwy., was cited for failure to yield after an accident with Royal E. Welch, 50, of 704 River Acres Dr., at the intersection of W. Chicago and Union St.

Feb. 20 — Lynn M. Medvecz, 21, of 113 N. Union was charged with failure to stop within an assured clear distance after running into the rear of a vehicle operated by Jerry W. MacGeorge, 26, of 3851 Kaiser Rd., on W. Chicago Blvd.

Feb. 20 — Loyal L. Lewis, 28, of 738 Waskin Dr., received two citations after an accident involving Fonda S. Bozeman, 17, of 104 S. Division, and Richard E. Lent, 47.

Lewis pulled out of S. Pearl and struck the Bozeman car on W. Chicago Blvd. Lent's car then struck the rear of the Bozeman car. According to the police report, Lewis then left the scene of the accident.

He has been charged with failure to yield and failure to give information at the police department.

Feb. 24 — A tire fell off a truck driven by Timothy L. Venler, 22, Maybee, on W. Chicago at Pearl and struck a vehicle operated by Raymond E. Wright, 45, of 5601 Occidental.

SHERMAN COLE

Sherm Retiring at Fire Dept.

Friday will mark the last day for Sherman Cole as a driver for the city fire department. He turned 65 Tuesday and will retire.

Sherm has been a regular driver for the past 10 years, working shifts most of the time with Jim Forsyth and Lonal Bishop, two regulars who will continue to man the department 24 hours a day, along with George Ruhl, who will start his shift Monday.

A new house trailer was purchased last fall by the Coles, an acquisition indicative of their plans now. They plan to travel, something they've not been able to do in the past.

Prior to becoming a fire truck driver, Sherm worked over 26 years as a maintenance man for Quaker Oats. His employment there goes back to the steam engine era and when Quaker Oats was a big, local industry.

At one time he operated his own garage and remembers going to a Ford Motor Co. mechanic training school with Harry Schuch, when they worked for Chuck Butler at the Ford agency here.

He later sold cars for Irv Buick in Adrian, and since 1960 he has worked part-time for Tecumseh Woodworking Co., a job he will hang onto on a part-time basis.

Sherm and his wife, Ruth, have one daughter, Mrs. Ralph Mohr, and three grandchildren.

Check B&E at Center

Medical Center, just east of Herrick Hospital, was broken into last Thursday with a yet undetermined amount of loss.

A drug, demoral, was taken from Dr. Carlton Cook's office but the amount taken has not been disclosed.

Dr. David Blanden discovered the B&E shortly before 8 a.m.

Entry has been made by breaking through an outside east door. Doors were then forced open to Dr. Cook's office and those belonging to Dr. William Adams and Dr. Blanden, and Dr. Dolores Sion.

Ransacking included desks and cabinets with contents strewn about the offices.

Work Planned for Expansion

Excavation for the addition to Tecumseh High School is due to begin within the next three weeks, Supt. Robert Duhan told board members Feb. 16.

He said that he had met with the contractors and "was encouraged by their attitude" of getting the job started and completed as soon as possible.

Duhan went on to say that he doesn't anticipate any closure of the school, although some inconveniences may arise and certain portions of the present building may have to be vacated.

Trade contracts among the contractors are up in the spring and some labor problems are possible, Duhan informed the board.

If necessary, classes could be continued at St. Elizabeth's Duhan concluded.

Bicentennial Tag for City

Tecumseh has been designated a Bicentennial city by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration. Mayor Harold Easton and the Rev. David Fox, chairman of Tecumseh's Bicentennial Committee received a Mailgram of congratulations last week.

Propose New, Higher Fees for Swimming Facilities

Tecumseh Council was split Feb. 17 over proposed increases for instructional fees and charges for the city's swimming facilities, the Tecumseh Park and Joyce Andrews Memorial Pool.

Council referred the report back to the Parks and Recreation Board for further study.

The Recreation Board suggested raising the daily fee for use of Tecumseh Park, the "Pit," from 35 cents to 50 cents per person. This is an all day fee as in the past.

Fee for the pool would be raised from 35 cents per person to 40 cents, for two hours of swimming.

Passes for residents, defined as a resident of Tecumseh school district, would be raised for families from $35 to $37.50. For individuals the cost is $15.

Non-resident families would be charged $50, five dollars more. Individual passes for non-residents would be $20.

These passes entitle users to unlimited pool and park usage for the entire season.

Councilman Len DeMoss objected to the increases because the summer recreation facilities are used most heavily by a wide group of people, but especially young families with several children.

Mayor Harold Easton objected to the use of city facilities by people in the school district. "These people have been getting a free ride. . .we're just playing Santa Claus."

Other councilmen were stumped for an alternative definition of resident, as some people in Clinton area have a Tecumseh mailing address.

Councilman Ray Puffer, also a member of the Recreation Board said he did not think the increases were exorbitant. Fees have not been changed in several years and city manager, Cal Zorn, cited increasing costs: the minimum wage continues to rise, as does cost of utilities. Zorn said fees are only 50 percent of the city's costs:

Swimming classes would also be raised to $10, a $2 increase for residents and $12.50 or a $2.50 increase for non-residents. Life saving classes would cost residents $12.50, and $15 for non-residents.

Board also suggested that these rates be arranged for resident families—with three or more children taking classes.

Fees for use of the Community Center were proposed to increase, depending on the number of people, use of kitchen for meals, use of kitchen without equipment, and other services.

Damage deposit, returnable if center is left as found, would be $15, raised $5. Non-resident fee of $15 is added to above charges.

Also an $8 individual non-resident fee would be imposed on men's softball team members. Sponsor fee of $150 for a team is the same.

Stan Brion Is New TCC Pro

Stan Brion, Florida golf professional, will be the new pro at the Tecumseh Country Club this year.

His present position is with the President Country Club at West Palm Beach and has considerable experience with various other clubs. He was assistant pro at Tam O'Shanter Country Club at Orchard Lake, Mich., for five years.

Brion was on the golfers' tour from October 1969 through December of 1971.

He succeeds Art Machailke at the local country club.

Brion and his wife, Barbara, and two sons are expected to move here this spring.

City Collects 92% of Tax

City clerk Vera Gardner reports that 92 percent of the winter tax had been collected as of Feb. 17, last day to pay taxes before a penalty.

Only $126,293.60 of the $1,734,796.60 total was not paid.

Police are currently collecting personal tax not paid by owners before the deadline.

2 New Businesses, One Changes Hands

Two businesses were started here in Tecumseh the past week and one is in the process of changing hands. A number of other business changes are being rumored, some probably occuring within the next few weeks.

Donald "Bondo" Moore has purchased Kerby's Restaurant and will take over officially next Monday. He is dropping the 36-year-old name of the business and changing it to "Bondo's."

CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP — Donald Moore, new owner of Kerby's Restaurant, accepts a piece of pumpkin pie from previous owner Mrs. Fern Cutler. The sale will be finalized March 1. Moore plans to make some changes at the diner including changing the 36 year old name. New moniker will be Bondo's. Moore also plans to expand the menu to include stacked roast beef, stacked ham and submarine sandwiches. Hours will also be expanded until 9 p.m. Fern and the rest of the present personnel will remain. (Photo by Frank Weir)

New businesses are being started by Madeline T. Townsend and Robert Beutler.

Mrs. Townsend, a veteran Jackson realtor, has purchased the Mull Building on W. Chicago and has opened a full service real estate office. Her services will include appraising and counseling, plus the sale of residential, commercial, industrial and vacant land properties and farms.

Her husband, John Townsend, owner of Sand Trap golf driving range on M-50, will be a real estate salesman.

Mrs. Townsend, member of Real Estate Alumnus of University of Michigan and a graduate of the University's Real Estate Institute, is only the second woman in Michigan to be an accredited farm and land broker.

Beutler, a graduate of the Colorado School of Trades, has opened a gunsmith shop, repairing and working on small guns. He also expects to hold classes on reloading shells and other related operations pertaining to guns.

His shop will be located on Russell Road.

Madeline Townsend, former realtor of the year for Jackson and a member of Real Estate Law Commission, appointed by Gov. William Milliken, has opened an office in the former Mull Building on W. Chicago Blvd. A member of the Lenawee Board of Realtors, she owned a successful real estate agency in Jackson before moving to 316 Wildwood Circle in July 1974. Her husband, John, will be a salesman, and they expect James C. Hite to join them in the near future. Mrs. Townsend has served on numerous real estate committees at both state and national levels.

MADELINE TOWNSEND

SMITHY—Custom gun repairing, rebluing, or making new gun stocks is Robert Beutler's business. Mr. Beutler is a graduate from Colorado School of Trades which teaches only gunsmithing, where he learned to repair all types of guns including pistols. He hopes to add reloading equipment along with repairing of it, and to give reloading clinics for people to learn to reload themselves. The business is located at 411 E. Russell Rd.He and his wife Mary make there home at 209 S. Van Buren.

If some salesman shows up at your farm, or you read literature extolling chemicals that condition soil, be cautious.

Michigan is being inundated by peddlers of miracle products making claims ranging from ability to improve soil condition to increasing nitrogen fixation and organic matter decomposition. Producers should be extremely wary of such claims" says Dr. Maurice Vitosh, Michigan State University soils specialist.

April 1 is the day for practical jokes and Feb. 12 for Honest Abe, but Sept. 25, 1975 on Feb. 12, 1976, now that is something else. An invisible force at work in the back shop was responsible for the stripped on date line dropping to the floor somewhere between the light table and camera with the resulting incorrect date and umpteen phone calls. Glad to see so many of our readers are on their toes.

Old Letters Interesting

by KATHY BROWN

What could be more sinful than reading someone else's personal letters? What could be more interesting than reading them 140 years later?

Maybe 25, 10 or even five years ago, you were one of the attic prowlers who rummaged through grandmother's belongings, threw away the letters and converted the trunk into a coffee table or toy chest.

If you still have those yellowing correspondences, or know anyone who does, save them, SAVE THEM, SAVE THEM.

Today those letters are an important link with the past. They could provide a living record of the personalities who settled in Tecumseh, especially those who lived in the homes of our historic district.

Several Tecumseh groups would like to have copies of these letters, particularly the library who can make them accessible to everyone.

Since April 1974 the shelves and files of the Clara Waldron Room of the Tecumseh Public Library have rapidly filled with written material and photographs to assist students, local historians, genealogists and writers interested in Tecumseh's history.

(Contributions to the library's collections are always welcome.)

Now the library is proving to be a gold mine of information for homeowners and the Tecumseh Historic District Study Committee, which are interested in digging up the history of Tecumseh's oldest homes and their original owners.

So what can you learn by reading someone else's mail?

Plenty — about the writer's personality, (which is especially significant if he or she lived in one of the historic homes), about historical dates, (perhaps when a property was built, sold or who the architect was) and a great deal about life, times and customs of Tecumseh pioneers.

Paul Cunningham, Tecumseh High School teacher, has copies of letters written by Tecumsehites some 140 years ago. Although they are not written by persons familiar to this writer, they are interesting pages of Tecumseh's past.

The most intriguing letter was written by a Frenchman, "L. de Bonneville" of Tecumseh to Monsieur Donsard of Monroe, (Dec. 20, 1842). Jan Harrison translated the letter for the Tecumseh Herald.

The writer apparently had a sense of humor and was an attractive man since the townspeople had him "married willy-nilly."

That he was a French teacher there is no doubt; he had a class of 25 pupils in Tecumseh alone. But his second occupation is a complete mystery.

He was a "Magnetiseur," who attempted to cure through "magnetism" people which medicine failed to help.

He traveled to Adrian and Toledo, where he boasts "they" converted three-fourths of the population.

He wanted to travel with "Gen. Murphy" to Chilicothe but a friend suggested he go to Detroit where he could make more money.

Another juicy item is a letter to a lady friend, written by C.B. Simmons to Miss Electra T. Collins of Utica, N.Y., (Sept. 23, 1835).

Simmons describes the sickness and drought of the Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois territories. His business partner, "Col. Holmes" was recovering from a fever that had been fatal for others. However he described business as "more plenty" and produce getting a good price.

He mentions he has considered being a farmer but thinks settling down would be lonely.

He hints at a proposal, noticing she stills uses her maiden initials. The letter includes compliments to her and her family.

A business letter from VanNest and Clark of Tecumseh (Jan. 3, 1844) to a Buffalo businessman, Sidney Shepard, describes land Mr. Shepard is interested in buying between what is now Britton and Dundee, along M-50. Going price was $2 - $3 an acre.

Van Nest amuses his reader by describing how he and his partner sent the sheriff to bear New Year's greetings to a creditor with a dunning note for $1,000.

Finally a letter from Mary and James Eaton to their son, C.M. Eaton in Lawrence County, Ill. details the rough life of the early settlers.

Though a few crops faired well in Tecumseh in 1830, fruit was cut by frost. The 80 acres they lived on were fretile but their home, 30x20, has no doors, windows or chimney, only a stove to read by.

G.W. Eaton's wife was ill; her twin sons, Sidney and Cyrous also lived with the James Eatons. Pioneering the west meant long separation for this family; the Tecumseh mother missed her son and has not yet met his wife and two daughters.

Poison Prevention

Each year many hundreds of children under five years of age die as a result of accidental poisoning.

Ingestion of poisons is not the only method of accidental poisoning. Some substances can be absorbed through the skin or inhaled in lethal amounts and this presents another problem that calls for care in handling and use.

Several fatalities have been reported where children have crawled through areas on which highly toxic insecticides have been spilled.

The major factors involving poisons are: Improper storage, improper handling, improper disposal.

Most frequently ingested substances by children under five years old are: aspirin, insecticides, bleach, detergents, soaps, cleaners, furniture polish, kerosene, vitamins and iron preparations, disinfectants, deodorizers, laxatives.

It has been aptly stated that education is the only vaccine against accidents.

Care Inc., Lenawee County's substance abuse program works closely with Lenawee County schools in education and prevention.

Care Inc. is able to present programs to any age group, day or evening. For more information call 263-0888.

Poison Prevention Week is March 21-27.

PRE-PLANNING

The seriousness of the situation was evident in the nurse's voice.

"Could you please come to the hospital right away, Pastor Miller? Mr. Gary has just had a cardiac arrest and his wife is absolutely beside herself!"

"How does it look for him?" asked Pastor Miller.

"We just don't know which way it's going to go," she said, "but it doesn't look good at all."

Pastor Miller placed the phone back in its cradle. It was six o'clock on a pleasant summer Saturday evening. Death, in any shape or form, he thought, seemed entirely inappropriate. Nevertheless, in slightly less than two hours, Mr. Gary died.

Pastor Miller explained that although Mrs. Gary had support from relatives and good friends she was unprepared to handle all the arrangements to be made in the hours and days after her husband's death. Decisions and details, many of which could have been attended to long ago, confronted her.

Pre-planning is sensible

Planning for death and burial is reasonable, logical and practical. Perhaps we do not like to think about our own funerals, much less plan for them. But, in fact, there are three very sound reasons for pre-planning.

First, it brings the subject into the open, where it can be discussed by members of the family. Second, pre-planning enables a person to make his wishes clearly known, thus guiding survivors and making their decision-making that much wiser and easier. Third, it can eliminate completely any possible disagreement as to doing "what would be most appropriate" or "what he or she would have wanted us to do."

(This is one of a series of short articles I hope will be helpful. We welcome your questions -- in private or publicly through this column.)

Calls To Cost More

Feb. 28, basically higher rates go into effect for calls between Michigan and other states in the continental United States.

Even with the increases, interstate long distance rates will be generally what they were in 1953, claims General Telephone Company.

Most 'rate mileage groups' for direct dialed calls will increase from a cent to three cents, a few will not change at all; and charges for some longer-distance calls will actually decrease."

Calls requiring operator assistance, such as collect, credit card, coin, hotel guest, third party and person-to-person calls, rates for the initial three minutes will go up as much as $1.05.

Dialing calls direct will now become an even greater savings feature for both residential and business customers.

Increased rates were also approved for most interstate private line services and interstate Wide Area Telecommunications Service (WATS), used mainly by business customers.

The rate structure remains basically the same. A one minute minimum charging period will still apply on calls dialed direct from residence or business telephones and a three minute minimum will still apply to operator handled calls.

Discounts of 35 and 60 percent continue to apply on all calls dialed direct during "evening" and "night and weekend" periods, respectively.

Also, the reduced "evening" rates will continue to apply on five legal holidays: New Year's Day, July 4th, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas Day.

General Telephone will provide its customers with a new Interstate rate chart and discount schedule with their regular March billing, beginning March 8.

Letter to The Editor:

To the Members of City Council:

We wish to express our appreciation to our Mayor Harold Easton, for his understanding and reassurance after our experience this past week.

On Feb. 17, following melting snow and a heavy rain, our yard bordering Evans Creek was entirely flooded and the water was rapidly approaching the house. We became alarmed and called the city office, talking to Mr. (Cal) Zorn (city manager).

His helpful reply was that he did not control the weather.

Our next call was to Mr. Easton. He came to our home and felt the water would have to rise another three feet before we would be flooded. He advised us to watch closely and call him if this should occur.

His (re)assurance and helpfulness relieved our apprehension immediately, knowing we had someone to depend on.

The Creek did go down and we are deeply grateful to know we have a mayor who is obviously concerned for the welfare of others.

Juvenile Justice Discussed at Community Drop-In Center

Juvenile Justice was the program topic for the Community Drop-In Feb. 10 meeting at the Community Center.

A panel consisted of David Stanifer, director, Juvenile Division of Probate Court; Roger Hendricks, childrens Protective Services; Sgt. Larry Brenner, youth officer of Lenawee County Sheriff's Department and Mrs. Lois Taveirne, attendance officer, Lenawee Intermediate School District.

Each panelist described his or her work with juveniles and how he or she cooperates with the parents, schools and other juvenile agencies.

New legislation in the area of child protection was discussed. Mr. Brenner of Children's Protective Services told that neglect or abuse must be proven and should be reported as soon as possible, before the bruises disappear.

Under new laws, certain people, i.e. a teacher, is responsible to report signs of child abuse.

Handling of 17-year-olds, who are not adults but may be charged as such, was discussed.

The panel and parents also discussed pending legislation which would among other things, propose status offenses and victimless crimes be removed from the jurisdiction of juvenile courts.

"Status offenses" include truancy, incorrigibility and running away.

A bill introduced by Michigan State Legislator, Rep. H. Lynn Jondahl, (D) Dist. 59, would eliminate the use of the juvenile courts to help parents and school officials deal with these problems. As a result of this bill, parents would have no control over the child in these cases.

The case against removing status offenses from the courts jurisdiction is reported in the National Observer, Jan. 31, 1976 in the story "Janice's Only Problem Is Her Behavior." by Maurice B. Cohill Jr., a juvenile court judge in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Stanifer suggested parents do more than oppose the Jondahl bill and suggest an alternative to removal of status offenses from the court.

Co-chairpersons for the program were Mrs. Clara Stevens, Tecumseh and Mrs. Barbara Poley, Tipton.

Mrs. Judy Burnside and Mrs. Nancy Schreiber assisted Mrs. Jane Holt with clean-up. Hostesses were Audrey Christenson and Rae Lynne Mattis. Student babysitters were Janice Stevens, Rodney Turner, Pam Knisely, Steve Phelps and Judy McVay.

Juvenile Court Seeking Volunteers

The Lenawee County Juvenile Court is seeking volunteers to work with juveniles who are on probation.

Each volunteer attends three evenings of training at Maurice Spear Campus, where he learns about the Juvenile Court process, views a film about a typical volunteer's experience, and receives specific guidelines and suggestions in dealing with the probationer.

The volunteer and the juvenile work together for about nine months, or until the probationary period has been successfully completed.

Each volunteer works with one juvenile, meeting with him at least once a week for approximately two hours. Monthly progress reports are submitted by the volunteer to the Volunteer Coordinator.

Referrals to the Juvenile Court number about four males to every female, thus, male volunteers are especially needed.

Anyone wishing to volunteer may contact Thomas Jacobs, coordinator of the Juvenile Court Volunteer Services Program weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at 263-8831, ext. 223.

Book Review

"Times to Remember"

Mrs. Cecile Smith reviewed the book "Times to Remember," by Rose Kennedy, for members of the Tecumseh Monday Club, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Smith quoted Mrs. Kennedy's statement that she was glad to be an American, a Democrat and of the Catholic faith. She did not refer to the political aspects of the book.

She presented a picture of the young Irish girl growing up in Boston, where her father, as Mayor, presented her high school diploma, her courtship by Joe Kennedy, which did not receive the complete approval of her father, but as she said, "love will find a way."

Their subsequent marriage began the founding of the Kennedy clan. Nine children were born to this union.

Mrs. Smith concluded by quoting Mrs. Kennedy, "it is a strange aspect of human nature - or perhaps a saving grace, that we tend to expect the best and discount the possibilities of the worst, even though experience shows that the worst often happens."

President, Mrs. Melvin Ruettinger conducted the business meeting.

The proposed budget for the new year was read and accepted by the members.

Announcement was made of a Federation of Womens Clubs Seminar, to be held at the Olds Plaza in Lansing, Feb. 24-25.

A letter from Mrs. William Flanders advised that auditions for the Music Camp scholarships will be held March 23, at 7 p.m. at Flanders Music Co. Qualifications and pertinent data must be received by March 19.

A report on the recent Federation of Women's Clubs meeting held in Tecumseh, was given by Geraldine French.

The official General Federation commemorative plates, including the fourth and last of the series were on display. Sculptured in antique powder blue or Colonial milk glass, these collector's plates in their entirety, depict a complete portrait of Liberty.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul Maves, Mrs. Allen Wise and Mrs. Cleon Mason. Geraldine French and Mrs. Catherine Weikart presided at the tea table, which was decorated in the patriotic theme.

Camp Fire F-D Banquet Set

Tecumseh Area Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls will have their Father-Daughter Banquet in St. Elizabeth Center March 13, at 6:30 p.m.

All girls and their fathers are invited.

Sunday, March 14 is "Go to Church Sunday." All the girls are to attend church as a group in the Camp Fire uniform.

A church bulletin insert contest is now in progress. Theme is "Camp Fire Salutes America on its Birthday."

Girls are encouraged to get entries in early. Leaders hope to have lots of winners.

Feb. 14 the Tecumseh Camp Fire and Blue Birds enjoyed a Valentine Party, given by the leaders association at the recreation room of the Lee Villa Mobile Court.

Games were played, directed by Mrs. Laurence Slick and daughter, Daisy, Mrs. Richard Covell, Mrs. Douglas Sherman, Mrs. Paul Hover and Mrs. Richard Mohr.

Girls winning prizes were: Patty Kosky, Brenda Klawitter, Amy Sherman, Patti Ringman, Carol Hayden, Amy Brooks, Dawn Frazier, Nancy Birdwell, Lisa Evans, Becky Connin, Kelly Armstrong, Wendy Helm, and Wendy Phelps.

Red gelatin, cupcakes and pink lemonade were served by Mrs. Roger Partridge, Mrs. Joseph Szeman, Mrs. Henry Thompson, Mrs. Ted Moiser, Mrs. Carl Ruper and Peggy Heimbaugh and Mrs. Leroy Connin.

Valentine suckers and double heart bracelets were given to each girl. Sixty-eight girls attended. Charles Guiles gave a gift of money to help with this event.

Through My Window

MYAKKA WITH BETTY AND DON

First, Betty and Don Porteous are fine. They looked good and seemed to be having a fine vacation. They send best regards to all their Tecumseh friends. You can well imagine that we were bombarded with how is —, what happened to —, and where are — type questions. Now to our adventure in Myakka State Park --.

It all started with a telephone call during which Betty asked Mom if we would be interested in going to Myakka? It did not take Mom long to say that we certainly would be. The arrangements were made and Saturday Betty and Don arrived.

This state park is a real gem, covering 28,875 acres it is the largest land park in Florida. It is located east of Sarasota on State Road 72.

It is picturesque, with moss-draped trees arching over the roadways, and a good mixture of picnic and camping areas for people, shallow lakes for birds and alligators, and enough non-developed land for animals. A marvelous spot.

An illustration of how excited I was: Don had just wheeled me down the ramp when the sprinklers along the drive turned on. I was explaining how the lawn irrigation system works and when Mom, Dad and Betty came out of the coach they rushed to rescue the jackets, tote-bags and picnic supplies.

I had been looking at them but it did not register that they were being irrigated as well as the yard. Fortunately the Florida sun dries things well and no harm was done.

Our route this day took us over the Sunshine Bridge. This is a thrill in itself. Along the causeway out of St. Petersburg we saw the usual gulls, herons, egrets, anhingas, pelicans and a few ducks.

There were also tiny shore birds, scurrying along the beach, but none of us noticed any cormorants. This was a surprise for these birds are usually sitting one on every post and piling.

The big thrill, and one which was completely unexpected, was a sailing regatta. We could not have planned it any better — the large yachts were grouped together near the bridge.

Their sleek hulls and billowing sails, the bright sunshine and the sparkling waters of the bay — well, it was a breathtaking sight. According to the account in the paper, there were 76 yachts in the race. Magnificent.

As we neared the park Betty explained that we should be watching for armadillos. Hardly were the words out of her mouth when she saw one.

Fortunately traffic was light so Don could back up thus giving us a good look at this strange pre-historic type little animal. Almost all dictionaries have a picture along with the definition of an armadillo. They are easier to see than describe.

Once inside the park there were more armadillos. One was foraging for food close to the road. It was not a bit afraid of a car of course but neither was it inclined to do anything except look for food.

After we had watched it for some minutes, Don eased out of the car and cautiously tried to circle back of the animal hoping to start it running towards the wagon. No way.

At an amazing clip the armadillo ran the other way — we were surprised at how fast this 'armoured tank' could run.

And, when Don came back to the car, he reported that, as the little guy dug an escape hole in the loose ground, he kept growling.

Next we came to a shallow canal. Birds! All of the usual were there as well as a large, some 38 inches high, great white heron. Its size plus the big yellow bill and long yellow legs were characteristics we checked even though he was standing some distance away.

Not a first but this is not a bird we often see. At this same spot we did add a first. A white ibis. This 22-inch white bird with long pink or red legs and a moderately long slender neck is unmistakable because of his long decurved bill and reddish face.

We saw several, two were stalking through the reeds at the water's edge and another flew across the road.

This was a particularly nice day, the sun was bright and the wind not too strong. Even so the park was not over-run with people.

As we pulled into one viewing area after another there were always egrets or herons to watch and never was there the slightest trouble in finding room to park.

In fact, more often than not we were the only car. Even at the main viewing area, the Basin, there were surprisingly few people.

This was the place we unloaded Marda and her wheelchair for some careful work with the binoculars and bird books as well as a picnic dinner.

Action Urged on Election Commission

Ken Ross, co-coordinator of Lenawee County Common Cause, has sent a letter to U.S. Representative Edward Hutchinson urging his support for a reconstituted Federal Election Commission.

Common Cause urges prompt action on the Mikva-Frenzel bill, a bill currently before the U.S. House of Representatives which would provide for Presidential appointment of commission members.

On Jan. 30, the U.S. Supreme Court, although it upheld major portions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1974, declared the method of appointment to the Federal Election Commission unconstitutional.

Under the 1974 Act, two of the members were named by the party leaders in the Senate, two by the party leaders in the House, and two by the President.

The Court granted a 30-day extension of the powers of the Commssion, giving Congress time to enact corrective legislation.

If enacted by the end of February, the Mikva-Frenzel bill would provide a Federal Election Commission which is constitutional in the eyes of the Supreme Court, and would continue to discharge its duties without interruption.

Mid-Year Ceremony Held

The third grade Blue Birds of Ridgeway School held their mid-year ceremonial at the home of Mrs. Paul Hover, leader on Feb. 12.

Girls received caroling patches, membership cards, charms and candy sale charms and certificates.

Top salesmen were Julie Kujawa, Vicki Hover and Karen Booker. Vicki Hover received her three year membership award. Guests included members of the Macon Women's Club, their sponsors.

Officers for the second semester were installed. They include: Pam Cartmell, president; Liz Valdez, treasurer and Julie Kujawa, secretary. The group voted to change its name to "Red, White and Blue Birds" in keeping with the Bicentennial theme.

Last month the girls wrote letters to hospitalized veterans in Veterans Administration Hospital, Allen Park. This was part of the "No Greater Love" project of National Camp Fire.

They also snowmobiled at the David Brooker farm. Now one of the Kitty Kurtis Farms, it was originally owned by Henry Ford Farms.

The girls toured the farm and tractor-barn where all the Ford tractors were kept in good repair during the Ford era in Macon.

During February, the girls worked on their family trees. The four generation records were designed by Mrs. James Thomas of the Daughters of the American Revolution to encourage the girls to learn more about their own families during the Bicentennial year.

Blue Birds are the youngest group within Camp Fire Girls, a United Fund Agency.

Jewels & gems

By Dick Eggleston

A few years ago, the Hong Kong government lifted its ban on jade exports. Since then, American imports of stones and Chinese type carvings have increased steadily. The export of nephrite jade from Alaska and British Columbia has boosted the supply as well. Jade comes in many colors, though most laymen think it is always green. Some colors are found only in jadeite, others only in nephrite, but both may be black, white, or pale or dark green. The best thing about this stone is that it is very versatile, and can be made into beautiful ornaments, as well as decorations of every kind.

Many different kinds of stones in a wide variety of jewelry plus stainless flatware and other items can be seen at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. Double vegetable dishes, butter dishes with glass liners and caps, beverage pitchers and sauce bowls and ladles plus many other stainless steel items are on display.

GEM FACT: If two stones are equal in the quality of their cut, color and clarity, the larger one will naturally be more valuable. But carat weight is the least important factor.

Blood Pressure Clinic Feb. 27

Having your blood pressure taken is a simple and easy process. It takes less than one minute.

The Tecumseh Jaycee Auxiliary will hold a Free Blood Pressure Clinic on Friday, Feb. 27 from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. at First Federal Savings and Loan, Tecumseh.

Nurses from Herrick Hospital have volunteered to take the blood pressures.

The clinic will not be a treatment center. People with abnormal readings will be advised to see their family physician should an abnormal reading be discovered.

This clinic is provided as a service to Tecumseh by the Jaycee Auxiliary.

Everybody has blood pressure. It is the force of the blood against the arterial walls. The force is generated by the heart as it pumps or beats. Without it blood wouldn't circulate in your body.

When the arterioles clamp down in your body, pressure rises and stays up the result is high blood pressure.

In a small percentage of individuals, the condition can be relieved by curing a disease or surgery. But the most common kind of high blood pressure, "primary high blood pressure" is a condition that does not seem to be related to any disease.

The cause is unknown, although some doctors think reasons may be body chemistry, emotions or heredity.

Some of the common symptoms are persistent headaches, fatigue and tension. Dizziness and shortness of breath may be another sign but most patients have no unusual symptoms. These may result from a variety of causes.

Don't diagnose yourself, see your doctor and have your blood pressure checked.

The possibility of stroke — blood vessel damage in the brain - is increased if you have high blood pressure. But if treated, stroke risk is reduced. Prolonged high blood pressure can also affect the heart, kidneys and nervous system.

Medicines and other kinds of therapy are used to bring blood pressure down. These theraputic programs should be followed as long as prescribed.

The amount of fat you're carrying around your middle may also affect blood pressure. When you lose weight, you lower your blood pressure, protect your health and reduce the risk of heart attack.

Besides eating moderately, other general health habits you should practice to reduce stroke risk include; get plenty of rest and recreation (ask your doctor to recommend a sound diet and exercise program for you), quit smoking and reduce alcohol consumption.

To monitor and treat blood pressure, ask your doctor to check your pressure or go to the nearest clinic for a pressure check.

You should do this even if you feel well, because high blood pressure may have no noticeable symptoms.

For more information contact your doctor or the Michigan Heart Association of the American Heart Association.

FREE BLOOD PRESSURE CLINIC will be Feb. 27 at the First Federal Savings and Loan, Tecumseh from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Nurses from Herrick Hospital have volunteered to take the blood pressures. Clinic is sponsored by the Jaycee Auxiliary. Process takes less than a minute and can help you monitor your health. Marjorie Ball of the Auxiliary and Ethel Wellnitz, R.N. demonstrate. Play Reviewed

A Play Review by Kathy Brown

The only horribly bad thing about the Tecumseh Players performance Sunday night, Feb. 22 at the Community Center was that the theatre troupe did not play to the full house it deserves.

Even if you have seen it played before, "Ten Little Indians" by Agatha Christie is a genious of a play that keeps you guessing "whodunit?" until the end.

The play was cast well. Peg Geiger directs smoothly.

The entire play takes place on Indian Island, off the coast of Devon, England. Ten houseguests have been assembled by an unknown host for what they think is a holiday. It turns out to be a massacre by a mad avenger.

A mysterious voice accuses each of murder, though none are punishable by law.

One by one they are murdered according to the nursery rhyme above the mantle. Symbolically a ceramic Indian turns up missing after each murder.

A few of the performances are exceptional.

Howard Furry as General MacKenzie is impressive as the nervous little man who sent his wife's lover into a death trap. MacKenzie becomes paranoid with guilt. You can see the actor's palms sweat and turn white.

Dr. Carlton Cook plays a doctor for the first time. As Dr. Armstrong, he is the nerve doctor who slowly becomes a bundle of nerves. His characterization heightens the drama.

Dorothy Wetter gives a convincing performance as Emily Brent, the self-rightous Christian. She is so godly the audience can hardly wait for her to get knocked off.

Gregg King as Blore, the detective, is blustery as he should be.

Lori Egli, as Vera Claythorne, the capable social secretary, tries to be helpless. She is excellent in scenes of confrontation.

Jim Johnson's humor in the role of Philip Lombard contrasts the tension and excitement of the murder mystery and draws you deeper into the drama.

Gail Rothfuss, Sir Lawrence Wargrave, complete with snow white hair, is beyond reproach.

However Ray Lovett as the spoiled playboy, Anthony Marston, overdoes the British accent.

Bob Miller and Louise Lawson, the husband and wife domestics failed to establish a convincing rapport.

In general, some of the accused murderers are too matter-of-fact in presenting a self-defense. This slows the drama.

The setting is realistic. The stage crew made the players' going smooth.

Gads, when will the players have a home to call their own? If there is any reason why the attendance is down, it can't be the talent.

You have a chance to judge for youself on Feb. 26, 27 and 28 at 8 p.m. at the Community Center. Call 423-5689 for tickets.

Letter to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

After four years as a member of the Village Council and after much thought and deliberation, I have decided to run for the office of President, as a write-in candidate.

In the past the Village electors have had little or no choice in electing a president or councilmember, for whoever ran, was usually elected.

We need a full time President who has the time and effort which the office demands and needed to correct certain inequities which now exist. Such as water metering, private plowing of certain property, council records and taxes controlled by the township and etc. Looks like existing trailers in Britton will stay???

The taxpayers are not being informed as they should. Also there are other areas, and if elected on a write-in ballot (for President) March 8th, I can then become more effective in correcting the above issues and problems.

Your council is as good as the President you have.

I would appreciate your support. Let us get out and vote. You have a choice.

Vote for Bert Wade as write-in councilman and Henry Mastie as President.

Henry Mastie

Dorcas Class Holds Meeting

BRITTON — Nine members of the Dorcas Class and two guests enjoyed the potluck dinner served in the fellowship center of the Congregational Christian Church Thursday noon by the refreshment committee composed of Mrs. Lillian Rodgers and Mrs. Helen Osterhout.

In the afternoon a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Nina Taylor, the class president. Mrs. Mae Willis reported the Sunshine Committee's activities,and Mrs. Lillian Rodgers gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Theo Willis who was in charge of devotions and the program read the First Psalm. For the Bicentennial theme the story of "America the Beautiful," written in 1893 by Katherine Lee Bates, was presented. Mrs. Willis then read a poem from the Monroe Evening News and one from the Michigan Farmer.

The meeting closed with the "Lord's Prayer."

On Saturday, with the help of his Aunt Diane Kotlarczyk, Mrs. Brablec hosted another birthday party with nine of Denny's playmates. Mothers of the children were also guests at the party.

Refreshments were served which featured another birthday cake.

Denny received many toys as gifts.

SHE'LL BE COMING ROUND THE MOUNTAINS? More like through the Irish Hills in this part of the country. Still the National Bicentennial Wagon Train will be in Tecumseh May 24. To find out more about it and what you can do to participate in the celebration, attend a town hall meeting at city hall Thursday, Feb. 26, at 7:30 p.m. Bob Glenn and Harold Easton, local coordinators, will show slides and discuss the momentous visit. Two hundred riders and 20 wagons are expected.

DOG LICENSES may be purchased at city hall until March 1, 1976. Kay Lincoln, left, illustrates the simple procedure. Bring a rabies vaccination certificate and $4. Deputy clerk, Dolly Robinson or clerk, Vera Gardner will complete license certificate and present owner with a numbered dog tag. State requires all dogs be licensed annually.

DOG OWNERS

March 1st Is Last Day

by KATHY BROWN

If you own a dog six months old or older, you should know that you can still purchase your dog's annual license for $4 in Tecumseh until March 1.

After that time, license must be purchased at the County Courthouse in Adrian and will cost you $6.

All that is necessary to license your dog is a certificate of vacinnation for rabies, signed by the veterinarian, and $4. Each dog, male, female or unsexed, six months old or older must be licensed.

The city clerk-treasurer, Vera Gardner or deputy clerk, Dolly Robinson will issue a license with the name and address of owner, and dog's description and present you with a numbered tag for the dog to wear that reads: "Michigan Dog License, tag number, Lenawee County."

Issued by the county a dog license is required by the state and must be applied for annually even though rabies shots are good for two years.

Besides being proof of vaccination, the numbered license helps public safety officers with dog control.

The city treasurer issues the license on behalf of the county between December and March 1 to enable owners to purchase the license at tax time. The $2 penalty after March 1 is added to encourage early purchase.

For this service the city receives 15 cents from each dog license sold. Last year the city sold 258 licenses for a total of $1,032. City's share was $38.70.

After July 10 the cost of the license is $2 for newly acquired dogs; the license is purchased at the County Courthouse, Adrian.

Remainder of the dog license fees go into the county's general funds. They help pay for the county dog census and stock claims, usually made by farmers.

In the case of destruction of an animal by a dog, the victim's owner may file a claim with the county.

Claims are investigated by the township supervisor and reviewed by a claims committee. Effort is made to find the culprit and owner and seek reimbursement for the county. In most cases the county ends up paying.

If a claim is denied, the victim's owner may file suit with the dog's owner, if known, in small claims court.

The practice of a stock claim made to the county goes back to the days when farmers worried more about licestock than personal injury, because livestock meant livelihood.

Now however, the county is trying to reduce the number of stock claims with a new dog ordinance being written.

BOOK MARK

News from the Tecumseh Library

Here are just a few of the new nonfiction books for adults at Tecumseh Public Library.

Now there is help for people who are bewildered by the many commercial self-improvement courses on the market today, from speed reading to weight loss to developing psychic powers.

IMPROVING YOURSELF, by Gary D. Yanker, evaluates many types of programs, discussing how much improvement one can logically expect as well as some of the illogical arguments used to lure customers into trying the courses.

In addition, he evaluates specific courses, such as the Carnegie Course and Harry Lorayne's memory course. This book is well worth reading for anyone looking into a commercial self-improvement course.

Harry Lorayne's latest book is REMEMBERING PEOPLE. The author expands on his technique of word association to help people remember names and faces.

YOUR LEGAL RIGHTS, edited by Kenneth P. Norwick, is a beginner's guide to legal rights. Much of the book deals with the ins and outs of the legal process, including such basics as how to get a lawyer and the definitions of many legal terms.

However, since knowing current laws is one of the best ways to secure one's rights, space is also devoted to current laws in areas such as welfare, Consumers' rights, employment, and the rights of students and children.

YOU AND YOUR WILL, by Paul P. Ashley, deals with problems involved in drafting a will and arranging an effective administration. Reducing taxes, costs and management fees are among the topics discussed, as well as trusts and feduciaries. This book is very good for readers with no background in the subject.

Marjorie Holmes, author of TWO FROM GALILEE, I'VE GOT TO TALK TO SOMEBODY, GOD, and others, has finally written the story of her own personal search for God. Readers will enjoy learning how Mrs. Holmes found God through everyday experiences, such as nature, birth, death, and work.

RELIGIONS OF AMERICA, by Leo Rosten, is a new edition of a well known older book. Judaism, Catholicism, and the Protestant sects are described in chapters written by experts in each area. The history of each persuasion, major beliefs, and official stands on moral issues are explained.

There are also chapters on agnostics and "unchurched" Americans. RELIGIONS OF AMERICA makes fascinating browsing. It would also be helpful to lay people curious about specific beliefs and major similarities and differences among American religious sects.

Have you noticed how many picture books are about animals? The Tecumseh Public Library has quite an assortment.

There's THE LIONESS WHO MADE DEALS by Fred Gardner, about a greedy cat who keeps trading unless she receives the reward she deserves. An easy reading sequel to the Babar the Elephant stories is BABAR LOSES HIS CROWN by Laurent De Brunhoff. An elephant also starts in THE MYSTERY BEAST OF OSTERGEEST, it's by Stephen Kellogg, and tells of a town seeing such a beast for the first time.

Almost as big a subject is WHAT CAN A HIPPOPOTAMUS BE? by Mike Thaler with very funny possibilities. Or eat up PYTHON'S PARTY by the colorful Brian Wildsmith.

For smaller creatures there's THE LACE SNAIL by Betsy Byars about a snail that leaves a trail of lace. FIONA'S BEE by Beverly Keller tells of an unusual pet. MARTHA THE MOVIE MOUSE by Arnold Lobel is a rags to riches story in verse.

Other likable rodents are Ellen Conford's JUST THE THING FOR GERALDINE, a sequel to IMPOSSIBLE POSSUM, or try WAKE UP, GROUNDHOG by Carol Cohen, the title gives a clue to the story.

Another kind of hog can be found in PIG TALE, Helen Oxenbury's look at the "grass that's greener."

For lovers of old-fashioned books, don't miss Leslie Brook's THE STORY OF THE THREE BEARS. Definitely less conventional is Rosemary Wells' story of ABDUL, the camel who gives birth to a horse.

Or try a wordless picture book by Ruth Carroll called WITCH KITCHEN that's good for smiles anytime. For the easy-readers, chuckle over DINNER AT ALBERTA'A with Mrs. Crocodile's complaint that her son is "eating like a regular little beast" — it's hard to decide which is funnier, Russell Hoban's story or the crazy drawings by James Marshall.

Robert Quackenbush uses a carton style for TOO MANY LOLLIPOPS, the story of Henry Duck's attempt to follow the doctor's orders. Two more easy-reading birds are OWL AT HOME by Arnold Lobel or his wife, Anita's, KING ROOSTER, QUEEN HEN.

Two very special books are PEZZETTINO by Leo Lionni and TIGER FLOWER by Robert Vavra. Pezzettino mean "little piece," and is the tale of a single piece living by himself in a world of mosaic-like creatures.

The importance of all creatures, no matter how small, is the result of Pezzettino's search. Adults will enjoy TIGER FLOWER as much as the children reading this unusual fantasy of a peaceful world by Robert Vavra.

Man Is Charged in Destruction

Joseph C. Gottschalk, 23, of 383 Pentecost Hwy., was arrested Tuesday by Tecumseh Police and charged with a recent destruction of mail boxes in the Cairns St. and Murray Dr. area.

He was taken to District Court in Adrian and released on his own recognizance.

Gottschalk was an early suspect in a spree that resulted in 12 mail boxes being damaged Monday of last week. Police suspected that a vehicle was used in flattening the posts and boxes, and Gottschalk's pickup was found to have some damages.

Other vandalism, larcenies and thefts investigated the past week by police here were:

Feb. 25 - James Lawson, 7221 Hendershot Rd., reported that a can of beer was thrown through a window in his car while parked at 122 N. Ottawa.

Feb. 25 - Mary Mathews, 4939 Milwaukee Rd., had a vehicle drive across her lawn, damaging sod, and scattering garbage about her lawn.

Feb. 25 - Donna Collins, 3483 Russell Rd., reported a bicycle taken from a rack at Tecumseh Acres School. Value was $69.

Feb. 25 - Bruce Davis, 301 E. Pottawatamie, reported a dog, belonging to Randy Baggett, was running loose. Others also reported the dog at large and threatening. Bagget is to appear in District Court.

Feb. 26 - Larry Reichenbaugh, Kroger store official, charged Kim M. Porietis, 17, of shop lifting. She was taking a frozen pizza from under her coat in the store's parking lot.

Feb. 26 - Police apprehended John S. Durmion, 18, Detroit in the local post office parking lot and charged him with auto theft. Passengers in the car were John C. Trotter, 19, and a 14-year-old runaway girl, all from Wayne County. Police here were advised by Detroit Police Department that complainant did not wish to press charges. All were released from county jail.

March 1 - Ward Eardley, city recreation director, reported between $10 and $15 was taken from an office at the Community Center over the weekend.

March 1 - Tom Schumacher, 906 Pontiac, reported three racing tires and wheels taken from a trailer parked in his driveway. Value was listed at $250.

March 1 - Kenney Brown, 1003 Park St., told police a hub cap was taken off his car. Loss was $20.

March 1 - Ronda McKimmy, 112 Burt St., was bitten by a dog, owned by Russell Johnson. Dog Warden advised Johnson to keep dog confined for 10 days.

March 2 - Debra S. Fairbanks, 315 N. Maumee, said a window in her car was broken while parked at Ed's Standard.

Begin Work for Addition

Construction work for a $1.5 million addition to Tecumseh High School started last Thursday, about 10 days ahead of schedule.

Monday's snow and Tuesday's rain then cancelled work this week, but operations resumed Wednesday.

Supt. Robert Duhan says the expansion may force the schools to close the cafeteria section in May.

At the present, work and equipment at the site have closed the circle drive off N. Maumee and the entrance to the library section of the school. Officials are hoping that most of the addition will be completed or useable early next fall.

'Good Rumor'

Mayor Harold Easton wanted to put an end to "bad" rumors that Tecumseh's City Council is banning an Elias Brother Big Boy franchise from opening in Tecumseh at the Old Partridge Building next door to United Savings Bank Occidental and W. Chicago Branch.

Monday night Easton said as far as he was concerned, the restaurant chain's interest in opening in Tecumseh was a "good rumor," He said "they're welcome," and denied any interference from city council.

Minor Mishaps Are Reported

All five traffic accidents occuring in the city the past week were minor, and only one driver was cited.

Police report is:

Feb. 25 — Wolfgang D. Brewer, 28, Adrian and Kirk D. Blasium, 17, Clinton collided on W. Chicago Blvd. Both claimed the other was over the centerline.

Feb. 26 — William Hendershot, 41, of 704 S. Pearl St., was backing in The Herald's parking lot and struck a parked car owned by Marjorie A. Hunt, Murphy Hwy.

Feb. 26 — Thomas J. McKenzie, 19, of 506 N. Evans, was cited for an unsafe start after pulling from a curb on E. Shawnee St. and striking a passing vehicle operated by Jeffrey E. Shirk, 17, of 1000 River Acres Dr.

March 2 — Paul R. Cook, 23, Adrian and Gaylon D. Robinson, 52, of 109 W. Pottawatamie, were both eastbound on W. Chicago Blvd. and scraped vehicles.

March 2 — Lois A. Mackey, 45, of 903 River Acres Dr. and Terry E. Sisty, 28, of 1209 Shady Lane backed into each other in the city's northwest parking lot.

Historic Home Surveys Mailed

Home surveys from the Tecumseh Historic District Study committee, chaired by Lynn Cook, have been mailed to residents and property owners in the historic district and of other 19th century homes considered architecturally historical.

Those who have not received one may pick up a copy of the questionaire at the city hall.

Questionaires should be returned to Mrs. Owen Merrill or city hall as soon as possible.

It is important that the date the home was built and the name of the builder or architect be listed on the survey even if the resident or property owner does not feel that his or her house is historic, said Mrs. Cook. The housing survey must be completed by March 23. The HDSC must present the results to the Michigan Department of State, History Division April 5.

Budget Hit by New Costs

Tecumseh's budget conscious Council was socked with another cost increase Monday night.

Charge for the services of Insurance Audit and Inspection Compaay on the city's insurance coverage costs $2,900 this year.

In 1972 charges for the service which included review of the hospital was $1,250.

Council members also were told by the city manager Cal Zorn at the Monday meeting that cost of Russell Road project from Adrian to Mill has increased $63,000 to a total cost of $263,000 since 1973.

City Awards Street Work

Tecumseh City Council contracted the Michigan Department of State Highway and Transportation Monday night to widen M-50 from two lanes to three lanes from Sunset St. to the city's west limits.

Since M-50 is a state highway, the State Highway and Transportation department will finance the improvement.

Council also contracted the city, County Road Commission and the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation for the widening of Russell Road from two to four lanes between Adrian and Mill Sts.

City will pay for the project. Cost is $263,000, $63,000 more than originally estimated in 1973.

MILLAGE INCREASE LIKELY

Hike City Assessments

City assessor Robert Hamden's 1976 report on real estate assessments within the city has jumped from last year's $29,100,000 to $31,700,000, an increase of $2.6 million.

Hamden's final report, which will include personal property, will not be completed until this weekend as approximately 25 commercial and industrial owners have not filed their returns. A sizeable increase in personal property assessments are possible for them unless returns are filed, he explained.

The assessor said personal assessments this year will probably fall between $6 and $7 million, about half of last year's total. Reason is that inventories are not included this year because of the state's new business tax.

Since the city will not be collecting tax on inventories in 1976, the state is scheduled to reimburse the city based on last year's $8 million inventory and the city's new millage to be determined by Council in May.

Cal Zorn, city manager, expects Tecumseh's new millage to be higher than the 11 mills now being collected. For several years, Council has lowered millage but will probably find Zorn's budget in April to require an increase.

The budget is presented annually in April to Council, who must approve it by the second Monday in May.

Hamden and Board of Review members - James Freckleton, T.J. Wagner and Ted Ehinger - will start reviewing tax assessments next Monday. Folks who wish to question their assessments may do so starting Monday, March 22, at city hall.

Those who want to know their assessments in advance can call or visit the assessor now.

Average assessment increases in Tecumseh will be approximately nine percent, about four percent less than the 13 percent factor proposed by the county.

Officials here anticipate the 13 percent factor to be reduced, possibly to four percent.

Not 'Thrilled' with Pairing

Tecumseh has been paired with Sterling Heights as the community it will exchange mayors with during Michigan Week, May 16-23.

The Mayor's exchange is a highlight of Michigan Week. The exchange allows government officials from two communities to exchange ideas on municipal government. boast about their community's accomplishments and offer hospitality.

Sterling Heights located in southern Macomb County has a population of 61,365.

Council was not thrilled about its match with the city because as one member put it, what does Tecumseh have in common with a city that size?

Mayor Harold Easton said "I'd rather go somewhere else."

Tecumseh's Michigan Week chairman is Karl Schneider who was chairman last year.

Two events already scheduled in Tecumseh that week are the Little Garden Flower Show May 16-17 and of course the public tour of Rita Blake's house, 309 W. Chicago Blvd. which will continue until May 24. Top area designers and local volunteers are renovating the historic house.

Plans for Structure

Plans for the construction of a stop-log structure for Globe Mill Dam radial gate, drawn by an Ann Arbor engineering firm, were presented to City Council Monday night.

The stop log structure could be unstopped to allow logs to flow down river in the event of dangerously high water.

The city contracted Ayers, Lewis, Norris and May, Inc. to prepare these plans and to make a structural analysis of the Standish Dam to find a solution to the algae problem Herrick Park residents along Standish Pond and the mill race have been repeatedly complaining about since last summer.

Council instructed the city manager to make applications to the Department of Natural Resources to clear the way for use of the stop log structure but council is waiting for the structural analysis of the Standish Dam before it spends any more money.

The structural anaylsis cannot be made until May 1, engineers estimated at the Jan. 19 council meeting.

Talking It Out

With Roger L. Proctor

Proctor Funeral Home, Inc.

Consoling the Bereaved

Most people feel awkward when attending a wake or a funeral and being confronted by the bereaved. There's a hesitancy of manner, a fear of saying the "wrong" thing, an apprehension about possibly making someone cry.

What most people do not seem to realize is that these mixed feelings are very normal and natural reactions to death and those involved in a death situation. Few of use are so gifted as speakers or writers to choose the correct words to express our very sincere and personal feelings.

So, what do you say to a frieving widow? Usually, we advise a very simple "I'm sorry," accompanied by a firm grip of the hand, an arm about the shoulder. Such silen texpressions of genuine concern are much more appropriate than talkative attemps at eulogies or forced expressions such as "I know how you feel."

In other words, we should be sensitive to the feelings of those who are grieving. Often this will make us more silent, more willing to listen, rather than forcing a conversation.

Most people who have suffered a personal loss will be more moved and comforted by quiet, emotional expressions of sympathy than by a litany of virtues of the person who has died.

Above all, don't try to "shake" a person out of his grief. Grief is a natural, wholesome process by which the living are encouraged toward a healthy life after the loss of a loved one. Only time can heal grief. And only love can bring about its fullest therapeutic effect.

To Herald D. Ocamb, M.D.
President, Tecumseh Board of Education
Tecumseh Public Schools
Tecumseh, Michigan

Sir:

"Frankly, son, it's really none of your business - to be blunt about it." What a sad day for education in Tecumseh, and for young Marty Perkins in particular, when the president of the board of education utters the above tactless and unnecessary remark to a young student representing the student body and asking a reasonable request in a democratic fashion at a public meeting on February 16.

How easy it would have been for you to have said, "Thank you son, for your comments. We do appreciate your time and effort to come here tonight and talk to us. We will give your suggestion every consideration as it relates to board policy and procedure."

No wonder young people are turned off by adults. What must Marty Perkins be thinking about adults now?

What an excellent lesson in citizenship and democracy could have been taught by you and the rest of the board of education if you had just said something positive and constructive instead of downgrading.

It has always been my understanding that children ARE the business of the board of education, first and foremost. If the present board members do not understand that concept, perhaps it's time they became aware of people instead of just finances and buildings.

In my January letter to you and the board, I mentioned the fact that EVERY responsible citizen has the RIGHT and DUTY under our Constitution to express to the board of education personal remarks regarding the education of children and the running of the schools, even if those remarks differ from the present thinking of the board of education.

The board, in return, has the DUTY and OBLIGATION to listen to and ENCOURAGE such dialogue. Why? Because the home and schools are EQUAL PARTNERS in the education of children.

Apparently some board members do not understand this concept, including the president. I wonder why? Is a sour look, a cutting remark, or a bored yawn all the board can produce any time a concerned citizen wishes to participate in the democratic process? When we talk of accountability, this ALSO includes the Tecumseh Board of Education.

In closing, does the president and the school board have the courage and manners to publicly apologize to young Marty Perkins at the next school board meeting on March 15 at 7 p.m. or at the March 9 meeting with the school board At the Community Drop-In Center at 7:30 p.m.?

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,
Maynard H. Harris

To the Editor:

We really appreciate getting the Herald during these winter months we spend in Arizona. It arrives very promptly generally on Friday, never later than Saturday.

However we do miss the Herrick Memorial Hospital reports, on who enters and who is discharged. We know there must be a reason for this omition, but those lists are of great interest to those of us who are out of touch with our home town and those friends we have there.

We are glad to see that Michigan weather has been moderate this past week. Our only glimpse of snow is sometimes we see it on the higher mountains.

It has been a delightful winter, here. We expect to be home the 1st of April.

THE B&G BOOSTER PUMP
This is the heart of the B&G Hydro-Flo System—a motor-driven pump which circulates hot water through the heating system. Where cooling equipment is installed, a Booster is also used to circulate chilled water.
The Booster rushes heat to all rooms instantly when demanded by the thermostat and shuts off when the heat requirement is satisfied.
The prime requisite of a forced hot water heating pump is quiet operation! In this respect the B&G Booster is completely outstanding. Every Booster is equipped with a motor specifically designed and built to run silently and without vibration. Numerous other exclusive features all contribute to efficient, trouble-free performance and long life.

Wrist watches? The newest ones are models of efficiency and accuracy. This is especially true of alarm wristwatches. In some of these the movement is equipped with a balance working at a frequency of 28,800 vibrations per hour. Add to this a fine regulating device, a day and date corrector, a stop device and a simultaneous instant changing of date and weekly indications at midnight. The alarm resonator is independent of the case and dial, and it is possible to use the same case for other watches as well.

There is always a large selection of watches available at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. Bulova, Caravelle, Accutron and Seiko watches are handled and we do expert watch repairs. I am a certified Accutron technician. BankAmericard and Master Charges honored.

GEM FACT: Watches should be cleaned periodically to keep them in good working order.

My Year In Sweden

By Valerie Egli
Exchange Student

The past two months have been so busy for me that I haven't had time to write. First of all, there was December, and you know how Decembers go!

But this one was even more hectic than ever here with all the new customs and traditions. Swedes not only celebrate Christmas Day, but Christmas Eve, the day after Christmas and the thirteenth day after Christmas as well. All of those celebrations went much too fast for me.

Then came January when everything was pure confusion. I wanted to move to a new family, but I didn't know when, where and wasn't even sure why. In the end I did move out of Gothenburg to a little town called Astorp in a southern part of Sweden called Skane.

My new address is Kaverud, Villagatan 11, S-26500, Astorp, Sweden, if anyone gets the urge to write.

I'm so much happier here! I never did like the idea of living in the big city. I feel much at home here since I've always lived in small town.

Astorp has about 2000 more people than Tecumseh, yet it doesn't even have its own high school (gymnasium) so I have to take the bus to the next town, Klippan, every morning at 8 a.m. (school starts at 8:30 a.m.!)

The school here is terrific! It's a school where alot of the best swimmers in Sweden finish their gymnasial education while training. There is an indoor regulation olympic size swimming pool which they use right in the backyard. This the physical education classes also use about once a week and the public can use for about $1 admission.

I'm still in the same grade, the second year in gymnasium, but I have a different curriculum. The line I'm in is called "Samhallsvetenshaplinje," which essentially means "Social Science."

I have 12 different subjects including history, economics, French, art, physical education, mathematics, Swedish, social studies, psychology, science, art and music history, and something called T.T.F. which a classmate described like this: "When they find something they think we should learn, but that won't fit into any other subject, they throw it into T.T.F."

I've learned enough Swedish to be able to talk to people outside of school, but in class it's another story. Every subject has its own vocabulary of words containing 10 letters or more.

The other day after reading two pages of a history assignment and circling all the words I didn't understand, I wrote them all down and found there were exactly 50 words on just those two pages which I didn't know! History is one of the six subjects that I have a very hard time keeping up in. The other half aren't so bad.

I have one teacher who is especially neat. He's the science teacher as well as the class advisor. He's so funny! I haven't been to one of his classes yet where I haven't started to laugh. He just looks like a cross between a mad scientist and a typical grandfather.

Just the way he acts, practically pouncing on people when asking them a question is easy to get to know them. Everybody is really nice and they're all so patient with my Swedish.

In the school in Gothenburg I felt more like an immigrant, a foreigner. Here they treat me like an exchange student, which is pretty nice treatment!

My Swedish sister, Susanne (Suzi) is in the same class with me. She was an exchange student in California last year and she also changed families, so she understands what I'm going through. Sometimes we do speak American, which feels so good. When we do speak Swedish and I can't find a word I want, I can just substitute the American word and continue on and she'll understand what I mean. It's so good to have someone with whom I can really communicate with! The rest of the family is just super too, including their schnauzer, Raffa. I even got a cute 22-year-old brother in the deal!

I've just recently joined a little music band here in Astorp. We only meet once a week. About one-third of the band is made up of people over 40 years of age, while one-half is made up of kids between 15-20 years of age. But anyway, its a band, which is the second biggest thing I miss, only second to my family and friends, of course.

Volunteers Find Work Fun

by Kathy Brown

They assembled Thursday morning, some not exactly sure what they were going to do. Others perhaps wondered why they volunteered when they had work of their own at home.

But within an hour all the volunteers, about six, began to feel right at home stripping off bedroom wallpaper, each with her own little section. They shared their work. They shared a lot of fun.

At the end of three hours everyone had wallpaper chips in her hair, dust on her jeans, grit under her nails, and a satisfied smile on her face.

The entire room was stripped. They shoveled the wet crumbling stuff into garbage sacks, swept the floor and then the bucket brigade dispursed each parading down Chicago Blvd., in her own direction.

Needless to say they got their share of stares from passersby.

That was probably the best advertising they could have for "Promenade the Past: A Designers' Open House" open to the public May 7-24 at the Rita Blake home, 309 W. Chicago Blvd.

Although three civic groups are sponsoring the event, volunteers to help are being recruited from all over town. Even a few old home enthusiasts from out-of-town are interested in the work.

The three sponsors are the Tecumseh Area Historical Society, the Little Garden Club and the Rotary.

They hope to involve the whole town in the project to create a Bicentennial festival for the entire community. Many more volunteers are needed on various committees to make the project a success.

Clean-up teams, are needed to work in groups of six, Thursdays and Saturdays from 9-12, to prepare the home for the top area decorators who have agreed to redecorate the house.

Hostesses are needed for the 17 days the house will be open for public tour, 1-5 p.m. weekdays, Saturdays from 10-7 and Sundays from 1-7.

Volunteers to seek patrons, sponsors and advertisers for the commemorative program booklet are urgently needed now.

Volunteers for mailing publicity and doing other miscellaneous jobs are needed.

That the "Promenade" will be a success there is no doubt in the minds of the workers. Crowds are expected to peak the final weekend of the open house.

May 21, 22 and 23 an estimated 40,000 to half a million people are expected at Cambridge Junction to join in the festivities for the Bicentennial Wagon Train.

If a fraction of these people drive through Tecumseh, the city will certainly be busy hosting thousands of guests, as planners for the open house are anticipating.

Any one interested may volunteer to help by calling representatives of the coordinating committee, Julie Rhora of the Garden Club, Henry Newland of the Rotary Club and Michele Worley of the Historical Society.

She hopes that many more community residents will become involved in the chorus, which will present two performances in the spring and summer.

No rehearsal was scheduled for March 3.

Identies Are Learned

CLINTON — As an introduction to Sharon Scott's program on prophets, members of the United Methodist Women had the name of a prophet pinned on their backs at their meeting Monday night. They had to ask questions to learn the prophet's identity.

They were also given names of prophets in letters to unscramble.

A film and recording told of the problems prophets have in telling people in countries of their sinful ways and the promise of redemption through God.

She gave resumes of six prophets, and members guessed their names.

Admitted to Hospital

CLINTON — Mrs. Ozro Priest was admitted to St. Joseph Hospital last week and is in critical condition. Visitors are limited to the family.

Contract Ratified

CLINTON — Ray Karbon, president of the Clinton Education Association, reports that the members ratified the contract proposal negotiated with the Clinton Community School board by four votes more than the two-thirds needed.

New contract for the 1976-77 school year is already being discussed by the CEA and formal negotiations will begin within two months, Karbon said.

Election of the new officers of the CEA and the naming of members to the negotiating team will take place at an election Tuesday, March 9.

Women of the Episcopal church will assist with the refreshments at the coffee hour following the service.

Norma Zimmerman gave the devotions using the Lenten study book, "Decisions for Destiny," describing the qualifications for a prophet, an authentic individual, optimistic democrat, committed actor and holy adventurer of God.

Lenten Bible Study will be Thursday, March 4 from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Methodist Education Building. There will be a nursery provided.

Last week's article ended just after we had reached the principal water and shore bird-viewing area in the park. Once I was Hoyer-lifted out of the station wagon and the wheelchair pushed out towards the shore of the shallow lake, the puzzlement began.

The smooth water was covered with ducks. What kind? The black coots with their funny white bills are easy. Through the glasses it was also not much of a problem to identify many pied-billed grebes.

Occasionally we see them on our small lake. Their chicken-like bill with the black ring around it is a good field mark. After much looking through both the binoculars and the bird-books, Mom and I gave up on the other ducks.

Who cares about names — it was just fun to watch them. Listen to them too. The air was full of the soft babbling quacks of duck-talk.

There were also shore birds who almost defied us to identify them. Dad, Mom and Betty took the glasses and the books. Don and I watched the great blue heron and then joined the others. They had sorted out the killdeer and decided that the rest needed no name tags.

Plump little birds with long slender bills and a marked preference for standing on one leg at the water's edge — they could have been several things and probably were. The crying of the killdeer and the high-pitched peeps of the mixed shore-birds blended with the duck noises.

The air above the lake was alive with birds. The dark-backed and light-fronted tree swallows were gracefully coursing back and forth. As they swooped and darted after insects we could not help but marvel at their agility.

After all, birds who confine themselves almost exclusively to a diet of insects and catch their food on the wing must have superb skills. Also fascinating to watch were two kingfishers. They were hovering over the water. A strange sight.

What keen eye-sight these birds have — like helicopters they hovered in one spot but, as soon as small fish were spied, they became kingfishers again and dove straight down. Splash!

Someone mentioned food and we all agreed that perhaps it was time to eat. Mom and Betty made short work of getting things ready and soon we were all happily munching sandwiches, pickles, olives, baked beans, cole slaw, etc. Ordinary no-fuss food but oh, how much better it tastes when eaten out-of-doors. The sun was well to the west now and quickly sinking below the horizon. Suddenly we all felt eyes on us — to be stared at is a curious feeling.

We looked around and the nearby trees were full of incredibly big birds. Vultures. Strange to say though there was nothing uneasy or repulsive about the situation. It was not even eerie. This was as close as any of us had ever been to these birds.

As they sat staring at us we did not need field glasses to see the lighter color of their wings and their naked red heads. In profile their strong hooked beaks were startling. No wonder they can so quickly 'clean up.'

Soon other vultures were joining the original group. What a sight to see these birds, whose wing span is at least 72 inches, come silently through the fairly thick stand of trees in the picnic area. Some settled in the trees but others, perhaps more daring, landed on the ground. Farther back in the picnic grove Betty put a few pieces of bread on the picnic table.

Although carion-eaters the vultures soon found the bread and it disappeared. There were at least 15 vultures and possibly more. What a strange encounter it was — their size, their reputation, their blackness, and their silence all contributed to what will be a long remembered experience.

Just at the edge of a large and flat open area, where perhaps deer would be seen, we saw our last armadilla of the day. He was small, obviously very young and inexperienced. As soon as the car was parked he ran under it and crouched near the rear wheel.

Other cars were parked too and, as more people gathered, this poor little pre-historic 'armured tank' simply did not know what to do. Finally he scooted away and disappeared into the underbrush.

Two car lengths and hooray, there was a large herd of deer. Bread in hand, Betty jumped out and carefully coaxed a doe into following her across the road. She almost brought her up to the car window.

I was too excited to count but what a nice adventure it was to have so many of these animals feeding and then bounding out of sight.

One of our best days all winter will certainly be the Saturday we spent in Myakka State Park with Betty and Don.

Half Mill on Ballot for New Fire Truck

CLINTON — Clinton Township Board has learned that it is not necessary to circulate petitions concerning a millage proposal for a purchase of a pumper tanker for the fire department.

At their meeting Monday action was taken to have ballots prepared to place the proposal on the ballot at the May 18 Presidential Primary Election.

Township will ask voters to approve a one-half mill tax for four years to purchase the pumper tanker for the Clinton Fire Department.

Members voted to amend a Jan. 5 motion concerning the authorization of investment of Clinton Riverside Cemetery funds by the township treasurer.

Balance of bill to Lenawee County Road Commission was voted to be paid.

Township board will contact the county road commission concerning the possible abandonment of McNeil Highway just off of Staib Road. The road has not been maintained for more than 30 years, and other access to the property is available.

In the absence of the building inspector, his report was read and approval given for $6,000 in building permits.

Supervisor Harry Comstock announced that the Board of Review will meet March 8, 9, and 10 beginning at 9 a.m. at the township office. Settlement day is March 23 at 7 p.m. Annual meeting date is Saturday, April 3 at 7 p.m. at the township hall.

13,000 Labels Are Collected

CLINTON — The Campbell Labels for Education drive sponsored by the Clinton Elementary School Learning Resource Center proved to be successful again this year.

While the drive fell short of the 25,000 goal, it surpassed last year's collection by 5,000 labels.

A total of 13,000 labels were shipped to the company, and the Learning Resource Center will receive a Singer Graflex Auto Advance II sound filmstrip previewer.

Had the school purchased this A-V viewer, it would have cost approximately $175.

The Learning Resource Center will sponsor the label program again next year, so parents, relatives and friends are urged to save all Campbell soup and bean products labels for the school.

The elementary students and staff appreciate community support.

Ideas Needed for Welcome

CLINTON — Anyone interested in helping with suggestions on what Clinton can do for the Bicentennial Wagon Train coming through Clinton on May 24 may call Kathy Thomas 456-7348.

Bike for Your Park

Dear Concerned Citizens of Clinton.

The Clinton Area Jaycee Auxiliary with the cooperation of the Clinton Area Jaycees are sponsoring a "Bike for your Park" project in order to raise funds for the development of recreational facilities within our village. The Bike-a-thon is scheduled for Saturday, May 29, 1976.

If your group has been concerned about doing something worthwhile for our village during this Bicentennial year, please take advantage of this opportunity. With our joint efforts we can successfully complete this project and see a lasting result — park facilities in Clinton!

We have already established a tentative route beginning at the High School football field on Kehoe Rd. and circling down Sunset Dr. to Clinton-Macon Rd., across Macon Rd., to Hack Rd., down Nebio Rd. and returning to Kehoe Rd.

We have already secured the approval and support of the Village Council for this very important venture, but in order for our efforts to be truly successful . . . we need the cooperation of other interested groups and individuals in Clinton.

We will need assistance in obtaining riders, securing pledges, obtaining publicity, as well as manning the approximately 15 mile route and its check points.

We are also urging support in the areas of supplying emergency facilities as well as refreshment donations.

The bike-a-thon will be open to participants of all ages, with parental permission slips required for riders under the age of 18.

The only requirements are that the rider have a bicycle and obtain pledges for his ride (no minimum has been stipulated).

A rain clause will be provided in case of rain in which the rider will be credited with riding 5 miles for every 1 mile actual ride.

Should your group have any questions concerning the project or wish to participate in some way, please contact me at your earliest convenience.

In appreciation for your anticipated cooperation,

Sharon McGill

HOLLOWAY — The Rev. Larry and Mrs. Mileta Kinser are the Evangelists preaching and music for the revival meeting starting March 7 to 14, at the Raisin Center Friends Church with the Rev. Donald Esch as pastor. The time will be Sunday at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. On Monday a potluck will be at the Church fellowship hall at 6 p.m.

The Friends Youth had charge of the evening service last Sunday with vocal instrumental music. David Bennett gave the message of the evening.

The Woman's Association of the Raisin Presbyterian Church met with Mrs. Roger Galey. The co-hostess was Mrs. Gail Austin. They served a dessert luncheon.

Mrs. Elwyn Green opened the meeting with prayer.

Morning Lenten services will be every Wednesday, starting March 10, at the church. The Women of Palmyra Church are invited to attend.

A social hour was enjoyed by the members.

Around the Block Extension Club met recently with Mrs. Evalyn Halberstadt, the cohostess was Mrs. Ethel Wright.

Mrs. Wilson Sawyer presided and the roll call was on facts concerning Mrs. Washington and Mrs. Lincoln.

There were different ideas about what the members could do in the Bicentennial of Raisin Township on July 3. A county-wide Bicentennial program will be April 21.

There was a silent auction, which was a cherry pie baked by the president and won by Mrs. Wright.

Mrs. Glen Mumaw received the mystery gift receipe. Refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess.

The Friendly Neighbors Farm Bureau were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Machan. A carry-in supper was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Machan opened the meeting by reading a Bicentennial poem. The members discussed what they should do for the Bicentennial.

The members would like a representative from Lansing to provide more information to the county concerning Blue Cross - Blue Shield.

Everyone was urged to write her Congressman about the bill, H.R. 1793, in regards to a greater tax exemption for inheritance tax. This does not mean farmers only. Anyone interested can write Ed Hutchinson, Congress of the U.S. House of Representatives Washington D.C. 20515. This bill has been introduced by over 70 congressmen.

Mrs. Gladys Warner gave the package report on bicentennial. The group is taking part in several bicentennial celebrations.

County Commissioners Meet

by TOM STANDLEY

Richard Braun, an Adrian funeral home operator, was named at the Feb. 25 Lenawee County Board of Commissioners meeting to fill the Dist. 7 seat left vacant by the death of Arthur Clift.

Braun will represent the seventh district which includes all of Adrian Township and parts of Madison Township. Braun lives in Adrian Township and is a Republican.

The actual selection came in individual party caucuses after interviews of four different candidates were completed at a special meeting.

A number of commissioners said the decision to select Braun came only after long and hard discussion in the Republican caucus. They said the choice was made there to avoid embarrassing other candidates in a battle while the board meeting was in session.

Ray Jackson, one of the board's Democratic commissioners, said his party decided during its caucus to give bi-partisian support to the choice of Braun. The Republicans hold a majority of votes on the board. Jackson added that he believed there would be Democrats seeking the seat when a special election is held May 18. Braun has already said he will run for the seat.

The three other candidates who had been seeking the post were Medfor Pfister, R. Orville Poling, and Yvonne Graybiel. All are Adrian Township residents.

Complaints by Tecumseh and Adrian officials about the cost of adult recreation programs and their use by non-residents apparently have hit a responsive chord with county officials.

Richard Lackie, Dist. 14 commissioner and chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission informed the board that tentative rules have been established for subsidizing adult softball leagues in the county.

Under the plan the county would pay up to $5 for each regularly scheduled game. A total of $3,750 would be spent for the program.

The final adoption of the rules is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the March 30 meeting of the Leawee County Parks and Recreation Commission at the Lenawee County Courthouse.

Plans were also announced for a "Name the Park Contest" to name the new county park under construction in the southwest part of the county in Medina Township.

The contest will be open to students in seventh, eighth, and ninth grades. Students must suggest a name for the park and support their choice with a 100 word essay.

The winner will receive a $25 savings bond. The deadline for entries is April 26 and they should be sent to the Lenawee County Parks and Recreation Commission, Lenawee County Courthouse, Adrian, Michigan.

It was also announced at the meeting the Volunteers in Probation program will close shop after its funds run out March 1. The volunteers will continue their work even though the program is being discontinued.

In other action the commission tabled resolutions dealing with the presidential primary and community college issues. Later Wayne Traub, commission chairman, chided commissioners for not taking prompt action on resolutions.

Even the question of whether the county will close its offices in the morning on Good Friday turned into a hot potato. After questions were raised about letting off CETA employees the matter was quickly tabled until the March meeting.

Residents Invited for Day of Prayer

Tecumseh area residents are invited to join the World Day of Prayer, March 5, at 1:30 p.m. hosted at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Tecumseh this year.

World Day of Prayer is planned by Church Women United so millions may join in prayer with 169 countries throughout the world.

Here in Tecumseh, committeewomen from eight churches have joined this year in the planning.

They are Sheela Browne and Cecile Smith, co-chairwomen, St. Peter's Episcopal Church; Frances Spreeman and Harriet Desmet, St. Elizabeth Catholic Church; Sharon Bibly, First Baptist Church; Floris Snyder and Jean Coak, First Presbyterian Church; Carol Goodrich, United Methodist Church; Lucille Bugby, Macon United Methodist Church; Naomi Sallows, Tecumseh Friends Church and Mrs. Robert Strohl, Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

The hour long service will focus on the countries of Latin America and was written by Latin American women.

Jean Dixon at Croswell

Jean Dixon, world famous astrologer, nationally syndicated columnist and author will be the third Town Hall guest lecturer at the Croswell Opera House March 11 at 10:30 a.m.

Following her presentation there will be an informal luncheon at the Lenawee Country Club for the guest speaker and town hall season ticket holders only.

Price of the luncheon includes a fashion show by Maurice's. Reservations for the luncheon must be made with Mrs. James Feeney by March 8.

Direct any questions to Croswell Opera House, 263-5674 weekdays from 1-5 p.m.

1966 Alumni Meet Mar. 7

The Tecumseh Alumni will hold a first meeting this Sunday evening at 7 p.m. at the St. Elizabeth's Education Building. The Class of 1966 will be the hosts.

For The Record

In the page one story "Propose New, Higher, Fees for Swimming Facilities," the Herald reported Mayor Harold Easton objected at the Feb. 17 Council meeting to use of facilities by school district residents.

Actually Mayor Easton objects to the same charges for both residents as non-residents.

Macon Dialog

by Linda Phillips 423-5213

As one who has admired Macon's miniature enthusiast Judee Williamson "from afar" for quite some time, I look forward to both meeting the lady and having the chance to take a good, long look at the labors of love she'll be bringing to the March 7 meeting of Macon Historical Society at Karen and Don Oswald's Pennington Road home.

Meeting begins at 8 p.m., and as always, guests are welcome.

Belated but heartfelt congratulations are sent to Clarence and Margaret Hall, who celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary Feb. 14. That's a lot of Valentine Days together!

Add to the list of items being manufactured to help celebrate our country's 200th birthday that receive the official Bicentennial "Bah Humbug Award" from this writer, star spangled toilet seats and red, white, and blue caskets. . .

"Spit not in the Fire," and "Cleanse not your teeth with the Table Cloth, Napkin, Fork or Knife." George Washington began practicing these "sensible and timeless" rules of etiquette at the tender age of 15. It was further suggested that no vermin such as fleas, lice or ticks be killed in the sight of others.

Wonder how General George would feel about putting lipstick on in a restaurant?

Auxiliary Will Meet

The women's auxiliary to Goodwill LARC will meet March 8 at the plant in Adrian for two sessions: at 10:30 a.m. the board will meet; at 1:30 p.m. members and friends of Goodwill LARC will assemble for the monthly meeting.

George Eidson, director of special education for Lenawee County will speak on "Helping Hands."

Tea will be served. Board members may bring a sack lunch.

Clinic Marked A Success

Approximately seven percent of Tecumseh's adult population turned out for the Free Blood Pressure Clinic sponsored by the Jaycee Auxiliary at First Federal Savings and Loan West Chicago office Friday.

Two hundred and seventy-six people had their blood pressure read by volunteer nurses from Herrick Memorial Hospital. Attracted by the free clinic, people waited in line for the volunteers to set up.

Of these readings made 101 were told they had high blood pressure for their age and 36 of these did not know they had high blood pressure. All were told to consult with their family doctor, told Marjorie Ball of the Auxiliary.

Assisting with the clinic were Mrs. Lucy Geringer, Mrs. Ann Tooman, Mrs. Kathy Stites, Mrs. Mertie Reed, Mrs. Mary Lou Munger, Mrs. JoAnn Montague, Mrs. Wanda Heinz, Mrs. Phyllis Smith.

Equipment was borrowed from Herrick Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Louise Lawson was a special advisor.

Do you gain any real comfort from that old cliche about dark clouds having silver linings? Who can peel a cloud to find its happy lining?

But frustration has been a blessing to many men. It has driven self-centered souls to seek a new fulcrum for life. It has brought men to God . . . acknowledging human failure . . . seeking divine strength.

And as they have found in the Church comfort and courage they have learned anew the spiritual meaning of defeat and victory.

The One that this world crucified is King of kings. Beyond a cross and a crown of thorns our greatest aspirations await us.

Viet Members Baptized

BRITTON — Feb. 29 was a special day for the members of Emmanuel Lutheran Church located on Ridge Road in Britton. A special folk service was used, in which traditional and modern hymns were sung to the accompaniement of guitars.

The highlight of the day was the baptism of Nguyen The Minh, his wife Kim Son, and children Quang, Diep, Giao, and John.

The Minhs come from Saigon which they fled last April. They were resettled into the Britton area by members of the congregation last year in August through the efforts of the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee service.

Mr. Minh taught Vietnamese Literature in a private school in Saigon and also operated a printing shop there. The Minh's youngest son was born in Ann Arbor soon after they arrived.

The Minhs invited about 40 guests to celebrate the occasion with them last Saturday evening. They served special Vietnamese dishes - soups, salad, fried cakes filled with meat and vegetables, and an assortment of fruit and cake for dessert. Their guests even learned the art of eating with chopsticks.

The members are thrilled with the decision of the Minh family to become Christians and have enjoyed many experiences with this family.

Serving as sponsors for the Minh family were the elders of the congregation and their wives: Alvin and Louise Pollitz, Fred and Alys Miller, Wesley and Eileen Gilmore, Donald and Margaret Schroeder, Clarence and Rosemary Schroeder, and Harry and Diana Pape.

Christian Coffee House?

Plans for a Christian Coffee House in Tecumseh came a step closer as donations have come in recently from the Rev. Mildred Sessoms, of Tecumseh House of Prayer and The Rev. Jean Vargo, New Testament Church, Adrian.

Funds are now available to make a bid for the Harry's Cafe restaurant business.

Philip Zick, who will operate the Christian Coffee House mission to minister to the youth and elderly, through the use of volunteers and with the community involvement. He expects to open by May 1.

Plans are to serve a lunch and supper meal in the building, and to have the facilities open to minister to those desiring help or counseling all other hours.

Christian adults would be on the premises at all times, Zick explained.

The mission would be operated as an entirely non-profit venture and will need community wide involvement to fill a need unmet at present.

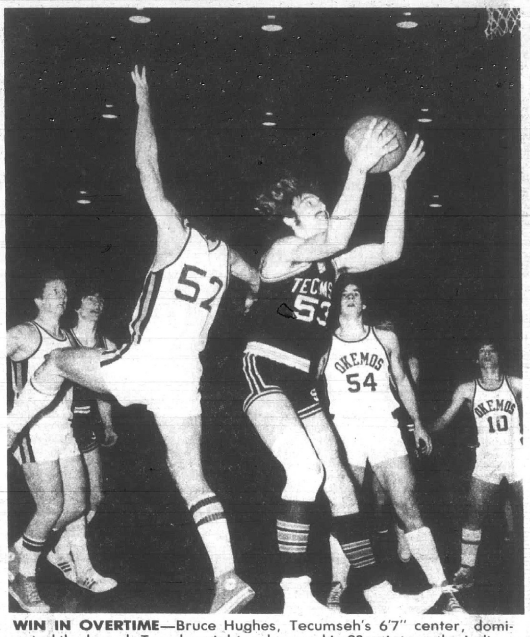
Zick has had several years experience working in mission coffee houses of Europe, while stationed there with the Army.

Anyone wishing to donate to the mission or to receive more information may call 423-7817 or 423-8029.

Raise $960

Benefit card party held March 2 for Wayne Nix, kidney transplant recipient, brought $960 in donations.

Benefit was sponsored by the education Commission of St. Elizabeth at the parish gym which was filled with card players.



WIN IN OVERTIME—Bruce Hughes, Tecumseh's 6'7" center, dominated the boards Tuesday night and poured in 22 points as the Indians handed Okemos a 66-60 defeat in overtime. Hughes was especially tough in the three-minute extra period when Tecumseh outscored its opponents, 10 to four. Jeff Hans is in the background, and the young sophomore contributed 14 points in the regional victory. Tecumseh could gain the quarter-finals in the state tournament with a win Friday night at Charlotte. (Photo by Mike Sunderland)

Although rate of vandalism dropped the past week, a number of Tecumseh residents suffered losses.

Police report on vandalism and other incidents is:

March 6 — Thomas T. Dean, 28, Ridgeway, was arrested and charged with being drunk.

PLAY FRIDAY FOR REGIONAL TITLE

Indians in Finals

Tecumseh Indians, making their strongest run in tournament play for many years, notched another victory Tuesday night in the opening regional game at Charlotte.

The Indians whipped Okemos, 66-60, to advance to the regional finals on Friday night. Tecumseh will play the winner of Wednesday's game between Marshall and Cedar Springs.

Coach Ron Spagnoli's club, playing a fine game to beat Jackson's Lumen Christi for the district title last Friday night, had to overcome numerous turnovers against a smaller Okemos team. The two teams finished regulation time tied at 56-56, after the Indians squandered a seven-point margin in the final minutes.

In overtime, it was all Tecumseh with the Indians overwhelming Okemos, 10 points to four.

Bruce Hughes, 6'7" center, paced all scorers with 22 points. Sophomore Jeff Hans finished with 14 and Ken Biscupski, 6'4" forward who sat out a large part of game, collecting 10 points.

Tecumseh now boasts a 19-5 record.

Marshall, with 18 wins against four losses for the season, will be a slight favorite to edge Cedar Springs, which boast a record of 15-7.

Game time Friday night is 7:30 at Charlotte High School.

Power Off

By Kathy Brown

Unlike the Detroit area which had over 100,000 customers without utilities because of the worst ice storm in Detroit history, Tecumseh did not have an ice storm.

Instead mother nature pulled another trick which left Herrick Park businesses and the residential area without electricity for four hours and residents in River Acres to Murphy Hwy., in Tecumseh Township without power for 17 hours from 10:20 a.m. Friday to 3:30 a.m. Saturday.

High water washed a tree out that tore down Consumers Power Co. high tension wires running north and south across the Raisin River just east of the Red Mill Pond Dam.

Residents of Seminole St., Herrick Park and the businesses had electricity at approximately 2:30 p.m. Friday. The lines south of the river were refused and service restored.

However north of the river, Burt St. and River Acres residents and some residents in the township did not get electricity until 3:30 a.m. Saturday because there was no wire to run across the river, said Kenneth Chichester, district manager of Adrian District for Consumers Power Co.

General Telephone Co. cables attached to the Consumers Power Co. poles were down. Some Milwaukee Rd. (Burt St.) residents reported no service. Fabricare Cleaners and Laundry had no phone because a cable was cut in the repair operations.

Traffic light at Evans and Herrick Park Sts. was out. Police were there for a few hours monitoring traffic but no tie-ups or accidents occurred the four hours the light was out, reported Chief Merlin Mowery.

Herrick Park business people reported customers were cooperative and understanding during the emergency.

About half a dozen customers of Fabricare were assisted by attendants; money was refunded.

Mark Murray of Fabricare said Tuesday that power to an office was not yet restored. He claimed electrical equipment was knocked out by falling Consumers Power Co. lines.

A&P manager Richard Hall said the store customers were checked out with old fashioned arithmetic. Store closed to customers but workers were busy stocking shelves. No refrigerated merchandise was lost in the four hour thaw.

Ed's Standard could only offer wrecker service for the four hours.

Herrick Park Branch office of United Savings Bank of Tecumseh remained open despite no electricity for adding machines or computer operations. Tellers cashed checks separately and accepted passbook which were mailed to customers.

Although they could have gone to another office, customers preferred to let the branch office do the work, told Mary Bowers, vice-president.

Tecumseh Country Club serviced by a three phase line from M-50 had both electricity and phone service and was busy Friday night serving members without utilities.

Downtown restaurants did a good business too.

For some people the emergency meant an evening at a friend's home, or a night in the camper, as in the case of Herald staff member and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt, Murphy Hwy.

Present Play

The Junior Class of Tecumseh High School will present as their class play, Spoon River Anthology, by Edgar Lee Masters, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights, March 18, 19, and 20, at 8 p.m. in the Community Center Glass Room.

Spoon River Anthology, directed by John La Sotta, is being produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

This production is a unique departure from conventional drama. Written in 1914, Spoon River drew immediate national attention, quickly outselling any volume of poetry previously published in America.

As drama, it achieves even greater literary and artistic dimensions. The play, consisting of 21 actors and actresses, presents 84 individual monologues spoken by imaginary characters who lived and died in the fictitious small town of Spoon River, Ill.

The student director is Marcy Prettyman.

The singers and musicians who accompany the cast are: Hector Castro, Kathy Lewis, Cheryl Sheldon, Lynne Wikle, and Cindy Wright.

Tickets will go on sale Monday, March 15. Anyone wishing to get reserved-seat tickets should call 423-8244 after March 15.

Bank's Annual Meeting Tuesday

Annual meeting of shareholders of United Savings Bank of Tecumseh will be held next Tuesday afternoon at the Tecumseh Country Club.

$5,000 Rescue Tool

A portable, power rescue tool, costing nearly $5,000, has been acquired by the Tecumseh Fire Department for freeing trapped victims.

Called "Jaws of Life," the rescue tool can be used for shearing and lifting, with a capability of lifting five tons. The cutting force at the center of the jaws is 15,000 pounds.

The jaws under a full load of five tons can open to a full 32 inches in just 40 seconds.

Although the department has had similar equipment in the past, nothing was available that can approach the versatility of the new piece of equipment. Car posts, car tops and similar obstacles possibly barring firemen from reaching victims can now be quickly sheared or pried open.

The rescue tool will be a permanent fixture in the city's rescue vehicle that is often called to local accident and fire scenes. Two men can easily handle the new equipment.

Survivor's Social Security and Veteran's death benefits

Survivors of a deceased veteran or a person covered by Social Security are entitled to substantial monetary benefits under current law. Here are some of these benefits.

1. A lump-sum benefit of a maximum of $225 will be paid by the Social Security Administration.

2. $250 may be paid to survivors of veterans in most situations.

3. There may be a veteran's benefit of another $150 toward the purchase of a cemetery plot. (If interment is not in a national cemetery or government cemetery.)

4. Monthly income benefits from the Social Security Administration are also possible. The amount of benefits depends upon the requirements of eligibility (length of time covered, number of dependent children, etc.)

If the deceased was employed by the government or an occupation covered by Civil Service, additional benefits may be forthcoming. Information regarding these and other sources of income or lump-sum benefits from insurance policies, union payments, etc., may be obtained from various sources. We may be able to suggest the correct offices for you to contact -- or we can supply you with pamphlets describing specific benefits in detail. Call on us. We'll be glad to help.

Grace Luthern Observes Lent

Grace Lutheran Church, Maumee at Shawnee Sts., is observing the season of Lent with special services each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor Strack indicates that the services are unique, since a film, depicting a phase of Jesus' life in His loving work for mankind, is shown in each service.

The sermons deal with Judas. This may seem like a strange choice of subject, since he is known for his traiterous act.

However, the messages point to the fact that these are occasions when Judas's role is played by each one of us.

Ultimately, the sermons focus not on Judas or even on us but on our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the central character in every scene of the passion history.

Following each service a fellowship period is sponsored by the Pioneer organizations. The public is invited to these services.

Lions Sponsor Braille Trail

A braille trail will be installed at Hidden Lake Gardens this year, courtesy of the Irish Hills Lions Club.

Trustees of the Gardens, located on highway M-50 in the Irish Hills, have granted the Lions permission to install the braille plates in the Temperate House of the plant conservatory.

Project chairman, Murray Paige, Onsted and Rene Crombez, Tecumseh, have ordered the braille plates from the Michigan Braille Transcribing Service, also a Lions sponsored program located at the Michigan State Prison at Jackson.

The project was successfully inaugurated with the efforts of Dr. Milton Baron, Dr. Fred Freeman and Jack Wikle, Gardens advisory committee.

The club raised the money Tecumseh, Clinton and the Irish Hills area.

What's Up At THS

The students at THS are facing changes in their daily school life because of the construction which recently began for the new addition of the high school.

The circle drive, a landmark at THS is no longer in use. The pavement, along with trees, and the school sign have been removed which leaves a lot of mud and sorry eyes.

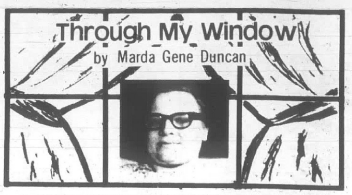
Many of the exits have been closed off for student use which hampers the daily routine. The only doors that are available for entrance and exit are the doors at the west end of the building.

There are a lot of mixed feelings about the new addition at THS, but basicly the students feel it will be better in the end. The construction will continue for the remainder of the school year, so the students will eventually get used to the idea.

The Junior Play "Spoon River Anthology" will be held on March 18, 19, and 20. This play is expected to be a great triumph for the junior class.

Through My Window

by Marda Gene Duncan



A MOST WELCOME PAIR OF NEWCOMERS

Mom saw it first and said that it looked like a very small mourning dove. My bed was on the porch where usually the view is good but this bird was on the ground between the planter and the top of the lake bank.

As it cuddled down on the grass I had to look through a rather compact boxwood bush – it was not the best way to look at a bird.

However, I saw what Mom meant because this indeed did look like a tiny mourning dove. The breast was not quite right though and when it flew there was a definite reddish cast to its wings. This was no mourning dove.

Could it be, could we really be seeing a new and different bird? It took only a few minutes to check "Birds of America" by Robbins, Bruun, Zim and Singer and hooray, we did have a new comer to put on our list. A ground dove.

And Mom was not so far wrong in saying that it looked like a small-sized version of the very familiar mourning dove. This book agrees and calls it a miniature mourning dove.

Miniature it certainly is – the large dove is listed as being 12 to 13 inches long whereas this little guy must stretch to attain 6 inches. Several books list him as only 5½ inches.

It is when flying that the ground dove gains his own individuality. Most doves, not all but certainly the majority, have long pointed tails. The ground dove has a short rounded one which fans out as he flies.

Of course, he is not overly fond of flying – as his name indicates. This eater of weed and grass seeds spends most of his time on the ground searching for these tasty tidbits. When disturbed or frightened he will fly but only for a short distance. Protective coloration is his defense.

A good defense too. The tans and browns he and his mate wear provide reasonably good camouflage for these ground loving birds. Please don't ask how various shades of light brown blend into the bright green of the grass. But as this bird sat in the yard he was certainly not very noticeable.

The next appearance of this newcomer was equally frustrating for me. Once again he hid behind the boxwood bushes. I only saw him fly away but again that dark back, short rounded tail, and reddish cast to his wings were unmistakable.

All of area listings for these birds place them in the southern states and some books even go so far as to say they are quite common in scattered brush, open farm land, or yard areas.

I was wondering why we had never seen them before when a casual mention in two books explained.

Common these birds may be, but the population is spotty. They may be in one neighborhood but another, which apparently offers the same attractions, will be shunned.

Also, they may desert what has been a favorite territory. No explanation of why they are going or anything. They simply leave.

The third adventure with the ground doves was mine. Actually, it was with a pair of these birds. It is indeed that time in Florida – I am sure I mentioned several articles ago that all of the birds are selecting their mates now.

Even Papa Cardinal has jumped off his high-horse and no longer is the haughty bossy creature of a few months back. But to the ground doves. It was a partly cloudy afternoon, the light was good but there was not enough sunshine to create deep shadows.

Thus when a pair of the ground doves flew up and lit on the roof of the feeder it was a beautiful beautiful sight.

I am sure that the lighting conditions were of the best kind to show off their delicate coloring. As they sat side by side each on the pitched roof of the feeder and looked straight in the porch at us oh, what a dainty, rosey picture.

Their bills were red, their heads and breasts seemed tinged, and their feet and legs were much redder than any the books show. It was a cute scene, a lovely one, and seldom will all things work together to produce or duplicate it again. I cannot think of a nicer way to see what turned out to be a most welcome pair of newcomers.

Kent State President Speaks

Dr. Glenn A. Olds, President of Kent State University in Kent, Ohio will speak at the Goodwill-LARC Annual Meeting on March 16. The dinner meeting, scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in Ritchie Hall at Adrian College, is open to the public.

When Dr. Olds became President of Kent State in 1971, he faced a campus still scared by the confusion and violence of a year before.

Prior to joining Kent State, he was the U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations where he served on the economic and social council which handles over 85 percent of the UN's business.

In addition to the address by Dr. Olds, the meeting will feature a report of Goodwill-LARC's activities during the last year, introduction of new members of the board of directors, and presentation of the Goodwill-LARC Worker of the Year Award, by Tom Saylor, Hudson coach. This award is given to the client or sheltered employee who has made the most progress in the rehabilitation program during the year.

Goodwill-LARC fosters a strong belief that meaningful and dignified activity is the birthright of every citizen, no mater what the handicap.

It is a non-profit corporation which operates retail stores in Adrian and Monroe, and runs a sheltered work program for 141 mentally or physically disabled people.

One of the unique programs at Goodwill-LARC is the ceramics workshop, where handicapped people can gain new skills while working and being productive. These ceramics are sold throughout the country and enable the employees to be paid for the work that they do.

Tickets to the Annual Meeting dinner are available from Goodwill-LARC at 600 E. Beecher St., in Adrian, or from any board member. For information or reservations, call 263-2135.

The typical example of Greek Revival is the Parthenon in Greece, and it includes the use of columns or pillars, triangular capitols or roof returns, importantly decorated entranceways, a frieze area between roof and walls and a basically rectangular shaped house.

Slides included views of the Smith house, now the office of DST, Inc., and the Wesley Proctor house on Jackson Rd., and nearly 60 slides of other notable historic homes in the county.

Lock Erin Dilemma

by Donald Mitchell
Drain Commissioner

Confusion and rumor abound over the subject of Loch Erin. Many inquiries and some complaints are being heard.

In 1966 the county board of supervisors consented to the installation of a dam on Wolf Creek in Cambridge Township, proposed by a group of land developers for the intended purpose of creating an artificial lake. This was only consent to a general proposal of land development and water impoundment, not approval of a design plan.

County consent was initially given, subject to compliance with all laws and regulations of the state, as well as local ordinances and individual property rights. The design plans for a dam of that size are subject to technical approval and construction permit administered by the state Department of Natural Resources according to law. That procedure was followed by the developers with the state for the construction of the water flow control dam and the overflow spillway structure.

These structures were designed to contain and control a water impoundment level of 926 feet above sea level with three feet of diked protective freeboard above that elevation. However, some separate sections of earth diking was necessarily constructed near Reed Road to contain the impounded water on property owned by the developers. These dikes have not been properly constructed nor maintained to prevent seepage and erosion. This condition leaves a problem for the adjacent land and a threat of overflow at the points with possible resulting damages to roads, bridges and private property.

The legal procedures were followed in the matter of designing and installing the water flow control structures for creating the impoundment. However, there is another legal procedure to be processed through the circuit court to establish a legal lake level. This action was initiated several years ago by the original developers but never pursued to conclusion. Meanwhile, the lake was deliberately filled to capacity without legal authorization and with apparently inadequate dikes containing it.

Therefore, in response to civil action brought by several agrieved parties, the court ordered the owners of the water flow control facilities to lower the lake to a safe level at 920 feet until corrective construction measures were completed and a legal lake level established. The owners, whoever they are, did not comply with the order. Now the court has authorized the county of Lenawee and the county Road Commission to do whatever is necessary to lower the water level to 920 feet as a public safety measure.

It is not the responsibility nor the intention of the county to construct, maintain nor improve the lake. That is a private enterprise development, not a public improvement responsibility. The county has rejected proposals to assist with the financing of roads and sewers for the project development.

The lake condition can be expected to deteriorate rapidly while drawn down below 920 feet elevation.

No more lots can be platted there until a public sewer system is assured of completion. No more houses can be built on existing platted lots without specific individual approval of the state and Lenawee County Health Departments.

Macon Dialog

by Linda Phillips 423-5213

Granted, Macon is a small community. But folks here don't know everything there is to know about each other.

For instance: Is there anyone in Macon who makes quilts? Have we a resident weaver? Is there anyone living in our area who operates a spinning wheel?

Three people are being sought to demonstrate these arts at Macon's Bicentennial doings scheduled for Sunday, June 27 at the Eldredge Mill. Members of Macon Historical Society at their March 6 meeting suggested that Macon's own resources be tapped before looking elsewhere for craftspersons.

It is hoped that Macon will produce one, two or all three people with these talents, and that they will contact Julie Rhora—or any Historical Society member—indicating they would like to share their crafts June 27.

Other activities planned for that day include sheep-shearing and horseshoeing.

The Antique Car Club will have many vintage beauties on display; a strolling barbershop quartet—and possibly a school band will entertain and antique miniatures will be exhibited by Judee Williamson.

And, of course, there will be tours through the restored Mill. Wheat will again be ground into flour, which visitors will be able to purchase (makes great biscuits and bread!)

Tentatively, refreshments to be offered for sale that day are ice cream sundaes, hot dogs, barbeques, popcorn and soft drinks. A Macon service club may provide home-baked goodies.

All in all, Macon's Bicentennial celebration—still officially nameless at this juncture—will be quite a "shindig." Needless to say, Macon Historical Society will gratefully accept offers to help in any form!

* * *

Karen and Don Oswald, Irene and Otto Miller, Myra and Bob Bush, Julie and Harold Rhora, Marilyn Bagby, Hazel Bush, Emogean Morden and Linda Phillips simultaneously "oohed and aahed" as Judee Williamson flipped the switch illuminating the insides of two glass-sized boxes she had brought with her to the Macon Historical Society meeting last Saturday night.

What could evoke oohs and aahs from a group of men and women, you ask?

Attempts to describe Judee's "rooms" would be futile on the part of this writer. Suffice it to say, the miniscule contents—scaled one foot equals one inch—are perfect in every detail, true to the theme and period for which they were designed, and fascinating to the beholder.

Thanks, Judee! (And thanks to your husband Trevor for helping you to gingerly transport your treasures!)

A workbee will be held Saturday, March 13 at Mills School when the building's chimney will be repaired. Workers are needed to assist mason Harold Lutz, and are asked to be at the school anytime after 8 a.m.

Jewels & gems

By Dick Eggleston

One of the chief characteristics of the opal is its brilliant play of colors. These colors result from the cracking of the original stone as it hardens, and the deposition of additional opal in the cracks. Opal has been used as a gem stone for many centuries, and an opal is a welcome gift, and can be a beautiful stone to use in practically any sort of jewelry. The brilliance and excitement of fine opals are heightened by exquisite designs and meticulous workmanship.

Welcome gifts are those that come from us at EGGLESTON'S JEWELRY, 107 E. Chicago Blvd., 423-2715. We invite the bride-to-be to come in for our free booklet, "Planning your Engagement and Wedding". It contains valuable information that will help to make your wedding a memorable occasion. Keepsake engagement and wedding rings are handled and the Keepsake diamond is registered and guaranteed by Good Housekeeping.

GEM FACT: Federal regulations are rigid in requiring that all synthetic stones be within five percent of the hardness, crystallization, cleavage and color of natural stones.

HANGING TEN?—Brad Sisson appears to have found a new way to use a basketball, perhaps more appropriate to the sunny surf of Southern California than cold, wintry Michigan. The action took place during the Indians' victory over Okemos Tuesday night. Tecumseh plays for the regional championship this Friday at Charlotte. Game time is 7:30 p.m. (Photo by Mike Sunderland).

Still Undefeated

Tecumseh's volleyballers won an easy victory over Columbia Central Monday night clearing the way for regional competition to be held this Saturday at Tecumseh High School.

The match was held at Jackson Northwest.

Indian Tammy Downing started things out right in the first game scoring eight straight serving points. They went on to win that one 15-0.

The second string came in for the second game but the onslaught continued with Tecumseh winning the final game 15-6.

Downing's eight points were good enough to capture high serving honors followed by Sue Brown with six.

Regional action for Tecumseh begins at noon Saturday with a match against Northwest. That team posts a 16-3 record while the Indians own a 12-0 record.

If they win over Northwest, they will play two other teams for the regional championship. State finals will be March 20 at Kalamazoo.

The squad completed its regular season with a win over Adrian Tuesday afternoon. The varsity won with scores of 15-4, 15-4. Amy Montague was tops in serving with ten followed by Betsy Miller with seven and Sue Brown with five.

Junior varsity won with scores of 15-13 and 15-8. Sheila Bihlmeyer was top server with 12.

All-League Named

Selections were made recently for the All Huron League basketball squad.

Ken Biscupski, 6'4" forward was named to the first team and 6'7" center Bruce Hughes was named to the second team.

Brad Sisson, 5'10" guard received honorable mention.

All are seniors for Tecumseh.

Redskins Dave Mowery and Tom Richter received honorable mention in LCAA all-league basketball selections made last week.

1st DISTRICT TITLE IN 7 YEARS

Indians Advance To Regional Finals

Tecumseh's cagers have a shot at the regional championship this Friday after capturing their first district title in seven years last Friday.

A tight victory over Okemos 66-60 Tuesday night in overtime allows Tecumseh to play the winner of the Cedar Springs-Marshall game, played Wednesday night, for the regional title.

The Indians defeated Jackson Northwest last Wednesday 65-44 to advance to the district finals where they won over Jackson Lumen Christi 49-46.

Tecumseh found themselves in another close game against Okemos Tuesday played at Charlotte High School.

The Indians held the lead for most of the first quarter although they lost it briefly. A bucket by Ken Biscupski put the team ahead 10-9 and the squad lengthened the lead to 14-11 by the end of the first frame.

Tecumseh kept the lead in the second quarter in front by six points 22-16 at one point. But Okemos fought back and Tecumseh suffered turn over problems throughout the contest. At the half, the Indians held a tremulous 29-26 lead. Both teams scored 15 points in the second stanza.

In the third frame Okemos pulled ahead 38-33 briefly but two charity buckets by Bruce Hughes and a pair of baskets made by Jeff Hans and Lyndon Hughes kept Tecumseh in the lead 40-38.

The Indians held a 54-47 margin with less than three minutes left in the fourth quarter. But Okemos made good on five foul shots and one bucket to tie it up with 1:38 left.

In overtime, the Indians — and Bruce Hughes — put it together. Hughes bagged two baskets before Okemos could return the favor by sinking one. Ken Biscuski grabbed a bucket and Okemos as well. With 40 seconds left Hughes again pumped one in and blocked an Okemos shot with Dave Bohannon picking it up. Hughes got the ball and again dumped it with nine seconds left.

The Indians had problems with their foul shooting completing just 10 of 25. They were successful on 28 of 53 from the field for 52.8 percent. Okemos made 10 of 14 from the line but came up with only 25 of 64 for 39 percent.

Six-foot-seven Bruce Hughes was top scorer in the game with 22 points. Hughes also picked off 18 rebounds and blocked eight Okemos shots. Tecumseh outrebounded Okemos 37-21 but suffered 34 turnovers to 20 for Okemos.

This is the farthest an Indian team has advanced since Ron Spagnoli began coaching Tecumseh cagers six years ago. He said of the Okemos contest, "We were fortunate to win. We played poorly frankly. We made mistakes we haven't made all year but we looked tough in overtime. We certainly didn't leave fear in the hearts of anybody."

Tecumseh now posts a 19-5 record on the season. Finals are Friday at Charlotte. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Score by Quarters:

Tecumseh	14	15	11	16	10 — 66
Okemos	11	15	12	18	4 — 60

Scoring for Tecumseh: Biscupski 5 0 10, Hans 6 2 14, B. Hughes 9 4 22, Shcafer 2 1 5, Bohannon 3 0 6, L. Hughes 3 3 9. Totals 28 10 66.

Scoring for Okemos: Putnam 4 1 9, Bufe 2 2 6, McKearney 4 1 9, Beurmann 4 2 10, Brighton 8 2 18, So 2 0 4, Massa 0 2 2, Federau 1 0 2. Totals 25 10 60.

Gymnasts Complete Season

Tecumseh gymnasts should be very encouraged after completing their first season of interscholastic competition.

Although they lost their last meet to powerful Columbia Central last Wednesday, the Indians finished up with a 6-3 record.

Along the way, they polished off teams possessing more experience.

And Gwen Vavrinek placed 16th overall in tumbling in regional competition Saturday. Tecumseh finished 18th as a team in the regionals out of 23 schools.

The Indians couldn't overwhelm a tough Columbia Central squad losing the battle 105.85-86.65. Gwen Vavrinek took fourth in tumbling, Cindy Egli and Mary Kane took the fifth spot. Egli took fifth in balance beam with Grace Gould in the sixth spot for Tecumseh; Debbie Rodgers took second in vaulting and Egli the third position; Vavrinek was fifth in uneven bars and Sheri Steiner was sixth in the event; Egli took second in trampoline competition and Jean Egbert sixth; Vavrinek tied with a CC girl for a second place in floor exercises and Egli was fourth.

Bowling Tourney Concluded

The Lenawee County Women's bowling tournament was completed Sunday at Ten Pin bowling alley.

Hair And Now captured first place among teams with a total of 3187. They were followed by Bank of Lenawee with 3166 and Webb's Barber Shop with a 3153.

Rose Fisher and Debbie Steudle were tops in doubles with 1341 followed by Jackie Burnett and Merle Conant with 1339. Gloria Kittle and Pat Zick took third place with 1338.

In singles, Anna McMahn was first with 720 followed by Darlene Borton with 719 and Mary Ann Mueller with 712.

Ann Sowler was tops in all events with handicap with a 1969 score. Kathy Frey scored an actual 1760 in all events.

WHIP MARSHALL FOR REGIONAL TITLE

Indians Face No. 1 in State Quarter-finals

For the first time in 12 years and only the second time since 1942, the Tecumseh Indians have advanced to the quarter-finals of the state's Class B tournament.

In 1964 the Indians won the regionals only to lose to River Rouge. In 1942 the Tecumseh five won its only regional and advanced to the semi-final before losing.

Tecumseh, a darkhorse all the way through district and regional play, gained quarter-final status last Friday night by whipping a fine Marshall team, 63-51, at Charlotte.

The Indians are definitely a cinderella team, a team that floundered after leading the Huron League early only to fall to third place in the final standings.

However, Coach Ron Spagnoli's club has "jelled", playing far better ball now than just a couple weeks ago. And, the Indians must play their best Thursday night when they tangle with Flint Beecher, rated the best in Michigan by the polls, at Central Michigan University this Thursday evening.

Tecumseh High varsity girls volleyball team plays in the state tournament Saturday afternoon at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

First game is scheduled at 1 p.m. against a yet undetermined opponent. If the girls win the first game, they'll play in the Class B semi-finals at 2 p.m., and a victory here sends them into the finals at 3:00 for the championship.

Sue Allen has coached the team to 18 straight wins this season, stretching a winning streak to 32. Last loss was in 1974.

Beecher is undefeated in 25 games and reached the quarter-finals last week in low scoring game, beating Fenton, 32-20. Tecumseh will be the underdog, a role they're accustomed to. The Indians were not picked to beat Jackson Northwest, Lumen Christi nor Marshall - but they did, and now stand 20-5 for the season.

Tecumseh is big, tallest team in the history of the local schools with three starters 6'4" or over. Bruce Hughes, center, stands 6'7" and forwards Ken Biscupski and Jeff Schafer 6'4" each. Jeff Hans is 6'2" and Brad Sisson, senior guard, just 5'10".

Spagnoli will need this height to battle Beecher and hopes of advancing to the semi-finals. Others certain to see action include Linvel Lisenbee and Dave Bohannon, both 5'10", and Lyndon Hughes, 6'2".

Game time at Mt. Pleasant is 7:30, about a three-hour drive from Tecumseh.

Al Meyers, Plane Builder, Dies; Services Are Today

Funeral services will be held this Thursday afternoon at 2:00 at the Purse Funeral Home for Allen H. Meyers, 67, founder of Meyers Aircraft Corporation here in 1936.

He died early Monday morning at Herrick Hospital after approximately five years failing health.

"Al" Meyers was well known in the aviation field and obtained such recognition that earned him a place in the Aviation Hall of Fame in New York on May 18, 1974. At that time he was presented a bronze plaque, that read:

Allen H. Meyers inducted 1974. Aircraft designer, engineer and manufacturer. Test flew all his aircraft. Built the Meyers OTW (145 and 200 models). Famous for his built-in safety in aircraft. His planes were considered tops in their class.

After operating the aircraft business here for nearly 30 years, he sold to Rockwell-Standard Corp. in June 1965. The Meyers 200 then became a Commander 200 and later a turbo-prop plane, called the Interceptor 400.

About 10 years ago Meyers Aircraft was changed to Meyers Industries, Inc., and manufactured principally aluminum boats. He was president of the corporation until its sale in September 1974.

On May 4, 1975 the local airport was changed from Tecumseh Airport to Al Meyers Airport with Mr. Meyers as president of the facility and head of the board of directors.

He was a member of several aviation organizations, including the OX5 Aviation Pioneers and the AOPA. Besides being president of the local airport corporation, he headed the Allen H. Meyers Foundation for education and research in science and aviation.

He was born on Sept. 4, 1908 at Allenhurst, N.J. to Hans and Julie (Courvosier) Meier. He married Nydia Barker, who survives, in Aiken, S.C.

Other survivors are a brother, Otto Meier of Tecumseh, and a sister, Mrs. Raymond (Marguerite) Earls of Middleburg, N.Y.

The Rev. Edward Watkins of the Presbyterian Church will officiate at the services. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Bank's Growth, Change in Board Told at Meeting

Over 50 shareholders attended the annual meeting of United Savings Bank Tuesday afternoon when Kenneth C. McElroy, president, announced that the bank's assets that day exceeded $76 million - highest ever — and that Marvin Rumpf, director since 1971, would not be nominated for another year as director.

He explained that Mr. Rumpf was moving to Florida soon and intended to resign in April. Since seven directors were present and the board requires two-thirds of its membership be present to take action, the board's membership was dropped from 11 to 10 by not nominating the former owner of Rumpf Truck Lines.

In remarks about the bank's assets, Mr. McElroy said steady growth plus time savings deposits and corporate and school monies had raised the assets from approximately $68 million at the end of 1975 to over $76 million.

He stated that total assets will probably fluctuate around $71 and $72 million.

Mr. McElroy also discussed the bank's plans for a trust department, announced earlier this year, and pointed out that the Tecumseh bank would be the only bank in Lenawee County to have its own trust department.

Others addressing the shareholders were J.W. "Pat" Meadows, board chairman, and Merlyn H. Dowing, executive vice president and cashier.

Tellers Mary Bowers and Nina Wright, both vice presidents, reported that of 200,000 shares of stock outstanding, 102,308 were represented by proxy and 42,438 in person.

Meeting was held at the Tecumseh Country Club.

Test Alert on April 1

Lenawee County Fire Departments and the Sheriff's department are cooperating in arrangements for a test tornado warning Thursday, April 1 at 5:55 p.m.

Lenawee County Sheriff's Department will also conduct a test of TV weather alert system at the same time.

All fire departments will receive the signal via fire radio from the Sheriff's department.

A tornado warning is a two minute steady blast on the fire sirens when a tornado has been sighted in an area south west of Tecumseh and may be headed into the area.

Tecumseh fire chief, Wallace MacGeorge advises:

Do not call fire or police departments as this ties up lines needed for emergencies unless you have an emergency.

Do take cover in a basement or the next safest place and turn on a transistor radio for additional details of the story and the all clear when the storm is over.

University To Check Counseling

At a meeting of Tecumseh's Board of Education Monday night, Asst. Supt. Eugene Cooley announced that a research group for the University of Michigan will do an in-depth study of Tecumseh High School's guidance and counseling service involving the students and faculty.

Board President Harold Ocamb said, "We have been unhappy with the guidance service in the school system." Ocamb said that the Board felt there were things to be improved or changed.

John Pobuda, a member of the counseling service replied, "All counselors welcome this. When people make blanket allegations which we can not combat, we welcome this. You've made allegations that we've been standing still. This will clear up misunderstandings."

Pobuda hinted that the counseling service is blamed for things beyond its control such as when a student can't sign up for a course he or she desires due to class scheduling.

Restrict Visitors

Due to the increase in flu cases, Herrick Memorial Hospital is restricting visitors to the father or one parent, and members of the immediate family for all other visitors.

Auto Agency Sold

Schneider Chevrolet-Buick, probably the oldest automobile agency in the state has been sold to Walter Beglinger of Pinckney and Hal Reid of Westland.

The agency will now be known as Beglinger-Reid Chevrolet-Buick, Inc.

Mr. Beglinger, an Olds-Cadillac dealer in Plymouth from 1941 to 1974, will be president of the corporation, and Mr. Reid, the dealer.

The new dealer has 20 years experience in the car business and plans to move here with his wife, Margaret, and three sons, John, Richard and Jimmy, in the near future. They also have a daughter, Judy, who is 23.

Mr. Reid, 42, a former police officer in Wayne and Franklin Village, plans to expand the agency's used car business and possibly expand service department hours.

Mr. Beglinger, who lives with his wife, Margaret, on Rush Lake near Pinckney, expects to be semi-active in business.

Another newcomer who has been associated for a couple years with Mr. Reid is Lee Ballou of Wayne. He will be a salesman.

The Schneider agency is 54 years old. Owners Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Schneider and Mrs. Alice Schneider observed its 50th anniversary in November 1972.

In 1922, Louis S. Schneider and Karl Schneider acquired a Buick agency from GM and later added the Chevrolet. After World War II, Raymond C. Osburn became part owner of the business with his brother, Louis L. Schneider, until the early 1960s.

Mr. Schneider will have an office at the agency and will continue his car leasing business.

Increases Are OK'd

by KATHY BROWN

Increased charges for swimming facilities, classes and rental of the Community Center were accepted by Tecumseh City Council Monday night in a four to two vote. Increases were based on a recommendation from the city's Parks and Recreation Board.

This summer daily fees for the Joyce Andrews Memorial Pool and "The Pit" at Tecumseh Park, will cost an extra 5 and 15 cent respectively.

Council returned the report on the proposed increases to the Recreation Board at the Feb. 17 meeting because Council thought the increases and definition of resident and non-resident were unfair.

The Recreation Board settled the question of residency requirements with a new definition. Residential area includes the school district for all recreational activities that involve facilities of the school. For all city facilities, the City of Tecumseh is considered residential area.

A resident, the increases are: Daily fee — "The Pit" at Tecumseh Park, raised from 35 to 50 cents per person for all day; Swimming pool from 35 to 40 cents for two hour sessions.

Passes for residents (within the city limits) are raised from $35 per family to $37.50. Individual passes are $15. For non-residents the charge is raised from $45 per family to $50. Individual passes are $20. Passes entitle user to unlimited pool or park usage for the entire season.

-Swimming classes for residents in the city limits are raised from $8 to $9, a dollar less than first recommended; and for non-residents from $10 to $12.50.

Life saving classes are $12.50 for residents within the city limits and $15 for non-residents.

Rates on the classes may be arranged for resident families with three or more children taking classes.

FIELD TRIPS, MINI-COURSES ARE PROBED AT MEETING

Parents, Students Question School Board

Around 40 students and parents attended Monday night's Tecumseh School Board meeting expressing their concern about the cancellation of certain field trips and reduction of time alloted for "mini-courses".

Board president Harold Ocamb began the meeting by addressing the assembled crowd in regards to an incident from last month's meeting.

At that meeting, Ocamb had told student representative Marty Perkins that it was "none of his business' when Perkins asked if money could be saved by allowing only those sophomores who were interested in touring Vo-Tec.

Each year, the entire Sophomore class tours the facility to learn of opportunities offered, and the board told Perkins that it was required that the entire class attend.

Ocamb said last night that he had received a good deal of criticism in regards to the remark and continued, "There was no attempt to offend. I agree I growled at the kid. There has been no time in my ten years on the board that we have ever refused a student to bring things up. Its disturbing to me as a parent, as a member of the community, as a board member. We have no objection to a youngster coming to the board. You kids and parents have every right to bring something up to the board. I've wanted to get this off my chest."

The meeting continued with a request by spectator Maynard Harris that spectators be allowed to bring up concerns not included on the agenda before a meeting rather than after.

Harris also requested that spectators be allowed to discuss agenda items after the meetings. Ocamb saw no problem in beginning this procedure, although he cautioned that meetings used to last until 1 a.m. due to lengthy discussions.

Board member Hugh DesErmia replied that some of the concerns should be taken up with teachers and the superientendent, rather than the board.

A lengthy discussion then began after a student requested to know why students can pay $1 to ride a bus to an athletic contest, but the seniors can't go to Lansing on a field trip.

Asst. Supt. Eugene Cooley replied that he will meet with faculty advisors to resolve the dispute over this particular trip.

Cooley went on to say that, if done on an individual basis, the trip would have to be voluntary. he concluded by saying that cancelling field trips was made purely from a financial stand point.

Students asked if they could raise the money themselves for the Lansing trip, and Ocamb stated that this was a possibilty.

High School principal Clarence Lacny stated that he would meet with the senior class to discuss the trip.

Students were also concerned about this year's mini-courses. Lacny stated that, on account of the lost days due to snow, the courses should be held for just one day instead of the usual three.

Mini-courses are specialized interest areas. Among those offered last year included, horseback riding, candy making, wilderness survival, perspectives on death, jazz dance and different arts and crafts instruction.

Lacny stated that there was "ill-feeling" among the students over his recommendation. he said, "I do not feel at the present time, unfortunately, that we can afford any more time out of our academic schedule through no fault of our own."

Teacher Paul Cunningham, one of the organizers of the mini-courses, told board members that teachers and students would rather cancel the entire program rather than have just one day.

April 7, 8, 9 are the proposed days for mini-courses.

Ocamb stated that the Board was accepting the recommendation of Mr. Lacny. DesErmia agreed saying, "If you had films on career education, I wouldn't be at all restrictive. But when you start bowling, horseback riding, and canoing . . . this is a goof-off deal."

A student quickly replied, "The majority of students don't want a goof-off period. That's why students want three days."

The board, however, still accepted Lacny's recommendation.

Charges Are Increased

Community Center rentals have been increased $5 or $10 depending on the number of people and whether or not the kitchen facilities are used. A $15 non-resident fee for anyone not living in the city limits is added to all other fees.

Increases do not apply to normal continuing renters and do not affect the youth or civic organizations using the center on a one-time basis.

Increases did not come without heavy debate by councilmen, especially Len DeMoss who still "vehemently opposed" to increases at the Pit, used frequently by school age children and young families. He did however "see warranted increases in the family charge for passes."

Mayor Harold Easton agreed with DeMoss that increases for the daily fees "would hurt the kids who should really be able to use it."

Easton and DeMoss cast the dissenting votes.

Councilman Ray Puffer, also a member of the Recreation Board, defended the cost increases. "We're not trying to make money, we're trying to recover costs."

Expenses for salaries and maintenance of the Pit and swimming pool exceed revenue, Council was told.

Tecumseh spent 2 mills or $120,000 for recreation in the 1975-76 budget.

"I think this is a lot of money to come out of general taxes," city manager Cal Zorn spoke in favor of user taxes.

Members of the parks and recreation board are Alan Gray, Gene Cooley, Ray Puffer, John Demming and Ruth Prettyman. They work with recreation director, Ward Eardley and city manager, Cal Zorn as an advisory board.
